HEROIC WOMEN.

Their Struggle Against a Common and Merciless Enemy.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS]

Woman's heroism is not surpassed by fearlessness or enterprise in time of danger, but her courage and fortitude are unquestionable in time of suffering.

Think of the woman who smiles and tries to make those around her cheerful, while she is racked with the excruciating tortures of womb trouble.

Think of one who, day by day, begs her physician to help her, while the torture of tortures could not add to her misery.

Does she yield? No! She endures her agonies, and meets her friends with cheerfulness.

This is woman's heroism, and few men realize how prevalent they are. Physicians rarely render relief in such cases.

After twenty years of success, with ever-increasing popularity, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is, to-day, woman's only sure and safe refuge from inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian trouble, leucorrhœa, painful and suppressed menstruations, kidney trouble, nervous prostration, and all manner of distressing and life-sapping female diseases.

"O my sisters, believe what is told you of this wonderful me licine! Before I took it I had falling of the womb and leucorrhœa. My womb came down so badly I could not walk across the floor; the pain was excruciating; now all is so changed, and I so happy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Ve le Compound has saved me from a l f misery. Don't, don't suffer, I say, when a cure is so easily obtained."—MRS. WILLIAM HOWE, 163 Antoin Street, Detroit, Mich.

A GENERAL LOCKOUT

To Be at Once Inaugurated by the Mill Owners of Olneyville.

Crisis In the Great Labor Conflict Is at Hand.

Condition of Affairs Causing Worriment Among Business Men.

PROVIDENCE, May 1.—Olneyville is in a fever of excitement and all the mill operatives will await the developments of the next 24 hours with the greatest anxiety.

Although the Manufacturers' club met Monday night and it was definitely stated that the Olneyville mills were to be closed, this did not frighten the operatives. Now, however, they seem anxious to know just what the effect of a general lockout would be.

This change in sentiment was due to the fact that the owners of Olneyville mills met yesterday afternoon. It was a meeting of the representatives of Olneyville corporations. They claim that they had decided to take the matter into their own hands and to treat the labor troubles in the local mills in the manner that seemed to promise the Best Results In the End.

One of the manufacturers, after the meeting, said that the present condition of affairs in the Olneyville mills was thoroughly discussed. Every phase of the strikes at the Atlantic and the Providence National mills was considered, and the question of the possibility of making a general raise in wages was discussed.

After this was done, a vote was taken to close the mills for an indefinite period, and it was decided to post the notices of the lockout within 24 hours. This action was taken by a unanimous vote, and there was every reason to believe that it would be faithfully carried out.

Although the loss for the long period of idleness will be a great burden for the mill owners to bear, they were agreed that they must meet the issue and stand by their agreement to the end.

It mattered little to them what might come, the future prosperity of the manufacturing interests of Olneyville were at stake and the matter was Too Important to Be Neglected.

The business men are much worried over the threatening condition of affairs. Nearly all of the storekeepers are still carrying the accounts that were contracted by the operatives during the strike of 1893, and they are not in a condition to stand another long period of idleness.

Times have been so hard in Olneyville for more than a year that many of the business men have done but little more than make their expenses, and they look with dread upon another season of even worse financial depression.

What makes the matter still worse is that the fear of loss has reached the wholesale dealers in meats and provisions, and more than one house has intimated that it will be necessary to refuse credit to Olneyville dealers if a general lockout is ordered.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 1.—The legislature sanctioned child insurance, when the house—149 to 93—rejected the bill to prohibit the placing of a policy on the life of any child under the age of 10. It showed during the debate that 100,000 infants were insured in Massachusetts last year. The senate rejected a bill providing for the election by the people of legislative presiding officers. The committee on the treasury allows Lowell a second additional appropriation of $25,000 for its new normal school. The bill allowing Fitchburg a like sum was rejected. The governor signed the bill giving each of the four normal schools the $25,000 additional first asked for. The committee on rules reported against the admission of the bill to repeal the charter of the Meigs Elevated Railway company. The bill for a nine-hour day for laborers employed on all public contracts was referred to the next general court. The house rejected the bill to compel the dressing and carving of stone used in state or municipal work on the ground where it is to be used.

Protectionists In Minority.

CAMBRIDGE, May 1.—A joint debate was held here last night between Hon. Harvey N. Shepard of Boston and Hon. Roswell G. Horr of Michigan. Mr. Shepard upheld the constitutionality of the tariff law. Mr. Horr claimed that protection was a natural law, and that free trade was unpatriotic. It was the opinion of the audience that Mr. Shepard had the better of the debate.

A Hundred Years Old.

AUGUSTA, May 1.—Mrs. Hannah Robinson of this city celebrated her centennial birthday yesterday. Mrs. Robinson was born in Hallowell. Her father served in the revolutionary war. BOSTON, May 1.—Robert F. West and Walter A. Scott, convicted of having murdered James P. Slamin on Dec. 5 last, were sentenced by Judge Sherman yesterday to imprisonment in the state prison for life, one day to be in solitary confinement and the residue at hard labor.

Deputy Sheriff Got Him.

DEERFIELD, Mass., May 1.—Albert Stebbins, the defaulting tax collector, took a team last evening and drove toward West Deerfield. His non-appearance at a late hour alarmed the selectmen, who sent a deputy sheriff on his track. Stebbins was arrested at Greenfield.

Dividing Up Voters.

BOSTON, May 1.—The bill providing for a new division of wards in this city was signed by Mayor Curtis yesterday afternoon. The new boundaries are laid out with a view to making the total number of registered voters in each ward as nearly equal as possible.

Military Investigation Asked For.

LYNN, May 1.—A few weeks ago Captain Cousens of company I, Eighth regiment, M. V. M., received intimation from headquarters that his resignation would be accepted. It was the outcome of Cousens having had trouble with Lieutenant Colonel Brackett over mustering recruits. The captain yesterday received a peremptory demand for his resignation. He has decided not to hand it in, but to ask for a military investigation, at which counter charges will be preferred. Captain Cousens is a war veteran and has filled every position from private to captain.

Lived Nearly 103 Years.

Shutters Up For a Year.

HAVERHILL, May 1.—This city presented a very lively appearance last night, and the streets were more crowded than usual, it being the last night of license for a year at least. The no-license mandate went into effect at midnight.

One Death May Result.

HAVERHILL, May 1.—A horse attached to a carriage ran away in Charles street. The occupants of the carriage were Clara P. Higgins, Lester Beeler, aged 6, and Mrs. Fabin. All were badly hurt. The boy will probably die.

Prominent Lynn Citizen Gone.

LYNN, May 1.—Captain James S. Meech, secretary and treasurer of the Lynn board of trade and a prominent Grand Army man, died last night of pneumonia. Captain Meech was born 60 years ago at Preston, Conn.

FOR THE THIRD TIME

Buchanan Cheats the Electrocution Chair Out of a Victim.

Life Is Probably Safe For Six Months Longer.

An Impressive Scene at Sing Sing Prison When the News Was Received.

ALBANY, May 1.—Deputy Attorney General Hasbrouck has notified Warden Sage of Sing Sing prison to defer Dr. Buchanan's electrocution until the appeal claimed to have been taken to the United States supreme court shall have been dismissed or determined.

It was a few minutes after 6 last night when the telephone in the warden's office rang and Stenographer Yorke, who was at the other end in the attorney general's office at Albany, told Warden Sage the opinion of the attorney general that the execution had better be delayed.

There was a picturesque group about the telephone—reporters, officials of the prison, the lawyers of the convicted man, and, leaning in the doorway between the office and parlor, Mrs. Buchanan, her blonde hair somewhat disordered and her eyes red with weeping—when the warden announced the message.

Lawyer Gibbons and his conferree rushed over and shook hands with Mrs. Buchanan, while the tears streamed down her cheeks, and Mrs. Coleman, her companion, hugged her rapturously. Warden Sage went immediately to the death house and had hardly halted before the door of the condemned man's cell when Buchanan said: "Any news, Mr. Sage?" and then cowered back in the farther corner of the cell, as if he were Fearful of the Answer.

"I have news," said the warden, "and you will not be executed tomorrow." The condemned man sprang to his feet, came to the front of the cell and said, "Is that true, Mr. Warden?" "Yes; and I will send your wife to you."

In a few minutes Mrs. Buchanan appeared at the door and a strange scene occurred, as she pressed her face to the wire screen and repeated to her husband the news the warden had brought. It seemed difficult for Buchanan to believe the story of his good luck, for he had told the guards yesterday that he had made up his mind to die.

For three hours the wife stayed talking to her husband, and when she left him at 9 o'clock she had him buoyed up with the hope that he would finally escape. His counsel also bade him hope that they would be ultimately successful. Mrs. Buchanan, Lawyer Roche and Mrs. Coleman left for New York at 9:40.

Means Six Months' Respite.

Mrs. Buchanan was tired out, for she had worked all day in New York to obtain a stay of proceedings or reprieve for her husband, in case the decision of the attorney general was not favorable. She called upon Governor Morton before she left the city, and, while not securing an audience with him, left a letter in which she asked for further leniency and recited his good qualities as a husband. The general opinion here at the prison and of the lawyers for Dr. Buchanan is that it will be at least six months before the execution can possibly take place.

It is to be noted that Dr. Buchanan has cheated the executioner more times than any other criminal condemned under the electrocution act. Three times has the date been set and as many times has the law been evaded.

At 9:50 last night, Mr. Yorke, who was the messenger sent to Albany by the warden, arrived at the prison with the original opinion of the attorney general. Warden Sage had made the most elaborate preparations for the execution. A special detail of men had been selected to watch the dynamos and electric wires during the night and extra precautions had been taken in the death house. Even the electrical chair was guarded. A few of the witnesses arrived yesterday afternoon, but returned home today.

Considered Cuban Crisis.

MADRID, May 1.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday, Senor Labra advised the adoption of reforms for Cuba. He objected to the appointment of De Campos as commander of the army in Cuba. The Cuban elections, he declared, ought not to be postponed. Senor Castellano said that the execution of necessary reforms in Cuba was trammelled by material difficulties. In regard to reforms the government desired to meet the views of De Campos. If, however, these reforms were not effected by June the government would have recourse to legislation.

To Accept New Position.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Theodore Roosevelt has presented his resignation to the president. Speaking on the subject, he said: "Mayor Strong has requested me to take the position of police commissioner, and I have accepted. Whatever ability I have I shall give to the work, and, as police commissioner, I shall act solely with a view to the well-being of the city and the interests of the service, and shall take account only of the efficiency, honesty and record of the men."

Extending the Military Park.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Chickamauga park commission has completed the purchase of General Sherman's battleground at the north end of Mission Ridge, Chattanooga, and it now becomes a part of the national military park. The tract embraces the ground of the assault of the Army of the Tennessee under the positions about Tunnel hill, defended by General Bragg's army.

Architects' Great Opportunity.

BUENOS AYRES, May 1.—The Argentine Republic has decided to invite bids from architects throughout the world for plans for a new building intended for the use of congress. Three prizes will be offered for the best design; one of $30,000; one of $10,000, and one of $5000. The first prize will be given the execution of the work.

The will contained no public bequests, the estate being divided among Mrs. Holden's three children.—Boston Advertiser.

The new block near the Norfolk Downs depot is fast approaching completion.

Twelve new members have been admitted to the Quincy Yacht club this season.

Crowds of people are at Norfolk Downs looking over the property every Sunday.

There are several new houses in process of erection at South Quincy on the plains.

About a dozen from Quincy took advantage of the excursion to Plymouth this morning.

Mr. Smith and family have arrived at their cottage on Hamilton street for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rednor Coombs will occupy one of the new houses of the Atlantic Land Co.

H. H. Faxon advertises many houses to let today: He says the list is as long as moral law.

The Electric Light & Power company are running a large feed wire over the Boston road.

The holes in the concrete sidewalk in front of the Savings bank have been filled with cement.

The Quincy sewer bill passed the Legislature quiety about two weeks ago. Will it slumber now?

The painters are very busy just now and many houses are appearing out in new spring shades.

Sanborn & Damon will move into the PATRIOT building June 1. It will make them an attractive store.

Representatives Hammond, Flint and Wentworth all voted against the bill to prohibit child insurance.

Charles Nelcamp clerk for Timberlake & Small has resigned to accept a position with Wood, Harmon & Co.

Mrs. Ashby Knight and Miss Grace McAlevy of Wollaston are visiting friends in New York and New Jersey.

Councilman Rinn has had his house wired for electricity and the lights will be turned on for the first time tonight.

Mrs. Tupper's cosy home on Spear street has been improved by the painter's brush and its spring suit is very becoming.

Don't hesitate if in want of employment to have an advertisement inserted free in the DAILY LEDGER. Remember this week only.

Hodenosaunee Tribe of Red Men of Wollaston will adopt two pale faces. The great chief will be present to raise up the chiefs.

Mr. Christopher A. Spear is building a barn and painting his house red. When all is completed it will be the finest place on Newcomb street.

The LEDGER does not agree to insert advertisements for help free, but only situations wanted. It is surprising more have not availed themselves of this opportunity.

Hon. William Everett and Henry H. Faxon, Esq., were among those in attendance at the New England Free Trade League dinner Tuesday evening. C. F. Adams and Josiah Quincy were elected vice presidents.

The Elbridge Hayden estate on Pleasant street was sold at auction Tuesday afternoon by Auctioneer Kincaide. There was quite a large crowd present and the estate was sold to Albert A. Dell for $1,805 which is considered a good price.

The Quincy Yacht Club's fleet will be augumented this season by the enrollment of twenty-two yachts making a total of 81 yachts enrolled at this writing. This is the greatest number since the club was organized, twenty-one years ago.

Messrs. Swingle & Falconer wish to state that the interview with them published in Tuesday's LEDGER was misleading. They did not intend to infer that they had been overcharged, but that there was one lot of granite upon which they thought the freight was high, and that they were looking the matter up.

When the postoffice at Atlantic was taken away from Mr. Gurney and given to Mr. Lyons, there were some people who thought there was considerable money in the office and could hardly believe Mr. Gurney's statement in regard to the income from the office. Mr. Lyons has now found out that Mr. Gurney told the truth, thus his resignation as postmaster.

The Quincy Cycle Co. is developing quite a plant in this city and finds it necessary to take all its present quarters for its manufactory. A store in the Faxon block has been rented for a salesroom. "The Quincy" has received a National reputation and as one says, is the sensation of the year. It is not only the lightest road wheel manufactured, but a very attractive wheel, strictly high grade and warranted. They make a specialty of ladies' wheels.

THE STONE BILL.

It is Refused a Third Reading in the House.

The first matter in the orders of the day in the Massachusetts House, Tuesday, was the bill to require all stone except broken stone to be worked or dressed in the State when used on state works, and within the municipality when for municipal work. The debate is reported by the Advertiser as as follows:

Mr. Woodfall of Rockport said that New York and Pennsylvania have already passed a similiar law, which prevents Massachusetts from selling in those States, but at present stone from the State of Maine is coming into Massachusetts and interfering with the workmen of the latter State.

Mr. Hammond of Quincy moved an amendment including paving stones.

Mr. Melaven of Worcester said that had such a law as proposed been on the statute books last winter, many persons would have been able to earn their living instead of being as they were, a charge on the State.

Mr. Lowell of Boston opposed the bill and referred to the new public library building in Boston, saying that it is absurd to suppose that all the beautiful stone work in that building could have been brought here in a rough state and worked here.

Mr. Moran of Fall River said in favor of the bill that it is demanded by laboring men and laboring organizations.

Mr. Quirk of Boston urged the substitution of a bill of his own which contained substantially the same provisions as the bill before the house, with the exception that it does not require the work to be done on the ground where it is to be used. The house refused to substitute, 33 to 92, and the bill was refused a third reading, 23 to 95.

The Bowling Tournament.

In the contest on the alleys at Steward Williams "Nest,"
Where so many of the boys are wont to meet
Though all straggled hard to win the promised prize,
They quickly found, "Team C" they could not beat.

While Williams was a hooting for Ed. King and his team,
And enlarging on the wonder of their bowl,
Team C went in with vigor, and put up sp'endid ball
Which placed both King and Williams "in a hole."

Now Williams makes an error in siding either way
He should not favor either of the teams,
But if he thinks the booting ossential to be done,
Let him do it in his slumbers, and his dreams.

Now the tournament is ended, the bowling season o'er,
Our hammocks we'll hang upon the lawn.
And there we'll swing and ponder on the pleasant bowling days,
While we figure up the dollars that have gone.

With the coming of November, our spirits will revive,
Though our loving wives and mothers may protest,
We will buy of Briggs confections to keep them in good trim,
And make our journey easy to the Nest.

Then we'll fill our empty pockets with nickels and with dimes,
And buckle on our armor for the test,
We will leave our wives and mothers in their happy happy homes,
While we hasten to the alleys at the "Nest."

There we'll start another tournament, and do our best to win,
Though often times we'll have a narrow rub,
If Team C continues champion as undoubtedly it will,
We will try once more to down the Codman Club.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A Precedent as to Children of Non-Residents.

FIVE SCHOOLS ARE CROWDED

And More Accommodations Will be Necessary in September

Messrs. Crane, Burns, Porter, Hallowell, Page and Gurney were present at the regular meeting of the school board Tuesday evening.

Children of Non-Residents.

The board took quite an important action in regard to children attending the Quincy schools whose parents were citizens of other places but resided in Quincy part of the year.

The case was that of Kendall H. Damon, a citizen of Hull.

Mr. Damon although a citizen of Hull, resided in Wollaston during the past winter and his young son attended the Wollaston school. Mr. Damon has now returned to Hull, but wished his son to still attend the Wollaston school.

Superintendent Lull decided that the boy could not continue to attend school in Quincy. Mr. Damon requested that the matter be brought before the board who voted to sustain the decision of the superintendent.

The passing of this vote establishes a precedent, and people who come to Quincy for a few months to live and retain their residence at other places will not be allowed to send their children to the schools of Quincy.

School Yard as Ball Grounds.

Dr. Hallowell reported complaints had been made about men and boys using the yard of the John Hancock school as a public playground to the great annoyance of neighbors. The sub-committee with the superintendent were instructed to confer with the Commissioner and Chief of Police in regard to better protection for the school lot.

New Flag at Lincoln.

Mr. Page reported the gift of a flag to the Lincoln school and that it came from citizens of Ward Three only.

Five Schools Crowded.

The superintendent reported 200 five-year olds had entered the schools this term and that the Lincoln, John Hancock, Willard, Wollaston and Quincy were crowded. He could manage to get along until June but more room must be had in the fall.

Other Matters.

The matter of coal for the schools was referred to the committee on supplies with full power to advertise for bids.

Notice was received from the City Clerk that the annual appropriation had passed and the board went into executive session to consider it.

THE SCHOOL COLUMN

Annual Report of the Woodward Institute and Property.

FUND VERY NEARLY $300,000.

Minor School Items of Local and General Interest.

To those who have attended gatherings at the High school and admired the large study hall, it seems a mistake to erect school buildings without an assembly hall. There are so many occasions when they are needed, for patriotic or holiday exercises. It should be a part of every child's education to learn to speak before an audience. There are also many occasions when the principal wishes to call the whole school together. The hall could also be utilized for manual training, which is sure to come, and for physical exercises. No school building is properly equipped without an assembly hall.

The fifth annual drill and dance of the Hyde Park High School battalion will take place in Waverly hall, Thursday evening, May 16.

The Lincoln is very much overcrowded. In the three primaries there is an average of over sixty pupils. A petition is being circulated on the plains, by the people who have children going to the Lincoln sixth grade in the Adams school building, praying for an addition to the Lincoln.

The commencement season is at hand, only about eight weeks more of the spring term of the public schools.

The "co-eds" of the Michigan university at Ann Harbor have pledged themselves to graduate in calicoes or "other cheap dresses."

All the graduating class of the Quincy High school will not take individual parts in the commencement exercises this year. Nine parts have been assigned by rank, and there will be an address to the class.

The eleven schools of the little town of Naples, Me., have two rival superintendents, each of whom has appointed a full corps of teachers. The town is liable to be involved in serious litigation.

Quincy's Rank.

By the fifty-seventh annual report of the Board of Education, Quincy holds the following rank among the 352 towns and cities of the State and the 27 of the County:

Percentage of valuation appropriated to public school—State, 161; County, 17.

Ratio of average attendance to the whole number of children between 5 and 15 years—State, 258; County, 22.

Comparative amount of money appropriated for each child between 5 and 15 years—State, 178; County, 21.

The Woodward Institute.

Many who have not seen the City Book will be interested in the annual report of the Woodward Institute. The Treasurer reports a fund of $293,694.65. The receipts during the year 1894, including $1,837.39 cash on hand, were $47,720. The expenditures amounted to $35,586 35, including $2,136 67 for equity in Sheen property. The receipts from investments were $12,787 47, of which $500 was transferred to premium account, and $1,560.67 the expense of fund. The maintenance of the school cost $8,141 85, leaving the board of instruction with a balance of $2,584 95.

Secretary Robinson for the board writes:

The work of Woodward Institute is only in its initial stage. The time will come when its graduates will be the best annual report that can be sent forth.

There will, however, be no graduates for at least two years, as no pupils applied for admission to any class higher than our third grade. This was anticipated since most scholars in the city High school, within a year or two of graduation, would naturally prefer to complete their course.

The Board of Trustees believes, however, that while the character and standing of the first graduates will be a good criterion of the work of the school, a just estimate of the worth to Quincy of Woodward Institute cannot be formed until those who entered the sixth grades are graduated.

Though it is yet a day of small things, the trustees have the utmost confidence as to the beneficial results to accrue directly to the pupils, and indirectly to the community, from the work of the cultured principal and her able corps of teachers, most of whom have declined to accept positions elsewhere of greater financial advantage. We cordially appreciate their deep personal interest in the success of the Institute, for which they labor in season and out.

Miss Small, the principal, in her report to the board, says:

This school, established for the liberal education of young women, has tried to fulfil the purpose of its Founder. It is not the rival of any school; it follows no precedent; it marks out its own pathway. It is essentially a "home" school. The young women are taught to feel themselves members of one large family, and to do their best work in the sunshine of loving interest.

The course of study is a broad one, as its careful perusal will show. The object of the Business Course is not merely to produce technical experts, but so to train the mind that when a girl is given work to do, she may readily grasp the requirements of her employer, and become an intelligent, trust-worthy helper.

The school does not aim to take the place of a college, although it offers an extended course of study. It does aim, incidentally, to fit for college, but especially to prepare for the University of Life, and to this end, it will be ready to extend its course more and more as its income and facilities allow.

The school needs additional accommodations. It lacks a large study-hall, chemical and physical laboratories, drawing-room and studio, rooms for telegraphy, bookkeeping and banking, a gymnasium, and a library,—all of which are imperative necessities. The present building has six small class-rooms, 25x28 feet. The pupils assemble for morning exercises in the central passage-way on the second floor. The dark lower hall is used as a library and reading-room; sometimes even the stairways are utilized for this purpose.

Only a dozen more pupils can be received next September, unless action be taken immediately to provide for a larger number. Judging from the first year's record, the rate of increase can safely be reckoned as forty or fifty pupils.

The Managers of Fund and Property had plans prepared for an addition but as the estimated cost was $35,000 to $40,000 they were on January 1 preparing plans for a smaller addition which they "hope will allow sufficient accommodations and at the same time, by not depleting the fund leave an income sufficient to maintain the school in a suitable manner."

AN INJURED HUSBAND

Shoots and Instantly Kills His Faithless Wife and Her Paramour.

LOUISVILLE, May 1.—Arch Dixon Brown, son and private secretary of Governor Brown, and Mrs. Fulton Gordon were shot and killed in a disreputable house in this city yesterday by the woman's husband.

Brown and Mrs. Gordon entered the house at noon and repaired to an upstairs room. Thirty minutes later Fulton Gordon came to the house and engaged a room downstairs, saying that a woman would join him there shortly. A few minutes later a commotion was heard upstairs, followed by a succession of pistol shots. Then there was a hurried movement downstairs, as Mrs. Gordon, very lightly clad, fled from the scene. A few more shots rang out, and she fell dead on the porch in the rear yard.

Gordon left the house immediately. A few moments later Brown's corpse was found in the upstairs room.

The coroner held an inquest over the bodies, and the jury rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide. It is understood, however, that Gordon will be held for a formal preliminary examination.

COTTON AND SILVER.

HOW CHEAP ASIATIC LABOR IS AFFECTING THE EUROPEAN MILLS.

Wages In the East Are Stationary, While In Europe They Have Appreciated—Cotton Spinners Want a Silver Standard to Offset This—The Effect of the Chinese War.

The partial transference of cotton manufacturing from Europe to Asia, which has so alarmed the Manchester mill owners that they are clamoring for the adoption of the silver standard as a means of arresting its further progress, may also be the beginning of an industrial revolution which, for extent and importance, can be compared only to those caused by the discovery of America and by the invention of the steam engine. The abundance and the cheapness of human labor in Asiatic countries have long been proverbial, but they have not until lately availed to counterbalance the superior energy and skill of European artisans and the greater productiveness of European machinery.

Within a few years, however, the fall of silver, relatively to gold, has greatly reduced the wages paid in the east in silver as compared with the wages still paid in Europe in gold, or, to state the fact in another way, wages in Europe have practically risen while wages in Asia have remained stationary.

The Hindoo laborer gets no more rupees than he did 20 years ago, the Chinese no more dollars, the Japanese no more yen, but the European laborer gets as many shillings or francs or marks as he did, and even more, so that, while the goods the Asiatic makes sell at the same nominal price as European goods of a similar character, they actually cost only about half as much. Hence cotton mills are springing up in India, China and Japan, which are taking the market away from the mills of Europe, and the same stimulus is bringing into activity works for the production of iron and coal.

Obviously, the way for Europe to meet this competition is either to improve its machinery or to reduce the wages it pays, but the oriental, now that he has started in the business, can improve his machinery as fast as the European can his, and the only thing left is a reduction of wages. Against this reduction, however, the labor unions of Europe will stand as an impassable barrier so long as the attempt to effect it takes the shape of a reduction in the amount of money paid.

If, however, the money itself could be debased by substituting the silver standard for the present gold standard, the wages, though nominally remaining unaltered, would in reality come down to the Asiatic level. It is for this reason that the Manchester cotton spinners are so ardent in their advocacy of what they call bimetallism, but which is really the substitution of the silver for the gold standard.

The success of bimetallism is yet a long way off, and the preponderance of the indications is that it will never in our time be achieved. While the discussion of it goes on the Asiatics are every day enlarging their manufacturing enterprises and fixing them upon a firmer basis, so that very soon it will be impossible to overthrow them, if, indeed, it is not impossible already.

Appetite grows by what it feeds on, and now that a few thousand of Hindoos, Chinese and Japanese have tasted of the profits of these new employments they will not meekly renounce them. The result of the recent triumph of Japan over China cannot fail to be a vastly freer admission into China of modern ideas and modern improvements than has hitherto been permitted, and when to 300,000,000 Hindoos, accustomed to earn 10 cents a day and less, shall be added 400,000,000 Chinese, whose notions of compensation are equally meager, they will constitute a new mine of human labor as extensive and as valuable as were the fertile lands of America when it was first discovered, or the goldfields of California and of Australia.

European talent will not be wanting, if native skill proves inadequate, to teach those myriads of hands how to employ themselves to the best advantage, and the ruin that has overtaken Assyria, Babylonia, Persia, Egypt and Turkey, from the transference of their industrial, commercial and military supremacy to other countries may yet be shared by Europe. Years, and probably centuries, must elapse before this catastrophe arrives, and unforeseen causes may avert it altogether, but it is not a chimera to be waved aside as impossible.—Matthew Marshall in New York Sun.

Slumming With Loaded Cameras.

If the city officials of Milwaukee refuse to take any steps to close the gambling and other disorderly houses, the Methodist Ministers' association will make a direct appeal to the people. The matter will be discussed at the next meeting of the association and will result in sensational sermons from most of the Methodist pulpits. One man, who has been slumming for the ministers, was armed with a kodak, with which the likenesses of a number of well known men were taken. What they intend to do with the pictures the ministers refuse to state.—Chicago Tribune.

Bronze Statues Pure.

The living bronze statues at the New York Casino are pure and modest. The New York courts so decide, and so it is. The court seems to have been more impressed by the eminent artists who saw nothing wicked or suggestive about them than by the stern moralists who did.—Boston Herald.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

BADGER AND SUCKER.

The Way Illinois and Wisconsin Came to Get Their Nicknames.

"If there had been no badgers in Wisconsin," said a native of that state, "Wisconsin would not be known as the Badger State, and yet it did not receive the name because badgers were there. There were very few white people in Wisconsin territory in its early days, the population being confined to the military posts, the missionary and trading stations, and the lead mining regions in the southwestern part of the territory. The miners were of two classes, men who worked the mines all the year round and men who came up from the Illinois country in the spring and worked until the fall, when they returned to their prairies and groves. The miners who were permanent dwellers in the region didn't bother to put up cabins or even huts. In fact, material for such dwellings was not abundant. They simply dug holes in the sides of the hills large enough to give them room to sleep and cook in. Nowadays those burrows would perhaps be called dugouts, but as they closely resembled the subterranean homes of the badgers they were promptly called badger holes, and the miners who occupied them were called badgers.

"Any one who cares to tramp through that part of Wisconsin today will come upon deep excavations in the rocks—regular quarry holes bearing every evidence of having been made long ago. And so they were. Some of them were excavated 60 years ago and more. They were the work of the lead miners who went up from Illinois in the spring to the mining region. They, being there only for a short season, did not mine by digging shafts, as the permanent miners did, nor did they live in burrows. They blasted the surface rock, making large pits by their work, seeking what was called the float lead and ore that was easily obtained near the top. They occupied the pits they made, as the other miners did their hillside burrows.

"Owing to the similarity of the migrations of these quarry miners to those of that familiar fish which goes up stream in the spring and down again in the fall, they soon became known as suckers, and their pits in the rocks were called sucker holes. In the course of years the names badger and sucker came to be applied to the entire people of Wisconsin and Illinois. Many of the original badgers and suckers became the leading citizens of their respective localities and helped make the country's history. When Wisconsin was admitted to the Union, the badger was placed on her coat of arms in recognition of this fact, and it was from the miners who quarried in the rocks of Wisconsin that Illinois got her name of the Sucker State."—New York Sun.

PORT WAS DESERTED.

Great Britain Gained Nothing by the Seizure of Corinto.

Nicaraguans Growing More Bitter Toward Enemies.

Negotiations on Foot For Terminating the Trouble by Compromise.

NICARAGUA, via Galveston, May 1.—When the British took possession of Corinto they found that the town had not only been practically abandoned by its residents, but that every effort had been made to prevent any but real property falling in their hands.

All the goods, etc., that had been entered and stored at the warehouse in the port had been removed and no article of export could be found, their receipt having been stopped when it became positive they knew that the British would take possession of the place. All trade at the port has been abandoned.

Nicaragua was well within her rights when she adopted this course, and the possession by the British of a deserted town, where not a dollar's worth of maritime business is being done, affords amusement to those who are not interested in the dispute except as observers.

Martial law was proclaimed by the government on Wednesday last, and on Saturday morning the British occupied the town, landing altogether 400 armed officers and men at four different places on the island, only to find, as stated above, that they had seized a deserted port.

Considerable comment has been caused by the seming indisposition of the United States to more actively intervene in the dispute, some prominent persons holding that she should have gone far in support of the Monroe doctrine, but the general feeling is, that if the trouble is settled honorably to both disputants, thanks will be

Owing to the United States.

Many prominent citizens have conferred with President Zelaya on this aspect of the situation and also upon the possible necessity of submitting to Great Britain's demands should she decline to entertain the proposal for a compromise. A majority are anxious to continue the efforts to adjust the trouble through arbitration and regain possession of the territory now under the British flag.

Europeans are endeavoring to create prejudice against the United States, advancing as an argument that she is indifferent to Nicaragua's subjugation and to the Monroe doctrine.

A popular loan has been started for the purpose of furnishing the government with money to pay the British demands.

The British have prohibited intercourse between the island of Corinto and the mainland.

A fact of importance to the United States is contained in a statement that a party of British engineers have been landed without opposition at San Juan del Sur and that they are engaged in making sketches and taking photographs of that place and of the canal route toward Brito.

No Definite Information

has been given out here as to the attitude of Great Britain on the proposal that her warships be withdrawn from the port of Corinto as a condition present to the payment in London 15 days later by Nicaragua of $77,500 demanded by Great Britain.

It is known, however, that communications are actively passing between the Managua and Washington governments looking to secure Great Britain's assent to the prompt evacuation of Corinto. The actual terms for the bringing about of this end have not yet been settled, but, according to the information at hand, it can be stated that Nicaragua is willing to settle the trouble by accepting the proposition for a compromise on the lines above set forth.

The attitude of the United States in endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the delicate questions involved is highly appreciated by those who have the best interests of Nicaragua at heart, and it is believed that eventually, through the exertion of her good offices, the matter will Be Settled Peaceably, With Honor.

Among the lower classes of Nicaraguans the feeling of bitterness against what they term the arrogant and insolent attitude of Great Britain increases daily, and the local authorities at Paso de Caballos and San Juan del Sur have had some difficulty in preventing overt demonstrations. It is believed, however, that the disorderly element is now well in hand. The authorities will do everything in their power to prevent any further trouble arising from the animosity against the British. The capital is quiet.

JAPAN'S DEFIANT ATTITUDE.

Russian Interference in the Eastern War Is Deemed Unwarranted.

LONDON, May 1.—The Times today publishes a dispatch from Kobe, dated April 26, saying that there is no mistaking the fact that there is evidence of a serious crisis in the relations between Japan and Russia. But, the correspondent adds, the Japanese press has been forbidden to refer to it, and four newspapers of Tokio, including the semi-official Nichi-Nichi, have been suspended for reporting the fact that a secret council of the ministers was held. The other newspapers in which references to the crisis appear are defaced.

Continuing, The Times correspondent says: Information reaches me from a reliable source at Hiroshima that the ministry have adopted a resolute attitude against Russian dictation. They deny Russia's right to interfere, and even contemplate a defiance of Russia, believing that the Russian military forces in the East are not powerful enough to enforce her demands.

The foreign warships are assembling at the ports of Japan and the French vessels have been ordered to prepare for emergencies.

In his reply, Langevin said: "The words which your address contain are substantial. That is more than a declaration of affection. It is a declaration of principles." There was a large party of ecclesiastics present.

GREELEY AS A BOY.

HE LOVED TRUTH AND WAS WALLOPED FOR HIS INTEGRITY.

The Famous Journalist Acquired Knowledge Early Through Great Tribulation. Scaggs, "a Child of the Devil," Was Kind to the Boy Who Wanted to Learn.

The oft told and praiseworthy story about the sterling quality of George Washington's truthfulness when a lad and the straightforward confession, "I cannot tell a lie, father; I did it with my little hatchet," that have made the Father of His Country the idol of boyish hearts stands not alone as an example of American youthful integrity.

Another lad, when punishment as keenly dreaded confronted him and a father more irate than George's parent is ever pictured to have been, stood boldly forth when questioned and acknowledged himself the culprit. This other boy was Horace Greeley, and the story is an interesting one.

It happened in the town of Erie, Pa., where Horace spent a great part of his boyhood. The lad was unusually precocious and at the age of 10 years was considered the prodigy of the town. He was a great reader and eagerly devoured anything in the way of useful literature that came in his way. His father was a poor man, and Horace had not many chances for mental culture, but so keen was the boy's love of study and ambition for knowledge that he used to visit by stealth an old neighbor who possessed a handsome and finely stocked library. This old fellow was, to the mind of Horace's father, the essence of all that was irreligious. His name was Scaggs—Nathaniel Scaggs—and despite his quiet method of living and his acknowledged honesty of character he remained, to Mr. Greeley's mind, a vile and hardened sinner. Old Scaggs rarely attended any place of worship and on pleasant Sunday afternoons could always be seen sitting in his front garden boldly smoking his corncob pipe. These were the causes of Mr. Greeley's condemnation, and he dubbed the old scholar "a child of the devil."

But Scaggs had taken a fancy to the bright faced Horace and invited the boy to his home. After the first visit and a glimpse of that wonderful storehouse of books Horace could not stay away. He knew his father hated old Scaggs and called him a "lost soul," and he realized if his visits to their neighbor reached his ears that his father would instantly prohibit his calls.

At the same time old Scaggs' kindness had won his heart. His wisdom had gained his admiration, and he felt the injustice of his father's dislike toward his old friend. Besides the old man was teaching him Latin and opening daily to the boyish mind fields of thought and speculation and pointing out with care and patience philosophic truths so eagerly listened to by young Horace.

Once in the middle of a sentence of Cicero, while the two were engaged in their daily reading the boy stopped short and exclaimed: "Mr. Scaggs, my father doesn't like you. He says you are a child of the devil."

The old man was silent for a moment and then burst out laughing.

"Why does your father dislike me, Horace?" he asked.

"Well, you don't go to meeting, you know, sir, and then you smoke your pipe on Sunday."

"Yes, I do, my boy, but I did not know that was a great sin. I am sorry your father dislikes me, my son. Let us go on with Cicero." And the reading continued. That night Horace Greeley made up his mind to speak to his father and make a plea for old Scaggs' friendship. Accordingly, just before bedtime Horace accosted his father:

"Father, is not God forbearing?" he asked.

"Yes, my son. Why do you ask?"

"Does he not forgive much to those who are kind and intelligent?"

"Why do you ask?" still inquired the father.

"Well, I think Mr. Scaggs is both kind and intellectual, and I somehow hoped the good Lord would overlook his smoking and not going to meeting." The old man at once grew stern, questioned young Horace regarding his solicitude for their neighbor, and eventually the secret of the boy's visits and studies was brought to light. Mr. Greeley forbade his son to go near old Scaggs again, denounced Latin books as impious reading and threatened the lad with the strap.

Horace Greeley, after he got to be the editor of a big New York newspaper, used to tell the story with much feeling.

"After being forbidden old Scaggs' companionship," he said, "I went and told the old man about it. He seemed grieved, but told me to obey my father. The next day I was with my teacher at the usual hour, and after promising him I would tell my father of my visit our lesson went on as usual. Then I went home and told my dad, and he walloped me! For a whole week I continued my visits to my old preceptor, and each night I received a thrashing—more severe each time! At the end of the week I had to eat my meals standing up. Then my father locked me up for a few days, and we left Erie for Vermont in less than a fortnight. Yes. I slipped out and bade old Scaggs goodby. The old man was tearful and gave me the worn volume of Cicero as a parting gift. Of course I got a licking for that visit also, but I had seen my old friend and had my beloved Latin reader buttoned tightly beneath my waistcoat. I honored my father always," Mr. Greeley concluded, "but I never forgave him those lashings. He was a blue Presbyterian and could not tolerate Sabbath breaking. He was a mighty good man, but when I think of those whippings"—and then Mr. Greeley used to squirm, much to the delight of his listeners.—New York Recorder.

Strike Situation In Rhode Island Becomes Still More Alarming.

Operatives In Many Mills Join Strikers' Forces.

Strikers Claim They Can Hold Out as Long as Manufacturers Can.

PROVIDENCE, May 2.—The situation in the textile manufacturing industry of Rhode Island is a very serious one, over 7000 operatives now being out of employment.

In addition to the weavers and dyehouse employes of the Manton mills, the weavers and spinners of the Enfield mills of Smithfield and the 200 weavers of the Weybosset mills, the operatives of the Taft & Weeden mill and 250 operatives at the Riverside mills struck yesterday afternoon.

The primal cause of the general strike is the failure of the manufacturers to restore the reduction of wages made over a year ago. The strikers claim that they are prepared to stay out as long as the manufacturers hold together.

It is expected that the operatives in the Saxon, Saranac and the remaining employes in the Riverside mills will come out and swell the ranks of the strikers by at least 1000. It is only with the greatest difficulty that the officials at the Saxon mills persuaded their employes to remain at work yesterday.

The Atlantic mill strikers had a public display yesterday afternoon. All went to the mills in a body and waited for James Whipple, one of their number who went back to the dyehouse to work. When he came out they followed him and hooted at him for several blocks. No bodily injury was attempted.

The strikers held several parades and a mass meeting.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 2.—A sensation in the legislature was an order for an investigation of the affairs of the Brookline Gas company, with especial reference to moneys paid to attorneys for legislative purposes. It is only recently that under the instructions of the senate the gas commissioners investigated the affairs of this company and made a satisfactory report. The order went over. The senate by a unanimous vote rejected the anti-cigaret bill passed in the house. The house engrossed the bill providing for a police commission for Holyoke, to be appointed by the governor. The house substituted a bill authorizing Boston to borrow $1,000,000 outside the debt limit to complete the work on the strandway. Ought not to pass is reported on the bill for the establishment of textile schools. The bill granting Lowell $25,000 additional for her normal school building was passed to a third reading. The bill for a board of telephone commissioners was rejected.

Briggs was 59 years of age. Deputy Sheriff Brown is investigating the case.

LEFT TRACK OF RUIN.

Kansas Cyclone Traveled Over Sixteen Miles of Ground.

At Least Six Persons Were Killed Outright.

House Picked Up by the Wind and Smashed Into Kindling Wood.

HALSTEAD, Kas., May 2.—A fearful cyclone yesterday afternoon devastated a strip of country several hundred yards wide and at least 16 miles in length, killing six persons outright and seriously injuring several others, while many have received slight injuries.

The cyclone struck the house of Mrs. Frie, a widow who lived about nine miles from Halstead, destroying it and injuring Mrs. Frie.

It picked up the house of John Schultzback and scattered it in every direction.

The two-story house of Joseph Weir was entirely swept away, killing Mrs. Weir, Grace Weir, Herman Weir and a five-weeks-old baby. Mr. Weir had previously left the house, and when the cyclone struck it was about 50 yards away. He was badly injured by flying debris and will die.

The home of F. C. Caldwell was unroofed, and one side torn away. The family escaped by taking to the cellar.

The next house in the path of the storm was William Armstrong's, which was completely Wiped From the Face of the Earth.

Mr. Armstrong was killed, Mrs. Armstrong fatally injured and Grandma Chapin was killed.

The large two-story residence of B. F. Frizzell was picked up, as was also a large two-story building of P. J. Frizzell, and both together, with all the out-buildings, were completely swept away. The families of both the Frizzells escaped serious injury.

The next place visited was the home of William White, which was only partly destroyed, one wing of the house being torn away.

The house of Cyrus Hinkston was entirely carried away. Mr Hinkston received painful injuries.

Spencer Ross' house was on the line of the tornado and was carried away, as were also the houses of A. S. Powell, J. A. Comas, Andrew Thompson and Menno Hege. Miss Daisy Neff was badly injured, as was Mrs. J. Comas.

At the Hege district school the children had just been dismissed. Hege saw the storm approaching, and fearing its results hurried the scholars

To His Cyclone Cellar.

His precaution prevented an awful catastrophe, for just as the last child had been safely stowed away in the cellar the cyclone struck the house over them and demolished it. As it was not one of them was even slightly injured.

Near the Frizzell home dead horses, cattle, hogs and chickens were scattered all over the field. Those who first saw the disaster coming say that it made very slow progress, traveling not faster than a man could run. It seemed to waver, first in one direction and then in another.

As far as heard from, covering a distance of 18 miles across the country, from southwest to northwest, 20 residences, nearly all of them large ones, were completely destroyed. The loss will fall not less than $200,000, beside the six deaths and the injured, three or four of whom will probably die.

Physicians from Wichita went to the relief of the injured, and local assistance is given to the suffering families. Everybody in the track of the storm lost everything, and outside aid will have to be called for.

PARK ASSESSMENTS.

Quincy's Portion Less Than a Thousand Dollars by POPULATION OR VALUATION.

Solicitor Blackmur Unable to Ascertain Cost of Different Lots.

At the adjourned hearing of the commissioners appointed to apportion the cost of metropolitan parks City Solicitor Blackmur of Quincy endeavored to ascertain the cost of the lands taken in Quincy. He said the city assessors had been unable in the past to find out the owners to make the yearly assessment. The sum of $241,547 paid for land taken for the Blue Hill's reservation seemed large.

The chairman said that the park board should not be compelled to expose the price it paid to each individual from whom land was taken, but should furnish the total cost in each city and town.

Counsel Rackeman for the Park Commissioners stated that $746,500.87 of the million dollars had been expended, and that $241,547 was for land at Blue Hills, $49,136 for labor at Blue Hills and $27,196 for miscellaneous work at Blue Hills.

The total amount of actual cash expenditures on account of the boulevard act is $35,321.86, of which $10,052 is for Blue Hill boulevard, labor, etc.

Objection was made to the introduction of a prepared statement of the valuation and population of the various cities and towns comprised in the system, also showing the annual sinking fund requirement to meet the park acts and the apportionment of the same to the various cities made upon the basis of the population, and also upon the basis of the valuation of the towns and cities.

Although ruled out it has got into print. It is estimated that $49,375.00 is required annually; Boston to pay $24,187.50, and the thirty-six cities and towns a like amount.

By valuation Quincy would be assessed $788, a larger amount being paid by the following in the order named:—Cambridge, Brookline, Lynn, Newton, Somerville, Chelsea, Malden and Waltham.

By population Quincy would be called upon for $922 annually, larger assessments being levied on Cambridge, Lynn, Somerville, Chelsea, Newton, Malden, Waltham.

Eight would pay more by valuation, and seven more by population. Brookline is more in the first case but not in second.

By valuation Braintree would pay $209, Milton, $703; Weymouth, $412; Hingham, $183; Hull, $133; Hyde Park, $394; Canton, $177.

By population Braintree would pay $267; Milton, $236; Weymouth, $599; Hingham, $251; Hull, $54; Hyde Park, $562; Canton, $250.

If the assessments do not exceed the amounts named there will be little cause for complaint in either plan.

It should be remembered in comparing the assessments that other reservations besides Blue Hills were taken: the Middlesex, the Beaver Brook and the Revere Beach; also the Charles River, and the West Roxbury parkway.

City Solicitor Blackmur made a lengthy statement relative to Quincy at the hearing, which was continued today. It will be reported tomorrow.

CHURCH WEDDING.

Wollaston Young Lady Becomes Wife of a Montana M. D.

The wedding of Dr. Edmund R. P. Fourtin of Butte, Montana, and Miss Bertha May Kingman, daughter of Mrs. Edward Kingman of Wollaston, took place at the Wollaston Unitarian church, on Wednesday before a large and distinguished assemblage. The front of the pulpit was banked with palms and ferns, before which the marriage ceremony took place.

The bridal procession, which slowly marched up the aisle as the organist, Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, played Warren's "Nuptual March," was met in front of the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Samuel P. White, and the officiating clergyman, Rev. James E. Bagley, pastor of the church. The bride was supported by her brother, Mr. James Kingman of Boston, and was attended by Miss Louise Richards of Elmwood, as maid of honor, and Miss Maud Thompson and Miss Mary F. Ela of Wollaston, Miss Bertha Lee of Tewksbury, and Miss Alice Wilson of Shirley, as bridemaids. The ushers were Mr. Howard G. Kingman of Wollaston, Mr. W. E. Richards of Elmwood, Mr. W. H. Palmer and Mr. Fred. Lee of Tewksbury.

The bride wore a white silk gown with a garniture of white chiffon. Her veil was caught up with May flowers, a bouquet of which she also carried. The maid of honor wore pink and carried a bouquet of May flowers. The bridemaids wore white muslin over pink, with stocks of white chiffon and May flowers. Each carried a bouquet of May flowers.

An informal reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother. Dr. and Mrs. Fourtin were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Edward Kingman, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fourtin and Mr. James Kingman.

Dr. and Mrs. Fourtin then left for Butte, Montana, where they will reside.

THE WEDNESDAY FIRE.

Barn on John Curtis Estate Destroyed—Loss $1,100.

The alarm from Box 32 at 3.08 Wednesday afternoon sent the department to a burning stable on Franklin street near the Braintree line.

The box is located some distance from the fire and the run was a hard one, so that when the department arrived, but little remained but to quench the burning embers and save the house which joined the stable.

The stable was owned by John Curtis and was occupied by Peter McConarty, while the house, which was also leased by Mr. McConarty, was occupied by Frank Fredette and John McConarty.

In the stable was a quantity of hay and children playing thereabouts are supposed to have caused the fire. When discovered it had gained considerable headway.

Before the department arrived it looked as though the house was also doomed and the furniture was hustled out quicker than any teamster could move it. The house, however, save one end, was but little damaged, except by water.

The loss on the barn and house will not exceed $800, insured for $1,600. Mr. McConarty estimates his loss at $300, partially insured.

Among the interesting spectators were ex-Chief Ripley, Deputy Fire Inspector Adams and Commissioner Eaton.

A TERRIBLE FALL.

Fatal Accident at the Quarries This Noon.

YOUNG MAN INSTANTLY KILLED

He Lost His Balance and Fell Seventy-five Feet.

A shocking and fatal accident occurred at the quarry of C. H. Hardwick & Co., this noon, by which a young man in the prime of life was killed and an estimable young lady, a bride of but a few months, became a widow.

The unfortunate young man was Duncan Kerr, and at the time of the accident he stood on the platform in front of the polishing shop, guiding a block of granite which was being hoisted.

Suddenly he lost his balance and fell headlong into the quarry striking on the rocks seventy-five feet below.

Willing hands rushed to his assistance but they could render no aid as life had departed.

He was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms where it was found his skull had been fractured on the left side, his neck broken and his left leg broken.

He was 28 years of age and resided at 128 Water street. When the news was broken to his wife she was almost heartbroken and her sorrow was pitiful.

☞ Miss E. B. Collins whose advertisement appears in this issue has opened a millinery department in Wollaston which will be in charge of Miss Mabel Nash. She has also added to her stock of fashionable millinery a new line of French flower, and our lady readers are invited to give her a call.

—Fifteen or twenty men, representing about as many nationalities, began last week to hoe ground and plant potatoes on patches of vacant land in Long Island City under the direction of the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor. In addition to furnishing the men with the plots of land, the society has given each applicant seed and tools. Other vegetables will be planted, and it is believed that the experiment will be something of a success. It is much better than compelling the men to beg or free lunch their way, and it is better than out-right charity and the giving of alms.

—Mrs. Cornelia A. Wellington, widow of the late Asa Wellington for many years a resident of Quincy and for a few years principal of the High School, died in Roxbury, April 14, at the age of 70 years. She was born in East Braintree, near the spot where Mr. John Kelley's new house stands, on Commercial street.

One Kidney

may be diseased while the other may be healthy and doing the work of both—nature rebels, and the trouble is indicated by a pain in one side of the back and frequent inclination to pass urine. Kidney trouble may exist and not be indicated by the state of the urine, which remains clear. Constipation generally exists and the Backache may extend down the thigh. The diseased Kidney becomes inflamed and the waste matter which is retained promotes the growth of stones and gravel. If taken in the early stage, Buker's Kidney Pills will remove the stoppage, allay inflammation and help the Kidneys to perform their proper functions. Send for book on Kidney troubles—it's free. Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

A pedler was selling a patent coffee pot, warranted to make good coffee, in Parsons, Kan., and one boarding house keeper got one for Christmas from each of her boarders.

Not All to be Trusted.

Harry W. Howarth, the tonsorial artist at South Quincy, has had an experience with servant girls obtained from the State Board of Charity which will last him a life time.

About three weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Howarth obtained a good looking girl from the above board about 16 years of age who answered to the given name of Rose and an unpronounceable surname. The girl was duly installed in their home on South street and everything was apparently running smoothly, but Monday Mrs. Howarth went away leaving the charming, blushing Rose in charge. This was evidently the opportunity for Rose, for immediately upon Mrs. Howarth's departure Rose proceeded to attire herself in Mrs. Howarth's clothing taking a complete outfit of underclothing as well as a new dress, hat, etc. This would have satisfied an ordinary person but Rose was not satisfied and she therefore completed the outfit by adorning herself with a gold watch.

She was now ready to start but being short of funds she skirmished about and succeeded in obtaining about $5 in money. She then sallied forth and her first stop was at the Quincy depot where she put the finishing touches upon her hair using the railroad's looking glass.

Having completed her toilet she took the electric car for Boston and occupied her spare time between Quincy and Neponset in trying to make an impression on the conductor. Since that time all efforts to obtain any trace of her have proved fruitless.

Constable Furnald has succeeded in locating Miss Rose, and today he arrested her at Plymouth. It was a good catch as he recovered all the stolen property. Rose Hamerle will be brought before the Quincy court tomorrow morning. The goods were worth $80.

Woodward Air Castles.

A minister of the city who is prominent on the board of instruction of the Woodward Institute, upon reading the annual report of the board in LEDGER Wednesday, informed us that work on the enlargement would be begun next week, and that it would be in readiness for the September term. That plans, etc., could be seen at City Hall.

City Clerk Keith, a member of the Board of managers, says the report is premature. A sketch however has been accepted, provided upon estimate the expense is not too great.

When these plans are completed figures will be obtained and if the addition can be made within the amount the board think it ought to expend, then work will be commenced, otherwise it will not.

The changes contemplated mean an enlargement to nearly twice the size of the present building.

MAY RESORT TO FORCE.

Striking Miners in West Virginia Going to Extreme Measures.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., May 2.—The strike is on in the West Virginia field along the Norfolk and Western railroad. Not a mine is in operation. Thousands of miners met at Keystone yesterday to organize and perfect measures to induce or force the Pocahontas men to join the strike. A delegation was appointed for that purpose.

No dissatisfaction exists among these Virginia miners, as they have not been cut. In the event of a refusal to join the strike, force doubtless will be attempted, and both sides are determined. The citizens of Pocahontas will aid the home miners, and they have ample arms and ammunition.

The West Virginia miners are swarming in on every train, and the situation is alarming. No shipments of coal are being made at Bluefield. The cut of 20 per cent in wages was never contemplated by the Virginia companies, and there are only a few union men among them.

In the event of trouble at Pocahontas, the Virginia miners only number 900, against 10,000 in West Virginia, and resistance could not last long. Bloodshed will only be averted by caution and conciliation.

The railroad at important points is being guarded, and Superintendent Mayer of the Pocahontas division of the Norfolk and Western and Captain McClelland and Superintendent Hippeick of Roanoke spent yesterday among the coal fields.

Business is partially paralyzed, and many miners are leaving for their homes. An outbreak may occur at any time. The strike is understood to be practically to adjust railroad fares on shipments.

Jury Charges Durant With Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—The inquest on the body of Blanche Lamont occupied less than three hours yesterday, but the evidence developed was considered convincing, and the jury returned a verdict charging Theodore Durant with the murder. The police and district attorney are confident of a conviction, stating that they did not put in nearly all of their case at the inquest. Dr. Barrett, who performed the autopsy, stated that Blanche died of asphyxiation. He said that it was impossible for her to have been in a delicate condition. Seven of the strangler's finger nail wounds were on one side of her neck and five on the other.

Indians Give Warning.

TACOMA, May 2.—The sale of land on the Puyallap Indian reservation, under the direction of the government, was begun yesterday, despite the protests of a large number of Indians, who threaten to make trouble if any of the purchasers of the land attempt to take possession. The Indians are recognized, by a decision of the United States circuit court, as citizens, as they exercise the rights as such, with the single exception that the land of the reservation is held in trust for them by the government.

Acquitted on Two Charges.

LONDON, May 2.—The jury acquitted Wilde of the charges against him in connection with Atkins and reported to the court that it was impossible for them to agree in regard to the other charges. They, however, acquitted him of the charges of conspiracy. Sir Edward Clarke asked that Wilde be admitted to bail, but the court refused the request. Mr. Gill, for the prosecution, said that the case would undoubtedly be tried at the next session. Wilde and Taylor were returned to Holloway jail.

Complications Accumulate.

DENVER, May 2.—On the complaint of Charles Claflin, Young & Co. of Boston that the Flanders Dry Goods company, which recently assigned, has turned over all its property to Assignee Bates and that for this reason their claim for $1757.60 cannot be satisfied, Judge Lefevre appointed W. D. Reed referee and ordered that the Flanders company appear before the referee with the books and accounts and show whether or not the assets are now in the hands of the assignee.

Latest Concerning Nicaragua.

LONDON, May 2.—The following semi-official announcement was made last evening: The statement that the Salvadorean minister had submitted to Great Britain certain proposals on behalf of Nicaragua is correct. The matter is now being considered, and if responsible security is given for the fulfillment of any undertaking to comply with Great Britain's demands, every proposal in the matter will be arranged without inflicting further humiliation.

Respited Until Next Wednesday.

ALBANY, May 2.—Governor Morton has granted a respite to Robert Buchanan until May 8, pending the appeal to the United States supreme court in the application for a writ of habeas corpus. If the supreme court decides against Buchanan before that time, the sentence will be executed on that day. If the case is not decided by that time, the governor may issue another respite.

An Important Statement.

BUDA-PESTH, May 2.—In the Hungarian diet yesterday, Premier Banffy, replying to a question respecting the utterances of the papal nuncio during the latter's recent tour of Hungary, said that the latter had evidently exceeded his functions and that the Austro-Hungarian government had demanded explanations on the subject of the nuncio's journey from the holy see.

Confined to His Room.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary of State Gresham is confined to his rooms suffering from an attack of acute neuralgia of the stomach, with liver complication. It is thought that with careful nursing and relief of official duties the secretary will be all right again in a week.

Poisoned by American Meat.

PARIS, May 2.—The Autorite says that 17 soldiers have died in the hospital at Vitre from the effects of eating tainted canned meat, purchased from an American firm, and that 34 others are seriously ill from the same cause.

Blowing Over.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 2.—There is every reason to believe that the questions arising from the Chinese-Japanese treaty will be quickly and amicably settled, owing chiefly to Germany's co-operation with Russia.

Crooked City Treasurer.

WON AT THE START.

Giants Had No Trouble in Defeating the Quaker City Team.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The New Yorks won the game from the Philadelphias in the first three innings. Weyhing was in the box during the time the Giants tallied all their runs. He was wild and unable to locate the plate, and every one of the seven men he sent to bases on balls scored. Smith took Weyhing's place in the fourth inning and did some great work. Rusie pitched winning ball.

Bloody Work on a Train.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 2.—A night express on the Chicago and Alton road was attacked about midnight about two miles this side of Carlinville by three masked men, who had climbed up on the platform of the blind baggage car. They climbed over the tender and ordered Engineer Holmes to stop the train. They immediately began shooting and Holmes was killed at the first fire, Fireman Tuggle escaping. The assailants then jumped off the train and escaped. Engineer Holmes yesterday morning, when going south, at Carlinville compelled some tramps to get off the train and also ran off some that were burning cars on the "Y," and it is thought that some of these men were his murderers.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

GOUT, RHEUMATISM,

rheumatic gout, or any gouty or rheumatic affection whatever, has its surest remedy in the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. There's nothing so successful in clearing out the excess of uric acid in the blood. That has been proved in hundreds of years and in thousands of cases at Carlsbad.

So with any of the ailments brought on by sedentary habits—dyspepsia, indigestion, perverted nutrition, constipation, Carlsbad cures them, and cures them permanently.

But the best way is to prevent them. A little Carlsbad Sprudel Salt taken when you suspect any trouble, will keep your stomach and liver and bowels and kidneys in perfect order.

Take only the genuine imported Carlsbad Salt (solidified and bottled at the Sprudel Spring) with signature of "EISNER & MENDELSON CO., Sole Agents, New York," on every bottle.

BLOOMERS AND BRIGADES.

How the Grove City College Girls Are Branching Out.

College and town circles of Grove City, Pa., have been excited lately over two female organizations, one that has already made its appearance and the other yet to come. A girl's military company began the stir, and now a Girl's Bloomer brigade threatens to complete the social revolution. The older folk are beginning to wonder where the new woman will stop, and discussion is rife as to the borderland of her sphere.

The moving girl spirits of the college, desirous of equaling their brethren of the military department, which numbers 200, have arranged a military company of their own, which is now the pride of the college. The "Ketler Guards," named after the president of the college, already number among their members 20 of the first young women of the school.

The girls are inferior to their brothers in no respect, and even excel them in their grace of company formations and marching. The girls are enthusiastic and grasp the military idea with astonishing alacrity.

The Bloomer brigade is to make its initial appearance in the near future. No bloomer costume has ever appeared on the streets, although the number of bicycle girls is large for a town of 2,500. The sestet comprising the Bloomer brigade come from blue blooded families, and it is likely that their new movement, which is backed by wheelmen, will meet with favor and followers.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

WOMAN'S CUBAN CLUB.

Composed Exclusively of American Women Devoted to Cuba's Cause.

In various cities of the country Americans have been organizing clubs in sympathy with the Cuban revolutionists, but Baltimore has the first association of this kind composed entirely of American women.

Miss Florence Trimble started the movement and soon collected about her other women, who are as enthusiastic as the organizer. A meeting was called, and those who attended were supplied with miniature Cuban flags, which they wore on the bosom. Miss Trimble explained the object of the meeting and called upon those assembled to be loyal to the cause. She recalled the trials of the continental army during the days of the Revolution and asked that the bravery and self sacrificing spirit of the American women of that period inspire those of the present day.

These remarks were greeted with hearty applause. Miss Trimble was then elected president, and Mrs. Jennie Menendez was made secretary and treasurer. It is the intention of the club to raise funds for the cause by giving a series of entertainments. They have adopted as their watchword, "Sympathy with Cuba and the Monroe doctrine."—New York Sun.

GOD'S LIGHTHOUSE.

The little head, with busy fancies filled,
Leaned thoughtfully upon my breast at night
While faint and fainter grew the western light
And one by one the sounds of day were stilled.

The weary little feet, now tired of play,
Had danced for hours upon the sandy beach,
Chasing the waves or flying from their reach,
Lightsome and care free as the tossing spray.

As the dear child lay nestling in my arm
There darted through the dusk a sudden ray
Flashed from the dimming shore across the bay,
Where the tall lighthouse warned the ships from harm.

And as we watched it shining o'er the deep
Another beam fell slant athwart the air,
Of glorious, burning Sirius, we were 'ware,
Lifting our thoughts to heaven's unbounded sweep.

Gazing, we fell to converse sweet and high
On the great works of him who rules above,
While wondering awe and reverential love
Glowed in the child's serene, uplifted eye.

Then as I pictured how our circling ball
Sails the ethereal ocean midst the spheres,
Kept from disaster down the speeding years
By the wise guiding hand that ruleth all,

Swiftly a glad thought shot across her face.
"Mother, dear mother, now I know," she cried,
"Why that star shines more bright than all beside—
That is God's lighthouse in the darkest place."
—Sarah F. Davis in Christian Intelligencer.

EGYPTA'S DANCE.

There had gathered on the deck an oddly social group of strangers whom the voyage had united in seeming intimacy. Their knowledge of each other had begun on the day of sailing and would probably end on the day of arrival, but in the meantime hazard forced upon them a superficial friendship, a brief acquaintance between port and port.

It was night on the ocean, and perhaps it was the immensity of the round, uncontested province of darkness and the monotonous sound of the heavy waves that inspired the minds of the little company with a sense of mystery and caused their thoughts to wander forth into the obscure realm of the supernatural. Some one had just told a ghost story.

"I love to have my blood run cold, don't you?" said a very young girl confidentially to her neighbor. "It is so nice and creepy to listen to such things."

"Oh, they are well enough," he replied, "but nobody believes them."

"It is a thankless task, telling ghost stories," said the raconteur, laughing. "One never gets anything but scorn and suspicion for one's pains. It is the only kind of literary effort in which imagination is forbidden. Now, I cannot swear that my tale is true, but I insist that it is just as good as if it were."

"I would never tell a story of that kind unless it were true," said a pale, dark eyed girl from the depths of manifold wraps and cushions.

"Nor I," said a man, turning with quick interest toward the girl, "but would you tell it if it were true?"

"Perhaps," she answered thoughtfully.

The conversation drifted on, and the man returned to his silent meditation, apparently unconscious that the girl's eyes were regarding him with a longing curiosity.

"I might tell you all a story," he said suddenly, waking up from his absorption, "only I have never told it before, and I am not sure that you will find it interesting. It is true; but, like most true stories, it is only a fragment, and there are gaps in it which must be filled by guesswork."

"He is an old hand," whispered one of the party.

The very young girl declared delightfully to her boy companion that she was going to make herself believe every word of it, and all settled down to silence. The man pulled his rug up and his cap down, and, looking out upon the mighty darkness that surrounded the tossing, vibrant ship, began:

One evening, toward the end of the London season, I was dressing for dinner in my room at the Metropole. I was somewhat hurried and preoccupied, but I soon became aware that an animated conversation was going on in the adjoining room. The words did not reach me, but there was something in the voice of the speakers that gave me an uncomfortable sense of assisting at a painful crisis.

"Some one's mauvais quart d'heure," I said to myself lightly, feeling, however, a kind of selfish resentment at the intrusion upon my notice of the small portion of humanity's suffering. The voices of both speakers were young, but formed an odd contrast. The woman's contralto was musical and changeful, while the man's heavy bass an inflexible, untrained instrument. When he spoke, it was in short, abrupt sentences. He seemed to have little to answer to her eager discourse, now gently persuasive, now in a tone of stern menace. Her voice was low, never raised in vulgar emphasis, but it was singularly expressive of her emotions The first words that came to my ear were his, in a tone of sullen, dogged resistance.

"But I tell you it is all over."

She answered very calmly and so slowly that I heard even her pretty foreign accent:

"You do not mean that. You are a boy. All is not over with you."

What came next I did not hear. She went on more rapidly, from time to time eliciting from her companion a gruff, determined phrase. After awhile the dialogue again became audible to me:

"I wonder you are not afraid of me. You do not even dream of my power. And yet I have told you a hundred times that I am not like you. I have other senses, other knowledge. I belong to a nation that lives near to the sun. I know the secret of life; I can go and can return. You are too daring; you would best beware."

"Oh, drop all that," he said, with a slightly scornful, but not ill natured laugh. "It won't work with me. Upon my soul, you are a nice little thing, and I would keep you if I could, but don't you see"—And his voice sank into an argumentative strain.

She made no answer, but I heard her say, as though speaking to herself: "How did it ever happen that I should fall in love with such a stupid Englishman—blunt, dull, blind, deaf. It is inconceivable. Un etre inferieur, and yet—a god."

She paced the room with quick steps.

The conversation, when resumed, was carried on in low tones. For a time I did not distinguish the words.

At last the man said, with unmistakable affection:

"Aren't you going to say goodby to me?"

"Of. course, if you wish," she replied. "I forgot you do not expect to see me again."

As I stepped out into the hall the door next mine opened, and a young man came out. He was between 21 and 25 years of age, a tall, straight featured Saxon. He gave a sigh of relief as he closed the door behind him.

I had been invited to dinner, and when I arrived at my host's the other men were already assembled. Only one came later than I. It was the handsome young Englishman I had seen in the hotel corridor. Dinner was served in a large room that opened out with bow windows on a terrace. The night was warm and the casements were flung wide to admit the breeze from the cool, dark garden. About two courses had been served when—

Across the terrace, lighted by the pure rays of the full moon, the figure of a woman dressed in a robe of gauze confined about the body by a heavy jeweled girdle. We who sat opposite the window turned instinctively to our host for an explanation of the lovely vision, but the face of the man at the end of the table wore an expression of perplexed surprise. Before we had time to comment the figure reappeared.

"It is Egypta, the eastern dancer," exclaimed some one.

Without on the marble terrace stood the graceful dancer, light as a butterfly just poised. Within the brilliantly lit room was a startled, bewildered company. Some of the men had risen from their chairs; some were leaning forward on the table; our host had walked a few paces toward the window. We looked at each other questioningly, and suddenly the true nature of the vision flashed upon us. An indescribable sensation convinced us that the woman on the terrace was not flesh and blood. A few muttered exclamations were heard; then there was absolute silence, and the eyes of all were fixed upon the garden with a painful intensity. The dancer stood still but for a moment. Bowing to the pale, attentive group within the room, she commenced to move her limbs and body with a peculiar swaying motion, thoroughly eastern in character.

She held in one hand a champagne glass of Venetian ware, and to drink some liquid from it seemed to be the motive of her dramatic dance. With a quick, tripping step she whirled round and round, drinking apparently with the gayest intoxication. Her gauze skirts flew about her lithe form, the jewels at her waist and on her sandals sparkled, her arms gleamed whitely, and the quickness of her motion blew a confusion of dark hair accross her face and breast. The climax of the dance was the drinking of the liquid, and as she raised the glass to her lips her eyes flashed at us a sudden glance, so direct and significant that several of the men caught their breath and started involuntarily.

She threw her head back and seemed to drain the glass of the last drop. Then, still with graceful, rhythmic movements, she went through an awful pantomime, clutching her throat and swaying to and fro as though convulsed with the death agony. The horrible play lasted only a minute. Changing again abruptly, the dancer threw herself into a merry whirl, and with a disdainful, mocking fling and a wave of the hand retreated from the terrace into the shadows of the garden. A white figure was still faintly visible, and it seemed to me she beckoned. My limbs were cold and stiff, but with a kind of clumsy plunge I stumbled out on to the terrace and across the grass. The gleaming wraith melted away. Before my eyes all was darkness. I thought I heard the words:

"All is not over." And through the air came swiftly a champagne glass. It broke into a thousand pieces as it touched the ground, and the quaintly twisted stem was all that remained. I picked it up and went back to the terrace, where host and guests were all standing, with the exception of one man—the young man whom I had seen in the hotel. He was still sitting by the table, leaning back in his chair, his arms hanging beside him, his terrified eyes fixed upon the window. He looked at me as I entered, and without any conscious thought or purpose I walked up to him and laid in his hand the bit of glass.

"It has gone hard with you," said some one to him, giving him some brandy.

We were all terribly shaken. Some lingered by the windows, some walked restlessly about the room. Gradually composure returned. We seated ourselves at the tables, and the business of dinner recommenced, enlivened by a disjointed, nervous conversation. In a quarter of an hour a young cousin of our host dropped in. He had just come from the Imperial Music hall and could think of nothing but a scene he had witnessed there.

"Uncommonly sad," he said, pausing for greetings. "By Jove, I feel all broken up. I went down to see Egypta, you know"—at the name the eyes of all present turned quickly to the speaker—"a pretty girl, and, by Jove, a dancer." He poured out some wine and went on, looking at our host. "She brought out a new dance this evening—a champagne dance—whirled around drinking the stuff with all sorts of pretty flings and turns. Set the house just wild, applause thundering, you know. She danced again for the encore, and just at the end she was taken with convulsions—heart failure, the doctors said. She died. Most shocking thing. By Jove, it was sad. So sudden, you know."

One of the guests groaned, and, rising, staggered from the room. Whether the eastern woman who loved him tortured him further I do not know. He died within a few weeks. I think it was poison she drank that evening, whirling about in mock gayety. She was dancing consciously a wild dance with death. She had threatened that she could go and could return, and I believe she knew that after death she would be able to reappear on earth. She was conscious that she possessed the power of making the elements serve the spirit.

"And why cannot all possess that power?" murmured the dark eyed girl, and thowing her shawls impatiently aside, she walked to the edge of the deck and gazed into the black, fathomless water.—Argonaut.

In the Grocery.

"The care which the average corner grocer has of his wares," said a woman a day or two ago, "was exemplified to me very significantly at the shop where I deal. At one side are always displayed two or three tiers of cracker boxes, the oblong wooden sort, each filled with a different variety of these much used little biscuits. I have been in the habit of buying crackers there freely, rather liking the easy choice afforded by this open display, but one evening I halted at the store after dinner and found the clerk sweeping. There was a cloud of dust, and the smells which were arising from bits of decayed vegetables and the like unearthed by the broom were not pleasant, but what really horrified me was to see that the long array of cracker boxes was uncovered. I have never ordered crackers there since, and I am careful now to study what is covered and uncovered in any grocer's shop before I make a choice. Of course, vegetables and fruit can and should always be washed after reaching the kitchen, but crackers, sugar and various other things are not washable, and these I buy from covered receptacles."—New York Times.

A FORECLOSURE SALE

Ordered In the Case of the New York and New England Railroad.

Company Defaulted by Failure to Pay Mortgagees.

Sale Will Occur Under Commissioner Lowery's Supervision at Hartford.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Judge Wallace, in the United States circuit court of the southern district of New York, rendered a decision yesterday against the New York and New England Railroad company in the matter of the foreclosure of a $5,000,000 mortgage.

The mortgage was executed on June 22, 1882. The plaintiffs in the present case were William I. Hart, Frederick J. Kingsbury and Eustace C. Fitz, who were trustees of said mortgage and deed of trust.

The decree recites that the mortgage made by the defendant railroad company is a valid and subsisting mortgage, and constitutes a lien upon the mortgage in the premises and property described in said mortgage. It is further decreed that the lien of the said mortgage is prior to any other lien upon said property, except that it is subject to the prior lien of a mortgage to the Boston Safe Deposit company, under date of Jan. 1, 1876, known as the first mortgage bonds, for the aggregate of $10,000,000.

It is further decreed that at the time of the filing of said bill of complaint the trustees of the mortgage, Hart, Kingsbury and Fitz, were entitled to take possession of all the property covered by the mortgage and receive the income thereof, to be applied in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage. That prior to the filing of said bill of complaint the defendant railroad company had default and was then in default by their failure to pay interest which became due on Feb. 1, 1894.

To Be Sold as an Entirety.

Said railroad company failed to pay interest due Aug. 1, 1894 and on Feb. 1, 1895. The complainants, as trustees, are entitled to the relief prayed for by them in their complaint and to foreclose said mortgage and sell the mortgaged premises and property. It is decreed that the property, rights and franchises covered by the said mortgage to Hart and others as trustees should be sold as an entirety.

It is further decreed that the principal of said $5,000,000 is due and payable. That $450,000 interest is now due. It is further ordered that within 20 days of the entry of this decree the said defendant railroad company pay to the complainants for the benefit of the parties entitled the principal of $5,000,000 with interest due; also a sufficient sum to pay the costs of complainants in the case, and that unless each of the said payments be made within 20 days the lien existing by virtue of said mortgage shall be foreclosed and all the mortgaged premises be sold without appraisment or right of redemption at public auction at the Federal building at Hartford. That at least 30 days' notice of the sale shall be given by publication.

The sale may be postponed at the desire of the trustees or by order of a court. No bid shall be received at the sale, unless the bidders deposit $100,000 in some responsible bank. If any accepted bidder fails to comply with the terms of the sale, his money shall be forfeited.

Francis P. Lowrey is appointed commissioner to make the sale.

Thomas C. Platt and Marsden J. Perry have been receivers for the New York and New England company for nearly two years.

Crathie Escapes Entire Responsibility.

LONDON, May 2.—The Elbe investigation was ended at Lowestoft yesterday. The jury returned a verdict that, in their opinion, the collision was due to gross negligence on the part of the mate and lookout man of the Crathie. Owing to the absence of evidence from any of the crew of the Elbe, the jury were of the opinion that there was not sufficient proof that the Crathie was solely to blame for the disaster to justify a verdict to that effect. The captain of the Crathie was exonerated.

HOW MANY WOMEN DO YOU KNOW

Who Can Say They Are Thoroughly Well? How They Can Be Strong.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

I don't feel very well; I am so tired all the time; I don't know what is the matter with me.

You hear these words every day.

As often as you meet your friends, just so often are the words repeated. More than likely you speak the same pregnant words yourself, and there is no doubt but that you do feel far from well most of the time.

There is a cause,

And—

There is a remedy for all that is covered by those words so constantly spoken by women.

Lydia E. Pinkham discovered the source of nearly all the suffering endured by the sex.

"Women's Complaints,"—these two words are full of more misery to women than any two words that can be found in the language of the world.

Sudden fainting, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or to do anything, backache, "bearing down," and kindred symptoms of serious disturbance seldom imagined by your family physician, and reluctantly mentioned by you.

The remedy is found; the same noble woman who discovered the cause of all your misery also worked out the remedy. All druggists have it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest blessing that ever came into the lives of suffering women.

They Attacked a Man Who Had Returned to Work.

Would-Be Victim and His Opponents Have Different Tales to Tell.

PROVIDENCE, May 3.—The first disturbance since the strike began at Olneyville occurred last night, when James Whipple, who, it is alleged, had gone to work in the Atlantic mills, was surrounded by a crowd of hooting and jeering strikers. Whipple at first seemed disposed to take this treatment with good nature, but as the crowd increased and began to threaten, an outsider notified the police.

A squad of 10 officers responded and charged the mob, which at first resisted, but by vigorous wielding of clubs the police forced their way through the strikers and rescued Whipple. Several of the strikers were severely bruised in the melee. When they saw that the man was beyond their reach, the crowd dispersed, pressed by the officers.

If the story told by the strikers is true, Whipple has been frequently assisted by the mill operatives. They state that when he was sick last winter they contributed a sum of money for his support, and that when the strike was called and the help were locked out he was one of the first persons to receive the assistance of the union. Whipple returned to work on Wednesday, and this made the strikers angry.

Whipple's Story.

Whipple tells a different tale. He says the strikers had no reason to abuse him, as he was not out on a strike. His work at the dye house was simply to measure and distribute the drugs used by the operatives, and for this he received $1.50 a week more than the other hands.

As he considered the pay a fair remuneration for the work performed, there was no reason why he should strike. He had been sick with pneumonia for 15 weeks, having worked but five weeks since Thanksgiving, and had been at the mill but one week when the lockout forced him out of work.

During this time he had run deeply into debt, and he needed all the money he could earn for the support of his family. He and although the wife did what she could to earn money she was able to do but little, and they would have been in destitute circumstances in the past three months if it had not been for the kindness of neighbors.

When the order to return to work was received, therefore, he was glad of the opportunity to earn a few dollars, and he went back, without an idea that the strikers would object.

The Atlantic mill operatives, however, have not been pacified by this story, and last night more than 500 of them surrounded the mill gates to greet him when he left his work, and the charge by the police was made just as the unpleasant jeers had become actual threats.

The strikers made what they consider a big gain yesterday afternoon, when the non-union weavers of No. 6 shop of the Providence National mill joined them. This will leave but 40 of the 400 looms of the mills running.

The help of the Saranac mill voted last night to join the strikers. The action of the Riverside operatives in coming out leaves only the "learners" force to operate looms in that mill.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 3.—The senate had so little to do, it adjourned over till Monday. The house, on the contrary, is up to its neck in work. It discussed the bill authorizing Gloucester to take the local waterworks. A bill was substituted for the adverse report of the committee. The anti-bucket shop bill was ordered to a third reading, after a heated debate. Adjutant General Dalton's bill to improve the efficiency of the militia was rejected, but notice has been given that a reconsideration will be moved. The senate engrossed the plumbing bill. The order for an investigation of the affairs of the Brookline Gas company was put over, pending the consideration of an order to investigate all the metropolitan gas companies. The committee on metropolitan affairs of the general court reported substantially in favor of the amended bill of the sub-committee, which provides for the issuing of $27,000,000 bonds instead of $19,000,000, as first proposed. It was voted to strike out Cambridge, Waltham, Lexington and Winchester from the list of cities comprising the district. No dissenters were recorded, but several members of the committee reserved the right to dissent, pending a vote by their respective municipalities.

ACUTE PHASE PASSED.

Nicaragua Has Profited by the Friendship Extended to Salvador.

Great Britain Accepts Compromise Propositions.

Action Believed to Have Been Greatly Influenced by the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 3. — The following official statement by the state department may be regarded as chronicling the passage of the acute phase of the difficulty between Great Britain and Nicaragua, which, at one time perhaps, threatened to involve the United States:

"Great Britain has accepted the guarantee made by Salvador of the payment of the indemnity by Nicaragua in London within a fortnight, and that as soon as Nicaragua conforms and so informs the British admiral, the admiral is instructed to leave Corinto."

It cannot be doubted that Nicaragua will promptly confirm the arrangements, and the British fleet will leave Corinto as soon as notice of the action of the British foreign office can be communicated to Admiral Stephenson, which, by the way, might be sooner, had not the Nicaraguans purposely interrupted the communication by cable directly between the foreign office and the admiral.

The guarantee by Salvador of Nicaragua's indebtedness is simply repayment of the favor extended to Salvador at the time of the Ezeta incident, when Dr. Guzman, the Nicaraguan minister at Washington, took up the case of Salvador by instructions of his own government, and worked so hard to secure the extradition of the refugee to Salvador. In addition to this consideration, based on gratitude, the Salvadoreans are supposed to be influenced in espousing the Nicaraguan cause by a feeling of apprehension at the presence of British troops on Central American soil.

It is felt here that the Nicaraguan incident may perhaps be the direct means of bringing about the long-expected revival of the union of Central American republicans, the small republics now existing having been of their inability to protect themselves in conflict with any considerable power.

Although it may be safely assumed that the acute phase of the Nicaraguan incident has passed, supposing that there should be no hostile collision before the formal orders have reached the commanders of each side, there are yet some matters to be adjusted before the incident can be regarded as entirely closed. After the settlement of the "smart money" claim, on account of the treatment of Hatch, a commission must be selected and proceed to adjudicate the matter of some other British subjects, not officials, who were expelled from Bluefields at the time of the outbreak last summer, and if this mission assesses damages against Nicaragua on this score there may be some grumbling before the account is settled.

This is not likely to lead to serious trouble, but the Nicaraguans, smarting under the sense of oppression in this case (for they declare that Hatch never had an exequatur, and so was never recognized by them as a British official), may be counted on to do everything they can—without giving cause for an open rupture—to give their patronage in the future to Any Other Nation Than Great Britain.

The British diplomatic officers uniformly follow the practice of keeping their home government informed of the state of public opinion in the country to which they are accredited on any issue touching that country as shown by public declarations and utterances of leading newspapers, and it has been suggested that the foreign offices, in the case of Nicaragua, may have been somewhat influenced in this last action in closing up the case, or at least may have been hastened in its disposition by notice from the British ambassador here of the action on Wednesday of the New York state assembly.

It was definitely developed when the official announcement of the agreement was made that the United States had taken a very important part in the negotiations within the last few days. A telegram of instructions was sent to Mr. Bayard Wednesday laying down a positive line of action. Mr. Bayard received these instructions so late Wednesday that they were undoubtedly communicated to the foreign office yesterday. It is a significant coincidence, therefore, that Great Britain's acceptance was given almost immediately after Mr. Bayard carried out his instructions.

Previous to Wednesday the compromise was being urged by the Salvadorean minister in London, but his efforts seemed to be ineffective; there was no certainty that Great Britain would agree. It was this doubt which led to the cable to Mr. Bayard. He was directed to urge the reasonableness of the compromise proposition and to Seek a Speedy Acceptance.

The results proved that his offices were more effective than those of the Salvadorean minister.

Dr. Guzman received the news from the state department late in the day. "I am much gratified with the result," said he, "but now that it is all over, I do not mind saying that I was quite apprehensive up to the time the official message came from Mr. Bayard. There is no doubt that the affair is at an end, as no circumstance can now intervene to prevent the execution of the agreement."

As the interview closed, Dr. Guzman said: "One thing I want to emphasize, and that is my appreciation of the consideration shown me and my government by the state department."

Dr. Guzman sent a lengthy cable to his government, informing them of Great Britain's acceptance. It will be glad news to the little republic.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

TWENTY THOUSAND dollars for our public library and fifteen acres for park purposes is the good news for Quincy this week. The former the gift of the late Mrs. Thomas Crane, is reported elsewhere in this issue. In his arguments before the commissioners on parks in Boston this week, City Solicitor Blackmur stated that fifteen acres adjoining Merry Mount park, had this week been donated the city. Investigation revealsthe fact that Charles Francis Adams had purchased Pine Island, so called, northeast of the park, and has drawn a deed presenting it to the city for park purposes. It is probably the wish of Mr. Adams to develope the boulevards and bay shore reservations contemplated in the report of the park commissioners of Quincy in 1892, to be found in the City Book for that year. After Quincy has done what it can, the Metropolitan Park Commissioners may extend boulevards from the Blue Hills to Merry Mount park and along the shores of Quincy bay, both to Houghs Neck and Squantum. There should be cause for rejoicing in Quincy.

Swedish Lutheran Fair.

The three-days fair of the Swedish Lutheran society opened Thursday evening at Plumer's hall, with a very large attendance. Various tables were arranged about the hall, and so well were they patronized that the committee decided to omit the entertainment, and thus not interfere with the people who were making purchases. The band, however, gave several selections.

Those in charge of the several tables were as follows:

Fancy table—Miss Augusta Petterson, Miss Ida Pierson.

Coffee—Miss Selma Ryden.

Wheel of fortune—R. W. Lofgren.

Fruit and candy—Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Christina Sandberg.

The entertainment closed with a duet by Miss Leona Hayden and George C. Adams.

The fair will net a goodly sum to the ladies who had the affair in charge.

A GRAND BEQUEST.

Twenty Thousand Dollars the Legacy to Our Public Library.

FROM MRS. THOMAS CRANE.

The Trustees May Also Receive One-Half the Residue of Estate.

The will of Mrs. Thomas Crane of Stamford, Conn., and New York, has a pleasant surprise for Quincy, which is already grateful to her late husband for a beautiful library building. The generous gift was wholly unexpected. Mrs. Crane has evinced a great interest in Quincy since the erection of the library building, and now comes an endowment of $20,000 and a desire that half the residue go also to the Thomas Crane Public Library. A dispatch from New York to the Journal says:

The will of Clarissa L. Crane, widow of Thomas Crane, a granite dealer, who died on April 22 last, was filed for probate here today. Mrs. Crane left real estate of the value of $277,500 and personal property estimated to be worth $132,000. She appoints as her executors her son, Albert Crane, and George Hill, Henry E. Howland, Edgar Lockwood, Geo. W. Murray, Albert B. Otis and Ezra Foristall of Boston; D. J. Smith Dodge, Jr. of Stamford Conn., and Eugene C. Skinner of Detroit.

The will makes charitable bequests aggregating more than $56,000, including the following: To the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library of Quincy, Mass., which was built by Mrs. Crane and her sons, $20,000; to the Chapin Home for the Aged and Infirm of this city, $10,000; New York State Auxiliary to the Women's National Relief Association (Blue Anchor Society), $5000; Connecticut Universalist Convention, $1000; Women's Centennary Association, founded by women of the Universalist Church, $1000; New York Universalist Relief Fund, of which Thomas Crane was treasurer for many years, $5000; Universalist General Convention, $3000; Universalist church in Stamford, Conn., $1000; Rev. Eugene M. Grant, pastor of the Universalist church in Stamford, Conn., $1000.

There are a number of bequests to relatives and friends. The son, Albert Crane, is given all the real estate in Stamford, Conn., and all his mother's personal effects not otherwise disposed of. He is also given one-half of the residue of the estate, and the other half is held in trust for him, and he is given power to dispose of it by will, but his former wife, Helen M. Crane, is not to share in any portion of it. In case he does not dispose of this half by will, then it is to go to the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library of Quincy, Mass., the Chapin Home for Aged and Infirm, and to a number of relatives.

The real estate left by Mrs. Crane is estimated at $277,500; the personal property at $132,000.

ANXIETY OF CRANKS

Kept at a High Pitch by the Evenness of the Boston-Washington Game.

BOSTON, May 2.—Boston's aggregation of pennant hunters signalized their return home by defeating Gus Schmelz's warriors from the Capital City. The contest in many respects was finely played, and during one or two stages in the game, when the score was even, and the men taking every chance to win, the anxiety of the cranks would be somewhat relieved when the ball would be lifted over the fence, or a timely single would put either team in the lead.

An Embryo Republic.

TAMPA, Fla., May 3.—Passengers arriving last night from Cuba say that insurgent forces, numbering 2300 infantry and 200 cavalry met General Salcedo with 3500 troops at Jaraguета. The Cubans surrounded their enemy and seven times charged them. The Spaniards made a stubborn resistance. During the conflict 200 Cubans were killed and wounded, while the Spanish loss was between 400 and 500. Two hundred Spaniards were captured. The passengers positively assert that the Cuban republic was formed at Palenque about a week ago. Tomas Estrada Palma was named as president, Jose Marti as foreign minister and secretary and Maximo Gomez as general in command of the entire army. Tomas Palma is now in New York. He was the last president of the Cuba republic. He never resigned, he has not been removed, nor has a successor been appointed.

To Follow Gladstone's Suggestion.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A movement has been set on foot to hold a convention of Irish-Americans in one of the large cities at an early date. The promoters of the new movement have been driven, they declare, to adopt the alternative suggested by Mr. Gladstone, and will try to make the demands of Ireland a subject for international question. Several hundred Irish-Americans have pledged their sympathy and co-operation, and the names are representative of every section of the United States.

Died With Boots On.

GUTHRIE, O. T., May 3.—"Slaughter Kid" and Charles Vierson, notorious members of the old Dalton gang, were waylaid yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Shuffer and both were brought down with unerring aim. The bodies still have the revolvers and cartridge belts just as found on them when they were killed.

Proust Weakened.

PARIS, May 3.—M. Proust, president of the Omnibus Employes' union, and M. Deville, secretary of the same organization, were sentenced yesterday each to six months' imprisonment for inciting the strikers to violence during the recent strike. M. Proust begged to be acquitted, promising to wash his hands of the union.

Was Once a Famous Oarsman.

SING SING, May 3.—Henry Ward of the famous Ward Brothers, at one time the champion four-oared crew of the world, was found dead in his little fisherman's hut near this place. Ward, who was 70 years old, lived alone in the hut. He had been suffering from dropsy, and it was that disease which carried him off.

Screen Law Ignored.

HALIFAX, May 3.—The "no screen" law has gone into effect, but no effort is being made to enforce it, and it will likely be more of a dead letter than the rest of the liquor laws now on the statute books.

Outside Aid Will Be Needed.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., May 3.—The money loss from the cyclone will probably reach $225,000. Everybody in the track of the storm lost everything, and outside aid will probably be asked.

Millions of Packages.

The Rising Sun Stove Polish factory sold 23,000,000 packages of stove polish in 1894. These packages, placed so as to touch end to end, would reach 1,000 miles. The factory at Canton, Mass., covers four acres, and turns out the enormous product of 10 tons per day. Most of the material used is mined by natives in Ceylon, India, and brought by sailing vessels to New York.

The Rising Sun Stove Polish has the enormous sale of 3,000 tons per year but Morse Bros., have recently added to their business the Sun Paste Stove Polish in answer to the demand for a perfect stove paste. This Sun Paste is already meeting a large sale. The Rising Sun Stove Polish in cakes is recommended for general blacking of a stove and for economy, and the Sun Paste Stove Polish in tin boxes for a quick after-dinner shine.—Lynn Item.

QUINCY'S POSITION.

Many Parks of Her Own and Not Greatly Benefited by Reservation.

City Solicitor Blackmur, in his argument before the commissioners to apportion the cost and maintenance of the Metropolitan park system, said that land assessed for $75,875 has been taken for the Blue Hills reservation. The area taken was 2,529 acres, about 27 per cent. of the total taxable area. Quincy already maintains 157 acres of park land, including Merry Mount and Faxon park, and five playgrounds, and within three years has expended $50,000 for playgrounds. The view from the playground on Third Hill is equal to any to be obtained from Blue Hill.

Besides this a large portion of the boundary line of Quincy is on the water front and there is plenty of opportunity for residents to avail themselves of open places along the beaches and shores. Quincy is spread out over a large area that is composed of many small villages with open spaces between.

The following table shows the area and percentage which each town and city contributes to the area of the Blue Hill reservation:

Quincy, 2,529 acres or 62 per cent.
Milton, 1,388 acres or 34.
Canton, 108 acres or 2 1-2.
Braintree, 62 acres or 1 1-2.

The park frontage bounding on said city and towns is as follows:

Quincy, 12,837 feet—2 43-100 miles; of which 1550 feet is on Purgatory road and 2287 feet on Willard street; 9000 feet is bounded by the quarries and inaccessable land.

Milton, 31,250 feet or 6 miles, 4700 feet of which is bounded on public highways, and all the rest is bounded in such a way as to make the building of a road around the boundaries practicable at slight expense.

Braintree, 12,000 feet, or 2 27 miles; Randolph, 18,500 feet, or 3.12 miles; Canton, 6,000 feet, or 1.50 miles; all of which is bounded by public highways.

Quincy's great and practicably only industry is quarrying and dressing of granite, and the quarry district is entirely located in the wards of the city from which this property was taken.

About the only undeveloped and available land in Quincy lay in the reservation. The year in which the Metropolitan park commission made the taking, a railway was built at a great expense to open up a large portion of this quarry land and the commission afterwards paid $14,000 for land which has been assessed for $6,000.

The total debt was $1,065,000 and the city will be obliged to go to a great expense in the coming year in extending its water supply. Besides this the city has received authority to appropriate $400,000 to construct a sewerage system.

These with other facts stated by Mr. Blackmur the city of Quincy desired to submit as evidence. Mr. Blackmur had civil engineer Whitman and Principal Assessors Federben present in case the commission desired to go into the statements made in detail, or in case any of the representation of the cities or towns questioned the statement of facts made.

The commission will assign later a day for argument.

—Blue birds have been very scarce this spring, and speculation is rife as to the cause of their non-appearance.

ALOFT ON AN ICEBERG

THE REMARKABLE ADVENTURE OF THE SCHOONER ELWOOD.

A Trying Experience While Near Juneau, Alaska—The Tide Goes Down While She Is Fastened to a Berg, Leaving Her High and Dry.

Strange stories of thrilling encounters with icebergs have been brought back from the Arctic by skippers from time to time, but they must all take a back seat now and bow low to Captain Chester of the schooner Elwood.

The Elwood has just returned from her first halibut fishing cruise in the northern waters. She left San Francisco on Jan. 24 in ballast, but put into Departure bay and took on a cargo of coal for Juneau, Alaska. After discharging at the latter place she headed for the Muir glacier, the purpose being to load the hold with ice. The vessel was passing through the icy straits and was just off Hoonia, says Captain Chester, when he espied an immense iceberg about a mile away. It was fully ten times the size of the schooner and appeared to have become fast upon a reef.

The captain considered this a lucky find, for he could get all the ice he wanted. The Elwood was headed for the berg, and when the vessel was within a few yards of it the anchor was dropped. The schooner was then permitted to swing around until she came alongside the iceberg, to which she was made fast with lines.

The tide was at the full at the time, and to all appearance the vessel was perfectly safe. All went well until along toward evening. About 30 tons of ice had been deposited in the hold, and Captain Chester encouraged his men to work a little faster, as he desired to get the entire load and leave as soon as possible. Meanwhile the tide had been falling, which caused the iceberg to settle heavily upon the reef beneath and then to gradually tip over toward the side opposite the vessel.

The iceberg continued to careen, and Captain Chester began to suspect that all was not going to be well for him. He ordered his men to get aboard and was about to set sail when, with a grinding roar, the iceberg rolled off the reef and started to revolve. Immediately there arose on the starboard side of the vessel and beneath it a jagged spur of ice, which until then had formed the bottom of the iceberg. With a crash, the ice struck the keel. The next instant the astonished crew found themselves and their vessel lifted out of the water and resting in a sort of groove or cradle at the south end of the ice mountain. It was a panic inspiring predicament, to say the least, and all hands began to pray for their lives.

The weight of the vessel arrested the revolution of the berg, but did not have the effect of turning it back again to its original position. The reef prevented this.

Chester ordered his men into the boats with instructions to get out of harm's way as fast as they could. Before abandoning the vessel the mate cut the lines which held her to the iceberg. The men then pulled away to a safe distance and anxiously awaited the fate of the Elwood. The anchor held fast, and the schooner, as if realizing its plight and desiring to escape, tugged at the chain despairingly.

The tide dropped a few more inches, the iceberg careened still further, and the Elwood rose still higher into the air. Although at first thought this seemed to render her condition even more desperate, it really proved the schooner's salvation. The tendency of the iceberg to roll over and raise the vessel brought such an enormous strain to bear upon the anchor chain that something had to give way. Something did, and to the joy of the fishermen it was not the anchor or the chain. The iceberg lurched, and the schooner was observed to slide several feet along the crevice it rested in. There was another lurch and another slide. Then the vessel reached a downward grade and the next instant shot off the iceberg and into the sea, bows on, like a rocket. She shipped a heavy sea, as the result of plunging her nose beneath the surface, but quickly righted and after stumbling over her anchor chain and tugging viciously to get away settled down to her original state of tranquillity, to all appearance unhurt.

"I have been at sea a great many years and have had queer experiences, but this one beats them all hollow," declared Captain Chester. "I thought the vessel was doomed and never looked for such a happy termination of our troubles. When the schooner started to slide, there was no stopping her, and she bounded off like a thing of life. She looked just as if she were gliding down the ways of a shipyard on her launching day. I never saw anything prettier. You can rest assured that no happier mortals ever climbed aboard a ship than were we when we pulled over to the Elwood. We hovered around the straits that night, and when we took on the remainder of our ice cargo we took care not to approach too near the iceberg. We carried the chunks over in our small boats, keeping the schooner at a respectable distance."

Captain Wymar he owner of the Elwood, accompanied the vessel on her recent voyage and corroborates Captain Chester's narrative of the encounter with the revolving iceberg, as do also the members of the —San Francisco Chronicle.

AN ARTIFICIAL CHEEK.

By Skin Grafting St. Louis Surgeons Are Performing a Rare Operation.

On Tuesday, the 2d inst., there arrived in St. Louis a little girl, 6 years old, who had come unattended all the way from Oklahoma territory. She had a tag attached to a cord around her neck, on which was inscribed the following: "Little Cora Marks, 6 years old, from the Brethren at Britton, Oklahoma territory." The tag was directed to the St. Louis Protestant hospital, and on her arrival she was directed to that institution.

The little one is about to undergo a difficult operation. On the left side of her face is an opening about 2 inches in diameter, exposing to full view the back teeth, tongue and a portion of the interior of the left nostril. A little piece of skin about a quarter of an inch wide extends across the cavity, forming a bridge, as it were, over the opening. There are no signs of blood, nor are the edges raw. There is a very thin tissue covering the surface of the cavity, which prevents the flow of blood.

"They won't know me when I get back," she said joyously, "and I wish it was time to go home now." Little Cora is an orphan and an inmate of an orphans' home in Oklahoma territory. The cause of her affliction is said to be due to overdoses of calomel given her when a baby.

The first of a series of plastic operations has just been performed. It is proposed by a process of skin grafting to make an entire new cheek for Cora, so that when the operations are completed the cavity will have been covered over with a new skin, and it probably will be difficult to detect any signs of her present disfigurement.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Worth's Generosity.

An anecdote of the great Worth's generosity has been going the rounds. Just where the generosity comes in, however, is what I have failed to detect.

It was during the days of the empire that a leader of fashion in Paris, finding that she had overdrawn her husband's munificent allowance, and that a great fancy ball was imminent, went to the great man milliner and prayed him to hire her a costume.

He was shocked. Such mean expedients had never come in his line. The lady prayed. The great man denied. Finally the prayers of beauty prevailed. But she was to wear a costume entirely of his devising.

He dressed her as the flag of Paris. The tricolor fluttered in her skirts, on her shoes, in her enameled earrings. Her hair was dressed to represent a stormy sea in which rode the famous three masted galley bearing the arms of Paris. The lady was enraptured. The great man only charged her 1,500 francs. The dress was hers for one night only.

Napoleon's Manners.

Napoleon was rude. His manners were coarse, and when at table he ate as fast as he could chew and swallow, shoveling the food into his mouth with his knife and using his fingers whenever they came into more convenient employment. When talking to his officers, he often, as a friendly favor, pulled their whiskers or pinched their ears. To women he was almost invariably offensive, sometimes uttering language so coarse as to bring a flush of shame to their cheeks and the tears to their eyes.

The Eyes.

The eyes are placed in cavities in the head and are protected by ridges of bone above and beneath so that a very strong blow in the face rarely does more than contuse or blacken the surrounding muscles. If the eyes were placed on the outside of the round skull, many persons would have these valuable members crushed by falls or blows.

Quarantine Won't Be Raised.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Secretary Morton denies that the raising of the quarantine against Canadian cattle is contemplated. The importation of Canadian cattle is virtually prohibited by the rigid quarantine regulations which require them to remain in quarantine 90 days. They are also subject to a duty of 20 per cent. Canada enforces a similar quarantine against United States cattle.

Cleveland Wants Hodson.

CLEVELAND, May 3.—President Robison of the Cleveland club has telegraphed National President Young, threatening to throw the Hodson controversy into the courts. He claims a breach of faith on the part of Boston, and says he will settle the question of manager's authority definitely now.

ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA

Toward Victors In the Late War Remains a Matter of Speculation.

Statements That Japan Will Not Yield to Demands

Offset by Assertions That Some Concessions Will Be Made.

LONDON, May 3.—The Times' correspondent at Paris says that the papers of that city are trying desperately hard to complicate the question of the attitude of the powers in regard to the Chinese-Japanese treaty of peace. The correspondent adds:

"From an excellent source I am informed that the rumors of an ultimatum, collective notes, etc., are not founded on fact. Russia, in fact, is not so determined as is generally supposed to push matters to the practical issue of open hostility. The military resources of Siberia are not such as to justify such an enterprise.

"Germany, while apparently firmly determined to afford moral support by diplomatic pressure, has given no grounds for supposing that she will actively intervene. France, while faithfully keeping Russia company, has certainly not entered upon any agreement by which she will embark on adventurous complications. Finally, it is not true that Great Britain is inciting Japan to resist. Indeed, it is quite the contrary. Great Britain urges Japan to meet the susceptibilities of Europe with all the concessions compatible with Japan's dignity and permanent interests. This advice will not be given in vain.

"It is expected that Japan will give the European powers a mark of defense and moderation, and will renounce a definite occupation of the Liao-Tung peninsula, consenting to allow her occupation to cease with the fulfillment of the other clauses of the treaty. I do not believe that Europe will demand more than this, and I do not believe that Japan will refuse to go as far as this. This arrangement may be taken as probable, and it will shortly come about."

From Russia.

A dispatch to The Times from Odessa says it is semi-officially announced that Russia has made every preparations and is quite ready to begin hostilities if Japan refuses to modify the terms of her treaty of peace with China.

A St Petersburg dispatch to The Times says there is reason to believe that an early official answer from Japan to the protest of Russia, Germany and France was not expected. Russia is inclined to give Japan plenty of time in which to reply without the latter stultifying herself in the eyes of the Japanese by anything like a too hasty compliance. The Russian envoy at Tokio has lately pressed for a reply to the protest, and has been told that it will be given in a few days, on the return of Count Ito, president of the Japanese council of ministers. In diplomatic circles there is great confidence that a pacific solution of the matter will be reached.

The Feeling at Tokio.

The Vienna correspondent of The Daily News learns that in Tokio opinions differ regarding the next step to be taken by Japan. Part of the cabinet wishes to ask the powers to propose the manner in which Japan might obtain compensation for giving up the Liao-Tung peninsula. A minority of the cabinet wish to negotiate direct. In Russian diplomatic circles in Tokio it is believed that an agreement might be reached if Japan should receive, instead of the Liao-Tung peninsula, the Russian island of Saghalien, China compensating Russia for giving up the island by ceding territory to her in Manchuria.

The Vienna correspondent of The Standard telegraphs: "I am told that the Japanese declare that it is impossible for them to yield to the dictation of Russia and are making their preparations accordingly. Large orders have been placed in several European countries for war material, and Japanese agents are busy in the dockyards of Europe and America, buying warships, mostly small, swift cruisers. No respite will be allowed China for the ratification of the treaty. The march to Pekin begins the moment the armistice ends. As regards Russia, her claims will be politely waived, and it will then be imperative that the allies bring matters to an issue."

Thunderer Sees Settlement.

In a leader The Times says: The diplomatic game between Japan and the powers appears to be proceeding in strict accord with the regular rules. As the first of these rules in circumstances like the present is that neither side should disclose more of its real intentions than it can avoid, no very definite authentic information is likely to reach the outside world.

Considered in this light, the general tenor in the news that reached us in the last day or two is distinctly reassuring. Somehow or other the general impression is that everything will end quietly without any further burning of cartridges, and a very sensible impression it seems to be. That it exists in the best-informed circles in Berlin, St. Petersburg and Paris is shown by the independent testimony of our correspondents in those capitals. Everywhere confidence prevails that a pacific solution will be attained somehow. That is the essential point.

In some quarters it is hinted that Japan may assent to Russia's representations in regard to the Liao-Tung peninsula, seeking adequate territory compensation in some other part of China. Perhaps that might prove as good a solution of the problem as can be found. We have no political reasons such as Russia has for intervening in the present state of things. We have therefore refused to act as if we intended to interfere. We have expressed the hope that Japan would make some concessions. That hope we believe is to be fulfilled.

Twelve Hundred Remain at Work.

THE CHITRAL CAMPAIGN

Showed the Fighting Qualities In the British Command at That Place.

LONDON, May 3.—The Times publishes a lengthy dispatch from Chitral describing the siege of the fort at that place, in which the British agent at Gilgit, Sergeant Major Robertson, shut himself up, with his escort of 300 British and native troops, when Sher Afzul captured Chitral.

The garrison, it appears, had supplies which, on short rations, would have lasted until the middle of June, but they had little or no meat and were reduced to eating horseflesh. The Sepoys, when relieved, looked like corpses, and the officers were pale and worn, but they were confident of being able to last it out, although they could have only done so with terrible privation.

The discipline and steadiness, as well as the enthusiasm of the Sikhs, are described as magnificent. Upon one occasion those who were in the hospital rushed out to take part in the defense.

After a detailed report of the measures taken for the defense and describing the attacks made upon the fort, the dispatch pictures the main action, which was fought on April 17. Captain Townshend, the chief military officer, noticed that the enemy had been playing tom-toms in a summer house, outside of the fort, which they had captured, and it struck the captain that this might have been done to drown the noise of mining.

After careful listening, a faint sound of a pick was heard about 10 feet from the southwest tower. Thereupon, Lieutenant Harley and a party consisting of 40 Sikhs and 60 Kashmir troops was tolled off for a sally. Taking with them 150 pounds of gunpowder with which to blow up the mine, the door of the garden gate on the east side of the fort was opened quietly and the sallying party rushed out with fixed bayonets.

There were a few straggling shots and the summer house was taken. Thirty-five of the enemy were bayoneted as they came out of the mine. The powder bags were then laid and the mine was blown up. The sallying party afterward hurried back to the fort, having lost eight killed and 13 wounded. The enemy lost 60 men, nearly all of whom were killed.

Held For Double Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—Theodore Durant will be placed on trial for his life for the murder of Minnie Williams. He was held to answer on that charge in the superior court yesterday and bail was refused. Durant's preliminary examination for the murder of Blanche Lamont was taken up. The evidence so far given was an exact repetition of that at the inquest, and related to Durant's accompanying the girl from school on the day she was murdered and to his social intimacy with her.

General Rollins' Proposition.

DENVER, May 3.—Before the Grand Army encampment of the department of Colorado and Wyoming convened yesterday, there was much discussion among the veterans in attendance on the recommendation by Department Commander Rollins for the appointment of a committee to prepare a memorial to the next national encampment in favor of extending fraternal aid to Confederate veterans. The suggestion was generally received with favor.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 5. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The lessons of Gethsemane.—Mark xiv, 32-52.

The garden of Gethsemane is one of the sacred spots in the history of our Lord Jesus Christ. Whenever we enter its sacred inclosure, we instinctively feel that we must do so reverently and humbly because the ground whereon we stand is holy ground.

Gethsemane is fruitful of important subjects and lessons that may be drawn from them, but the all important, overshadowing subject that it suggests is that of the agony of Christ. Here it was that His soul was exceeding sorrowful, even unto death; here it was that he "sweat as it were great drops of blood, falling to the ground;" here it was that He prayed unto God that the cup, if possible, might pass from Him. Who can contemplate such agony and suffering without inquiring what was the cause of it? It was not death, for Christ had power over death. It was not the fear of death, for He knew that death would only bring release from His pain and agony. It was not the thought of separation from His loved ones, for He knew that even after death He would still abide with them. What was it then? It was the fact that in Gethsemane Christ began to bear the burden of man's sin. Here it was that He who knew no sin was made sin for us all. Here our iniquity was laid upon Him. The cup which filled His soul with such unutterable dread was the cup of God's anger, filled to the brim with its strange red wine, the wine of His wrath. How this agony of Christ should teach us the enormity of sin and its consequences! If He could scarcely bare it, how can we stand up under its burden? Let us be warned, then, to accept His suffering as ours, that "by His stripes we may be healed."

The intensity of Christ's suffering and agony is best seen perhaps in the fact that He prayed to God that, if possible, it might pass from Him. Had the burden of sin not been almost intolerable in its intensity the Son of God would never have uttered this agonizing prayer. God answered His prayer, but not in the way asked. The cup was not removed, but "there appeared unto Him an angel from heaven strengthening Him." Another important lesson. We, too, may have our cups of sorrow, of pain and affliction and may pray to God that they pass from us, and although they may not pass away He will give us strength to drink them, which is equivalent to the same thing.

The intensity of His agony must have been increased also by the faithlessness of the disciples. What pain in the exclamation "What! Could ye not watch one hour?" Another lesson. When we are faithless, we grieve the Son of God. Will we pain Him, who bore the burden of sin for us?

Bible Readings.—Ps. xxii, 1, 2; Isa. l, 6, 7; liii, 4-7; Math. xvi, 21; xxvii, 45, 46; Luke ix, 21, 22; xxiv, 25-27; Acts iii, 18; Rom. viii, 16-18; Phil. i, 29; Col. i, 24; II Tim. ii, 10-12; Heb. ii, 17, 18; v, 7-9; ix, 28; I Pet. i, 10, 11; ii, 21-25; iii, 17, 18; iv, 1.

For a Pleasant Evening.

The social committee could arrange for a pleasant evening in finding out just how much about the methods and principles of the movement the members understand. A "constitutional drill" is suggested by the Nebraska Congregational News. Choose sides, after the manner of the old fashioned spelling bee, and then have some one who is thoroughly posted on the model constitution ask questions. The one who misses should sit down or stand aside. The prize might be given to the one who remains standing the longest. Here are a few questions, and they can be enlarged upon almost indefinitely: What is the object of this society? How often are officers to be elected? What are the duties of the lookout committee? Is the pledge a part of the constitution? Who may be members without election? From what are associate members excused? Of whom does the executive committee consist? Mention three things required of active members. What provision is made for amending the constitution? How long a prayer meeting does the constitution provide for? How many unexcused absences from consecration meeting are required to drop the name of an active member?

The Spirit of Love.

A spontaneous, glad, willing spirit of love and reverence, of trust and devotion—this is the life of all religion, as it is everywhere the life of all noble sentiments, of all worthy action, as it constitutes the sacredness of the child's obedience, the glory of the patriot's sacrifice, the inspiration of heroism and labor like that of Paul—not counting the cost.—Dr. Chapin.

Making the World Better.

As between the two methods of making the world better—that which works on the environment, and that which works for spiritual culture—we believe the latter must ever be the main dependence. Yet a wise voice seems ever to admonish us, "This ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone."—Christian Register.

There is great need among these Indians, and a splendid field for work is offered.

Powerless For Good.

A home where the Bible is never touched except to be dusted, where no prayer is ever voiced, where no mention is ever made of Him whose words have changed the course of empires, such a home is deserving of pity. It is nerveless and powerless for good.—D. O. Mears, D. D.

TO LEAVE OLNEYVILLE.

The Next Move Contemplated by Striking Operatives at That Place.

Outside Delegates Will Act as Employment Agents.

Claim That Manufacturers Will Ultimately Be Forced to Accede to Demands.

PROVIDENCE, May 4.—The strikers have perfected their plan of campaign, which is to be presented to the national convention at Olneyville next week. The delegates to the convention will be asked to go to each of their unions and ask them to act as employment agents to find places for the Olneyville operatives wherever it is possible. This plan is suggested by the fact that factories all over the country are reported short-handed and by the knowledge which the strikers claim to have acquired that some of the Olneyville manufacturers have now on hand larger orders than they have ever had before.

The plan provides that as positions are secured, notice will be given to the manufacturers at Olneyville that unless the demands are granted, the operatives will remove; then the local union will pay moving expenses, and the population of Olneyville greatly decreased. Efforts will be made to provide positions for single men after those with families have been taken care of.

If this is done, of course the strike would still be on and union men would not come to Olneyville and the manufacturers would be helpless. To prevent this, the strikers claim that the manufacturers would not allow operatives to leave, after having been slowly gathering the best in the country for many years.

More Operatives Out.

About 100 more operatives from the Riverside mills came out last evening, including all the combers, twisters and loom boys.

The Manton weavers held their first meeting yesterday afternoon, and replied to a rumor that they would go back by voting not to return unless the old scale of wages was restored.

The strikers at the Atlantic mills met Whipple at the mill gate last night and escorted him home with jeers and yells, but the police did not interfere. This gives color to a rumor afloat that the police were censured by the mayor for their hasty action in clubbing the crowd Thursday night, when no violence was attempted.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 4.—The house ordered to a third reading the bill giving the school committee of Boston full power and control of the design, construction, erection and furnishing of all school buildings in that city. The bill incorporating the Boynton Bicycle Railway company with authority to operate a road between Boston and Lynn was ordered to a third reading by the house, as was the bill authorizing county commissioners to assess a portion of the expense of widening streets upon street railways occupying the same. Ought not to pass is reported on the bill for the licensing of theatrical entertainments by mayors and aldermen of cities. The judiciary committee reported to the house a bill to bring the collateral loan associations under the same general laws relating to pawnbrokers. The militia bill was engrossed. The finance committee reported an appropriation of $5000 to enable the commonwealth to be properly represented by the governor, lieutenant governor, members of the executive committee and legislature at the dedication of ceremonies to be held at Chickamauga and Chattanooga next September.

A Fighting Schoolmaster.

GLOUCESTER, May 4.—Daniel McLoud refused to go to school when sent by his mother. He was found on Washington street last evening by Principal Ireland of the Collins school. He promptly seized the recalcitrant youth and, after much difficulty, bore him to a neighboring grocery store, where a scuffle ensued, in which young McLoud got the worst of it. Mr. Ireland sent for the police, but they would not respond, and the boy was then allowed to go home.

Beaten Almost to Death.

NORTH ADAMS, May 4.—Edward Gay was found nearly murdered in a carriage on a lonely road on Florida mountain yesterday. His scalp was cut to the bone in several places and his body was a mass of bruises. The chances for his recovery are slight. He claims that he was attacked by two men with wagon stakes while on his way home. William Canyea and his son Peter are accused of committing the crime, and the police are looking for them.

An Exciting Rush.

NEW HAVEN, May 4.—A '96 flag was captured by the seniors at a ball game between '95 and '97 ball teams yesterday afternoon, in which '97 won. At last '95 surrendered the flag, and peace was restored.

Soldiers' Graves Desecrated.

AMESBURY, Mass., May 4.—Several iron markers, which were placed by E. P. Case of Too Much Work.

SACO, May 4.—At the session of the Methodist conference there was a spirited debate on the question of reducing the number of districts from three to two. The conference voted to refer the matter to the bishop and members of the conference. Bishop Bowman said he was not in favor of the reduction.

Difficulty in Worcester Mills.

WORCESTER, May 4.—Seven suits of attachments, aggregating $2100, were served on the Fox Sadinet mills yesterday by employes, who claim that the concern owes them back wages ranging from $6 to $70. The spinners and weavers have struck for a restoration of a 10 per cent cutdown made last fall.

Henry George Gets a Slice.

ALBION, N. Y., May 4.—The will of S. M. Burroughs, who died recently at Monte Carlo, has just been received here. He left $25,000 each to the John Parsons Presbyterian church and the Boxwood cemetery in Medina and $20,000 to Henry George, the single tax advocate.

Struck by Lightning.

IRONTON, O., May 4.—Chilton Woods, Ham Baselle and T. J. Boldman, during a storm, took shelter under a tree, which was struck by lightning and shattered into fragments. Woods was instantly killed, Baselle fatally injured and Boldman seriously shocked.

THE VOLUME OF TRADE

Continues to Show Improvement Despite the Labor Disturbances.

No Signs of Reduction In the Price of Leather.

Woolen Year Ends With the Lowest Prices Ever Recorded.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Bradstreet's says: The manifest improvement in many lines of general trade has resulted in an increase in the volume of business, notwithstanding the impending idleness of 9000 Rhode Island worsted mill operatives and many in other industrial lines.

Industrial unrest now takes the form of striking for higher wages. This week about 50,000 industrial employes, principally coal miners and cotton and woolen mill employes, have struck, and the tendency does not seem to be checked. About 3000 people are reported to have obtained higher wages without striking.

Dun's Review.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

Business begins May in better condition than at any other time since the breakdown in May, 1893. Smaller in volume than then, it is not now shrinking, but enlarging. The chief obstacle to a more complete recovery is the anxiety of many to pluck fruit before it is ripe.

Holders of some staples have lifted them so far as to prevent their marketing; consumption of materials in some branches is checked by advances which cannot be realized for finished products; workers in some industries are demanding wages that cannot be paid out of any business in sight. In spite of labor troubles and speculative excesses, the outlook brightens; money markets continue healthy, and with heavy sales of railway bonds abroad the deficiency in public revenue, $8,742,840 in April,

Causes No Apprehension.

The speculative fever grows more fierce, as is natural when business starts up with prices at extreme low points, but by lifting wheat 3 cents to 69 cents Atlantic exports have been checked, and, flour included, have been only 1,676,197 bushels, against 3,015,485 last year. The close was at 68¾ cents. Western receipts are now larger than a year ago, and, except in parts of some states, the promise for the next yield is excellent.

Enormous transactions in cotton have been followed by a decline from 7 to 6.81 cents, though peace in China was represented as insuring a greatly increased demand.

The rise in prices of cotton goods also continues.

The strike at New Castle, Pa., now over, stiffened bessemer pig iron so that $10.75 was quoted at Pittsburg, and the closing of a Wheeling mill stiffened billets, while southern makers have nominally advanced their price, though sales have been made here under $10 for No. 2. Additional contracts for structural works here and at Chicago, sales of 7000 rails at the east, a better demand for wire and its products and for plates and sheets are the encouraging features this week.

Another heavy decrease of 11,667 tons in the output of coke makes the shrinkage nearly 20 per cent in two weeks, and furnace is offered at $1.50.

Leather Away Up.

The remarkable rise in leather continues, and yet shipments of boots and shoes from Boston for April were slightly larger than two years ago or ever before, and most of the works have orders for three or four months' production at a material advance in prices. The chief embarrassment is uncertainty as to the future price of leather.

Wool at Bed Rock.

The woolen year ends with the lowest prices yet known, 104 quotations by Coates Bros. averaging 18.47 cents, against 15.32 last year and 22.70 two years ago. Large sales at such prices are natural, and in April 11,999,000 pounds domestic and 11,886,700 foreign were sold at the three chief markets, against 14,068,558 domestic and 7,775,300 foreign last year. Sales since Jan. 1 have been 92,967,915 pounds, against 88,856,350 in 1892 and less in 1893 and '94.

The demand for woolen goods does not improve, and many cancellations are reported, though sales of wool indicate large consumption.

The week's failures were 231 in the United States, against 238 last year.

Over the Border.

Bradstreet's says: There is improvement reported in trade circles from Toronto and Montreal, and prices of staples have advanced in a number of instances. Country stocks throughout the Dominion are said to be small, and the feeling is growing that the demand will continue to increase.

Trade is only fair in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, and bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregated $18,560,000.

There were 36 failures reported from the Dominion, against 32 last week.

Zelaya Cannot Afford to Delay.

LONDON, May 4.—The Times says: While the prospects of peace are good in Asia, we are within measurable distance of a reconciliation with Nicaragua. The Earl of Kimberley has shown himself to be an indulgent creditor. If President Zelaya sanctions the agreement, our ships will immediately leave Nicaraguan waters. As a revolution is said to be inevitable in Nicaragua, and as Corinto would be indispensable to the government if a revolution should break out, President Zelaya will probably hasten to comply with the British terms.

Cut into by Railroads.

BUFFALO, May 4.—Yesterday was the opening of the Erie canal. Usually there is a wild scramble of boats laden with freight to get away, and by breakfast time 150 or perhaps 200 boats would be under way for Lockport. Up to noon yesterday but four boats had cleared. This stagnation is said to be due to the low rates charged by the railroads for carrying grain.

RUNAWAY ON RAILROAD.

A Horse and Carriage Pass Three Depots on Old Colony.

There was considerable excitement in City Square last night over a [illegible] runaway. A horse attached to a [illegible] buggy in charge of Mr. Webster of Braintree was left standing a few moments in front of Mrs. Collins millinery store. The animal became frightened and breaking away started on the sidewalk toward City Hall. He passed between the telephone pole and Hearn's drug store, then turned up depot avenue, across the depot platform onto the tracks, when the animal started up the tracks toward Wollaston at a breakneck speed.

He left the Quincy depot at just eight o'clock followed by a crowd of men, but the men were unable to overtake him and the telegram not quick enough to intercept him. He succeeded in passing throught President's bridge with its culverts safely and continued on his mad career to Wollaston, passing the Wollaston station at 8.05. He encountered no trains in either direction and continued on by the Norfolk Downs depot. But a short distance beyond he became entangled in some wire and fell and the crowd were upon him before he could extricate himself. He was taken with his wreck to Lord's stable at Wollaston. If you have never seen a smashup you should view this carriage.

Accident to a Bicyclist.

Harold Faxon met with quite a serious accident Friday afternoon which will prevent him from riding his bicycle for some days. He was coming up Canal street from the direction of Houghs Neck, and just ahead of him was a carriage driven by William S. Williams. Just after crossing Washington street, Faxon attempted to pass the carriage when he collided with the rear wheel of the carriage which threw him off and started the horse. Before the animal could be stopped Faxon had been dragged nearly fifty feet. His clothes were badly torn and he was also severely cut about the head and his wheel was literally smashed. He was taken into the residence of Mr. Hardwick and a physician summoned, after which he was taken to his home.

NEW PRESIDENTS' HILL CLUB.

Preliminary Meeting Held at Adams Mansion, the Proposed Site.

The projectors of the new President's Hill club are much encouraged over the attendance and enthusiasm at a preliminary meeting held last evening. It was a beautiful moonlight evening, slightly warmer than the average of late, and it was a pleasure to climb the hill and enjoy from the verandas of the Adams mansion the gentle breezes and a grand view. It is a delightful spot night or day. On this occasion the lights of Boston were visible on the north, and to the east the harbor lights. One realized that a wide expanse of beautiful scenery was spread out before him, for many have enjoyed the view by daylight from the hill and envied the descendant of the Adamses.

Theophilus King Esq.,

Called the meeting to order and R. A. Sears was selected as secretary. The chairman said the gathering was to consider the advisability of forming a club. In one sense of the word he was not much of a club man, in another he was. On proper lines he believed a club would be socially and morally healthful. Nature has done everything for this place, and it was refreshing to take a view from here. This is a noble spot and wants only a noble club. Not only Quincy people but those who frequently drive through the city would delight to become members. The club should be organized on solid temperance principles with no liquors for sale and none brought upon or drank upon the premises. There should be no gambling, and no games on the Sabbath. If formed it should have a strong financial backing. With the mansion there were 85,000 feet of land, and the price for all was $20,000. A club could be made an ornament to the city.

Henry H. Faxon endorsed the views of the chairman. He desired that ladies should have the privileges of the house. Thought the annual cost of the club would be $8,000.

Russell A. Sears said it was proposed to form the club substantially on the line of the Newton club, and submitted these figures:

FIRST COST.

Cost of building and 87,000 feet land	$20,000
Additions and furnishings	5,000
	$25,000

FIXED CHARGES.

Interest on investment	$1,250
Insurance	150
Taxes	250
Lighting and heating	500
Service	600
	$2,750

ESTIMATED INCOME.

Membership fees, 100 at $25	$2,500
Bowling Alleys receipt	1,000
Billard and pool tables	500
	$4,000
Surplus	$1,250

Ex-Senator Merrill endorsed the club movement, saying it would be of benefit to the city in a business and a social way. Considered figures conservative and regarded $3,000 as ample for yearly expenses.

Dr. Welch, ex-Representative Cook of Weymouth, ex-Councilman Thompson, John W. Sanborn, ex-Councilman Moxon, Dr. Gordon, Dr. Hunting and others endorsed the movement, and letters were received from Councilman Bryant, B. H. Woodsum of Braintree, Col. Thomas of Weymouth, Judge Flint of Weymouth and others.

Some thought the estimate for bowling alleys was low and that the yearly expenses would be more rather than less, Mr. Faxon adhering tenaciously to his figures of $8,000.

Upon motion of City Treasurer Burgin a committee was appointed to canvass for memberships and investigate the prospects financially.

The committee: J. F. Merrill, T. King, R. A. Sears, Dr. Gordon, Clarence Burgin, S. O. Moxon, James Thompson, C. M. Bryant, B. L. Dyer, L. A. Cook, J. O. Hall, J. W. Sanborn, F. B. Rice, D. E. Wadsworth, L. S. Anderson, Charles Price.

TRIP TO PLYMOUTH.

A Grand Opportunity Which the Woodward Girls Enjoyed,

The Woodward Institute pupils, eighty-two in number, took a trip to Plymouth, Friday, going down by the South Shore train, and returning via Whitman.

On their arrival, they were met by former pupils of Miss Small and the party started forth to "do" the town. There were friends at every point, the editor of the Old Colony Memorial escorting them to Burial hill.

At noon the party boarded the special cars, provided by the daughter of Supt. Barnes of the street railway, and rode to the head of the beach. By the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Danforth the young people made their headquarters at the "Wigwam," as their summer cottage is called.

After lunch the girls roamed over the Chiltonville hills, and returned to the cottage with their hands full of the fragrant Mayflower; some of the younger girls learning that the delicate blossoms do not "grow on bushes."

After an hour spent in pleasure on the beach in sketching or resting on the broad piazzas, the special cars took them through town and to the railroad station. Here were gathered a group of young men who sped the parting guests with the Plymouth High school yell and foot ball cries, closing with a tribute to Woodward, as the train pulled out of the station.

At 6.40 Quincy was reached, and the rosy-faced girls parted with many expressions of gratitude to the principal for her care on the "lovely trip" to "the most beautiful place I ever saw."

The Late George Vinton.

The funeral services over the remains of Mr. George Vinton were held from his late home on the Quincy estate on Friday afternoon. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives. The services were conducted by the Rev. Preston Gurney of Wollaston and the Rev. Mr. Wilson of Neponset. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The singing was by a quartette. Wollaston lodge, K. of H., of which the deceased was a member attended the services. The body was interred at the Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Mr. Vinton had been a resident of Wollaston for twenty-six years, he having had charge of the farm on the Quincy estate for that length of time. He was a harness maker by trade, coming to Quincy from Milton. He first leased the old Dr. Duggan place on Squantum street, in 1866. He lived there until 1869, and, finding the place too small, he moved to the Quincy farm, succeeding Mr. Rice, who had for many years been the Quincy's foreman.

The farm consisted of upwards of 300 acres of land, including the marshes. Mr. Vinton in his first years of farming owned a large Boston milk route, but later he turned his entire attention to the raising of vegetables. Of late years he has lived in retirement. He was a member of Wollaston lodge, K. of H.

A widow and one daughter survive him.

Too Much of a Handicap.

The Wollaston Bowling Club's tournament for the championship silver cup was started on Friday evening at the Duck's Nest alleys.

In the following scores, Taylor gave Fairbanks a handicap of 18 pins on each string and Brock gave Briggs 22 on each string.

Thayer Academy.

Several girls will take the preliminary examinations for Harvard Annex this June.

The Weymouth Gazette has the following, relative to a former pupil at Thayer, class of '93:

By cable April 8th, and letters received, news has come that John Hermann Loud of this village has successfully passed the examinations of the Royal College of Music in London, England, and won the degree of A. R. C. M.,—Associate of the Royal College of Music.

Among his examiners were several eminent English organists:—Dr. Bridge, organist of Westminister Abbey, Sir Walter Parnett, organist of the Queen at Windsor, Dr. Martin, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral and Dr. Villiers Stanford of the College. Certificates of degrees are signed by the Prince of Wales as honorary president.

Mr. Loud's success is especially gratifying, since his foreign musical study has been in Berlin and Paris and he has only recently reached England. So far as is known, he is the second American who has taken this degree. He entered for these examinations by the suggestion and encouragement of his friend, Rev. Oliver Huckel, who writes enthusiastically of the result.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

One Kidney

may be diseased while the other may be healthy and doing the work of both—nature rebels, and the trouble is indicated by a pain in one side of the back and frequent inclination to pass urine. Kidney trouble may exist and not be indicated by the state of the urine, which remains clear. Constipation generally exists and the Backache may extend down the thigh. The diseased Kidney becomes inflamed and the waste matter which is retained promotes the growth of stones and gravel. If taken in the early stage, Buker's Kidney Pills will remove the stoppage, allay inflammation and help the Kidneys to perform their proper functions. Send for book on Kidney troubles—it's free. Pills cost 50 cents at the druggists.

The Art Poster Show.

The coming Poster Show which is to be held in the chapel of the Unitarian church, Quincy, for the benefit of the Quincy City Hospital, promises to be a great success from an artistic standpoint, and it is to be hoped also from a financial one. The collection which the committee propose to exhibit will have the distinction of being quite the best which has yet been shown in this country. It will contain notable examples of the work of the leading American, French and English artists. Cheret, Grasset, Steinlen, Lantree, Penfield, Carqueville, Hardy, Beardsley and many others will be represented.

Few things have been more hideous in times past than the display of posters on bill boards. But of late years the advance in artistic character has been very marked, an inevitable tendency to an appreciation of the importance of design in all departments of industrial production.

An exhibition of this kind must exert a a very material influence in teaching those who visit it to observe and take note of things as they go about the streets, and to give more weight to the artistic elements in objects of common utility.

Miss Irene Weir, a talented artist of Boston, has kindly volunteered to give an informal talk on posters next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. It will no doubt be interesting and we bespeak for her a hearty reception.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square season of summer opera opens Monday night, with a grand production of Hillocker's charming opera, "The Beggar Student." Unless all signs fail the management has planned for this summer season what will prove by far the most satisfactory and successful of any similar attempt in Boston. It is proposed to produce about 20 operas during this coming season, and a change of bill will be made each successive Monday evening. For these several changes of programme, though varied and numerous as they are, the management is providing for an elaborate scenic production of each opera, and of the costuming and casts will be equally well attended to.

Hollis Street Theatre.

Alexander Salvini will open his engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre next Monday evening, after a notably long absence from Boston. During the first week his repertoire will be confined to "Hamlet and The Three Guardsmen," the former being given on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and the latter piece on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening. "The Outlaw," the first production of which in English will be given during Mr. Salvini's engagement, is now in active preparation. The regular Wednesday matinees will be omitted.

Mr. J. B. Stetson, who committed suicide last week on the steamer Cleopatra, near Marseilles, was about 55 years of age. He commenced his musical education with the late J. A. Keller, formerly of Boston, under whom he studied many years and became very proficient as a performer on pianoforte of the works of Mozart. In the year 1871 he became a member of the Royal Academy of Music, in London. Several years later he returned to this country and deeply interested himself in the study of vocal culture, being an enthusiastic exponent of the Streeter method. He practised his profession at the corner of Washington and Bedford streets, and was for a long time a member of the Apollo Club. He took a great interest in the musical affairs of this city.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

HOW CHRISTY PAID A DEBT.

The Minstrel's Generosity to a Man Who Had Befriended Him.

The head of the famous Christy minstrel troop was not George, but E. P. Christy, who originated the company some time back in the forties, and the following story of the latter is interesting:

Christy, then a young man, was a passenger on a Lake Erie steamboat commanded by Captain Folger and bound to Buffalo, where the first show was to come off. But the minstrel had not even a dollar to invest in the hire of a cellar for the performance. Captain Folger, to whom he made known his wants, generously handed him a $20 bill, telling him that he was welcome to it, and that he need not trouble himself about paying it back. On the strength of this $20 Christy began business and in a few years became successful and rich.

In the meantime misfortunes overtook Captain Folger. Losing his employment on the lakes, he resolved to try again the salt water, on which he was brought up. So he came to New York to see if he could obtain a situation as master or, failing that, as mate of a seafaring vessel.

He bethought himself of Christy, whom he supposed might possibly know some shipowner to whom he could recommend him. The minstrel received him most cordially, but told him that he had no acquaintances in that line of business.

"Why don't you buy a ship?" he asked.

"Buy a ship!" answered Folger. "Why, I haven't a dollar in the world. All I want is employment."

"See here," returned Christy, "how much would a vessel cost?"

"Any price," replied the Captain. "A pretty good one could be bought for, say, $20,000 or less."

"Well, now," exclaimed the big hearted showman, "you loaned me $20 once, and I am ashamed to say I have forgotten to pay it, but I will pay my debt now. Go and buy a $20,000 ship and send the seller to me for the money. I will own her, and you shall sail her. If she makes anything, you shall have it. If she don't, I shall stand the loss."

This is the conversation, word for word, as Captain Folger told it to me. I had just returned from an East Indian voyage in the Vandalia, a ship of about 400 tons. One day Captain Folger came on board at the dock and introduced himself. He said he would like to buy the ship and asked the price. It so happened that $20,000 was the sum I had decided upon. After a little dickering he offered me $18,000, and I accepted it.

To my astonishment, he referred me to E. P. Christy as the purchaser, and then he told me the story as I tell it. We went together to see Christy, and the result of the interview was that I gave him a bill of sale of the Vandalia, taking his note in payment, the note to be paid in installments, and every morning after one of his entertainments I called upon him and received a hatful of bills, quarters, shillings and sixpences until the indebtedness was canceled.

Captain Folger made a successful voyage to California in the Vandalia. The ship was then sold, and Christy bought a larger and more expensive ship, on board of which Captain Folger eventually died at Calcutta.—John Codman in the New York Herald.

ADVICE TO DEMOCRATS

Endorsement of Free Silver Means a Republican March to Power.

Doctrine of Sound Money the Only Safe Course.

The President's Feeling Toward Democratic Traducers of the Administration.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, April 26.

Hon. J. M. Stone, Governor:

MY DEAR SIR—Your letter of the 21st inst. is at hand. I do not feel inclined to find fault with your criticism, but I think the matters you refer to should be judged in the light of the circumstances existing at the time the things were done. I never had an idea of building up or fostering a personal feeling, but so far as politics should properly influence me in making appointments, I have tried to be democratic and not proscriptive.

I am glad you are frank enough to admit your participation in bringing about a condition in office-holding which may not be all that could now be desired. Whether those appointed to places shall in speech and action behave decently toward the administration under which they hold office must remain, to a large extent, a matter of taste and good breeding.

There are, however, some officials who devote themselves so industriously to vilification and abuse of those under whom they hold office as to indicate that their fidelity cannot be trusted for the performance of their duties in a manner creditable to the administration, and who apparently assume they may spend the time they owe to the public service in doing political mischief. In the interest of good government such officeholders must not be surprised if they are Summarily Dealt With.

When I received your letter I had just finished reading a letter of yours, in which you explain to the citizens of Mississippi your views on the currency question. It seems to me you have in that letter contributed in the best possible style and in a most valuable way to the fund of argument in favor of sound money. I have never ceased to wonder why the people of the south, furnishing so largely as they do products which are exported for gold, should be willing to submit to the disadvantages and loss of silver monometalism and to content themselves with a depreciated and fluctuating currency while permitting others to reap a profit from the transmutation of the prices of their productions from silver to gold.

I hope this letter of yours will be given the widest possible circulation, especially among our southern fellow-citizens, and that they will be permitted to see the pitfall which is directly before them who madly rush toward the phantom light of free, unlimited and independent silver coinage.

If we, who profess fealty to the Democratic party, are sincere in our devotion to its principles, and if we are right in believing that the ascendency of those principles is a guarantee of personal liberty, universal care for the rights of all, non-sectional, American brotherhood and manly trust in American citizenship in any part of our land, we should study the effect upon our party, and consequently upon our country, of a committal of the national Democracy to

The Silver Aberration.

If there are Democrats who suppose that our party cannot stand on a platform embodying such doctrines, either through its affirmative strength or through the perplexity of our opponents on the same proposition, or if there are Democrats who are willing to turn their backs upon their party associations in the hope that free and unlimited and independent coinage of silver can win a victory without the aid of either party organization, they should deceive themselves no longer, nor longer refuse to face the results that will follow the defeat, if not the disintegration, of the Democratic party upon the issue which tempts them from their allegiance.

If we should be forced away from all our traditionals doctrine of sound, safe money, our old antagonist will take the field on the platform which we abandon, and neither the votes of reckless Democrats nor reckless Republicans will avail to stay their easy march to power. This is as plain as anything can possibly be.

It, therefore, becomes the duty of every Democrat, wherever he may be, to consider what such a victory would mean, and, in the light of a proper conception of its results, he should deliberately shape his course.

Very truly yours,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

Hungarian Cabinet Crisis Imminent.

VIENNA, May 4.—A cabinet crisis in Hungary is imminent, growing out of the papal nuncio's denunciation of the ecclesiastical bills. The Politische Correspondenze declares that the recent statements of Prime Minister Banffy about the papal nuncio's visit to Hungary has created great surprise in the foreign office, and adds that they can only be ascribed to Baron Banffy's ignorance of diplomatic usages.

Sheboygan Industries Crippled.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 4.—As a result of Thursday evening's labor meetings, the employes at the Crocker Chair company's and the Sheboygan Chair company's factories and a part of the Phœnix Chair company's men walked out yesterday, and there are now about 3000 men idle in the city.

Chronicle Takes Exceptions.

LONDON, May 4.—The Chronicle says: The Cuban insurgents have received the sympathy of the New York legislature, which might be more usefully employed in looking after matters nearer home, especially as the Cuban vote in New York is an unimportant factor.

Puddlers Want More Pay.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—A strike will be declared at the Oliver Iron and Steel company's works tonight unless a demand for $4 a ton is granted the puddlers. The puddlers at Lockhart's mill are also on strike for the same raise, and the mill is closed down.

Rebel Chiefs Surrendering.

HAVANA, May 4.—The government forces at Guantanamo have captured Colonel Patricio Corona, one of the rebel leaders. It is rumored that Juan Vega, another insurgent chief, has surrendered. Aramburo, a rebel chief, has surrendered at Manzanilla.

Prepared to Fight.

ROLLA, N. D., May 4.—Four hundred Indians are in camp three miles north of here, prepared to resist arrest. During the night, they descended on Trader Brooks' store and helped themselves to ammunition and firearms.

A Bore to Frenchmen.

PARIS, May 4.—The Russian alliance is now found here to be a bore. Nobody cares for the independence of Corea, and everyone would be better pleased if Japan should have it than either Russia or China.

Not Due to Tainted Meat.

PARIS, May 4.—The alarming epidemic among the Vitre garrison, which was ascribed to American canned meats, proves to be spino-cerebral fever, from blood poisoning, caused by drainage.

BUILDINGS OBLITERATED.

Lives of Five Employes of a Powder Manufacturing Concern Sacrificed.

ACTON, Mass., May 4.—Three of the buildings belonging to the plant of the American Powder company were blown up yesterday forenoon, and five of the employes perished. The property destroyed consisted of two kernelling mills and one press mill.

The victims of the disaster were Nelson Morton, aged 55, who leaves a widow and four children; Fred Winslow, '35, who leaves a widow and one son; Albert Esty, 50, who is survived by a widow and six young children; Charles Esty, 40, who leaves a mother, and Charles O'Neill, Jr., 30, single. The bodies of Morton and Winslow were found about 500 feet from the mill. The remains of the others cannot be found and they were probably blown to atoms.

The property loss by the explosion is about $15,000. The buildings were small, cheap affairs, built with a view to the dangers of the business. The detonations of the explosions were heard throughout the surrounding country for many miles and created great consternation.

Germany Claims Great Credit.

BERLIN, May 4.—In connection with Germany's change of front in regard to Japan and China, it appears to have been much more clever than was at first thought. Germany has really rendered a service to European peace. The government knew that Russia would never accept the treaty of Shimonoseki, and that France would support Russia's every step. The Franco-Russian relations would thus have become so intimate that a form of alliance between the two countries would have approached realization. Germany has prevented this alliance, which would not have confined itself to Eastern affairs.

IRISHMEN IN AMERICA

Express Their Determination to Take Up the Cause of Their Native Land.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The inauguration of a new movement for the holding of an Irish convention in one of the large central cities of the Union at an early date has been widely discussed among Irishmen in this city. The decision arrived at is the result of the deliberations of prominent Irishmen of various schools of political thought who have come to the conclusion that the time has arrived to adopt a new and bolder policy than that of passive resistance in the interest of Irish national independence.

John P. Sutton, secretary of the National League of America, when asked in relation to the new movement, said: "We of the Irish race in America have known for some time past that the present condition of the Irish movement has been a source of disappointment and shame to our expatriated kin.

"From one end of the Union to the other there is a unanimous feeling among men associated with the Irish cause that as a means to the achievement of Irish independence, parliamentarism has been fully tried and found wanting. They found it was a hopeless cause, and believed the time has come, when, in the interest of Ireland, the dearest associations of youth and the generous aspirations of early manhood should be thrown aside as dead garlands and withered hopes. Peace and honor had beckoned many of them from affiliation with Irish affairs in the hope that the constitutional movement would result in the granting of home rule.

"An agitation at home and a physical development of a possible fighting force abroad will impress English statesmen more deeply than wordy warfare on the floor of the British house of commons. Complications may arise any day, involving perhaps all the great European powers. In such an event, England will be more inclined to listen to the demands of a disaffected Ireland and to an organized hostile Irish race.

"It is not at all beyond the bounds of probability that England would find it to her advantage to yield to the new development of Irish force, as she did of old to the force behind Henry Grattan."

PARTNER IS MISSING.

Had Been Connected With Cotton Brokers' House For Eighteen Years.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Shortly before the Cotton Exchange closed yesterday afternoon the president announced that the firm of A. N. Selter & Co., cotton brokers, requested all parties having contracts with them to turn them into the firm's office, in the Cotton Exchange building, so that they could be examined and compared with the firm's books. This announcement caused considerable excitement, and vague rumors were soon in circulation.

The firm was formerly known as Chapman & Selter, and some 18 years ago John Boyle was employed by them as an office boy. Step by step the firm advanced him until five years ago, when the firm separated. A. M. Selter took Boyle in as a partner, with power to sign checks, but not notes, nor was he allowed to incur debts of any kind on the firm's account.

George A. Chapman, the former partner of Mr. Selter, met the reporters and said: "Mr. Selter feels this matter very deeply, although it will not embarrass him financially. The truth is that Boyle, his partner, drew a check on the Corn Exchange bank for $25,000 and another on the Merchants' National bank for $5000, as well as some smaller checks to the amount of $2000, and is now missing. He had the checks certified before noon Thursday, and as we learned later he purchased from Whann & Schlesinger $30,000 worth of United States fours, new series bonds, which were procured through Harvey Fisk Sons. Since then we have not heard anything of him."

Perhaps Half a Hundred Victims.

A number of bodies have already been recovered, although the exact number cannot be learned. Everyone in the vicinity is excited and definite accounts cannot be obtained. The wires are all down. The railroad tracks are washed out and the wagon roads cannot safely be traveled, owing to the manner in which they were gullied by the rain.

Must Obey Our Laws.

TAMPA, Fla., May 4.—Thursday evening the Spanish warship Infanta Isabella steamed past the quarantine station at Mullet Key without paying any attention to the quarantine laws and anchored for the night, yesterday morning. Dr. Rehemehdia of the board of health informed Commander Duenas that before proceeding the ship would have to be fumigated and detained at least five days. The man-of-war presented a clean bill of health, but Dr. Rehemehdia had no alternative but the enforcement of the law.

Will Still Collect His Little Pile.

LONDON, May 4.—In the house of commons, a motion to annul the annuity of £10,000, paid by Great Britain to the Duke of Edinburgh, second son of the queen, was defeated by 193 to 72. BOYS' GHASTLY FIND.

Came Across a Human Skeleton While Searching For Mayflowers.

Neither Flesh Nor Clothing Left to Identify It.

A Mystery Which the Police of Biddeford Will Try to Unravel.

BIDDEFORD, May 6.—A human skeleton was found yesterday afternoon in the woods near the Andrews granite quarry, about two miles from the center of the city.

Two boys who were picking Mayflowers scared up a rabbit, and chasing him to the swamp, came across the skull.

Removing the leaves and grass, they uncovered the complete skeleton of a man, apparently of middle age and medium stature. The bones were covered by neither flesh nor clothing, but the feet were incased in a pair of No. 6 lace shoes in a state of partial preservation. The legs were crossed and the Skull Lay on the Chest.

The boys notified Deputy Marshal Morgan of their discovery. In company with an officer he drove down late in the afternoon. It was then too dark to admit of a thorough examination of the locality.

The skeleton lay beneath a small pine tree. On an overhanging branch they found a remnant of a colored cotton handkerchief, twisted as if it had been used as a rope.

The supposition is that the bones are those of a suicide, and that the handkerchief played an important part in his self-execution. Further investigation will be made by City Marshal Harmon and Coroner Warren.

The preservation of the piece of handkerchief, when not a vestige of the clothing remains, leads some of the officers to suspect that the body was placed there

After Being Stripped.

The skeleton lies within 30 feet of a well-trodden path, leading to a spring where blueberry pickers and Maying parties are accustomed to slake their thirst. It seems strange that a human body could lie there long enough to decay without atttracting the attention of some passersby.

Two men have disappeared from here of late years and never returned. One was David Barnett, a colored Saco hermit, who was first missed a year ago last fall.

The other, Frank Lewis, was a Biddeford mill operative, about 50 years of age, whose mind became unbalanced five years ago, and he wandered away from home. Diligent but fruitless search was made for him.

PROBLEM IN THEOLOGY

Dr. Newton Gives His Views on the Resurrection of Man.

Life to Come Will Not Be a Bodiless Existence.

The Nucleus of the After Body Lies Within the Outer Fleshly Body.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Our resurrection, in the light of the resurrection of Jesus, was the subject of Rev. Dr. Newton's sermon yesterday.

During the course of his sermon Dr. Newton said: "If we rightly read the story of the resurrection of Jesus Christ, we shall see in it a type of every other resurrection that is to follow. We are constrained to think in some way about the resurrection of life if we are to believe in it at all. Such thoughts as we can form seem to me to be illumined from stories of the risen Jesus.

"The life to come cannot be a bodiless existence. Nature knows no bodiless existence; everything that lives clothes itself in some form or other, more or less fine matter composing these forms, but matter of some sort or other, there is clothing for everything living. We may be sure that the dead, living still, live not merely in some disembodied existence—they have bodies of their own, though our eyes may not ordinarily see them. That is clear in the story of the risen Jesus.

"The body that shall be, will not be some wholly new body, else the continuity of life will be broken. It is an absolute necessity that in the life beyond personal identity shall continue. That means in some way or another there shall be a continuance of that which is truly vital and essential in our present existence.

"I have never cared to discuss the question whether we shall know each other in that heavenly life—that is a necessity in my mind if there is to be a continued personal identity. If this be true, then there must be something within these outer fleshy bodies, which is, as it were, the germ and nucleus of that after body; something which holds these bodies which we see and which continues our identity here, notwithstanding their constant Changes of Material.

"Every seven years the material of the body is completely renewed," he continued, "and yet there is something which holds this constant flux of matter in a perpetual identity of form. That something which stamps this fluent matter with form, and so maintains its identity, that must be the finer form, vital and essential substance of our bodies. This is that to which Paul referred when he said: 'There is a physical body and there is a spiritual body.' He does not say there is to be a spiritual body, but there is now and here within us each a spiritual body.

"This inner, finer form of our bodies, found new and here in the flesh, holds the secret of its future marvelous powers, occasionally transfiguring the other form within and lifting it above the laws which ordinarily enslave that outer body. Its powers burst forth under right conditions, and we have hints as to the nature of that body that shall be. These hints we find in the mystic experiences of mentality, the occult phenomena, the residuum of which are undoubtedly facts, so far as I can see, after all allowance is made for fraud and deception.

"The mysteries of clairvoyance, telepathy or mind reading—these and other well authenticated powers of men are not powers of the outer body, but are the powers of some inner organization transformed by the mind. This again we see illumined in the Stories of the Risen Jesus.

"The powers of his resurrection body were wholly beyond the capacities of the body of the flesh, and we know it; but they were the developments of the powers of that inner organization whose action in his earthly life we call miracles.

"At the touch of death, the outer fleshy body falls away and the spiritual body is freed for a new life. It may draw around itself from the body which it leaves, or from the spiritual elements in the encompassing ether elements of a new and finer material body; or, in a way which we cannot even dream of, being 'clothed upon' may accomplish itself.

"At the moment of death, so it seems to me, the spirit passes out of its earthly house in the 'house not made with hands,' eternal in the heavens. Every death is a resurrection. From every supulchre the stone is already rolled away. This again I think we see in the stories of the risen Jesus."

Faith In De Campos.

MADRID, May 6.—General Callega, formerly captain general of Cuba, has arrived here from Havana. In an interview, he stated that he was powerless to prevent the rising in the eastern end of the island, owing to the want of organized troops and the scarcity of war material. He added that he believed that De Campos would speedily pacify the island. The poverty prevailing in Cuba, he declared, had forced many starving men to join the rebels.

Insurance Cuts a Figure.

CHICAGO, May 6.—Mrs. Laura O'Neil is accused by her husband with having poisoned her two children—Anna, aged 8, and Laura, aged 15. The police and the coroner have not yet discovered evidence sufficient to warrant the arrest of Mrs. O'Neil. The two girls were insured, and the insurance company has been notified by O'Neil not to pay the policies until an investigation can be made.

Free Coinage Sentiment.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 6.—County conventions were held Saturday to elect delegates to attend the state Democratic convention called to meet here for the purpose of discussing the silver question. Conventions in Catherine county, Edgar county and Hamilton county adopted resolutions favoring the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

An Extraordinary Assessment on Quincy for Water.

THINK OF IT, $25,200 ANNUALLY

Newton to Escape for $6,800, Waltham for $3,800.

Is it not about time for the Mayor or City Council to show their hand on the Metropolitan water bill?

To remonstrate against the unequal assessments contemplated in the bill reported in the House last week?

Quincy should not pay an average net annual assessment of $25,200 that the city of Boston may have an adequate water supply!

It should not pay more than Waltham!

It should not pay four times as much as Brookline, or three times as much as Newton!

It should not pay over twice as much as Woburn!

It should not pay five-sixths of what Chelsea with a population of 27,850 in 1890 is assessed!

Study these figures and compare them. Under the Metropolitan water bill reported, the city of Boston is to pay an average net annual assessment of $1,166,300 for forty years, and the other cities as follows:

	Proposed Assessments.	Population in 1890.
Quincy	$25,200	16,723
Waltham	3,880	18,707
Woburn	10,850	13,499
Brookline	6,000	12,103
Somerville	58,300	40,152
Chelsea	30,700	27,909
Newton	6,800	24,379
Malden	33,500	23,031
Medford	18,700	11,079
Everett	20,800	11,068
Hyde Park	12,800	10,193
Melrose	13,600	8,519
Watertown	9,090	7,073
Wakefield	5,940	6,982
Stoneham	6,770	6,155
Revere	9,490	5,668
Arlington	8,290	5,629
Milton	12,500	4,278
Winthrop	5,250	2,726
Belmont	3,840	2,098

The bill has been referred to the committee on expenditures.

Should not the city Council urge our Representatives and Senators to look out for Quincy before the bill passes?

Queer Work of Lightning.

People whose houses and stores are illuminated by electricity had their wits frightened out of them Saturday night during the storm, as the lights were all suddenly extinguished. In some places the lightning followed the wires into houses where it exploded with a loud report and in an instant all was darkness. Some thought the world had come to an end.

And then the rain came down in torrents and it seemed as though the flood gates of heaven had been opened and let the water out with a rush, for miniature rivers were almost instantly formed in the streets and sidewalks, that were but a few hours before dry and thick with dust.

Fortunately the storm did not last a great while, and only one place, as far as known was struck in Quincy.

During the heaviest of the storm Saturday night, the house of Henry Chubbuck on Elm place was struck by lightning and quite a little damage done. Fortunately at the time Mr. and Mrs. Chubbuck were seated in the kitchen. The bolt came down the lightning rod to where the two pieces of the rod join under a glass insulator, when it entered the house and followed a gilt picture moulding, burning off the gilt. It then struck a picture, burning off the gilt cord and sped downward, melting a looking glass. It then went through the floor and followed the water pipe.

When the bolt struck the floor it tore an oil matting under the stove and threw pieces of it all over the room, one small piece landing on the top of a door casing. The room was filled with smoke and the lights were extinguished, and the gilt moulding all over the room was discolored, and there were several holes in the wall back of the stove.

A few minutes before the house was struck Mr. Chubbuck stood almost over the spot where the bolt went through the floor and his escape was a narrow one.

The pest house off Sea street was struck by lightning Saturday night, the bolt entering through the roof and going out the window.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

BANQUET TO EMPLOYES.

John R. Graham Celebrates Completion of 50,000 Pairs of Shoes.

Seldom is it that a more industrious lot of men are gathered than those seated around the festive board at The Greenleaf Saturday evening. They were the men employed in the shoe manufactory of John R. Graham, and many of them had been in his employ nearly the whole of the 26 years that he has been in business, and had grown gray and bald-headed.

The occasion which brought these men together was a notable one, for it was in honor of the completion of the 50,000 pairs of custom shoes and if that was not honor enough, it is worthy of mention that during all these 26 years, when many of the different branches of industry throughout the country have suffered from labor troubles, no thought of trouble of that kind has entered here.

This is due to the sturdy character of the men employed and to Mr. Graham himself who has always been ready to meet his men more than half way, and has treated them as men and not as slaves. No better illustration of this can be found than the utterances of Mr. Oxford, who said he went to work for Mr. Graham the day he landed in this country, and had worked under Mr. Graham ever since; he had married under him; had built a house under him and with his aid, had raised a family of children under him, and in fact he might say, had done everything under him.

It was nearly 9 o'clock before the party were seated at the tables and as they commenced the first course the thunder pealed forth, the lightning flashed and the rain came down in torrents, but that did not interfere with the festivities, nor did the matter of the electric lights going out and leaving them in darkness. Such minor trifles as those were no barrier to their enjoyment.

Mr. William Cratherne was introduced as chairman, as he was the oldest employe present.

John R. Graham, the host, was the first speaker. Mr. Graham briefly stated why the gathering was held, and then he gave a brief outline of his career as a shoemaker. How he would make the shoes and do his own expressing and that many of his first customers he held today. He never discharged a man unless he was obliged to and he made it a rule to keep men employed during the whole year. He used them as he would use himself and helped when in trouble. He made the same style of shoe today as 20 years ago, and the same style of toe he could find everywhere from the state of Maine to the Golden Gate. His style of shoes had been adopted all over the country. The curse of shoe business today is a cheap shoe. We keep the standard and all manufacturers look up to us, but they can not make the kind of shoes we do. The modern way of making shoes is by machinery which breaks the constitution of the men, and the men thus employed are no such men as you see here. In closing, Mr. Graham got witty, and referred to Mr. Sullivan who came to his shop 20 years ago as a good looking young man. He was a good looking man still but a little older now. The 50,000th pair of custom shoes, which will be worn by Mr. W. S. B. Hopkins of Worcester, were then exhibited and their health was drank in aqua pura.

Mr. Graham was not the only speaker by any means, for brief remarks were made by many of the workmen and guests, among whom were David Hinman, James T. Penniman, John A. Duggan, John A. Avery, Murtagh Moynihan, James Collins, James Foy, Thomas H. McDonnell, Edward Edison Norton, Samuel Oxford, John Mundy and others.

Those present according to the hotel register were:

MILTON

It is now almost settled that a mission of the Episcopal denomination will be formed at East Milton. The committee who have the matter in charge have made a canvass of the town and have ascertained that there are over fifty families of that creed numbering 150 persons. Several meetings have been held and another meeting has been called for this week at Ellsworth hall when the final organization will be made. Ellsworth hall has been engaged and services will be held there for the present and will be in charge of Rev. Walter R. Breed of Quincy.

Art in Posters.

It may be well to make an explanation of the real significance of a poster show to those who imagine it to be a mere collection of ordinary bill posters. The well known and commonplace bill poster seen about our streets is not of sufficient interest from an artistic standpoint to make an exhibition of such work serve any desirable purpose. Within a few years, however, the poster has developed from crude and mechanical show bills into decorative designs of unique beauty and vigor. While they answer their primary purpose even more effectively than the unattractive ones of the past, they are also of true benefit to the public, in keeping constantly before it works of true artistic worth and thus serving as a valuable educational factor.

The exhibition to be held in the Unitarian chapel this week answers the double purpose of providing needed funds for the Quincy City Hospital at the same time that it directs attention to the wonderful work of the French in this peculiar branch of art and to the progress that our own designers are making.

Mr. W. H. Downs, the art critic of the Boston Transcript, speaks very highly of the Quincy exhibit and we quote the following from his article on "Art Posters" in last Saturday's issue: "Exhibition of posters have now been held in this country in many places during the past winter (in the Union League Club, New York; in the Public Library at Brookline; in the Cowles Art School, Boston; at the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn; at Chicago; at Buffalo and elsewhere,) and the interest has increased rather than fallen off; but the most complete, representatives and important exhibition of art posters ever yet held in the United States will be opened in Quincy, Mass., next Tuesday. Until one has seen this collection of posters no adequate idea of the measure of serious art which has been put into this form of advertising can be obtained. There is far more art in a good example of the poster work of such a man as Steinlen than in half of the oil paintings that hang in the parlors of wealthy people."

Tickets may be had at Mr. Holden's store.

Lowest Rate in Braintree.

The last annual report of the Massachusetts gas and electric light commission contains much information concerning the progress of municipal lighting in this state. The report says that ten towns were supplying light from public plants; two of them both gas and electricity, the others from electric plants only. The towns supplying both gas and electricity are Wakefield and Middleboro; the towns supplying electricity only are Braintree, Danvers, Hingham, Marblehead, North Attleboro, Needham, Peabody and Wellesley.

Besides these towns Reading has a new plant nearly completed, and Hull has purchased the plant of the local company. The city of Chicopee has also voted to establish its own plant. Needham and Wellesley have distributing plants for street lighting only, purchasing their electricity from private companies. All the other towns, with the exception of Danvers, do commercial lighting. The lowest rate for commercial lighting is that of Braintree, which charges only 6 mills an hour for 16-candle power lamps.

CLIMATE ALONE

will not cure Consumption. It will help; but the disease must have systematic treatment. The germs which produce it must be destroyed. The havoc wrought in the lungs must be repaired; their injured surfaces healed. Change of climate will not do this. It will simply increase the supply of oxygen, and leave nature to struggle on for years with the disease.

Ozomulsion

TRADE MARK.

does better than this. It cures quickly and permanently. It is made of Ozone, Cod Liver Oil and Guaiacol. The Ozone supplies the needed oxygen, and with the Guaiacol destroys the poisonous germs which cause the disease. The Cod Liver Oil is for the purpose of nutrition only. It doesn't kill germs. It doesn't make appetite—in fact, it unmakes it. It is simply a flesh-maker, a tissue-builder. That's the truth—my physician will tell you so.

OZOMULSION is for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, the after affects of Pneumonia and La Grippe and all Pulmonary Complaints; Scrofula, General Debility, Loss of Flesh, Anæmia, and all Wasting Diseases.

Wollaston Dances.

The altar society of the Unitarian church gave two very successful dancing parties at the K. of H. hall, Wollaston, on Saturday afternoon and evening. The afternoon party was especially for young people. Several Chelsea young ladies came out and danced a few fancy dances, including the Highland Fling, straight jig, and the French and serpentine dances. The evening party was a pretty affair, the sombre suits of the young gentlemen relieved by the bright colored gowns of the young ladies made a very attractive picture.

At Shorter Range.

There was a large attendance at the Wollaston Trap club's shoot on Saturday afternoon. The new five trap system gives great satisfaction. The range has been changed from 70 to 80 yards to the regulation one of 50 yards. Higher scores may now be looked for. Whitman was high man this week with 21 birds, and George Elcock was second with 20.

RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Rev. Mr. Bryant Would Restore Home Life and Its Safeguards.

COLLECTIONS FOR JUBILEE.

Sunday School Concert and Lighthouse Service at West Quincy.

"The Integrity versus the Detractions of the Home Life" was the theme of Rev. A. E. Bryant at the Centre Congregational church, Sunday morning; text, Luke 2:51 and 52—Jesus home life at Nazareth. In opening he said, there is a growing conviction that in the modern conduct of life the home is losing its former importance. We are warned that current social changes are diminishing its prerogatives and influence. The charge is very serious, and if true demands earnest attention. We cannot hope to impair the integrity of home life and still preserve the virtues which it fosters. The home life is paramount importance in developing and preserving right character. It is the place for moral culture, for mental discipline, and to inculcate and conserve a healthy religious faith. Some of the characteristics of modern life which detract from home influence are the apartment houses, the tenement house life, hotel life, and the boarding house life. The tendency to seek recreation and entertainment in public is growing among our better classes. Home reading, home study, home music and games, home conversation, are becoming things of the past in many families. Modern high society life, that rapid imitation of the Old World folly and idleness, breaks down the home. It calls the older members of the household away; it invades the peace even of the children; it destroys the relish for home life. Time, money, thought and heart are dissipated under its glare and glitter. But its worst influence is upon the mothers and the daughters. It is simply impossible for them to be involved in society life and fulfil at the same time God-given obligations to the home. Its practices consume life without an aquivalent; its sentiments are hollow; its affections deceitful; and its hopes ashes. Passing by saloon and the club, "those potent foes of the home," he called attention to the emphasis that is now laid upon public religious services and activities, and queried if we are not losing sight of the more thoughtful, private work and study of the Christian life. The duty of the hour is to restore the home and build up its safeguards.

At the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. Preston Gurney preached a very earnest and impressive sermon on "Openings," taking his text from Acts 12:10. At the close of the discourse the hand of fellowship was extended to several new members.

Sunday evening the M. E. Sunday School of West Quincy repeated the "Building of the Light House," Mr. J. Shackley, superintendent, leading in the responsive readings, and calling the programme. Mr. Charles Goucher leading the singing of the choir, and Mr. E. H. Virgin putting the several blocks of the Light House in position; marked as follows: "For Seamen," "To give Light," "To save Life." The coverings removed, a light at the top showed the word "Jesus" brightly, and the other blocks read: "The Life" "And Light of Men," all resting on the foundation of six blocks marked "Christ," the whole making a striking and instructive exercise.

Collections were taken in the Catholic churches of Quincy Sunday for the golden jubilee of Archbishop Williams which occurs May 16.

The Rev. L. H. Angier of Boston occupied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church both morning and evening on Sunday. "Never man spake like this man," John 12:46, were the words from which the veteran divine delivered an instructive discourse on practical Christianity. His subject in the evening was "The Gospel of Song."

The meeting of the Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church on Wednesday evening, will take the form of a thank offering service. All friends of the society are cordially invited to be present.

Sunday morning at West Quincy Methodist church the pastor spoke on the words, "Son, be of good cheer, thy sins be forgiven thee," Matt. 9:2. Showing the freeness with which pardon and peace are bestowed, some signs of pardon were mentioned whereby one may be as safe as though he heard the Saviour say in the words of Scripture, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." It is the same voice that stilled the waves, multiplied the elements so that after thousands were fed the fragments taken up exceeded the original, that raised the dead giving back to the mother the son brought from death to life. Sin is pardoned when its guilt is seriously felt, and certainly when felt and forsaken.

At the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. C. A. Parker preached from Isaiah 40:31, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles." Words with clear ring from the old Hebrew prophet, Isaiah, seemed to live in the gospel light. He endeavored to lead the people up to high spiritual living. This he attempted by bringing to the minds of the people exalted conceptions of God as a kind father, a loving friend, a mighty ruler, and they who placed themselves along side this wonderful character received of His strength. The text falls into two parts. I, What it implies "Waiting on God." II, "Receiving from God," as a result of waiting on Him, we receive from Him strength and that renewed, and our strength increases as our waiting on God continues faithful.

Rev. Ellery Channing Butler occupied the pulpit at the First church Sunday morning and preached one of his interesting and instructive sermons. A pleasing feature at this church is the flowers which adorn the front of the pulpit which are supplied by the flower committee. The music was up to its usual standard of excellency.

"Grand Opportunities for Young Men" was the subject of a talk at the Y. M. C. A. by Mr. H. A. Rideout of Waltham. He said that he had noticed that in all associations the work always fell upon a few persons, who were already burdened. No institution is capable of reaching so many boys and young men as the association, and every Christian young man ought to wake up to the opportunities for usefulness which the association affords. Next Sunday Mr. J. Edwin Taylor, an aggressive Christian worker of Boston, will speak. His subject will be "The Blood." The interest in Bible study is one of the hopeful and interesting features of association work at present.

Arrested for Theft.

Some few weeks ago a man, who was recognized as William C. Lord of Hyde Park, walked into the house of Charles R. Greenerd at Norfolk Downs and stole a pair of gold bowed spectacles valued at $10. The theft was a bold one as it was committed in broad daylight and the lady of the house was in another room and a child who saw him enter recognized him as she formerly lived at Hyde Park. A warrant was issued and efforts were make to apprehend Lord but he had succeeded in keeping out of the way until Sunday night when he was arrested by Hyde Park officer.

Upon receiving word of the arrest officer McKay took the first train this morning and brought the prisoner to Quincy where he was arraigned in court.

FIFTEEN TO NINE.

Adams Academy Defeats South Quincys—a Lively Game at Park.

The crowd who attended the ball game at the park Saturday afternoon, were treated to a good game of ball. The game was played with snap. The batting on both sides was heavy. Holden's home run with the bases full was the batting feature of the afternoon.

In fielding the general team work of the Academy nine showed great improvement. The men were more ready to take chances. Manning caught a splendid game. In the in-field some changes were made. Mr. Linfield pitched very effectively and Jones played third base promisingly. His stop of a hot ground ball and assist to first was one of the features of the game. Rippey, Hall and Holden took part in a pretty double-play.

The South Quincy nine played a substitute on first, but put up a good game. Their out-field work was faultless. Second base was their weak spot.

The Park Addition

Many are doubtless unfamiliar with the 15 acres known as "Pine Island" which has just been deeded to the city by Charles Francis Adams.

As has already been stated the land adjourns Merry Mount park. It consists of a knoll upon which is a growth of oak and walnut trees and some marsh land bordering on Black's creek, but the larger part is upland.

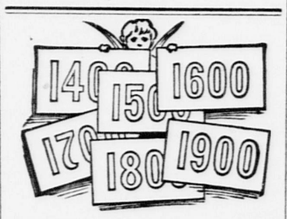

The land is not valuable except for the purpose for which it has been given, but for that purpose it is valuable as by building a short bridge over one part of Black's creek a beautiful driveway can be laid out from Hancock street through the park to the Sailors Home, and from there along the new boulevard now building to Norfolk Downs.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles For Sale by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

NAPOLEON,

ONCE ASKED FOR AN OPINION,

Gives a Graphic Description of His Ideal Woman. Mothers Please Note.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

In response to a question asked by a lady, the great Napoleon replied,—

"My ideal woman is not the beautiful-featured society belle, whose physician tries in vain to keep her in repair, nor the fragile butterfly of fashion, who gilds the tortures of disease with a forced smile.

"No! my ideal is a woman who has accepted her being as a sacred trust, and who obeys the laws of nature for the preservation of her body and soul.

"Do you know, my knee involuntarily bends in homage when I meet the matron who reaches middle age in complete preservation.

"That woman is rendered beautiful by perfect health, and the stalwart children by her side are her reward. That's my ideal woman."

To grow to ideal womanhood the girlhood should be carefully guarded.

Mothers owe a duty to their daughters that in too many cases is neglected.

Nature has provided a time for purification; and if the channels are obstructed the entire system is poisoned, and misery comes.

At a mothers' meeting the wife of a noted New York divine said to her listeners: "Watch carefully your daughters' physical development.

"Mothers should see that Nature is assisted, if necessary, to perform its office, and keep their daughters well informed as to matters concerning themselves."

Irregularities, from whatever cause, are sure indications of organic trouble. With irregularities come disturbance of the stomach and kidneys.

Violent headaches often attack the victim; pains shoot everywhere. Extreme irritability follows quickly, and then utter despondency overwhelms the already over-burdened life. Unless the obstruction is removed at once, your daughter's whole future will be darkened. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will accomplish the work speedily. It is the most effective remedy for irregular or suspended action known.

The Land of Rest.

Here lies an old woman who always was tired,
For she lived in a house where help was not hired.
Her last words on earth were: "Dear friends, I am going
Where nothing ain't done, nor churning, nor sewing,
And everything there will be just to my wishes,
For where they don't eat there's no washing of dishes!
I'll be where loved anthems will always be ringing,
But having no voice I'll get rid of the singing.
Don't mourn for me now, and don't mourn for me never,
For I'm going to do nothing forever and ever!"

Methinks 'tis time they should forever close.

Watch Competitions.

Very few people know that there are, in connection with the Geneva watch trade, competitions involving very large sums of money, a goodly proportion of which finds its way into England.

A certain number of watchmakers at Geneva nominate certain dealers in England who shall hold competition watches made by the former, and the names of such dealers are agreed to by the whole of the said makers. Prizes ranging from £300 downward are given to the makers whose particular watches shall keep the best time and remain in the finest condition during 12 months.

The English dealers who hold the watches during the 12 months have to keep a daily record in regard to the loss or gain of time evidenced by their charges, and they are of course in absolute honor bound to keep a correct one and not to tamper with the watches beyond winding them. No given maker's watch in the competition bears any name or distinctive mark other than peculiarities of construction by which the name of the maker can be identified by the holder. The watches are of the usual kind manufactured for trading purposes and not mere "exhibition" watches, and the holder of each prize winner receives one-half of the award. —London Standard.

CARLINVILLE, Ills., May 6.—A secret investigation relative to the murder of Engineer Holmes has resulted in the arrest of Ben Myers, Jack Frost and Ed Bryant. The men will have a hearing at the inquest.

A DEFENSIVE ALLIANCE

Thought Likely to Be Established by Central American States.

Salvador Proves Her Friendship For Nicaragua.

British Squadron Obeys Orders to Evacuate the Port of Corinto.

(Copyrighted, 1895.)

MANAGUA, via Galveston, May 6.—Nicaragua has authorized Senor Chrisanto Medina, Salvadoran minister to London and Paris and acting Nicaraguan minister in London, to accept the modified ultimatum of Great Britain.

The action of San Salvador in guaranteeing the payment of the indemnity, as, in fact, her course throughout the whole dispute, is very favorably commented upon, and it is believed that an entente will be established that will lead to results beneficial to both countries.

It would not be at all surprising if this trouble with Great Britain should result in the formation of an alliance between the several Central American states for defensive purposes.

There is no denying the fact that the attitude of Great Britain in her treatment of Nicaragua and in her dealings with other small powers has caused an awakening among the Central American republics to the danger to which they are exposed from British aggression. There is a strong belief here that Great Britain will never submit any question that may arise between herself and the Central American states to arbitration, but that she will herself sit in judgment upon the question and then proceed by force of arms to enforce her own decree.

England Compared With a Hawk.

Not for years has there been such unanimity of opinion among the Spanish-American republics, and the situation may be best summed up by comparing it to the flurry among a group of chickens when a hawk dashes down among them and despoils the flock. Great Britain has successfully played the role of a hawk, and the flurry caused by her action shows no signs of subsidence.

The governments of all the Central American states and those of several of the southwestern countries have telegraphed to President Zelaya suggesting the formation of a commercial union against the productions of Great Britain, and also against the transportation of Central and South American products in British bottoms. If such a union could be definitely arranged and the terms could be put in force, quite a severe blow would be dealt to British trade, and eventually the British government would find that its treatment of Nicaragua had cost her a sum of money far in excess of the smart money that she demanded from Nicaragua.

Orders to Depart.

Orders were cabled from London to Rear Admiral Stephenson, commanding the British squadron at Corinto, directing him to evacuate the port yesterday. The warships presented a scene of orderly bustle yesterday morning. Boats passed frequently between the shore and the vessels, the midshipmen in charge wearing an air of greater importance than usual. They were evidently bearers of communications to Captain Trench, of the Royal Arthur, who, upon the seizure of Corinto, had been appointed by Admiral Stephenson as governor of the port.

The force originally landed by the British to hold the place were 400 blue-jackets and marines, but on Friday, when it became known that the tension had become relaxed, all of them, with the exception of 58 marines and their officers, were withdrawn.

Goodby to Corinto.

Shortly after the flag denoting that religious services were in progress on board the warships was hauled down, the marines, who had been drawn up in front of the custom house, were ordered to return to their ships. A few minutes later the British flag was hauled down from the government building and soon the soil of Nicaragua was rid of the British invaders, and the sailors were rowing to the warships lying in the harbor. Hundreds of persons assembled along the shore to see the embarkation of the marines, and a cheer went up as the noses of the boats headed harborward.

The warships were soon riding at short cables, but their departure was delayed by the tide, which did not serve until the afternoon. It was expected that the flagship would depart with the other two vessels of the fleet, but when the water was high enough on the bar to permit of the passage of the vessels, only the Wild Swan and the Satellite got under way and stood out to sea. The flagship, the Royal Arthur, paid out her cable again.

Bombardment Avoided.

Nicaragua has agreed to pay the $77,50 demanded by Great Britain for the expulsion of Pro-Consul Hatch, and for other alleged damages to British subjects arising from the recent troubles in the Mosquito reservation, but instead of paying the money at the cannon's mouth, as the British government demanded should be done, she will pay it in London 15 days after the last vessel of the British fleet withdraws from Corinto. There are other questions of damages to British subjects to be settled, but Nicaragua believes that if the questions are submitted to an impartial commission the judgment will be rendered in her favor.

Well-authenticated reports have reached here that Chief Clarence, the deposed ruler of the Mosquito reservation, who is now in Kingston, Jam., is the recipient of £6 a day from the British government, and these reports do not tend to allay the popular animosity against Great Britain, it being held that she would not take an interest in Clarence if she did not have ulterior designs regarding him.

United States Might Interfere.

There is much doubt here as to what the exact attitude of the government at Washington has been during the whole of the dispute. Many conflicting statements are made, some of which are to the effect that the United States, if they protest at all against the occupation of Nicaraguan territory, did so in a perfunctory manner, while on the other hand it is claimed that it was through their efforts and in a measure under their direction that Senor Medina, the Salvadorean minister at London, took such a successful part in the negotiations that led to the acceptance by the Earl of Kimberley, the British foreign secretary, of the proposal that the "smart money" be paid in London, instead of to Admiral Stephenson at Corinto.

REAL MURDERER SHIELDED.

The Opinion In a Case Where an American Was Killed In Egypt.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 6.—Mr. Terrell, the United States minister, has lodged a protest with the porte against the decision of the court of cassation in quashing the sentence of death passed on Mustapha, who is alleged to have run amuck in the Pancaldi quarter, for the murder of Mr. Stripe, a naturalized American citizen, in January last.

A. W. TERRELL.

The court's decision has created a very unfavorable impression in diplomatic circles and in the European colony, as tending to strengthen the belief current ever since the affair took place that the real murderer has not been got hold of. The action of the court of cassation, moreover, is regarded as an attempt to save Mustapha, who is believed to be mixed up in another stabbing affair, but had nothing to do with the murder of Mr. Stripe and the other victims. The impression continues to prevail that the real murderer belongs to the better class, and, being protected, has therefore escaped punishment.

Caused by Woman's Wickedness.

NEW ORLEANS, May 6.—Dr. Samuel P. Schwing killed Dr. Emil Heriat yesterday. Both are prominent citizens of Plaquemine. Heriat, who has a wife and five children, became infatuated with Mrs. Schwing, and their love led to a street duel several weeks ago, Heriat being wounded. Schwing brought his family here and went away on a short business trip. The woman and Heriat then went to another boarding house together. Schwing arrived yesterday and went to their apartments and opened fire, and Heriat returned the fire. There were eight shots fired, the only one taking effect killed Heriat instantly. The woman was sitting on the bed with her child and miraculously escaped injury. Schwing was arrested.

Still Talking It Over.

PARIS, May 6.—The Temps has a telegram from St. Petersburg stating that Japan has replied to the friendly protest of Russia, Germany and France. Japan agrees to renounce possession of the Liao-Tung peninsula, but says she will retain Port Arthur. This compromise leaves intact all the dangers that the powers wished to avoid. Fresh representations have been made to Japan and the negotiations are actively proceeding. Japan will probably yield Port Arthur, though demanding to hold the place temporarily, which the powers will concede.

Young Choate's Body Found.

BUFFALO, May 6.—The decomposed body of Mortimer R. Choate, the 18-year-old son of Rufus M. Choate, was found in the hay loft of a barn in the rear of his father's house yesterday afternoon. A bullet in his head and a revolver lying beside his fleshless hand told the story of the boy's suicide. Young Choate disappeared Jan. 6 last. He was inclined to be rather fast and had been severely reprimanded by his father. The loft where the body was found has not been much frequented this winter or spring.

Against Anti-Revolution Bill.

BERLIN, May 6.—Sixty-one German cities, represented in a congress of communical bodies, yesterday adopted a resolution declaring that the anti-revolution bill now before the reichstag is aimed at the restricting of the freedom of public criticism, upon which depends the development of public life, especially communal self-government, and urging the reichstag to reject the bill.

Keeping Tabs on Pittsburg.

COLUMBUS, O., May 6.—The joint conference of miners and operators adjourned sine die, without fixing the price of mining. About 24,000 miners in the state suspended work May 1, pending settlement. The operators will probably quietly await the end of the Pittsburg strike, and in event of a failure to adjust the differences there with the miners will declare a lockout.

Red Thunder Showed Fight.

ROLLA, N. D., May 6.—The half-breed rising has been squelched and without loss of life. The half breeds surrendered unconditionally, though Red Thunder made a desperate resistance when arrested, attacking Deputy Dagget with his knife. It took three men to handcuff him. He is 67 years old, but almost crazy and possessing maniacal strength.

Four Persons Drowned.

DETROIT, May 6.—John Moriarty, aged 16, and Frank Connelly, 14, were swimming in the Rouge river yesterday, when Connolly was taken with a cramp. In sinking, he clutched Moriarty's leg and both were drowned. Shortly afterward, a sailboat capsized and Mr. and Mrs. Baugh were drowned.

British Vessels' Movements.

HALIFAX, May 6.—H. M. S. Cleopatra sailed for St. John's, N. F., Saturday night, and yesterday H. M. S. Pelican steamed away for the same place. H. M. S. Tourmaline left last night for Cuba to look after British interests there.

Getting More Pay.

CLEVELAND, May 6.—The cokemakers who struck two days ago, following the example of the iron molders, are victorious. The brass molders are preparing to demand more pay and will strike if they do not get it.

Had About Enough of It.

HAVANA, May 6.—The insurgents are rapidly becoming discouraged. The rebel chiefs, Aramburo and Vega, and many of their followers have submitted to the government.

Swindler Balfour Reaches England.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 6.—Steamer Tartar Prince, having on board Jabez S. Balfour, arrived this morning from Buenos Ayres.

BASEBALL.

Sunday and Saturday Games and Standing of the Various Clubs.

CHICAGO, May 5.—The Colonels and Colts played one of the best games ever witnessed here before the largest crowd ever assembled at the Lincoln Street park. Both pitchers did splendid work, and were almost perfectly supported.

No Chance For Reform.

PEKIN, May 6.—The fact that the emperor has ratified the treaty of peace with Japan is known to only a few Chinese. No edict in regard to the matter has been issued. Many Chinese would have preferred that the Japanese reached Pekin before the peace conditions were agreed to, as the Chinese government would then have been compelled to initiate reforms; whereas, under the present circumstances, there is small chance of any reforms being made.

THE PRESS EXCLUDED

From Business Meeting of the Council of Textile Workers.

Nothing Yet Done Concerning Olneyville's Strike.

Unemployed Operatives Meet a Setback in the Shape of a Blacklist.

OLNEYVILLE, R. I., May 7.—The national council of the Textile union met in Textile hall yesterday afternoon and voted to keep the press out of the business meetings.

A press committee was appointed, with instructions to give out information for the public, but this committee not only ignored the press representatives, but declined to give out any part of Secretary Cahill's report, although it had recommendations in it which he thought ought to be made public. The committee declined even to give Mr. Cahill his manuscript, that he might read portions of it to the press.

The Only Definite Information

that could be gleaned was that the union was out of debt; that its prospects looked bright, and that its membership was about 25,000, which is but one-half the strength estimated by the state council, and upon which estimate it is proposed to make a levy which would net the strikers $135,500 a week.

The session adjourned early, that the hall might be prepared for the banquet to the delegates. At this banquet, speeches were made by President Thornton, Vice President Hart, Secretary Cahill, Edward L. Gannon and P. H. Quinn.

After the banquet there was a street parade. This was complimentary to the visiting delegates. After the parade there were more speechmaking.

Absolutely Nothing

has been done that has any bearing on the Olneyville strike, but it is expected that something will be done today toward straightening out the snarl caused by the Providence-National help going out without sanction of the national council.

The leaders are beginning to realize that an extensive blacklist is probably in use and that help from Olneyville who apply for work elsewhere are liable to be denied employment.

Two of the help met with a blank refusal at Burrillville on Saturday, although the superintendent wished more help. Just as soon as they said that they came from Olneyville, that seemed to settle the business.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 7.—The house ordered to a third reading the bill giving veterans of the civil war preference in employment in the civil service, without examination, over all others not veterans who have taken the civil service examination. The bill allowing those who now vote for school committee to vote at the next state election on the question of suffrage for women was ordered to a third reading in the house. The anticipated order for an investigation into the affairs of the Bay State, Brookline and other gas companies of Boston was laid on the table. The house amendment to the Holyoke police commission bill was concurred in by the senate, and the Woburn police commission bill was ordered to a third reading in the senate.

Fifty Years of Wedlock.

MELROSE, Mass., May 7.—The golden anniversary of the marriage of Rev. D. P. and Mrs. Mary Livermore was observed yesterday afternoon at their home here in a manner befitting so notable an event. It was intended to have no public recognition of the day, but the world-wide reputation of Mrs. Livermore as an author, lecturer and philanthropist made it impossible to observe her first wishes in the matter. Many hundreds of neighbors and friends called upon the couple, and letters and telegrams of congratulation were received from many parts of the world.

Heroes of Battle.

NORTHAMPTON, May 7.—The reunion of the Third Army corps begun here today. Northampton is resplendent with her gayest colors. A campfire, the first of the reunion exercises, was held this evening, and there were present a large number of representative citizens. While Dr. Seelye was speaking, General Daniel F. Sickles, whose services with the Third corps had been continuous and replete with honors, came upon the stage. He was roundly cheered. Adjutant General Samuel Dalton was present as a representative of the governor.

Father Butler Exonerated.

BOSTON, May 7.—The trial of Father Butler, assistant pastor of St. Columbkill's church, charged with bastardy, was held in Brighton yesterday. Miss Anna E. Brouthers was the complainant. Judge Baldwin granted five warrants, charging conspiracy against five persons connected with the prosecution, including Anna E. Brouthers.

Dastardly Attempt at Train Wrecking.

AUGUSTA, May 7.—An attempt was made to wreck a heavy vestibuled train, Portland and Bangor, at Granite siding, one mile from here. Engineer Shorey discovered a rail across the track as the train was rounding a sharp curve in the road. The engine was reversed and the speed of the train so slacked that when the rail was struck it was pushed along until the train was fully stopped. There is no clew to the perpetrators.

Drawback to Lumber Men.

SOLON, Me., May 7.—The logs of the Kennebec lumber drive are being stopped at this place, awaiting the repairs of the dam that was carried away. Serious Elevator Accident.

PROVIDENCE, May 7.—Nicholas Castello, James Corrigan and Peter Kelley sustained probably fatal injuries at the works of the Oakdale Manufacturing company. The men were on the elevator with over a ton of merchandise, 40 feet up the shaft, when the cable broke and the elevator fell to the bottom of the pit.

BOSTON, May 6.—At a meeting of prominent theater owners in this city, the organization of a new fire insurance company, to be called the Theater Mutual, was completed. The company will write policies on theaters throughout the United States.

CAMBRIDGE, May 7.—The Harvard freshmen defeated the sophomores in the second game of the class series and paraded the streets with a brass band. The game was an exciting one, '98 finally winning by a score of 5 to 4.

A COLOSSAL SWINDLER

Jabez Balfour Enriched Himself at Expense of Poor People.

His Creditors Numbered Hundreds of Thousands.

A Rascal Who Was Held In Highest Esteem by Confiding Stockholders.

LONDON, May 7.—Jabez S. Balfour was landed at Southampton from the steamer Tartar Prince, on which he came from Buenos Ayres. Balfour was taken off the steamer by a custom house launch and landed at Netley wharf. The prisoner was then put on a train for London. Arriving at London, the train was stopped at Vauxhall station and Balfour was transferred to a cab and driven to the Bow street police station. He was immediately put into the prisoners' dock, and charges were formally lodged against him.

Not since the bursting of the South Sea Bubble has there been a financial scheme so widely ruinous to confiding investors as the operations of Jabez Balfour, the man just brought back to England. The losers through the collapse of his companies were literally to be numbered by hundreds of thousands. These were largely the people who could least afford to lose—widows and orphans and aged people of small means.

They had been induced to invest because "Mr. Balfour was such a good man!" His father and mother had been temperance lecturers. He was a leader in church affairs, and looked with the strongest disapprovals upon theaters, music halls, cards, dancing, and all such worldly things.

He was, moreover, a member of the house of commons, where he was one of the most enthusiastic followers of Mr. Gladstone, one of the stanchest champions of home rule and one of the sternest reprovers of the house of lords for its plutocracy and its contempt for the common people. Strange as it may appear, he laid the foundations of his colossal scheme upon the ruins of various similar schemes that had ended in disaster—to their confiding stockholders.

The Liberator, his chief concern, was built upon the ruins of the Alliance National Land, Building and Investment society, and the Estates bank and a number of other concerns known as the Alliance group. Having previously had some experience in the office of a firm of parliamentary agents, he came modestly before the world in 1867 as the virtual founder of the Lands Allotment company, from which seven months later was developed

The Liberator Building Society.

The basis of the organization was expressed in its Latin motto, "Libera sedes liberum facit"—a free home makes a free man. Its name was a success; hundreds of Congregationalists were attracted by its prospectus, and an appeal was made to Nonconformist ministers and others connected with temperance and religious societies all over the land to promote its beneficent objects. In the first year they received 1 per cent commission on the shares and deposits, and subsequently ½ per cent, and in the end a round sum of $705,000 was paid in this way.

In 1875 another association was hatched, the "Lands Allotment company," with practically the same directorate and Jabez Spencer Balfour as the controlling genius. The relations between these were extensive and peculiar; in five years the Liberator had financed the other two to the extent of $960,000; its shareholders and depositors knew little, if anything, of the state of affairs, while, according to the examination in the bankruptcy court, its leading directors and officials were equally innocent of all knowledge—the one thing in which they all agreed being implicit and unlimited confidence in "Mr. Balfour."

From this period onward there was a regular succession of new companies; the secret of Balfourian finance was: "When in difficulty start a new company." In most of these concerns there was a regularly paid dividend of 5 per cent to the shareholders and 4 per cent to depositors. The recklessness of the financiering

Was Never Surpassed.

Balfour discovered a progressive builder at Croydon named Hobbs, a man in a comparatively small way of business in 1878. Such large amounts were advanced to Hobbs that in 1885, when he was practically insolvent, he owed the Liberator $3,500,000. Finally, when Hobbs failed, his concern was indebted to the Liberator to the extent of $10,495,000.

Apart from these transactions, "the Balfour group" were financing properties of a more or less speculative character all over the country. All these involved scores of thousands of pounds. Though disaster followed these concerns from first to last, dividends were always found in the new subscriptions and deposits, and directors' remuneration never failed. Under the latter head, Jabez Balfour and his colleagues divided among them from the seven leading companies a total of $898,770.

The total amount of ruin brought upon investors through the final crash aggregated $30,289,770, a colossal sum. But there are other items which, if added, would bring it up to nearly or quite $35,000,000.

What Zelaya Thinks About It.

GRANADA, Nicaragua, May 7.—President Zelaya has telegraphed to this city that the trouble between Great Britain and Nicaragua has been settled. The president added that it was painful that the question had reached the extremity it did, when it might have been settled by friendly discussion. This was flatly refused by Great Britain.

Income Tax Re-argum nts Begun.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The re-argument of the income tax cases began in the supreme court of the United States yesterday in the presence of an assemblage of law and laity that more than exhausted the accommodations of the chamber. For the first time since last November there was a full complement of justices on the bench.

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN DEAD.

Mr. E. B. Pratt, Leather Merchant and ex-Representative Passes Away.

Mr. Edwin B. Pratt, one of Quincy's most distinguished citizens, died at his residence on Hancock street, on Monday, about 4 P. M., after a sickness of several weeks' duration.

His death, though it comes with suddenness at last, was apprehended as an event not far in the future by those who had met him recently. His health; which for some time had been failing, was more seriously affected than ever at the beginning of the winter. He was talking of a trip to Europe when the fatal period, which resulted in the end of his life, was reached.

Edwin B. Pratt was born in Weymouth in April, 1832.

In 1855 he founded the firm of E. B. Pratt & Co., leather dealers. Mr. Pratt has not however, taken an active part in management of its affairs for upwards of a dozen years, that having devolved upon the junior partner, Mr. J. C. Morse.

He was considered an extremely able and conservative financier. In 1871, he, with several other moneyed men founded the National Bank of the Commonwealth of Boston. He was a director from the date of its organization until 1892, when he retired. He was for several years vice president of the institution and upon the death of President Sherman, was offered the presidency, which owing to his other large business interests, he declined.

His advice was often sought by bankers and merchants on financial questions involving large sums of money. He was extremely conservative and far sighted in his judgment.

He was a director for several years in the National Mt. Wollaston Bank of this city, and for several years its president.

Mr. Pratt was also a director in the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance company.

Although he never sought political honors he was twice elected to the General Court.

Mr. Pratt was a man of a singularly retiring disposition. He never courted publicity, and bore the honors of the various high offices which he held as modestly as a child. Wealth never turned his head. His wishes and tastes were as simple when he became rich as they were when he started in business forty years ago, in a little store on Blackstone street.

His charities were large, but his right hand never knew what his left hand gave.

To the public he was taciturn, but in private life his wit sparkled and scintillated like rare old champagne. He was a clever conversationalist. His large fund of stories gained by extensive travel over this continent and Europe made him one of the most companionable of men. He told a story in which he figured as the victim with even more gusto than others.

Mr. Pratt was a notable man,—for being a gentleman of the old school of merchants, whose word in financial and business circles was as good as his bond, for many manly qualities of character, for a peculiar genial and kindly disposition toward men and for a fascinating wit and humor, which added greatly to his other interesting qualities. He was much loved and prized among his associates.

Those who knew Edwin B. Pratt will feel the loss of a sincere friend, a noble, upright and thoroughly manly companion. He was a loving father. He is a great loss in all these relations. He will be tenderly and regretfully remembered as long as these traits of character find appreciation.

Mr. Pratt is survived by two daughters,—Miss Minnie J. and Miss Bessie L. Pratt, and a son, Mr. Edwin B. Pratt, Jr.,

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon.

It Did the Business.

Mr J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

MARBLING BOOKS.

The Slow Old Process by Which the Fancy Edges Are Made.

Almost ever since the first books were made the fashion of marbleizing the edges of many of them has been in vogue. It used to be, however, that only the most expensive volumes — those bound in full calf and elaborately lettered—had their edges thus garnished, but now such finishing is left, for the most part, for ledgers, daybooks and other blank books intended for business use.

Though long before gilt edges were thought of the ornamenting of the plain white edges of books to imitate marble was popular, there has been little or no change in the process since its first introduction.

It is generally supposed that all such details have come under the stamp of the bookmaker's art until there is nothing left in them to remind one of their first and earliest days, but not with marbling. As time has gone on the popularity of this method of embellishing paper has grown less. Consequently there has been no need to devise means by which it could be more speedily done. There have been some improvements in the original methods, but most bookbinders still stick to the old way as good enough.

Instead of books whizzing through machinery one after another and taking on their marbled edges in some mysterious manner, as might be supposed, each book is taken by hand separately and the leaves dipped, tightly held together, into the liquid that marks their edges with the many colored little veins, before the covers are put on.

A trough about two inches deep is filled with gum water, on the surface of which various colored pigments have been thrown and disposed in various forms with a comb and coarse wire teeth.

The cans of liquid paint are ranged along the sides of the trough, and from them the paint is taken by dipping into them long, soft hairbrushes that are held over the water and allowed to drip. One color is put down right over the other, and the wide, coarse comb dragged through them. The books are extremely dexterously dipped into the water, and the colors adhering to their edges are set by dashing cold water over them. But one of the three edges at a time can be marbleized and set up on end to dry before the book can be handled again for another dipping. Thus the variegated edges of books and marbled papers for the sides and covers of them are produced.

The process may seem a little slow, but it answers all the needs that the bookbinder finds for it.—St. Louis Republic.

SPEED OF WILD DUCKS AND GEESE.

The Ducks Make Over Sixty-six Miles an Hour and Outfly the Geese.

Of all the migratory birds the American wild pigeon and black duck are well up toward the front as regard long and rapid flight. The speed of the pigeons can only be estimated, while that of the ducks can be established by observation. Some years ago the writer and a scientific friend measured off on the shore of a large western river a line exactly three miles long, and each took a station at opposite ends of the line. The object was to note, by means of preconcerted signals, the time a flock of wild ducks took in passing up or down the river, near the stations.

During three hours on the morning of a bright October day, observations were noted of the times of passing the stations of nine different flocks. Upon comparing watches it was found that the average time was 2 minutes and 42 seconds, thus showing the speed per hour to be 66⅔ miles, or one mile in 54 seconds. As showing how uniform was their flight, a difference was found of only five seconds between the greatest and the least intervals of time.

As numerous flocks of wild geese were daily flying in the same neighborhood observations were also taken to test their hourly speed. Two points twenty-nine and one-third miles apart were selected, both of which were connected by telegraph. We succeeded in identifying four out of seven flocks which passed over both places during the four days we were on the watch. The mean hourly speed was found to be a fraction over 54 miles. The wild goose has been long supposed to be the swiftest of all water fowl, but this experiment shows that he is far behind the wild duck.—New York World.

A Benefactor of His Species.

Frau von S——, well known for her kindness and generosity, was waited upon the other day by a well dressed gentleman, who spoke to her as follows:

"I wish to draw your attention, madam, to the sad case of a poor family. The father is weak and advanced in years, the mother is bedridden, and their five children are clamoring for bread. The poor creatures are about to be turned into the street with their wretched belongings unless somebody will undertake to pay their arrears of rent, amounting to 30 marks."

Frau von S—— at once went to fetch the money. Handing it to her visitor, she said:

"Now, sir, I should like to know who you are, as you seem to take so warm an interest in these poor people."

"I am their landlord, madam!"—Wochenblatt.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. The result surprised me: I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles For Sale by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

FORKS.

The lines of the "Spalding" front fork will commend it at once. It is light and airy in appearance, yet stability has not been sacrificed to attain this end. Screwed to the bottom of the steering tube, and resting upon the top of the fork sides, will be noticed a pair of coasters—a pair of coasters in one piece that will not rattle, slip down or get lost.

A NEW DEPOT.

Not at Quincy But Between Quincy and Wollaston.

Report has it that a new station will be established on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. just north of Presidents' bridge, about half way between Quincy and Wollaston depots.

This may account for the new street just staked out parallel with the brook between Hancock street and the railroad. And may also be connected with the advertisement of a real estate firm that it will make a special announcement on Saturday.

The distance between the Quincy and Wollaston depots is among the longest on the main line, about a mile and one-half and is not surprising that when the development of the land begins that a station is demanded. The greatest objection is that it makes one more stop for accommodation trains and that Quincy will be the 11th rather than the 10th station from Boston. New stations multiply. Will a $1,000 lot be offered for a name?

K. of H. Reception.

Monday evening, Wollaston lodge, No. 926, K. of H., fairly outdid itself in tendering a reception to Fred M. Hersey of Hingham, Grand Dictator of Massachusetts. The full board of grand officers were in attendance, with quite a number from neighboring lodges. The lodge being closed early, the members and invited guests gathered around a bountifully spread table, after which Dictator Battison introduced the guests of the evening in a few well chosen words and closed by calling for three cheers, which were given with a tiger.

Grand Dictator Hersey responded with one of his rousing speeches after which the other grand officers were called upon. Remarks by D. D. G. D., W. F. Murry; G. A. D., O. W. Purdy; G. R., E. G. Pratt followed by Bros. Fairbanks, York and Battison. Bros. White and Storr with songs with Bros. Gifford at the piano.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

The Opening Night.

The Art Poster show opens today and everything points to a great success. In hanging the posters the question has been what not to hang. Owing to lack of space none but the choicest of the collection of posters could be used, which is bound to insure a much better and more representative exhibition.

This evening Miss Irene Weir of Boston gives an informal talk on the modern art poster. As Miss Weir has made a study of this branch of art, her talk cannot fail to be both instructive and interesting. A pleasant feature of the poster exhibit will be the "afternoon tea," served by some of the ladies interested in the show. On each afternoon after today tea will be served at 4, the "tea" being in charge of different ladies each day. This plan has been tried at the Portrait and Caricature exhibition in Boston and added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

We hope everyone has seen the beautiful poster which has been placed in all the store windows to announce the coming of the poster show. Copies of this poster as well as catalogues can be had at the show.

Launch of Jubilee.

An unsuccessful attempt was made at 9 o'clock Monday night to launch the Jubilee, which has been hauled up all winter at Quincy Point. The blocks were knocked out but she did not start. Jacks were then put under her and after several unsuccessful attempts she finally started, but grounded as she left the ways.

The tug Wesley A. Gove, which was in waiting to tow her to East Boston, made fast but was unable to pull her off, as the tide had ebbed too far and the attempt was given up.

This morning three tugs made fast to her and about 10 o'clock she floated, and the start was made immediately for East Boston.

It was impossible to tell whether any damage had been done to her, but it was thought she might have been strained some.

Bicycle Accident.

H. E. Crane got a new Quincy wheel Monday, and in the evening went out for a trial spin. He was coming down Granite street on the right hand side of the street. He had nearly reached the junction of Quarry street when a stranger ran into him head on.

Mr. Crane was thrown violently to the ground and sustained a bad strain to his back, so much so that he had to be carried home in a carriage.

The man who ran into him did not stop to see the result of his carelessness but rode rapidly away and for all Mr. Crane knows may be riding still.

Everett says he does not care so much about his back and the wheel but he would like to get hold of "the Jay" that ran into him.

Myett—Beatin Nuptials.

Mr. Joseph P. Myett and Miss Annie Beatin were married Monday at the St. John's church, and in the evening there was a jolly "send off" at No. 3, Wibird street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. J. Coleman Beatin, of the well know firm of Beatin & Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, and on this occasion was gowned in blue silk. The best man was Mr. Edwin Myett, and the bridesmaid Miss Catherine Pitts. During the evening solos were rendered, also banjo solos, topical songs, stump speeches, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Myett will spend their honeymoon in Lawrence and Andover, and upon their return will reside on Greenleaf street. Among numerous presents received were some richly carved silverware, lined with gold.

SOUTHERNER FOR 1896.

The Washington Post Names Embassador James B. Eustis For President.

Not long ago The Post propounded to the Democratic party a few interrogatories: Why not nominate a southern man next year? Why reject nine-tenths of the presidential timber at the party's disposal and give to an insignificant minority the monopoly of honor and promotion?

Several of our contemporaries, however, have asked us where there is to be found a southern man big enough, broad enough, strong enough to meet the expectations of the party and the requirements of the position.

We have been challenged to do this, and we accept the challenge by asking whether any fault is to be found with James B. Eustis, our present embassador to France. We should like some one to tell us in what respect James B. Eustis of Louisiana falls short of the most exacting requirement.

Mr. Eustis has been in public life for many years. He has served in the legislature of his own state and in the United States senate. He believes in party organization, in fair fighting in the field of politics, in rewards to the victor, in the people's right to govern themselves, in the people's wisdom and sincerity and justice. He understands the questions now agitating the public mind—questions of domestic or international import. His speech in London the other night, on the occasion of the American society banquet, shows that he shares the deepest convictions and the most vivid and intense aspirations of the American people as regards our relations with foreign countries and our proper attitude toward them.

In what particular does Eustis fail? Of what standard of Democratic availability and official equipment does he fall short? We have been asked to name a man, and we have done so. Now let some caviling critic say wherein our nominee is lacking!—Washington Post.

A FLOATING CHAPEL.

A Queer Church That Travels Up and Down the Western Rivers.

For nine months the Illinois river towns below Lacon have been treated to an innovation, and for the summer to come the towns farther north—Henry, Hennepin, Spring Valley, La Salle and Peru—are to have with them I. R. B. Arnold's "floating chapel."

This boat is an immense hulk, 50 by 150 feet, with a seating capacity in the auditorium of 500, a small classroom, living rooms for Mr. Arnold and family and manager, C. H. Nichols. Besides this a small printing office is operated on the boat to print tracts and a photograph gallery to take pictures of scenes along the route. The boat is towed from one point to another by local packets, but formerly a small steam launch did the work, the boat being towed to headwaters and floated down, the launch being used to keep the boat in the channel and effect landings.

The boat is self sustaining. Mr. Arnold expects to take south ten tons of religious literature. As soon as the warm weather is over the work will begin in the sunny south. Three university students from Chicago will go with him to help spread the gospel.

In the last four years Mr. Arnold has delivered 1,500 sermons and lectures, distributed five tons of literature, visited 150 cities and towns and addressed 150 mass meetings in the interest of temperance. More than 250,000 people have passed into his boat. The chapel cost $2,000; the tugboat, $400; running expenses for four years, $7,600; receipts from donations, $1,200; collections, $8,600.—Chicago Record.

AN ARMY OF BEETLES.

Lancaster Visited With a Plague of Large Bugs.

The pavements of Lancaster, Pa., recently were hidden in many places under masses of bugs bigger than the biggest locusts ever seen. They swooped down literally by the million, during the night, and flying clouds of them filled the humid atmosphere. The electric street lights were the main point of attack, and their glitter brought destruction to the strange nocturnal visitors. The bugs would charge in solid columns up against the arc lamps that swing in the middle of the streets or over the sidewalks, and down they would fall dead or disabled. They were gathered up by bushels under all of the hundreds of arc lights in various parts of the city this morning. The interiors of the globes were in many instances practically choke full of bugs. Under the gas lamps they were found in somewhat smaller quantities, dead or dying.—New York Sun.

Asiatic Alliances.

While Asia is contemplating the possibility of a quadruple alliance composed of Japan, China, Siam and Korea there is talk afloat of yet another triple alliance to include the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

To avoid any back door infringement of the Monroe doctrine it is proposed to call this merely a commercial alliance.

Under that name it would smell no sweeter to Russia.—New York Telegram.

Embezzlers In Africa.

Forgery and theft come as cheap in Cape Town as they do in New York. A man whose forgeries aggregated $500,000 has been sentenced to only seven years' imprisonment in the South African metropolis.—New York Evening World.

Defends the Checkrein.

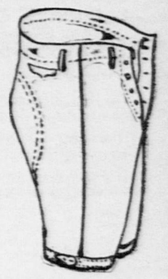

A man named J. Stanley Bell writes to a Boston paper defending the high checkrein and the docking of horses' tails. Remember the name—J. Stanley Bell. Pass him round.—Chicago Tribune.

When They Are Not Wanted.

Man is the most worthless thing on earth during the spring cleaning season. Why not let him take a vacation?—Wheeling Register.

The Unseen.

When eyes are bright with hope, the skies are blue,
The seas are mother o' pearl, the world is fair,
Sunshine falls sweet on drops of diamond dew,
And fairies dwell in flower bells everywhere.

When eyes are dim with tears, the skies are gray,
The seas are foaming floods, the world is cold,
Sad mists creep down and shadow all the way,
And every face we meet seems strangely old.

But when the eyes are closed to outward sights
In sleep's dear dreamland, glories meet their gaze,
Visions of hope-filled noons and love-filled nights,
Of light aye radiant, made of rainbow rays.

Then, when they look within, the realms of thought
Lie all outspread—what has been, what shall be,
Mountain and plain into right focus brought,
"The unseen," say you? Nay, what we best see.

The inward sight is true and clear and strong.
Age dims it not; no blindness comes with tears,
For time is short, eternity is long,
And souls are made for eons, not for years.
—Chambers' Journal.

His Sensible Patient.

Dr. Abernethy was habitually rude to his patients and particularly disliked the loquacity of women in describing their ailments. One lady, knowing his peculiarities and having a wound that needed attention, went to him, pulled off her shoe and stocking without saying a word and held out her foot in silence. Abernethy looked.

"Scratch?"

"Bite."

"Cat?"

"Dog."

"Madam," he said, "you are the most sensible woman I ever met."

WEATHER AND CROPS.

"Old Fashioned Winter" Proved to Be Beneficial to Farmers.

Spring Work Was Somewhat Delayed by Cold.

Northern Grass Lands Seeded Last Year Need Warm Rains.

BOSTON, May 7.—The New England weather service issues the following bulletin for the week ending May 6:

The weather in New England for the past winter was generally favorable for grass and grain roots and for fruits of all kinds, although it was continued cold with more snow than usual in southern sections, and was generally called a hard, "old-fashioned winter." An abundance of rain fell in October, and there were few severe frosts until the first week in November. The early snowstorm in November protected the ground and small fruits from the extreme cold following, and was on the whole beneficial, although many late crops were caught unagathered.

November was drier than usual over the greater part of New England; December and January lacked moisture, except in the south, and February and March were extremely dry, so that many wells and streams were lowest ever known at the end of March, especially in the north. But, with the remarkable equable temperature, there were no winter thaws, and, most of the precipitation coming in the form of snow, it accumulated and kept a snow covering throughout the winter.

The extreme cold spell of Feb 5-7 did some slight damage to fruit trees, and in places in Massachusetts considerable injury resulted to the berry canes that projected above the snow. April was cold and backward and very wet. It gave not only an abundance of rain in all districts, but one of the worst and most damaging floods on record in north central districts. At North Conway, N. H., the rainfall for the week ending April 14 was 9.90 inches, while over six inches fell from the morning of the 13th to the morning of the 15th. The floods delayed work on intervales, but the rain was of great benefit to pastures and fields, and it started the frost and snowbanks rapidly in the northern districts. At the end of April very little farm work had been done in the north, and it was backward in the south, with some seeding and planting done.

Frosts Hurt Grass Lands.

During the past week the weather has been generally fair in the northern states, with warm days, but cold, frosty nights In Maine, considerable plowing has been done, and a little seeding and planting, but this work will not be general for a week yet. The frosty nights have injured grass lands seeded last year. A good, warm rain is needed.

A Good Start.

The freeze on May 2 killed many buds in southeastern New Hampshire, but most correspondents report little or no damage from it; most fruit buds were not far enough advanced to be injured. There is still some snow in the woods in the north, but farm work is progressing and a little planting has been done. In the southern counties oats and peas are mostly in, and on dry fields a large acreage of potatoes has been planted. Trees are leaving out slowly. Grass is reported to be starting finely, and sheep and young stock can get nearly their living.

Dry Weather.

The weather has been extremely favorable for farm work in Vermont, but most correspondents report a need of warm rain. The roads are dusty, and all grass and winter grains need water, although they are starting well. Most sowing of oats, barley and wheat have been done on the earlier fields in southern counties, and potatoes are being put in. There is a fear expressed that fruit buds are being hurried along too fast by the warm sunshine, and that later frosts will injure them. One correspondent states that "dry weather scares people, while wet weather starves them in Vermont."

Early Crops Above Ground.

The soil is in good shape for work in Massachusetts and all farm work has been rapidly carried on. The ground is dry in places and more rain is needed. Grass is looking unusually well, and there are very few reports of winter killed places. Apricots are beginning to blossom; cherry and peach buds are opening, and occasionally a strawberry is in full bloom. Early peas and radishes, etc., are coming above ground. The only damage reported from the frost of the 2nd was to asparagus, and that has since grown rapidly and cutting has begun on early fields. The cranberry vines were badly winter-killed on bogs not covered with water. The web worm is at work.

Rapid Changes In Temperature.

No damage is reported from the frost in Rhode Island, though the rapid changes in temperature are not altogether favorable. Farm work is progressing favorably, and vegetation is coming forward rapidly.

Abundant Fruit Crop Promised.

The spring is reported rather backward in Connecticut, but the recent warm days advanced everything rapidly. Rain is badly needed, especially in Fairfield county, where there is considerable complaint of slow growing vegetation, with grass coming along thin and grains starting unevenly. The weather has been favorable for farm work, and that has been pushed ahead. Much seeding has been done, and although potato planting will go on for some time in most sections, yet on the earlier fields in southern counties many have been put in; there is an increased acreage indicated in this crop. Not much has been done on the corn ground, though planting will begin soon. Tobacco beds are doing well. Cherry and peach trees are in bloom or just breaking the buds, and an abundant crop of the latter is indicated. Onion seeding is nearly completed in vicinity of Greenfield Hill, Fairfield county. No damage has been reported from the frosts.

Had to Lose Part of Cargo.

HALIFAX, May 7.—Steamer John Bright, from Pensacola, with cargo of hard pine, bound to London, arrived here, having had several bow plates started in by ice. The vessel was making some water, and a portion of her deckload was thrown overboard.

Getting at the Root of It.

COLON, May 7.—The Colombian government has appointed a commission to investigate the conduct of certain officials and to present a list of those who are disaffected.

JAPAN'S CONCESSION.

Unconditionally Relinquished All Claim to the Liao-Tung Peninsula.

YOKOHAMA, May 7.—The Japanese government has unconditionally relinquished all claim to the Liao-Tung peninsula, in accordance with the request of Russia, France and Germany.

A Berlin dispatch says that, whether Japan intends to demand compensation for her concessions to the powers is unknown. No objection will be raised in Berlin to a moderate indemnity. By her compliance, Japan is removing one of the germs of disturbance in eastern Asia. Much has been said of the selfish objects of Russia. It is semi-officially stated that during the negotiations Russia was only enabled to maintain statu quo in Asia.

A dispatch from Paris says that Japan has surpassed the hopes of the friends of peace and even the conditions arranged by Russia, France and Germany. Like every power which knows its own mind, Japan is prompt in her resolutions and does not seem to desire to prolong the controversy by the adoption of half measures.

A dispatch from Berlin says it is understood that the Emperor of China did not ratify the treaty of peace until the envoys of Japan at Berlin, Paris and St. Petersburg had officially stated that Japan would give up the Liao-Tung peninsula.

Killed In the Street.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 7.—Early yesterday morning two young men found in the gutter the dead body of H. W. Thomas. There was a bullet hole in his head. Thomas, on Monday night, called on Mrs. F. L. Williams, a divorcee, at the home of her father. Soon after he left, a shot was fired. The murdered man's valuables were found on his person, thus precluding the idea of robbery. Mrs. Williams is a young woman who ran away to Hudson, Wis., to marry Williams. He turned out a worthless fellow and Mrs. Williams obtained a divorce. Williams was arrested and confessed.

Remembered by Her Sons.

NEW YORK, May 7.—At a monthly meeting of the trustees of Columbia college yesterday, magnificent gifts were announced. These include the gift by President Seth Low of the library building, which it is estimated will cost $1,000,000, and the gift by William C. Schermerhorn of another building, to cost about $300,000. It was also announced that F. A. Schermerhorn had bought and presented to the college the Townsend library, and that he had given $4000 to defray the expense of indexing it.

O'Donnell Defeats Kilrain.

CONEY ISLAND, May 7.—Steve O'Donnell was declared a winner over Jake Kilrain in their fight last night, after fighting 21 rounds. The contest was 25 rounds at catchweights. O'Donnell weighed 130 pounds and Kilrain 210. The latter appeared to be too fat. Jim Corbett and John L. Sullivan failed to appear in the respective corners of O'Donnell and Kilrain, as had been expected.

Unwilling to Corrupt Morals.

LONDON, May 7.—Oscar Wilde was released from custody today. He will probably leave London at once. Court officials are willing that he should be again arraigned, but it is understood that eminent persons urge upon the government the fact that much harm would be done to the public morals by the reprinting of all of the pernicious details of the case.

Governor Morrill In a Pickle.

TOPEKA, May 7.—Governor Morrill is to be arrested on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, according to the statement of Waters & Waters, attorneys. The charge is that Governor Morrill drew money from the state to pay for services given by his present private secretary one month before the governor was inaugurated.

Olympic Club Loses.

NEW ORLEANS, May 7.—The supreme court yesterday handed down a decision in the case of the state of Louisiana vs. the Olympic club. The judgment of the lower court was given in favor of the club, which would have allowed prize fighting to be continued. The supreme court reversed the decision and knocks out prize fighting in this city.

A Tip From the Vatican.

ROME, May 7.—The papal nuncios have received orders to inform the nations to which they are accredited that any message of congratulations or any participation in the September fetes in honor of the 25th anniversary of the Italian entry into Rome will be considered injurious and insulting to the pope and holy see.

Time Is Too Short.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 7.—The syndicate of yachtsmen which were considering the advisability of having Arthur Dyer, the Minnesota builder, construct a cup defender to meet the British yacht, have been forced, by the lack of time before the final contest comes off, to give up the project until next year.

Thought to Have Aided Taylor.

CHICAGO, May 7.—H. M. Benedict, brother-in-law of W. W. Taylor, the defaulting state treasurer of South Dakota, was arrested at the Leland hotel. Pinkerton detectives say that it has been definitely learned that Benedict assisted Taylor to escape.

Canada Hasn't Asked For It.

LONDON, May 7.—In the house of commons, in reply to a question on the subject, it was voted that no request had been received from Canada to call a conference of the different British colonies in order to discuss the details of the proposed Pacific cable.

Alleged Misdeed of a Preacher.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., May 7.—Rev. S. T. R. Crocker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, this city, was arrested yesterday and held for trial to answer a criminal charge preferred by a young woman who is a member of his congregation.

Prepared to Protect Americans.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The navy department announces that the Alert has arrived at San Juan del Sur. No doubt is felt of the ability of the Alert to protect American interests on the Pacific side of Nicaragua in case of revolution.

Florida Frowns on Fights.

TALLAHASSEE, May 7.—The senate passed yesterday a bill prohibiting prize fighting. Its provisions make it absolutely impossible for even a glove contest to take place. It is believed that the bill will pass the house by a unanimous vote.

Making Good Progress.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Considerable improvement is reported in General Cogswell's condition. His family hope he will be able to leave the city for his New England home by June 1.

LABOR AND POLITICS.

Socialist-Labor Party Supported by Textile Workers' Convention.

Unofficial Endorsement of the Olneyville Strike.

Officers Elected For Ensuing Year and Much Other Business Transacted.

PROVIDENCE, May 8.—As was feared by many of the operatives, the Textile union convention decided to take formal action in support of the Socialist-Labor party.

The resolutions which were adopted provided that as "workingmen must unite politically, in order to combat their oppressors, the capitalists, it is resolved that the National Union of Textile Workers of America do hereby encourage and call upon our fellow craftsmen to give the support of their suffrages to the Socialist-Labor party."

The adoption of the resolutions was only obtained after a long discussion, and they were finally carried by the combined

Vote of the Olneyville Delegates.

During the session a large number of constitutional amendments were taken up, the first being a proposition to increase the per capita tax. While this has been but 8 cents a quarter, it was proposed to make it 30 cents, but the great objection to such a material increase persuaded the delegates to compromise upon 10 cents a quarter, and this resolution was carried almost without opposition.

It was then voted to pay all the salaries of the executive officers, as well as their expenses while at the convention, and the constitution was amended to provide that all such officers be regarded as members of the textile convention and be allowed to have a voice in the transaction of business, even if not elected as delegates to that body.

The Olneyville Strike.

The convention considered the Olneyville strike at length, and although it was decided that it was impossible, in accordance with the constitution of the organization, to sanction the strike, it was decided to endorse it unofficially, and to promise the strikers to do everything possible to obtain material assistance for them from the other locals of the union.

The election of officers resulted as follows: General president, E. A. Thornton, Philadelphia; general vice president, Neil Waters, Fitchburg; general secretary, T. P. Cahill, Lawrence; general treasurer, Miss Annie Lucitt, Olneyville; executive board, P. J. Donohue, Pascoag; S. Mills, Lawrence, and Peter McDermott, Olneyville.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 8.—The senate admitted the substitute bill for the exemption from taxation in Massachusetts of shares of capital stock of corporations organized under the laws of other states, while the house rejected the bill to provide for the taxation of property of residents of this commonwealth held by foreign trusts. The bill providing that every city shall provide for the treatment, either in a hospital or as out patients, of indigent persons suffering from contagious or infectious diseases, was engrossed in the house. The bill to change the plumbing law of 1894 was rejected. The bill increasing the salary of the insurance commissioner to $4500 was rejected. The bill granting the Massachusetts Ship Canal company a charter to cut a canal through Cape Cod by the Bass river route was admitted, in spite of an adverse committee report in the house.

A Savage Assault.

BOSTON, May 8.—Louis Guinnasso entered an Italian saloon on Cross street last night and found there two female friends of his, whom he tried to induce to go home. Antonio Tressa, an Italian, objected to this and followed them to the sidewalk, where he drew a knife and made a back-handed slash at Guinnasso's throat. The knife penetrated the coat collar, shirt collar and tie, making a wound an inch wide and fully as deep. A second slash laid open the forefinger of Guinnasso's left hand. Tressa was arrested.

A School Tangle.

PORTLAND, May 8.—Judge Whitehouse gave a hearing yesterday to a motion for an injunction against John S. Clark of Naples, brought by Daniel W. Rounds. Naples has two boards and superintendents of schools, as a result of a village row. Rounds, one of the superintendents, appointed other teachers. The pupils are divided into two factions. The injunction is asked for by Rounds to prevent Clark from interfering with the schools until the courts decide which superintendent was legally elected.

Alone on a Long Voyage.

GLOUCESTER, May 8.—Sloop Spray, commanded by Joshua Slocum of Fairhaven, sailed from this port yesterday on a trip around the world. Captain Slocum goes entirely alone. He has already circled the earth five times. The Spray is 40 feet in length, and is not heavily sparred or canvassed. From here Captain Slocum will go to the isthmus of Panama, where, if satisfactory arrangements can be made, his boat will be carried across, otherwise he will go around Cape Horn.

Fatal Hesitation.

SOMERVILLE, May 8.—William J. Stacey walked upon the Holland street crossing of the Boston and Lowell railroad at the same time a freight train was approaching the crossing. Stacey evidently saw the on-coming train as he reached the center of the crossing, as he hesitated momentarily. The hesitation was fatal. Before he could retrace his steps or pass on, the engine struck him, killing him instantly. Stacey was chaplain of the Caleb Rand lodge of Odd Fellows.

Shot by Policeman.

BOSTON, May 8.—John J. McManus was shot and possibly fatally wounded yesterday by Policeman G. H. Guard. McManus is alleged to have assaulted Guard about a year ago, and at the time a warrant for his arrest was issued. McManus was not seen by the police until yesterday, when Patrolman Guard espied him in a saloon. When the patrolman attempted to take him, he wrenched off the handcuffs and ran away, whereupon the officer fired several shots at him.

Orange Officers.

BOSTON, May 8.—The grand lodge of Massachusetts Loyal Orange institution held its 24th annual session in this city yesterday, at which the following officers were elected: Thomas Milligan, Everett, grand master; James Ray, Boston, first deputy grand master; William Dawson, Boston, secretary; John Turkington, Brookline, treasurer; James Chalmers, Melrose, chaplain; Hugh McDonald, Cambridge, grand deputy of ceremonies.

Masonic Officers.

Burbank, Saco, and M. F. King, Portland.

A Democratic Mayor.

PORTSMOUTH, May 8.—The municipal election passed off quietly, and for the first time in 10 years the Republicans secured control of the city government. W. O. Junkins (Dem.) was elected mayor. Six Republicans and three Democrats were elected to the board of aldermen, and four Democrats and 12 Republicans to the council.

Lunatic at Large.

BOSTON, May 8.—After 10 years' confinement at Austin Farms, John J. Flynn, an insane inmate, cunningly made his way past the portals which separated him from the outer world, yesterday. His disappearance was not noticed until late in the day, when the police were then notified. No trace of the missing man has been found.

Southern Hospitality.

PORTLAND, May 8.—The Maine department Grand Army will occupy a large tobacco warehouse in Louisville as quarters for the Maine delegation to the national encampment. The quarters were tendered by a Confederate veteran, who says it will not cost the Maine boys a cent for lodging while they are in Louisville.

Affected by the Lockout.

PROVIDENCE, May 8.—The Manton weavers last night considered the complaint of the dresser tenders that they had not been notified of the strike in time to join it. Some inducements to return which have been offered were also considered, but it was voted to stay out as long as the notice of the lockout remains in force.

Prominent In South African Affairs.

BOSTON, May 8.—Advices from South Africa announce the death of Hon. Charles Waite, a native of this city, who was engaged extensively in the South African trade. Mr. Waite was a personal friend of Premier Rhodes, and was one of the latter's right hand men in administering the affairs of state.

The Y. M. C. A. Convention.

SPRINGFIELD, May 8.—The 31st international convention of the Y. M. C. A. of North America opened here today with "quiet" day services at Christ Episcopal church. At 3:30 the regular session of the convention will be called to order in the First Baptist church. In the evening, exercises will be held in the city hall.

Married Abroad.

WINSTED, Conn., May 8.—A cablegram announces the marriage at Whitehall, Isle of Wight, of Carl Stoeckel of Norfolk to Mrs. Ellen B. Terry of Norfolk. Mrs. Terry is reputed to be worth $1,000,000, which she inherited from her father. Stoeckel is about 35, and his bride is 10 or 12 years his senior.

Both Bills Thrown Out.

PROVIDENCE, May 8.—The judiciary committee of the senate reported adversely on the two bills passed by the house providing for a fine of $3000 as punishment for persons convicted of cutting wires, etc., during a street-car strike, and imprisonment for obstructing the tracks in any way.

Hughes Pays $1000 and Is Released.

PORTLAND, May 8.—Dr. J. B. Hughes, who was tried for the murder of Mary Dunn, the jury disagreeing, was brought into court and pleaded nolo contendere to a charge of manslaughter. Judge Bonney imposed a fine of $1000, which Hughes paid, and he was released.

Costly Litigation.

BRIDGEPORT, May 8.—The trial of a suit over a boundary between William Morrell and Mrs. Eliza Wallace, both wealthy residents here, has begun. The boundary has been removed more than 40 years, and there are 200 witnesses to be heard. The costs aggregate $700 a day.

Pipes Burst.

CONCORD, N. H., May 8.—St. Mary's school building was badly damaged by an explosion of the hot air pipes last night. Twenty-five young women were asleep in the building, and for a short time a panic prevailed. All the windows and much glassware were broken.

Counsel Assigned In Murder Case.

BOSTON, May 8.—Angus D. Gilbert, alleged murderer of Alice Sterling of Dorchester, was brought before Judge Fessenden yesterday afternoon. W. W. Doherty and J. E. Leach were assigned by the court as his counsel. The trial is expected to open June 24.

Ground to Pieces.

BRIDGEPORT, May 8.—George D. Kimber, aged 70, of Brooklyn, came here to make purchases for his summer home at Stratford. He attempted to cross the tracks at the station just as a train dashed in. The engine struck him, grinding him to fragments.

To Elect a Mayor.

NEWPORT, May 8.—An election will be held on May 24 to choose a mayor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Waters.

VETERANS TURNED OUT

To Show Esteem In Which They Held the Fighting General.

A Red Letter Day In the History of Hadley.

Little Town Prides Itself Upon Being the Birthplace of Joe Hooker.

HADLEY, Mass., May 8.—The great Hooker reunion was held yesterday in the big canvas tent on the green, just across from the quaint old gambrel-roofed farmhouse where General Hooker was born. The day was ideal and the parade was brilliant and impressive. The day's exercises began at Northampton.

The march was to begin promptly at 7:30, but it was fully an hour later before the line was formed. In front of the Norwood was the place of assembly, and Bridge street, on the other side, was crowded with spectators. The sight was a picturesque one. The generals and officers, seated on the spacious plazza of the Norwood, watched with interest the preparation for the march. Commencing at the Bridge street crossing, the various companies and escorts extended to the residence of General B. F. Cook.

Several of the veterans took the opportunity of visiting General Cook, and an informal reception was held on his plazza. General Thomas H. Dunham was marshal of the procession. The guests of honor followed the corps in carriages.

At the depot, awaiting the arrival of the posts, were scenes of bustle. Two trains of 10 cars were waiting for the civilians, which necessarily included the wives and children of veterans, and many friends of the Grand Army men, as they arrived, looking to see if their families were properly seated.

As the flood of humanity poured into Hadley, the hot, summerlike sun had almost succeeded in dispersing the fog, and but a slight haze dimmed the atmosphere. It proved welcome before long, tempering the heat, and the exercises at Hadley Opened Most Auspiciously.

Never before has old Hadley presented such a gala appearance. The arrival of the first special train found the streets crowded with people, the public buildings and private residences profusely decorated with flags and bunting and the ever-looming up lemonade and refreshment men lining many of the sidewalks with their booths or tents. The centers of attraction were, of course, the old Hooker homestead, in which General Hooker was born, a white hip-roofed building, about which were red, white and blue, and the major's tent erected opposite, in the form of a Greek cross, and capable of seating fully 3000 people.

Upon the platform, ready to be unveiled when the time arrived for General Sickles to raise the concealing flags and make a presentation speech, was the Hooker portrait. Gathered together in the Hooker house were the groups of relatives and friends, some of whom had traveled many miles to do the old hero honor.

The procession was but little late in reforming at Hadley, and marched and countermarched on West street, whose great width gave ample room for evolutions. Arriving at the tent, the veterans found it completely filled, with the exception of the space reserved for themselves. On the platform were seated the principal speakers and several of the old commanders and other notable men.

An Entertaining Program.

When all were seated, the bugler sounded the call for "Attention," and the invocation was offered. C. W. Prouty of Hadley was the first speaker, giving the address of welcome, the response being made by Major Plimley. In the absence of Governor Greenhalge, General Kimball spoke for Massachusetts. Then followed the song, "Reveille," written for the occasion by Clarence F. Hawkes, the blind poet, and sung by the pupils of Hopkins academy. Comrade Jewett of the Worcester Gazette read his poem, "Greeting and Salute," and was warmly applauded.

The cornet solo of "The Star Spangled Banner," by Thomas Henry, was received with great enthusiasm. Then followed the address of General Tremaine, at the conclusion of which General Sickles stepped forward, receiving an ovation, and, as he unveiled the fine portrait of General Hooker, which had been painted by J. H. Young of Boston at a cost of $1500, the enthusiasm was unbounded. The inscription plate on the portrait bears the following: "The Soldiers of the Third Army Corps to the Town of Hadley, May 7, 1895."

General Sickles' presentation speech was a masterpiece, and was ably and feelingly responded to by Dr. Bonney, after which the whole company joined in singing "America."

A large number of veterans remained to the farewell banquet last evening. After the banquet, toasts were responded to by Mayor Kimball of Northampton, Captain Jenkins, Colonel Stone of General Thomas' staff, General Joseph F. Rustling of New Jersey and J. H. Jewett of Worcester.

Privileges Were Abused.

PARIS, May 8.—The government is to introduce a bill in parliament, the object of which will be to abolish the privileges of persons distilling spirits from their own produce, the abuse of which has been an immense loss of revenue to the state.

A Child's Bad Fall.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, May 8.—John Burnett Tredo, 3 years old, fell from a second-story window, striking upon his head on the concrete sidewalk. He sustained severe injuries. Doctors say there is a chance of recovery, though small.

Old Mine to Be Reopened.

BAR HARBOR, Me., May 8.—The old mine on Seward's island, near Sorrento, is to be reopened. It was abandoned in 1881, but recently mining experts have discovered that it can be operated at a profit.

Burst a Blood Vessel.

WORCESTER, May 8.—Ernest W. Brierly was thrown from his bicycle, while coasting down Wyman street, by running into a little girl, and broke a blood vessel in his head, dying from the effects.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

IT NOW transpires that the proposed plan for apportionment of the cost of the Metropolitan water supply was based on the supposition that Quincy had a population of 28,826 in 1894. Not a resident of Quincy believes that the city approached any such figures last year. There is considerable doubt if it went over 20,000, for that is the accepted estimate of today. We are at a loss to understand why Woburn, Wakefield and Stoneham should have a rebate for water furnished and not the other cities. We are also suspicious of our rich neighbors Brookline and Newton, who claim they have water enough and are therefore only assessed on one-sixth of their population and valuation.

The assessment on Quincy now contemplated is $23,720, which increases the tax rate from $1.50 to $1 per $1,000 for the next forty years. Why did not the City Council consider this matter Monday evening in the committee of the whole and make a vigorous protest against the excessive and unjust assessment? It will be too late at the next regular meeting.

The New Depot.

It is said that the new railroad station between Quincy and Wollaston will be located just north of the brook that passes beneath the railroad almost directly in the rear of the residence of Mark E. Hanson.

The new station is almost an assured fact as it is already staked out. It will accommodate many people in that vicinity as well as these who reside on Adams street who now have to drive or walk quite a distance to reach the Quincy station. It is understood that the syndicate that control the Charles Francis Adams estate are interested in it.

A Singular Incident.

A large bird, somewhat larger than a hawk, flew through one of the large bay windows at Judge Pratt's residence on Spear street, early this morning, between five and six o'clock, breaking a large hole in a pane of glass.

The noise occasioned by the breaking, caused Mrs. Pratt to go to the sitting room where she found a large bird which she attempted to catch, and when she had nearly got her hand on him, he up and flew through the glass he had broken, and was soon out of sight.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

McClellan, as they are the Trustees of the Manet Land Associates under an Indenture of Trust dated June 10, 1890, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 639, page 571, dated October 7th, 1893, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds Lib. 701, page 536, and by the said Trustees assigned to Charles C. Barton, Junior, by assignment dated May 6th, 1895, and for breach of the condition thereof, and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on or near the premises on Saturday, June 1st, 1895, at half past three o'clock, P. M., all and singular the following described premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:

And the first of said parcels is bounded and described as follows, viz: Northerly on Winthrop street one hundred nineteen and 1-10 feet; easterly on Sea street fifty one and 88-100 feet; southerly on lot twenty-one, one hundred and five and 45-100 feet; westerly on part of lot twenty-four, fifty feet, and containing fifty-six hundred and thirteen square feet of land.

And the second of said parcels is bounded and described as follows, viz: Northerly on lot twenty-two, one hundred fifteen and 97-100 feet; easterly on Sea street, fifty-five and 2-10 feet; southerly on Shennen street, ninety-two and 25-100 feet; westerly on part of lot fifty-three, fifty feet, and containing 5,205 square feet of land.

THE POSTER SHOW.

A Novel Exhibition for Benefit of Quincy Hospital.

A TALK BY MISS IRENE WEIR

French and American Designs of Great Excellence Seen.

A large attendance marked yesterday's opening of the "Poster Show" held for the benefit of the Quincy City Hospital in the Unitarian chapel. During the afternoon there were many visitors from out of town who expressed great admiration for the large collection of rare and beautiful posters on exhibition. In the evening the gathering was chiefly representative of Quincy and was made especially enjoyable by an interesting talk by Miss Irene Weir of Brookline.

The French posters proved most attractive for this nation was the first to recognize and develop the artistic possibilities of pictorial advertising.

Cheret, who is the more fully represented here than any other artist was not only the pioneer in the art but brings also the most marked originality to his designs. His merrily dancing figures with their filmy draperies and fleet movement have a suggestion of those which were frescoed on the walls of Pompeii, which are a delight to artists the world over. His Saxoleine (yellow) No. 38, and La Loie Fuller, No. 44, are particularly worthy of notice.

Grasset, whose work in some ways is even superior to that of Cheret, is well known in America through his superb Napoleon poster. He prefers a Byzantine richness of color as is seen in his Jeanne Darc No. 84. His Lib Romantique No. 87 is one of the choicest specimens. The drawing of the figure is remarkably graceful.

The work of Steinlen is so charming both in line and color that it must be seen to be appreciated. His poster "Salt pon Sterilise" is perhaps the most artistic one displayed. The flat rich red coloring in the gown of the little girl and the yellow in the child's hair repeated on the fur of the tortoise shell cat, that sits with two other cats at her feet, are most effective, while the drawing and disposition of the figures, show the hand of one accustomed to treating large surfaces in the most masterly manner. All the remaining examples of his own work are worthy the closest attention.

Lautrec's are the most astounding things in the collection. Their careless dare-devil abandon answers all the purposes they were intended for.

Hels, an artist who represents the lower classes of Paris, shows in L'Escarmouche, a typical Parisian cafe on the outer boulevard. The soldiers seen through the glass are cleverly rendered.

Carlos Schwab, one of the leaders of the Rose Croix school, in his concert announcement, shows the fine drawing and the morbid tendencies of that school.

While the American designers have not yet reached the perfection of the French in this department of art yet vast strides in the right direction have been already made, as is evinced by the excellent Harper Posters drawn by Penfield; of the Century Co., by Rhead; the Chap Book Series, by Bradley; and the Lippincott set, by Carqueville.

The exhibition will be open to the public during the afternoons and evenings of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, when in addition to the opportunity of seeing the posters the social feature of serving tea will be introduced.

Quincy Quarry Company.

In the month of April, the Quincy Quarry Company delivered 102 loaded cars to the New York, New Haven & Hartford at West Quincy, with a tonnage of 3,536,210 pounds, and received from the New Haven road 11 loaded cars, carrying 127,310 pounds, making the aggregate number of loaded cars handled 113, with a total tonage of 3,663,520 pounds.

Engine 721 is now doing the work on the Quarry railroad. She is capable of shoving up ten empty flats at one trip.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford has arranged to expedite shipments of dressed granite, by running a granite special from South Braintree to Mansfield, then connecting at 3.38 P. M. with the west bound "berry express," reaching Harlem River at 3.00 A. M. next morning. Granite loaded for instance on Monday would reach Harlem River, Wednesday morning, at 3 A. M., in ample time for prompt delivery to consignees and connection the same day.

Charley Strong's Snap.

NEW YORK, May 8.—At the Manhattan clubhouse last night, Peter Courtney, who fought a losing battle for six rounds before the kinetoscope with Jim Corbett, engaged in a bout at catchweights with Charley Strong (colored). Strong simply banged right and left swings, slugs and every other imaginable blow on his opponent's head, neck and body. Courtney seemed to be absolutely paralyzed from the word go, and went down and out at the expiration of 1m. 15s. of actual slugging.

May Well Be Satisfied.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—The Russian government is satisfied with Japan's reply to the protest of the powers and regards the incident thus far as closed. Russia is evidently glad to get out of a very awkward position without haggling as to the particular form of language in which Japan agrees to refrain from annexing the Liao-Tung peninsula. The Russian military preparations in the far East have been suspended, in accordance with telegraphed orders from the war office.

The Result of a Feud.

SERGEANT, Ky., May 8.—The Gilley boys and Joe and Will Day met near their homes on Indian creek, nine miles from Norton, Va., and engaged in a deadly battle, which resulted in the death of the three Gilley boys and the fatal wounding of Joe Day. The two factions have been at war for some time, the bad feeling growing out of the elopement of one of the Gilleys with Day's girl.

Ledge Gave Way.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 8.—At the bluestone quarry Michael Joy and three Italians were drilling a hole for blasting in a ledge of rock. Suddenly the ledge gave way, precipitating, the workmen over a precipice, where they were buried under tons of stone and earth. Joy was killed and the Italians were fatally injured.

Poor Old Bill.

Dream to Be Realized.

PARIS, May 8.—Count de Castellane and his wife, formerly Miss Anna Gould, have bought a large site in this city, and the countess will now carry out the dream of her life, that is, to reproduce the Grand Trianon at Versailles, with immense gardens, for a Paris residence.

Houses and Churches Gone.

BUDA-PESTH, May 8.—A conflagration in the town of Galszeez, in the Zemplin district, has destroyed 150 houses and three churches. Three persons were burned to death and four were injured.

The Spalding Bicycle

BEARINGS.

Upon the quality of its bearings, depends the coasting qualities of a bicycle, for then the machine talks—not the rider.

We point with pride to the record of the "Spalding" bicycle in 1894—its first year. It proved itself a coaster, par excellence. Why? Because its bearings were right. No care or expense was spared, and the result was—success. The outlay for special machinery and the great care exercised in selecting stock, was not without good result.

FRONT HUB AXLE AND BEARINGS.

The "Spalding" bicycle out-coasted all others. As made by our own process, "Spalding" bearings are absolutely true; ball cases and cones are turned out of the best bar stock tool steel, tempered, then ground, and polished until absolutely true, and as a result—"Spaldings" coast.

A Big Factory Just Built in Newark.

Nothing succeeds like success and the truth of this old adage is amply proved by the success which has attended the opening of a factory for the proper making of that sterling remedy, Johann Hoff's Malt Extract. This factory is situated in Newark, opposite the West Newark station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. It is built of brick and brownstone, and has two cupolas, which add to the handsome appearance of the building. Inserted in the front of the big building is a marble slab, engraved simply: "Johann Hoff (original house in Berlin.) Erected, Newark, New Jersey, 1893."

The factory, for such it must be called, is five stories high, and was completed in the year mentioned. The skill of expert architects and builders was employed, and today the big building stands a significant symbol of the success of the health-giving remedy which is made within its walls. The great demand for the extract in this country prompted the erection of the factory, and, large as it is, the constantly growing demand for the well-known product may soon make necessary an enlarging of the present building. The machinery in the handsome structure is of the latest make, a perfect system of ventilation insures cleanliness, and skilled employes only are hired. Of course, the making of the extract is a secret, but its beneficial results to those who take it are no secret. For forty-five years it has been steadily growing in favor, and it has gained the approbation of even the most most conservative physicians. It is really an almost indispensable remedy for those who are recovering from attacks of enfeebling fevers or those worn out with hard work and care, or suffering from indigestion.—New York Tribune.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recomme dation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles For Sale by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.

THE SCHOOL COLUMN

Author of "Star Spangled Banner" To Have a Monument.

SALARY BOSTON SUB-MASTERS

Our School Committee Favor a Kindergarten and Manual Training.

Nine teachers from the Lynn public school visited the Coddington school today.

Some of the pupils of our public schools devote part of each Saturday to sketching out of doors. Have you seen the exhibition in the show window at the office of Supt Lull?

Malden is to tender a reception to its public school teachers, to show the appreciation of their work and bring parents and teachers in closer touch.

The School Committee of Quincy in their recent annual report outline improvements for the year as follows: "Briefly looking toward the work of the next year it is desirable that something be done in the way of manual training, of kindergarten work as supplementary to our primary system, and of a further advance in work of the grammar grade by which pupils of a certain rank may anticipate studies now taken in the first year of the High School."

The salary of a sub-master of Boston is arranged on a graded scale, the minimum amount being $1,500, and an annual increase of $60, 12 years, so that for the 13th and every subsequent year the maximum of $2,280 is paid. These salaries being higher than those paid in the neighboring cities and towns, attract to Boston the best talent, and as the road to a Boston mastership generally lies through a submastership, the theory and the fact here accord that the personnel and character of the sub-masters are of the very best. They are the pick of the profession.—Herald.

In Sparta, the ancient city of Greece, the children did not belong to their parents, they were the property of the state, and as such, the commonwealth provided for their education. Probably it is this principle, although not in all its rigidity, that makes modern nations provide freely for the education of the young, and in this respect, the United States is on equality with the most advanced countries, and of all the states in the union, Massachusetts has always held the sceptre, as far as education is concerned. It is, then, an honor for a town or city in the Bay state to be mentioned as having excellent schools.—Brockton Times.

The Star Spangled Banner's Author.

Many interesting things about Francis Scott Key—the author of the Star Spangled Banner—are contained in a pamphlet, which may be obtained free, from the Key Monument Association of Frederick City, Maryland, by sending one 2 cent stamp for postage. This Association is raising funds for a suitable monument to the poet, and they suggest, that in the schools and everywhere, upon or before Flag Day (June 14th), this subject be suitably recognized. Contributions, however small, are asked for. Every one who loves the Flag, ought to have some small share in building this monument. The Governor of Maryland has strongly endorsed the movement. The names of all contributors will be preserved in the crypt of the monument, and published (without amount) in the history of the monument when completed.

Simplified Elocution.

A new book, bearing the above title, by Edwin Gordon Lawrence, teacher of elocution and director of the Lawrence School of Acting, has just been issued. Simplified Elocution is a comprehensive system of vocal and physical gymnastics; it contains explicit instructions for the cultivation of the speaking voice and gesture; directions for the production of breath, sound and speech, and a thorough explanation of the muscles and organs employed; rules for articulation, modulation, emphasis and delivery; postures and movements of the feet, body, arms, head, eyes, etc. To the treatise is added a Complete Speaker. The work is designed for the special use of teachers, actors, students, colleges and schools. The book, which contains 232 pages, is handsomely bound in cloth and gold, and will be sent postage free on receipt of $1.00. [New York: published by the author, 106 West 42d street.]

Bank Notes.

In accordance with the provisions of the Act of the Legislature recently passed and signed by the Governor relative to banking hours on Saturdays, it gives to holders of all drafts, notes, etc., the option after the first of June to pay before 12 o'clock on Saturday, or on the next succeeding secular or business day. It is to conform to the law in other states having a half holiday on Saturday.

Before commencing one of his concerts, Paderewski, the much admired, holds his hands for 10 minutes in water so hot that he can hardly bear it.

Street Sprinkling.

I would like, respectfully, in behalf of the bicycle riders who use our streets for business and pleasure, that the Commissioner supplement the excellent work he is now doing by instructing his drivers to leave on either side of the street, when sprinkling, a strip about six feet wide, unsprinkled; thereby enabling the riders to safely travel. I am sure it will be highly appreciated. C.

—The supreme court will hear arguments next Monday, on the question of opening the income tax cases again. The income tax law as it stands today is a mystery. It exists at all only by the decision of an inferior court, which holds by reason of a tie in the supreme court. "The only way to clear up this mystery," says the Boston Post, "is to procure a decision of the highest court, in which the opinion of all the members shall be given. As there is an odd number of judges, there will be no tie, and when the vote is taken something will be decided, on one side or the other.

—The wheelmen propose to put up sign boards at 1000 cross-roads in the state this summer and will insist that towns comply with the law in reference to this.

—Mr. Joseph H. Choate thinks that the income tax agitation just begun will continue for at least the next twenty-five years.

☞ Window screens and screen doors, its time to be thinking of them now. Flies are on the war path, whole armies and brigade are being mustered in. They'll be here before you know it. Window screens, 30, 35, 40 cts. Screen doors, $1.00 and $1.50. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

THE TATTLER.

Anna Dickinson is of Quaker blood.

Lady Ormonde breaks four bottles out of ten with a pistol at 30 paces.

Mrs. Paran Stevens left an estate of $1,500,000. She made no charitable or public bequests.

Mrs. Frederick Gebhard is noted as having as pretty hands as any woman in America.

Miss Helen Gould's mail each day is simply enormous, and it is made up to a great extent of begging letters.

Miss Mary Proctor, the daughter of the astronomer, will lecture on astronomy at Chautauqua during the coming summer.

Miss Florence Bayard, daughter of the American embassador in London, has sent home for a bicycle of American manufacture.

Mrs. Plumtre, an English woman, has just completed a dictionary for the blind in Brazil. It has occupied her nearly 2½ years.

The late Mrs. Waldorf Astor inherited a lace dress from her mother-in-law which cost $28,000 in Paris. It has now passed on as a relic to Miss Pauline Astor.

Miss Burnett of Boston, who has just received the veil at the Catholic Convent of the Sacred Heart in Albany, is reported to be an intimate friend of Mrs. President Cleveland, and the one for whom little Ruth was named.

Mrs. A. C. Chapin, the wife of the ex-mayor of Brooklyn, always refrained from intruding herself on the larger public of her husband. Her conduct in this respect was due to an antematrimonial agreement. She is a close friend of Mrs. Cleveland.

Miss Josephine Palmer, the niece of A. M. Palmer, who recently made her debut on the concert stage, is a crack skater, an expert musician, given to scribbling verses, can handle a rifle and pistol and is a charming and winsome little lady generally.

Mrs. Levi P. Morton is a rich woman in her own right, having inherited a fortune from her father. She was a Miss Street, and her girlhood was passed amid all the luxury that money could procure. She is a fine musician and a most accomplished linguist.

Mrs. Westinghouse, whose husband invented the airbrake, is rapidly acquiring the title of the "Mrs. John W. Mackay" of the United States. What Mrs. Mackay's entertainments, or functions, if you will, have been and are to London and Paris those of Mrs. Westinghouse are rapidly becoming to Washington.

FRENCH MAXIMS.

There are people for whom everything is obscure except platitude.—Jean Moreas.

There are fortunes that yell "fool" at honest people.—Edmond et Jules de Goncourt.

Politeness is the daughter of French grace and of Jesuit genius.—Edmond et Jules de Goncourt.

Great men are medals which God marks with the stamp of their century.—Edmond et Jules de Goncourt.

Every literary movement is a reaction against the movement which preceded it.—Edmond de Goncourt.

Symbolist literature is the means of giving to people recollection of something they have never seen.—Charles Morice.

Who can say that science shall not some day retrace the portrait of Alexander on the rock where his shadow rested a moment?—Berthelot.

There is only one subject in art: Œdipus, Orpheus or Hamlet—that is, a hero struggling with a moral or social enigma.—Josephin Peladan.

There are no schools, there are only individuals. A school presupposes pupils and imitators and these are not interesting. There is only the creator. The rest do not count.—Gustave Geffroy.

OUR GIRLS.

With the advent of the new woman what will become of that old standby, the summer girl?—New Haven Palladium.

The new woman buys her dinners already cooked and puts in her time in making flowers on cloths to serve with them.—Atchison Globe.

It takes a very ugly dress to make a Baltimore girl look strange, and fashion is never ugly. Neither is the Baltimore girl.—Baltimore American.

The imitative arts are becoming altogether too previous when you have to ask a girl whether the flowers in her buttonhole bouquet are natural or artificial.—Boston Globe.

American women spend $20,000,000 a year for chewing gum, and yet the ready flow of female conversation is not checked. Grumpy old bachelors will hold that it only tends to strengthen the jaws.—Detroit Free Press.

To the woman of advanced ideas leap year is no longer significant of greater matrimonial liberty. She simply adopts the modern bargain counter motto, and when she sees what she wants asks for it.—St. Paul Globe.

SHIPS.

The American flag is never allowed to touch the deck on a man-of-war.

The highest masts of sailing vessel are from 160 to 180 feet high and spread from 60,000 to 100,000 square feet of canvas.

The flags to be hoisted at one time in signaling at sea never exceed four. With 18 variously colored flags, and never more than four used at a time, 78,642 signals may be given.

After the hull of a ship is built she is launched before her spars are put in. This launching is usually done stern foremost, sometimes bow foremost and in very narrow rivers side foremost.

When a gunpowder lighter comes alongside a ship, all fires are put out. Matches are carefully stowed away, the cook suspends operations, pipes are extinguished, and the heavy chests are carried on board by hand.

DOGMATISMS.

The collie dog exists chiefly as an excuse for literary Scots to write poems and stories about.

The dog is first cousin of the wolf and stepson of any one who will take an interest in him. . .

The edible Chinese dog is called a "chow" dog. Two dogs are of course chow-chow.

Unlike the bark of a tree, which sticks closely to it, a dog's bark spreads for some distance around him and bothers people.

There is no good dog but a silent one, and very few even of the silent are admirable. A dead dog is pretty good when buried.—New York Recorder.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles Whitehouse of Holbrook was arraigned for keeping an unlicensed dog. Case continued until May 22.

Timothy E. Morrison of Quincy was fined $8 for assault on his wife, Bridget M. Morrison.

James F. Gainor of Randolph was fined $15 for disturbing a public school and $5 for drunkenness.

It Did the Business.

Mr J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

FISH IN THE STREETS.

Hartford Citizens Had Fun During the Recent Floods.

In the phenomenal freshet that visited Hartford just recently, with a yellow flood roaring and curling about some of the principal streets of the town, many citizens enjoyed the rare and novel sport of taking fish in their kitchen gardens, in city lots and sometimes in the public highways. The handsomest catch probably was taken by W. E. Smith of Wethersfield avenue, who bagged a splendid seven pound river pike in his back yard near a line of currant bushes.

Although the place is a mile and a half from the river ordinarily, still there was water enough there even for a craft of the pike's draft, since it was two feet deep.

Unquestionably it was the severest freshet since the extraordinary one of 1858. Hundreds of dwellings were half filled with dirty water, and for more than a week it was impossible to reach them except by swimming or in boats. It was certainly decidedly novel to see a fleet of small boats plying through populous avenues, ferrying people hither and thither, as if with gondolas, to and from their homes.

And in what a terribly filthy condition the houses are left by the receding waters! With a cellar and every room of the first story of dwellings saturated with river mud the premises cannot be cleaned except with great toil and expense, while the probability is that these drenched rooms will retain an unwholesome dampness far into the latter part of the summer. It is likely there will be many deaths directly on account of the after effects of the inundation.—New York Sun.

CANNING HORSES.

Purchasers In Oregon Said to Be Buying Them Cheap For Fall Use.

Advices from eastern Oregon are to the effect that several thousand horses had been sold to Portland parties to be slaughtered and the meat to be canned and offered for sale, but who the parties are cannot be ascertained. Members of all butchering firms in Portland were asked about the matter, but all denied having any knowledge of the sale of the horses or the purpose of the parties to slaughter them for profit.

It is not probable that the slaughter of horses will be undertaken on any extended scale until fall, when they will be in good condition. Parties are buying them at present because they may be obtained for a very small price.

On the range now they are being sold at $1 and $2 per head in order to make room for cattle.

Mr. Seaton, a large cattleman of Crook county, confirmed the story of the sale of horses to be killed and packed. Seaton himself sold 5,000 horses at $3 a head and understood when the deal was made what use was to be made of the horses. He refuses to divulge the names of the purchasers and will only say that one of them is an eastern man. The parties, he says, are looking for more horses and intend fattening them on the range until late in the year, when they will be slaughtered.—New York Telegram.

* CAPTURE OF FORT TICONDEROGA 1775.

TROUBLE IN ECUADOR

Growing Out of the Sale of Cruiser Esmeralda to Japan.

Accusations of Corruption Are Freely Made.

American War Vessel Receives Instructions to Protect Americans' Interests.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The fact leaked out at the navy department yesterday, after having been hidden from the public for a week, that the U. S. S. Ranger had been ordered from Buena Ventura, Colombia, on May 2, to Esmeraldas, a port in northern Ecuador, where she probably has been for the last four days, the voyage being only about 45 miles in length.

This order was issued at the request of the state department, where it was stated that the request was made because the department had been convinced by representations made by Americans having interests in Ecuador that it would be wise to do so. No further statement as to the nature of the trouble that has arisen in Ecuador could be gathered at the state department, but from other sources it is learned that a revolution is believed to be impending in that country, as the outcome of the bitter dissatisfaction engendered by the use of the Ecuadorean flag to cover the transfer to Japan of the Chilian cruiser Esmeralda last winter.

Some American merchants have large interests in silver mines and other properties in Ecuador, and it was upon their representations that the state department acted, although it has no assurance that a revolution has actually broken out.

Beginning of the Trouble.

On April 24, President Cordero of Ecuador resigned, the vice president taking his place. The cabinet was reorganized with Louis Salvador as minister of the interior; Dr. Nunez, minister of finance; General Sarasti, minister of war, and Dr. Espinoza, minister of justice.

The first sign of the present trouble was the scandal attending the sale of the cruiser Esmeralda, which was bought by Ecuador from Chili and then turned over to Japan. Accusations of corruption in the management of this affair have been freely made. Three weeks ago, General Aloy Alfaro, the leader of the radical party, who has been living in exile in Nicaragua, sent out a proclamation in which he said that the honor of the government was at stake, and that the only way to set the country right before the other nations would be to depose those who were responsible.

At last accounts, General Alfaro was on his way to Ecuador to head the discontented party, and the revolution may have been consummated before his arrival. From sources friendly to the movement it is stated that his adherents number from 5000 to 10,000, and that they recently captured Ibarra, a town of about 2000 inhabitants, situated near Quito, and Esmeraldas, a maritime town, the capital of the department of the same name.

Thirty Stitches to Close Wounds.

BOSTON, May 8.—An assault, with an ax as a weapon, occurred last night in Charlestown. About 8:30 o'clock Officer Goggin found Patrick Murphy lying upon the sidewalk on Chelsea street, bleeding profusely from several wounds on the head. Dr. Duff sewed up Murphy's cuts, being obliged to take nearly 30 stitches. Murphy stated that he had been struck with an ax wielded by Timothy Flynn, who lives at the same house with him. Flynn, he said, accused him of interfering in his domestic affairs, which he denied, and one word led to another, Flynn finally grasping an ax and striking him several times. Flynn was locked up.

Games May Go On.

CAMBRIDGE, May 8.—The question of intercollegiate football was brought up again yesterday in the first meeting of the Harvard faculty since the return of President Eliot from his trip abroad. A motion prohibiting students from taking part in intercollegiate football contests failed to pass. This means that there will be no more discussion of the football question by the faculty this year, and that the athletic committee will be unhampered in its efforts to have football played under reform rules.

Badly Demoralized.

HALIFAX, May 8.—The American fishing schooner Bertha B. Nickerson, bound to the Grand Banks from Boothbay, Me., met with a heavy storm, during which her foremasthead, jibboom, jib and foresail were carried away. The vessel was strained and is leaking badly.

On Good Terms But—

MADRID, May 8.—In the cortes yesterday the minister of foreign affairs stated that Spain was on the best of terms with Japan, but, nevertheless, the government deemed it advisable to take certain steps to safely guard the Spanish interests in the Philippine islands.

China's Offer.

SHANGHAI, May 8.—The Chinese emperor has written to the czar and President Faure asking for financial assistance to meet the war expenses and promising to grant special commercial advantages to Russia and France in return therefor.

Favored by All Three.

AMHERST, Mass., May 8.—At a meeting of representatives from Amherst, Dartmouth and Williams, it was unanimously voted to form a triple triangular league between the colleges, representing football, baseball and track athletics.

A Shaky Locality.

BUENOS AYRES, May 8.—There was a severe earthquake yesterday in Mendoza. The inhabitants were terror stricken, and fled from the town. The place was destroyed by an earthquake in 1869.

Italian Parliament Dissolved.

ROME, May 8. — King Humbert has signed a decree dissolving the chamber of deputies and fixing May 26 as the date for the election of new deputies. The second ballots will be taken on June 2. The new chamber will assemble Aug. 2.

Germany Was Premature.

BERLIN, May 8.—The Hamburger Nachrichten, in an article that is certain to be attributed to Prince Bismarck, says that the initiative taken by Germany in the Eastern war was premature.

Jury Found at Last.

NEW YORK, May 8.—After 17 days' effort, 12 jurors are now in the box to try Inspector McLaughlin on the charges of bribery and extortion.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Great Britain Should Not Longer Delay Investigation of Armenian Affairs.

LONDON, May 8.—A meeting to protest against the Armenian outrages was held here last evening. The Duke of Argyll presided, and the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. On one of the walls of the hall was a large placard on which was inscribed the text of article 61 of the treaty of Berlin, reading:

"The sublime porte undertakes to carry out, without further delay, the improvements and reforms demanded by local requirements in the provinces inhabited by the Armenians and to guarantee their security against the Circassians and Kurds. It will periodically make known the steps taken to this effect to the powers, who will superintend their application."

In his speech opening the meeting, the Duke of Argyll said it was a hopeless task to overcome the causes of corruption in Turkey. It was now the absolute duty of the British government to assume an active executive part on the Armenian question. It was its duty to open the windows and let in the light.

A letter from Mr. Gladstone to the Duke of Argyll was read. In it Mr. Gladstone said: "I hope that the meeting you have bravely undertaken to preside over will produce an effect proportioned to the gravity of the causes which occasioned it. It is with the most sincere grief that now, when it appears that the extremes of shameful outrages in Armenia cannot any longer be treated as a matter of doubt, I contemplate the infatuation of the Turkish government, determined, it would seem, to do everything possible to produce its own ruin."

After remarking that it might be expected that the seclusion of the Bulgarian horrors might have had the effect of preventing a repetition, Mr. Gladstone declared that "Europe's duty is to place no reliance upon mere words, but to adopt effective steps to prevent a recurrence. I am confident that England will not shrink from her duty, and I trust she will have the firm co-operation of France and Russia. If the other powers refrain, it is to be regretted on their own account."

The letter concludes with expressing the hope that moral pressure will suffice to induce the sultan and his advisers to "suppress these deeds of shame."

Opening of the A. P. A.'s Convention.

MILWAUKEE, May 8.—The supreme council of the A. P. A. begun its sixth annual session this morning. Supreme President Traynor's position is that political wisdom lies in the members affiliating with the party which will champion the best of its principles, and if neither of the old parties will do that, and a new party is organized outside of the order which will embrace those principles in its platform, he would counsel action with such a party, and that it is time for the order to take decisive action along these lines. The members of the association claim to be able to control the elections in several states.

Buchanan's Execution Imminent.

ALBANY, May 8.—The governor has declined to interfere any more in the Buchanan case, and has turned it over to the attorney general, who, with the governor, suggests that for safety the convicted man had better be resentenced. District Attorney Fellows disagrees, and says that there is nothing in the way of executing the sentence of death.

Insurgents Burn Houses.

HAVANA, May 8.—The insurgents yesterday attacked Cristo and burned three houses. The Spanish troops lost one killed and six wounded. The insurgents also made an attack upon Caney, and burned one house before they were compelled to retire by the troops.

France Raises Objections.

PARIS, May 8.—France is negotiating with Japan regarding the recession of Formosa and the Pescadore islands to China. France insists that in the event of Japan holding the islands the strength of the garrison and the number of warships be limited.

Oscar Won't Talk.

LONDON, May 8.—Oscar Wilde's solicitors have promised to keep the authorities posted in regard to the movements of their client. Wilde is suffering from nervous prostration and declines to be interviewed.

Poor Judgment.

TORONTO, May 8.—Clara Ford, who was acquitted on Saturday of the charge of murdering young Westwood, will exhibit herself at Moore's musee for the remainder of the week.

ALL AT SEA

But Finally Rescued from Danger. Result of Taking a Friend's Advice.

There are thousands of women to-day entirely at sea, so to speak, as far as their ailments are concerned.

They are overtaken by some female complaint, and send for their doctor in all haste. He usually tries this and that without success; he is all at sea, and his poor patient is with him.

Suddenly a lady friend tells the sufferer to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it has cured her.

The following letter shows the result of that trial, and is a sample of thousands of similar cases happening daily.

"I had been very sick for a long time; doctored with many prominent physicians. They pronounced my case dyspepsia, and said there was a tendency to cancer of the womb. There was a sense of fulness and weight in stomach after meals, loss of appetite, and offensive belching of wind, dizziness, 'all gone' feeling in pit of the stomach; headache, heartburn, palpitation at times, urine high colored. A lack of interest in all things.

"The doctor's medicines gave me but little relief. I was almost in despair, when a friend advised your Compound. I took it, and am now perfectly well. I can recommend it to all women. A number of my friends and neighbors have taken it on my recommendation, and have always found relief."—MRS. JAMES CRANKSHAW, Frankford, Pa.

This property contains about 17½ acres of land and a large mansion, recently the residence of C. F. Adams, Esq., and is located upon Presidents' Hill in this city, within two minutes' walk of Quincy station, N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. By reason of its natural advantages and the liberal expenditure of its former owner, being well graded and interspersed with beautiful trees and shrubbery of many years' growth, make it one of the most desirable locations for a home of any of the many beautiful sections surrounding Boston. UNION FUNDS ARE LOW

Circumstance Which Makes It Look Gloomy For Olneyville Strikers.

Big Mills to Close Their Doors Until October.

Expected Collapse on the Part of Mill Owners Fails to Materialize.

OLNEYVILLE, R. I., May 9.—The strike situation here does not savor well for the strikers. The mill operatives have been expecting a collapse of the stand taken by the mill owners. They counted surely on the inability of the manufacturers to keep their word that they would shut down their mills on May 18, for the reason that orders must be filled.

But now comes the intelligence that the Riverside mills will positively shut down next Saturday afternoon. The bosses at the Riverside mills notified the help, just before the power was shut down last night, that when the mills were closed on Saturday it would be to resume operation on Oct. 1.

This conforms with the associated manufacturers' published notice that all the strikers must return to work under penalty of throwing all the other help out of work.

At the Saxon mills four loom-fixers have returned to work and samples of spring goods are being turned out. The other manufacturers are preparing to get out samples, and will probably be able to get weavers for that purpose in a few days, as the strike begins to Look Weak In the Back.

The action of the national council of the Textile union in endorsing the Atlantic mill's strike is nothing more than could be expected, for the help went under full sanction of the district council and in accordance with the constitution of the union.

The statement is made that the treasury of the National Textile union is exhausted. This means that the strikers must depend upon voluntary contributions from the operatives in other states, and it is not possible that they can get anywhere near the amount they need.

The ability of the strike committee to meet such a money demand as the loss of wages would cause is reasonably doubtful.

The national council adjourned last evening to meet at Lawrence on the first Monday in May, 1896.

EX-GOVERNOR WESTON.

Close of the Successful Life of an Honored New Hampshire Man.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 9.—Ex-Governor James A. Weston died here yesterday morning.

Ex-Governor Weston had the distinction of being the first native-born citizen of Manchester to be elected governor of the state, or mayor of Manchester. He was born in Manchester, Aug. 27, 1827. In his youth Mr. Weston began the study of civil engineering, teaching school winters. At the age of 19 he had acquired a singular proficiency in his chosen profession.

In politics, Mr. Weston was always a Democrat. He was the first Democrat elected mayor of Manchester, in 1862. He ran for mayor six times, being elected three times. On other occasions of his defeat his opponents never had more than 50 plurality. Mr. Weston was called upon to stand as the gubernatorial candidate of his party at the election in March, 1871. The election resulted in no choice by the people. A Democratic legislature was elected and in joint convention the legislature elected Mr. Weston governor, the first Democratic governor since 1855.

Governor Weston was renominated, but was defeated by Ezekiel A. Straw. Both men ran again in 1873, Mr. Straw being re-elected. For the fourth time Mr. Weston was nominated for governor, and at the election in March, 1874, was far ahead of his opponent, but the scattering vote defeated a choice. The Democratic legislature chosen at that time again selected Mr. Weston for governor. In June, 1875, he retired from office, after which time he did not again aspire for political office.

Later in life Govern or Weston became interested in various financial enterprises, especially banking. Mr. Weston was a most public spirited citizen and his death will be keenly felt by his associates in all of the many institutions with which he was actively connected. He leaves five children. His wife died three years ago.

In 1871 Dartmouth college conferred upon him the honorary degree of master of arts. He was a member of the Amoskeag veterans and was high in the Masonic fraternity.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 9. — The Boston city charter bill occupied the attention of the house and was not entirely digested at the time of adjournment. The house reconsidered its rejection of the bill increasing the insurance commissioner's salary to $4500, and then engrossed the bill. The senate rejected the bill prohibiting the licensing of saloons within a quarter of a mile of a no-license city or town. The house reconsidered its rejection of the bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the support of the public schools. The several orders before the senate for an investigation of the affairs of Boston gas companies were rejected. The senate rejected the house amendments to the militia bill, and then ordered it to a third reading. Owing to extraordinary expenses, the state house construction commissioners will ask for a further appropriation of $800,000 for the construction of the state house annex, making a total cost of $2,700,000.

Still Unsettled.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 9.—A committee of the striking shoe workers at Crafts & Green's factory held a conference with Mr. Crafts last night. The strikers requested to be taken back at the old schedule rates which existed before the cutdown, but Mr. Crafts informed them that they must apply individually and then probably a majority would be taken back at reduced wages. The strikers voted to hold out longer. A large number of non-union men joined the union last night.

Yale Navy's Regatta.

NEW HAVEN, May 9.—The sophomores won the class championship in the annual regatta of the Yale navy at Lake Whitney. In the race between the juniors and the freshmen, the latter won.

Barry, Charlestown; treasurer, A. P. Brown, Shelburne Falls.

May Go to Court.

BROCKTON, May 9.—An exciting meeting of the Wales Old Ladies' Home corporation was held yesterday for the purpose of electing officers. The faction led by ex-Mayor Wade was successful in defeating Mrs. Elmira Willis and her sympathizers. The candidates for president were ex-Mayor Keith, who was elected, and Mrs. Willis. It is probable the fight will again be taken into court.

Plea For Practical Religion.

BUCKSPORT, Me., May 9. — The East Maine conference seminary was formally opened by the administering of the sacrament of the Lord's supper by Bishop Bowman. Chaplain D. H. Tribon, U. S. N., scored the Methodist church for "moving up town" and its tendency toward silk-hat and kid-glove religion and urged more sympathy with the working classes. There were many other speakers.

Morse Was a Poor Shot.

ORANGE, N. H., May 9.—Austin Morse, a farmer of this town, and his son, Ernest, got into a dispute with Luke Blake, also a farmer, yesterday, over some cattle, and during the quarrel young Morse fired nine shots from a revolver in an attempt to kill Blake. Only one took effect, however, and Blake was only slightly wounded. Luke Blake lodged a complaint against the Morses at Canaan.

Typhoid Germs In Milk.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., May 9.—A typhoid fever epidemic has broken out here. Twenty cases are reported. The contagion was spread by a man who was employed at the barn of Mrs. Black at Inglenside. He milked the cows. It is learned that he has just recovered from typhoid fever. Several persons who used the milk are sick with typhoid.

Object to Salvation Music.

HARTFORD, May 9.—The military company in Manchester offered to escort the Grand Army post as usual on Memorial day this year. When the company learned that the Salvation Army had been engaged to furnish music for the day there was a big kick, and the company will probably withdraw its services.

THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL

International Y. M. C. A. Convention Formally Opens at Springfield.

An Aggregate Membership of Nearly 250,000.

Election of Officers and Reports of Committees Occupy First Day's Time.

SPRINGFIELD, May 9.—There are about 500 Y. M. C. A. delegates in the city at the 31st international convention of the Young Men's Christian associations of North America. One special car came through from Chicago yesterday chartered by delegates, and another from New York, and by tonight probably the most of the 1000 delegates will be here.

The services yesterday morning in Christ church were in charge of the Rev. F. W. Tompkins, Jr. It began at 10 o'clock and continued until 12:30, it being called a "quiet day" service. The afternoon service was held in the State Street Baptist church at 3:30 o'clock.

President Bierce was in the chair, and he spoke a few brief words of welcome, saying that the Y. M. C. A. could look back over its past with thanksgiving and look forward to the future with rejoicing. J. A. Dummett of Portland, Or., was appointed temporary secretary, and H. G. Vantuyl of Detroit, J. C. C. Thompson of Quebec and B. N. Van Vranken of Grand Forks, N. D., were appointed a temporary business committee.

The next business was the appointment of a nomination committee. The following list of officers was brought in and unanimously approved: President, Henry M. Moore, Boston; vice presidents, J. F. Irvine St. John, N. B.; James Stokes, New York; H. J. Mercy, California; S. V. Woodward, Washington; J. W. Gilully, Colorado; Professor J. R. Dobyns, Mississippi; S. P. Fenn, Ohio; George Rutherford, Ohio; secretary, W. M. Lewis, Georgia; assistant secretaries, T. D. Patton, Manitoba; E. C. Van Ness, Michigan, and F. H. Moorman, Tennessee.

The Speeches.

The principal address of the afternoon session was made by Rev. Dr. Cuyler of Brooklyn, who spoke on "The jubilee conference and its message to this convention." He dwelt first on the royal welcome which was given the young men at the jubilee conference held in London last year, and paid a high tribute to Sir George Williams. He said:

"Spiritual welfare of young men is the core of organization at its start, and let us stand to the original character, and let us build upon the original foundation. Keep to the front in the association the training of young men for Christ. Work for the conversion of souls and the churches will rally around you, and you will get the power of the mother's prayers."

Rev. Dr. Langdon of Providence said that he was present to bring words of welcome and a message from the first convention held in Cincinnati in 1855, and at which he was present.

After his address, the convention adjourned to the new association building, where refreshments were served. T. D. Potter, president of the Springfield Y. M. C. A., then welcomed the visitors in behalf of the association. Mayor Charles Long did the same in behalf of the city, and Rev. Ralph W. Brokaw in behalf of the churches.

The exercises of the evening were held at city hall. The principal speakers were H. M. Moore of Boston, whose subject was "The international committee work of supervision and extension considered in some of its territorial aspects;" Professor Dobyns of Jackson, Miss., who spoke on "Association work in the south and southwest," and Thomas Cochran of St. Paul, whose subject was "Work in the west and northwest."

Reports Submitted.

The biennial report of the international committee was given by Frederic B. Pratt. It shows an aggregate membership of 244,077, a very slight decrease since 1893, which is more than made up by an increase in the active membership of more than 2000, making the total of active members 116,761.

The financial report shows an increase in the property held by the Y. M. C. A. of more than $2,000,000, with a total of $16,252,875. The educational work is agitating the convention. The convention is in need of funds to carry along the work. Appreciative reference is made in the report to the personal character and labor of the late chairman of the committee, Elbert B. Monroe, who died a little over a year ago.

Bitter Spirit Prevails.

MANAGUA, via Galveston, May 9.—There is no longer any doubt that Great Britain will receive her smart money on time. The money to be paid by Nicaragua to Great Britain has been raised here by popular donations. The raising of the money, however, has only increased popular feeling in Nicaragua against Great Britain, and the feeling is now very bitter indeed, more so, if possible, than when the British landed at Corinto.

Worse Than War.

KOBE, May 9.—Cholera has broken out on board the Japanese transports at Talienwan, on the Liao-Tung peninsula. It is reported that half the troopships of the original Chihli expedition are flying the cholera flag, indicating that the disease is aboard them.

Generous Japs.

YOKOHAMA, May 9.—China has asked for a further extension of the armistice granted by Japan, in order that the ratification of the treaty of peace may be exchanged. Japan has consented to extend the time of the armistice five days.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles For Sale by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy

There was no lack of amusements on Wednesday evening.

Mrs Henry M. Faxon is quite seriously ill.

Rev. Francis A. Frigugliett has returned from his trip to Norfolk, Va.

A. L. Baker of Wollaston is doing a pushing business with the Waverly bicycle.

Very hot weather. Mr. Ira Litchfield said this noon that his glass stood at one hundred.

The water mains on the Houghs Neck extension are now laid as far as Manet avenue.

Sunday's Journal will contain an illustrated article on the Quincy and other yacht clubs.

A fatal case of diptheria is reported today on Cottage street and there are other cases in the house.

Supt. Lull spoke on "Language and Grammar" at the New Hampshire teachers, institute in Alton on Tuesday.

John A. Duggan mourns the loss of his wheel which some party unknown took without leave from his home Wednesday night.

A grammar school boy at the Coddington is wanted at the LEDGER office to sell the daily every afternoon from 4 to 6 in City Square near the post office.

Do you hear there? Fore and aft. Lay up to headquarters to muster, every member of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., Thursday evening at eight bells. 2t

E. B. Souther, the newsdealer, refreshed the newspaper correspondents of the city Wednesday with his new drink, Souther's Sherbet, which is certainly a fine drink.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jones took the prizes last evening at the Granite City club. Mr. Jones made one of the largest scores ever won by any member of the club; over eighty per cent.

There was a death from diphtheria at Wollaston on Wednesday; a young lady, a member of the Wollaston school, succumbed to that terrible disease, complicated with Bright's disease.

The system of shooting over the new traps at the Wollaston Trap club's grounds will be as follows; 1st, 10 birds, regular; 2d, 10 birds, unknown angles; 3d, 10 birds, reversed; 4th, 10 birds, pairs; 5th, 10 birds, regular.

There has been a great demand this week for the Shawmut Spring water; and there is a good reason why it is so. The weather has been unusually warm and everybody has had a desire for something cool and refreshing, and certainly there is nothing more healthy than the Shawmut Spring water,—much better than ice water, and at the same time not expensive. These warm days make the city water quite unpleasant to the taste.

The Morning Fire.

The alarm from Box 441 at 11.35 this noon was for a slight fire on the roof of the office of F. Hardwick & Son on Quarry street, and was caused by sparks from a brush fire. The employers discovered the fire some moments before the alarm was given and attempted to extinguish it but were unable to reach the roof and as a last resort the alarm was pulled. The loss was a few shingles.

Suicide of Henry Alden.

Henry D. Alden, a former resident of this city, and a son-in-law of Mr. Joseph T. French, committed suicide by shooting, Tuesday night, at Hotel Milton, Dorchester Lower Mills. His body was found in the morning by the chambermaid, being the first intelligence received. The bullet entered the forehead. He was a carriage painter, 52 years of age, and did not live with his wife. The body was brought to Hall's undertaking rooms in this city.

PARK ASSESSMENTS.

City Solicitor Blackmur Argues They Should be According to Benefits.

City Solicitor Blackmur in his final argument, Tuesday, before the Supreme Court Commissioners who are apportioning the cost and maintenance of the Metropolitan park system among the thirty-seven cities and towns, advocated the adoption of a principle of assessment based partially on valuation and partially on special benefits.

He argued that this district was one large Metropolitan unit, that all the cities and towns should be assessed on the same principle that individuals are assessed in a school district, or as a town or city assesses the whole of its taxpayers for the building of a road or school house or sewer which may only directly benefit one portion of the municipality.

No one ever heard of an assessment for public improvements, on the basis of population, assessments were always made on valuation. A man's liability to pay for luxuries in the shape of parks certainly shouldn't be measured by the size of his family. The only excuse for advocating a population theory would be in the cases of those cities which were overcrowded and without public parks or open spaces, but certainly Quincy wasn't in that category with 157 acres of parks and its open shore front.

Mr. Blackmur went on to say that though every town and city was benefited by having such reservations as the Blue Hills and Middlesex Fells within riding distance, some towns and cities were undoubtedly benefited more than others by increased valuation of its real estate and believed that a larger share of the expenses should be assessed on those so benefited; it should be deducted from the assessment of those damaged and assessed on those peculiarly benefited.

The theory of assessments for public improvements is that the city or government pays damages for the taking of land, for a highway for instance, before it assesses, benefits or betterments.

The Commissioners should certainly allow Quincy for the 62 per cent. of the entire Blue Hill Reservation furnished by her, which had been taken for the benefit of others, many of whom had contributed nothing—27 per cent. or 2530 acres of our taxable area on which we loose our taxes for all time.

If our remaining land contiguous to the reservation had been benefited as Milton had, there might then be a direct assessment for benefits to offset it, but our adjoining land was not benefited. The land taken was assessed for $75,000, yet there was a falling off in taxable valuation of the ward from which the land was taken of $100,000. The reason is obvious, no person can contend that granite quarries become more valuable by being bounded by a park.

Mr. Blackmur then discussed the evidence in detail.

On the question of boulevards he contended that the expense of construction not paid by the Commonwealth should be born by those municipalities through which the boulevards were laid as the estates along the same were so enormously benefited they would get it back in taxes.

The Poster Show.

The attendance of Quincy people at the poster show, Wednesday evening, was somewhat reduced by the counter attraction of the concert at Hancock hall; but the large number of visitors from Boston and the suburbs show how the interest in artistic posters is increasing, and how much the Quincy collection is appreciated by experts in this branch of art.

The tea served by Mrs. Geo. S. Keyes and Mrs. T. A. Whicher was a very attractive feature of the show yesterday, and was much appreciated by visitors from a distance. A cup of iced tea was very refreshing after the intense heat which we experienced yesterday. This afternoon and evening tea will be served by Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Corthell of Wollaston, and tomorrow by Mrs. W. T. Babcock and Mrs. A. E. Sproul.

Fifty Odd Years Ago.

Nathan Lawrence, Esq., of Taunton, visited Quincy today to look over the old scenes of his boyhood. He lived for many years with his parents on Common street nearly three score years ago, and used to come to the PATRIOT office, which stood on the same spot it does today, and take a package of PATRIOTS to subscribers who lived at the west part of the town. He was much delighted with his visit; and, although great changes have taken place, many things looked familiar. His father was quite an expert on the violin and often gave lessons in the evening on his favorite instrument to granite cutters who resided on Common street, then called Fiddlers' row.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

THE LATE E. B. PRATT.

Simple Funeral Services Held on Wednesday Afternoon.

The funeral services over the remains of Edwin B. Pratt were held from his late residence on Hancock street at two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and business associations.

The body was encased in a casket covered with rich broad cloth, without the least ornamentation. Upon the lid was a silver plate with the inscription: "Edwin B. Pratt, Died May 6, 1895, Aged 63 years."

Surrounding the casket there was a display of beautiful cut flowers.

The services were opened with the invocation of the divine blessing by the Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor of the First church. Mr. Butler then read a selection from Tennyson's "In Memoriam." This was followed by a fervent prayer by the Rev. Daniel Munroe Wilson. That was all. There was no eulogy, neither was there any singing. The services in their simplicity spoke more eloquently than words could of the life and character of Edwin B. Pratt.

The pall bearers were: Mr. Henry Rogers, representing the banking interest; Mr. Albert O. Smith, Mr. James Edwards and Hon. Willliam B. Rice, representing the leather industry; Mr. Charles A. Howland of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., and Mr. Edwin W. Marsh.

Among the prominent Boston and Quincy men present were Mr. J. Winsor Pratt, Mr. H. W. Pratt, Mr. Robert Osgood of the Smithport Extract Co., Mr. Archie S. Pratt, Mr. Harry Rogers and Mr. G. H. Newman of Rogers, Newman & Tolman, Hon. William B. Rice, Mr. J. Henry Emery, Mr. Frank W. Whicher, Mr. T. A. Whicher, Mr. G. W. Homer of Homer Bros., Mr. F. B. Rice, Mr. A. F. Schenkelberger, Mr. J. Peep O' Day a Success.

A good-sized audience was present at the first presentation of Peep O' Day by the St. John's society Wednesday evening, and all witnessed one of the best pieces ever produced in Quincy. The settings and costumes were of the best, and for a very difficult piece was well rendered. Some of the situations, notably the grave scene in the third act, were portrayed in a first-class manner.

In the cast were: M. H. Garrity, J. F. Foley, M. T. Sullivan, T. J. Carey, T. F. Hogan, J. W. Walsh, F. McLauthlin, J. P. Mundy, G. Cahill, A. M. Mischler, Miss Julia Moynihan, Miss Norah O'Connell, Miss Frances Sullivan, J. Cantfill, John Gill and Patrick Quill.

Mr. Garrity in the leading role as Harry Kavanaugh, did his work well, as did also M. T. Sullivan as Purcell, John F. Foley as Barney, Thomas F. Hogan as Mr. Grace, T. J. Carey as Father O'Cleary, J. W. Walsh as Captain Howard, and J. Cantfill as Molshe. Miss O'Connell as Mrs. Kavanaugh, Miss Moynihan as Kathleen and Miss Sullivan as Mary Grace essayed difficult parts, and the audience was well pleased with their work; Miss Sullivan in particular doing exceptionally fine in her first appearance. The music was by Curtis' orchestra, composed of many Quincy well known musicians.

The play will be repeated this evening, to be followed by a dance.

Wollaston Benevolence.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church held its annual meeting in the church vestry on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Edward S. Tenney, the president, was in the chair and made the opening remarks.

The revised constitution was reported by the chairman of the committee, Mrs. R. S. Hewitson and accepted.

The annual reports of the secretary, Mrs. R. S. Hewitson, and the treasurer, Mrs. Wm. S. Washburne, were then read and accepted.

The treasurer's report showed that there was a balance of $163 in the treasury, and that the disbursements for the past year amounted to $509.40.

After the reading of the reports, Mrs. H. T. Whitman read Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal."

These officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Edward S. Tenney; Vice President, Mrs. Belcher and Mrs. G. L. Richards; Secretary, Mrs. R. S. Hewitson; Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. S. Washburne.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 9.—Mrs. John A. Logan wants a bill passed appropriating $30,000 to the relict of Mr. Wiltshire, Isaac R. Hitt and herself—$10,000 apiece—for services rendered by General Logan, Mr. Wiltshire and Mr. Hitt in securing the enactment by congress of the bill refunding to Illinois the amount of direct taxes paid by the state during the war—some $800,000.

"STAIN UPON MY NAME."

O'Donovan Rossa's Interruption In Parliament Created a Commotion.

LONDON, May 9.—An extraordinary scene occurred in the house of commons which for a few moments created great commotion. The house was debating the bill offered by Edmund Knox of West Cavan to repeal Balfour's coercion act.

John Morley had just concluded his speech, when O'Donovan Rossa, who had occupied a seat under the strangers' gallery, rose to his feet, and in a loud voice said:

"An assassin's blow has been dealt to me in this house, and a stain put upon my name."

A number of officials hurriedly seized Rossa, and amid great excitement he was forcibly ejected from the chamber when he had finished the first sentence of what was evidently intended to be an extended speech.

Rossa got his seat in the strangers' gallery through Edward Barry, M. P. from Cork. As Rossa passed through the members' lobby he met John W. McClure, M. P., a merchant of Manchester, who was high sheriff of Manchester at the time the Manchester martyrs were hanged in 1867. Rossa chatted with him for a few minutes and then took his seat in the gallery. He soon

No Clemency For Chase.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—On March 23 last W. C. Chase, editor of the Washington Bee, was convicted of criminal libel and sentenced to 90 days' imprisonment. Application being made to Mr. Cleveland to extend executive clemency to Chase, the following endorsement was yesterday placed upon the papers: "Denied. It is conceded that this convict maliciously published an outrageous libel in a newspaper which he controlled and used, in this instance, at least, as a dirty weapon to satisfy his personal rage and revenge. This crime is a most detestable one. It has become so common and is so seldom punished that I cannot reconcile executive clemency in the case here presented with the duty I owe to decent journalism, the peace of society and the protection of those constantly subjected to libellous attacks."

Butterfield's Mandate.

PORTSMOUTH, May 9.—The police muddle was given another stir yesterday, when City Marshal Rowe of the old force was served with a notice, signed by Marshal Butterfield of the force appointed by the police commission, ordering him to remove the uniforms and badges from his men, notifying him that if he or any member of the former police force of this city again appeared in police uniform upon the streets of this city they would be arrested and arraigned for impersonating police officers.

Decision About May 20.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The rehearing of the income tax cases in the supreme court was concluded at 2 o'clock yesterday, and the nine justices took the question under consideration. It is expected that the court's conclusions upon the income tax will be announced May 20. Interest in the rehearing has been much less intense than at the first argument.

All Quiet In Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The minister of foreign affairs at Managua telegraphs that there is no foundation for the reports that rioting was in progress in that city, or in any other part of the republic at any time during the late complication with Great Britain. The dispatch adds that there is no indications of a revolution, and that everything is tranquil.

Gold Is Good Enough.

THE ANNUAL CONCERT.

Quincy Musical Society Crowd Hancock Hall Last Evening.

The best chorus work ever in Quincy, was the verdict of many who attended the second annual concert, Wednesday evening of the Quincy Musical society at Hancock hall. It was a full house and an appreciative audience. The members of the society have certainly profited under the direction of Mr. George W. Dudley, the conductor, a great variety of music being presented with expression and harmony.

The sopranos were: Mrs. H. T. Drake, Miss Grace Emery, Miss Madelaine Fish, Mrs. A. L. Hood, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Miss Grace M. Isaac, Miss E. May McPhail, Mrs. Edward Miller, Miss Lela O. Moxon, Mrs. L. J. Pendleton, Miss Carrie F. Spear.

The altos: Miss Mary Dinnie, Miss Elith P. Gray, Miss Carrie R. Lord, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Miss Lizzie M. Newcomb, Miss Florence G. Olney, Mrs. Walter M. Packard, Miss Alice Sampson, Mrs. Laura C. F. Smith, Mrs. Austin Winslow.

The tenors: Mr. Edward E. Bullock, Mr. Ernest G. Burke, Mr. James H. Harlow, Mr. A. L Hood, Mr. William T. Isaac, Mr. Elward Miller, Mr. W. W. Osborne.

The bassos: Mr. Walter E. Burke, Mr. Herbert T. Drake, Mr. Walter Hersey, Mr. Peter Gomez, Mr. T. B. Pollard.

Miss Marion H. Stearns was down for a vocal number of four parts but the audience insisted upon one more. Mr. Bullock rendered two solos which were much appreciated, and Mr. L. Dowley Williams was liberally applauded for his excellent piano selections, including the Mazurka, Lullaby and Tarantelle. Mr. C. H. Porter's solos merited his recall, and the "Spinning Song" by female voices was one of the pleasing numbers of the evening.

Great credit is due Miss Spear for the financial and social success.

K. of H. Anniversary.

Merry Mount lodge, Knights of Honor, celebrated its eighteenth anniversary Wednesday evening by a gathering of members and friends at Faxon hall. Although there were many other attractions on the same evening a large party was in attendance and a good time enjoyed.

During the first part of the evening there was a short entertainment consisting of songs and dances by the inimitable Dan Haley assisted by Fred Joy of Weymouth; zither duet by Messrs. Rosler and Mosier; and exhibition with dumb bells and heavy lifting by Messrs. Huminson and Johnson.

There were also short addresses by Grand Dictator Fred M. Hersey and Grand Reporter E. Granville Pratt.

The other grand officers present were Grand Assistant Dictator Gilbert G. Purdy, Grand Chaplain Emery M. Jones, Grand Treasurer Walter S. Burnham, and Grand Guide J. Herbert Cushing.

After the entertainment an adjournment was made to the lower hall where Caterer A. E. Nash served one of his popular menus. Dancing was then in order until 2 o'clock this morning.

The committee in charge of the anniversary were Charles C. Nash, Thomas Tilton, Albert Keating, W. J. Blake and Edward Brault.

K. & L. of H. Anniversary.

It was a jolly party that gathered at Plumer's hall Wednesday evening the occasion being the fifteenth anniversary of Maple lodge, No. 313, Knights and Ladies of Honor.

Miss M. Lizzie Furnald was chairman of the entertainment and under her direction a most interesting programme was given, consisting of address of welcome by Protector, Mary A. H. Crane, addresses by Grand Protector, John R. Fairbairn; Grand Secretary, Samuel A. Hatherway; Grand Sentinel, T. Sihen; Grand Guide, L. C. Zibbetts; Capt. of degree team Horace O. Souther, W. W. Penniman and Charles A. Foster.

The balance of entertainment included piano solo, Mrs Effie Rhines; solo, Miss Belle Fletcher; banjo solo, Miss Esther Ellis; duet, Misses Milne and Walker; piano duet, Misses Batson and Chapman; mandolin solo, Miss Dasa Harmon; piano solo, Miss Melissa Fletcher; violin solo, Master Frank Curtin.

Mrs. Crane in her address of welcome said the lodge started with 48 charter members 26 of whom still remain and 14 of whom were present at the anniversary. The lodge now numbers 198 members with 2 to initiate, and since last July 34 members had been admitted.

At the conclusion of the entertainment a tempting collation was served. This was followed by dancing and card playing and it is unnecessary to add that the affair was the most enjoyable the lodge has ever held.

A GRAND VICTORY.

Adams Academy, 4; Roxbury Latin, 3—A Brilliant Game.

The Academy boys were again victorious Wednesday, at the Park. The day was a perfect one for base ball. The game abounded in brilliant plays. Again Manning supported his pitcher in splendid fashion. Mr. Linfield struck out eight of his opponents and showed himself capable of very effective work, now that his arm is in condition. For Adams, Manning's foul catch, and the double play in which Rippey, Hall and Holden took part, were the best plays. Hall made a number of bad errors on ground balls, allowing men to get to first, but in every instance but one retrieved himself by putting the man out on second base.

For Roxbury the best fielding was done by Wear, Bowles and Dennison. Bowles's throwing was superb, and Dennison's first base work was possessed of a good deal of snap.

Neither side batted heavily. The game was well played throughout. This is the first time for several years that the Adams boys have beaten Roxbury Latin.

A Prize Exhibit.

Secretary Colton of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. telegraphs from Springfield that the exhibit of the local association has been awarded the rewards of merit for clay modeling and free hand drawing at the International convention in session there. This is the highest award made, and the Quincy association, which had to compete with many other associations, should be gratified with the results of their earlier efforts in this educational work.

CHINA'S CHEAP LABOR

HOW THE CHINA-JAPANESE TREATY THREATENS OUR WORKINGMEN.

Celestials Who Live on 5 Cents a Day Will Defy Competition—How Improved Machinery and Foreign Capital Will Influence Wages—Telling Figures.

Who can say what will be the effect upon the industries of this country if the cheap labor of China is employed in the manufacture of goods for the markets of this country?

Who can predict the disastrous and hopeless condition in which the American workingman will be in the face of the competition of 400,000,000 Chinese, who can live on 5 cents a day?

Who can anticipate the changed industrial and social conditions in this country which will follow upon the investment of millions of American capital in the cheaper manufacturing centers of the Flowery Kingdom?

These are questions which sooner or later will confront the American workingman and capitalist if the China-Japan treaty goes into effect.

In that treaty lies hidden a menace to the workingmen of the world. It is a threat to the industrious civilized white peoples of the earth, and one that to an economist or one thoroughly familiar with the labor conditions of the different nations is full of evil portent.

There are in China 402,680,000 of the thriftiest, hardest working, most industrious, most imitative and cheapest living people on the face of the earth. The ordinary Chinaman can in China live on 5 cents a day and can work 16 hours a day without fatigue.

If the wall which for centuries has shut in the hordes of Chinese by themselves, and, despite the efforts of wealthy capitalists of all nations, has prevented the introduction of modern machinery and methods, is now thrown down, it will give a virgin opportunity to millions of capital seeking investment, but it will sound the deathknell of the industrial prospects of every man who today depends upon the restrictions of production, according to the laws of supply and demand.

The condition of peace quoted which Japan has imposed upon China means that Japan or any other nation, under what in modern treaty making is called the "favored nation clause," may put into the interior of China modern machinery and carry on commerce with the inhabitants. Under instructions, too, of Europeans or Americans, the Chinese will be in a position to begin the manufacture of every staple article of commerce that the world consumes.

Railways will be built through the country, the great rivers dredged and made navigable for ocean going steamers for hundreds of miles into the interior, facilities for marketing the produce of the country will be expanded and made to meet the needs the new condition creates. The product of cheap Chinese labor will be put upon the market at such a price that competition by any other people will be impossible.

As an instance of the ingenuity and adaptability of the Japanese to modern methods in manufacturing, as well as that of his foster brother, the Chinaman, with whom, by the treaty, he will be in offensive and defensive alliance and cooperation, it is only necessary to cite the fact that at an exposition now being held at Kimoro, Japan, the exhibits of Japanese manufactures of fibers, textiles, leather, machinery, upholstery, hosiery, hardware, surgical and scientific instruments, chemicals and glassware are offered at such prices that all possible competition is annihilated.

The total exports of the United States in 1894 were $869,240,937. More than half of this, or, to be more accurate, five-eighths, is subject to competition when China becomes modernized and her inhabitants become used to modern machinery and modern methods of manufacture and agriculture. Of course this may not be for years, perhaps 25 or 30 years, but it will begin as soon as the Japanese-Chinese trade alliance goes into effect.

Our total imports in 1893 were $866,400,922, and in 1894, a bad year, they were $654,994,622. In 1903 they are likely to be increased $100,000,000 by goods and staples from China alone. Last year the United States exported $5,858,488 worth of goods to China, of which $2,884,220 was in cotton goods and $2,438,636 in petroleum. We imported from China $17,135,028—$7,397,253 in tea, $3,163,684 in silk, $807,635 in matting and about $1,000,000 worth of skins and furs. Our exports to Japan were in 1894 valued at $3,981,377. Of this $2,226,247 was in petroleum. Our imports were $19,426,522, over $10,000,000 being in silks and $6,000,000 in teas.

One of the peculiar features of the impending order of things in China is the fact that the market in China for foreign goods will really never be much greater than it now is. The needs of the Chinese are few and of the sort to which they are accustomed. The use of luxuries in their everyday life will not become general perhaps for a century to come. In view of this fact there will be no demand in China for foreign goods to offset the output of goods which will come into competition with the manufactures of the rest of the world.

All of the 19 provinces of China contain coal, and the country is regarded by authorities as one of the first coal countries in the world. The stores of iron and copper in the country are stupendous in extent, notwithstanding they have been worked for centuries.

China, too, is an agricultural country. Wheat, barley, corn and millet are cultivated in the north, where they grow in great quantities. In the south most of the rice is raised, and here cotton, wherever the effort has been made, has shown a marvelous liking for and adaptability to the soil and climate. Sugar in enormous quantities can be raised in the south provinces, where it is now extensively cultivated, as well as in Formosa. The tea provinces are in the west and south. In these provinces also the mulberry tree grows in great numbers, and from Kwang-Tung, Sze-Chwan and Cheh-Chiang particularly most of the Chinese silk of commerce comes.

The principal countries to which China exported goods in 1893 and the value thereof in taels (a tael is a silver measure of value, about $1.33) are as follows:

	Value in taels.
Great Britain and Hongkong	59,968,109
India	2,735,473
United States	11,725,644
Europe (without Russia)	15,855,079
Japan	9,237,975
Russia	9,883,913

As an instance of how cheap labor has affected the manufacture of cotton in England alone may be shown the enormous increase of the manufacture of cotton in India since 1863. It was begun in that year at Kurla, in the presidency of Bombay, and considered a doubtful experiment. Still it grew until at the present day there are in Bombay, Madras, Bengal, Surat, Brach and Ahmedabad over 2,500,000 spindles at work, producing cotton goods valued yearly at the sum of $150,000,000, consuming 2,700,000 bales of cotton. Of its manufactures of cotton India now exports yearly over 30,000,000 pounds and consumes 1,200,000 pounds. Ninety per cent of its consumption was formerly manufactured in England, and as a result of the competition of India looms with those of England the cotton manufacturing business in the latter country was never so bad as it is at the present day.

Perhaps one of the most important concessions, aside from the commercial privileges, which China has granted is the abolition of what is known as the "likin" tax, and perpetual free transit for goods through the entire empire. The "likin" tax is an institution in China as old as its revenue system—in fact, it has for centuries furnished the interior towns with most of the revenue upon which they carried on their government.

It finally became a local duty or tax that could be assessed upon foreigners or foreign goods by any province or municipality to such an amount and as frequently as the local authorities desired.

Under the operation of the tax and the provision in it which perhaps caused the Japanese more trouble than any one else in recent years, for it was against them it was most rigidly enforced, a merchant shipping goods into the interior was liable to have them assessed for valuation and taxation by every municipality through which they passed. Frequently the tax was so heavy it became necessary for the merchant to pay the full value of his goods to have them released. The exaction of this tribute really amounted to an embargo on trade and kept traders out of the country.

The rush of capitalists to take advantage of the conditions of the peace treaty has already begun. Chester A. Holcomb, for many years secretary of the United States legation at Peking and author of a book called "The Real Chinaman," is already on his way to China from Washington in the interest of a syndicate of American millionaires. His mission is to obtain concessions and to pick out the most likely places and lines of trade or manufacture in which money can be invested.

He is but one of a hundred others on their way to China with a similar object in view, and they are from England, Germany, Russia and France, as well as from America.

The above only shows how willing capital is to take advantage of an opportunity to go into China. But the only ones to be benefited by the opening up of the territory are men who are already millionaires. The employment the opening up of the country will furnish will go to Chinamen. These, working at a rate of wages less per day than is sufficient to feed an American yellow dog, produce iron, coal and wheat and manufacture commercial articles of trade at a price which, as in Japan, absolutely defies competition and takes from the civilized workingman the little chance he now has of supporting his family and himself on the wages he gets without the competition of 400,000,000 slaves.

The exact amount of trade which the United States now has, but which, by the competition of Chinese labor, will be jeopardized and probably cut into from this time on, is shown in the following table of United States exports for the year 1893-4 and the countries to which the exports are sent. In this England is left out:

	Value
Chile	$2,202,011
British India and East Indies	4,626,757
Japan	3,961,377
China	5,858,488

France	52,888,224

Keep China within her wall.—New York World.

A Dwarf Divorced.

There was one very interesting severance of the ties of matrimony last week in the Sagadahoc court at Bath. General Joseph Totman of Richmond, the famous lilliputian, was granted a divorce from Ida Totman for desertion. It will be remembered that the general was once married on the Boston theater stage to Miss Jennie Quigley, another famous dwarf.—Boston Traveller.

The Old Trundle Bed.

Oh, the old trundle bed, where I slept when a boy!
What canopied king might not covet the joy?
The glory and peace of that slumber of mine,
Like a long, gracious rest in the bosom divine.
The quaint, homely couch, hidden close from the light,
But daintily drawn from its hiding place at night.
Oh, a nest of delight, from the foot to the head,
Was the queer little, dear little, old trundle bed!

Oh, the old trundle bed, where I, wondering, saw
The stars through the window and listened with awe
To the sigh of the winds as they tremblingly crept
Through the trees where the robins so restlessly slept,
Where I heard the low murmurous chirp of the wren
And the katydid listlessly chirrup again,
Till my fancies grew faint and were drowsily led
Through the maze of the dreams of the old trundle bed.

Oh, the old trundle bed! Oh, the old trundle bed!
With its plump little pillow and old fashioned spread,
Its snowy white sheets and the blankets above,
Smoothed down and tucked round with the touches of love;
The voice of my mother to lull me to sleep
With the old fairy stories my memories keep Still fresh as the lilies that bloom o'er the head
Once bowed o'er my own in the old trundle bed!

—James Whitcomb Riley.

No Opposition From Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 9.—It is understood that Russia will not make any opposition if Japan augments the war indemnity from China. This will be a sort of return for the abandonment of Liao-Tung provinces.

For Use at Sea.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Another contract for naval material was closed yesterday by the acceptance of two lots of 13-inch armor piercing shells made by the Carpenter company, the last deliveries to be made by this company.

Grace's Successor.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The executive committee of the New York state Democracy accepted William R. Grace's resignation of the chairmanship, and elected Charles S. Fairchild to succeed him.

America's Largest Mill.

FALL RIVER, May 9.—M. C. D. Borden, owner of the Iron Works mill and American Printing company, will soon begin the erection of an 80,000 spindle print cloth mill in this city. The mill will be the largest under one roof in America and probably in the world.

Suit Against a Sheriff.

BIDDEFORD, May 9.—John C. Cutter of Boston, who was arrested here for forgery at the request of Boston officers by Deputy Sheriff Hall, has brought suit against the officers for $5000 damages. He alleges that Hall handled him with unnecessary violence.

Proof of Innocence Lacking.

PROVIDENCE, May 9.—The committee on pardons yesterday refused to shorten the sentence of "Yankee Dan" Sullivan, who is serving sentence for murder. Governor Brown will not pardon the prisoner unless evidence of his innocence can be produced.

For Illegal Rum Selling.

FALL RIVER, May 9.—Thirty-two liquor dealers were arrested last night by United States revenue officers for selling without revenue licenses.

A VIOLATION OF LAW.

South Carolina Must Not Prevent the Importation of Liquors.

Practical Annulment of State Dispensary System.

Court Decides That Individuals Have Same Rights as Commonwealth.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 9.—Judges Simonton and Goff have decided that the provision of the state dispensary law preventing importations of liquor for private use into this state is contrary to the interstate commerce regulations and is null and void. An injunction has been issued restraining the seizure of such liquor.

A great crowd gathered at the United States room to hear the decision. People were packed like sardines in its somewhat limited space and in the corridor leading to it.

Judges Goff and Simonton of the United States circuit court were both on the bench. When the registration decision was read the spectators expressed their joy so noisily that they had to be called to order. The case brought by Pope and Caldwell to prevent the holding of the constitutional convention was thrown out of court, as well as the dispensary case.

The decisions rendered upon the dispensary case were brought by J. P. K. Bryan of Charleston, and the registration case was brought by C. A. Douglass of Washington. Judge Simonton read the decision in the dispensary case. After reviewing it, he held that it was not a suit against the state and that the court sitting in equity had jurisdiction over it. He said:

Judge Simonton's Summing Up.

"It is not necessary to go into a minute and detailed examination of all the provisions of the dispensary law. It is sufficient for the purposes of this case to say that in so far as the dispensary law forbids a citizen to purchase in other states, and, in that case, to import into the state alcoholic liquors for his own use and consumption, the products of other states, it discriminates against the products of other states.

"Such discriminations cannot be made under the guise of the police power, and, further, in so far as this act permits the chief dispenser to purchase in other states alcoholic liquor and to import it into this state for the purpose of selling it, for use and consumption at retail within the state, and forbids all other persons from so purchasing and importing for their individual use and consumption, it discriminates against all other citizens of the state. It also makes a discrimination against all persons in the trade in other states who are not patronized by the state dispenser, forbidding them to seek customers within the state, and to enjoy accriminal features secured to others in this state."

A comprehensive order in conformity with the above decision was signed by Judge Simonton.

Contempt Cases Dismissed.

The contempt cases against State Liquor Commissioner Mixson and Constables Davis and Lafar were dismissed, it being considered that they had purged themselves of contempt.

The opponents of the dispensary system are highly elated, and the wires were kept hot ordering liquor from Augusta and other points outside of the state.

The state authorities, while defeated, propose to continue the fight. Governor Evans says seizures will be made to test the injunction, but it had not been fully determined what course would be pursued. The Southern express officials called upon Governor Evans to find out whether they would be liable under the state law for bringing in articles that they would be compelled to do under the decision.

The plan of the administration is to have a constable seize liquor, and, when arrested for contempt of court in having disobeyed Judge Goff's order, take the case to the federal court on habeas corpus proceedings.

As Judge Goff has not enjoined the holding of a constitutional convention, it will be held, probably without any resistance, the whites being confident that they can hold it.

Tahsin Pasha to Blame.

LONDON, May 9. — A dispatch to The Times from Erzingen says that a massacre of Christians at that place was prevented by the arrest of the chief conspirators in the plot. The dispatch adds that the evidence taken at Moosh by the Turkish commission of inquiry tends to fix the responsibility for the recent massacres on Tahsin Pasha, late governor of Bitlis, who stated in official dispatches that the Armenians had raised the standard of rebellion, thus leading to the dispatch of Turkish troops to quell the alleged revolt and to the subsequent massacre.

Planning Retrenchment.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 9.—The Daily News (independent) says it is an open secret that confederation with Canada has been practically abandoned. The government party has decided to repudiate the course of the delegates to Ottawa and will attempt to carry the colony by means of retrenchment.

Miners are Quiet.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., May 9.—About 2000 miners met near Maybury last evening. The assemblage was orderly, and the whole field is now a unit to accomplish success. General Holley made a practical study of the disturbed territory and says there is no just cause for fear at present.

Substantial Cash Balances.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The 70th annual meeting of the American Tract society was held here yesterday. The treasurer's report shows that the benevolent department has a cash balance of $10,884 and the business department a balance of $15,030.

ST. LOUIS HAD A CINCH

Until Ehret Met With an Accident and Then They Lost.

ST. LOUIS, May 8. — For six innings Ehret held Boston down to two runs, but one of them earned. In the last four innings he pitched the Beaneaters got but one little hit. Boston was playing but poorly in the field and at the bat, and it looked like a cinch for St. Louis. In the sixth, however, Sullivan hit Ehret with a pitched ball on the right fore finger, smashing it badly. The St. Louis pitcher was forced to retire from the game, and will be out of it for some time. Breitenstein, who took his place, was very wild in the eighth.

MILWAUKEE, May 9.—The opening session of the A. P. A. convention was called to order with some 350 delegates present. President Thayer presided, and the various committees were appointed to their work. The Milwaukee bodies are said to have a total membership of 12,000, and the membership in Wisconsin is placed at 45,000. Rev. J. C. Medill of the Canadian branch of the order spoke for nearly an hour, outlining the school war in the Dominion.

NEEDS OF CHRISTIANS

And How They May Best Be Attained Discussed at Springfield.

Spiritual Work the Real Basis of the Y. M. C. A.

Educational and Physical Accomplishments Must Not Be Lost Sight Of.

SPRINGFIELD, May 10.—The second day's session of the international convention authorized Mr. Larson of Sweden to carry back to the Young Men's Christian association convention, to be held there June 6, greeting of this body.

The first topic of discussion was "Points of Encouragement and Points of Danger in the Development of State and Provincial Work."

Dr. L. C. Warner of New York said there was danger of putting too much dependence upon paid agents, and of being too much absorbed in secular matters.

Russell Sturgis of Boston said we began wrong in the state to found the organization. We secured the co-operation of men and women, but the mainstay and the object should have been to get young men.

T. J. Gillespie said that the association should do something for the development of Christian workers and to develop a spirit of Christian liberality.

E. A. Sinclair read a paper giving a history of the growth of the order. President Gates of Amherst college spoke upon "Opportunity, Obligation, Possibility."

The Afternoon Session.

Yesterday afternoon's session was divided into three sections—the spiritual work, the educational work and the physical work. Papers were read at all of these sessions, after which there was a general discussion of the subjects.

The meeting in the interests of the spiritual work was held in the State Street Baptist church. F. S. Goodman of New York presided and spoke briefly on "The Real Supremacy of the Spiritual Work." The spiritual work, he said, was the basis of the Y. M. C. A. and was the real reason for its existence. It furnishes the only adequate motive for the association, and it also serves as an inspiration for carrying the work on.

The next speaker was J. F. Robinson of Pittsburg, and he confined himself to the subject, "How can this supremacy get its best expressions in all depart ments of the work?" He said that the spiritual should dominate in association work. The supremacy of the spiritual should have great weight in the selection of the physical direction and the teachers for the educational work.

The educational session was perhaps of the greatest interest to the large share of the delegates. The first speaker was S. H. Berry of Brooklyn, who confined himself to the library and reading rooms of associations. He made very valuable suggestions as to the class and kind of books which should compose the library, and also spoke of the way these rooms should be conducted.

Benefits of Practical Talks.

H. A. Ames of Montreal spoke on "Library Societies and Practical Talks." He said: "In dealing with this subject let us divide it by considering as literary societies those gatherings in which a number take part; and as practical talks, the informal lecture delivered by other than association members. Now as to the first: Great is the work which has been done in times part by the debating society. Many of America's statesmen look back to the lyceum platform as the starting point for all subsequent success. With the ordinary literary society, oration, essay, debate, general discussion, decision and critique all find place in the program. Herein, then, the old-time association literary society lies midway between the social and educational work."

The speaker here spoke of some of the faults of the societies, saying that there was a tendency toward too much diversity in the choice of subjects; that there was a lack of practicability in the topics and often a lack of earnestness of purpose. In conclusion, Mr. Ames dwelt briefly on the latter part of his subject in regard to practical talks.

The third speaker at this meeting was W. H. Coughlin of Brooklyn, who spoke in favor of art, sketching and music clubs as features of educational work in the Y. M. C. A., and he was followed by L. W. Messer of Chicago, who spoke on "The Educational Director, His Qualifications and Duties."

The Athletic Question.

A great deal of interest centered in the physical work department. Although the question of forming a Y. M. C. A. athletic league has been agitated among the association leaders, it has never been brought into the international convention before. The matter was presented by J. F. Southerland of Joliet, Ills. He advised the formation of a league to be governed by the international committee, which should include as active members all the Y. M. C. A.'s in North America and as associate members any athletic organization connected with any philanthropic, educational or religious institution of the country. The scheme was thought favorably of, and it was voted to recommend it to the general convention for adoption.

At the evening session a letter was read from John J. McCook of New York. "The splendid work of the railroad department," he wrote, "wherever it has had a fair chance to show its scope, capacity and results, has more than demonstrated the great advantages it provides for the men; what real comfort and enjoyment it brings to them; how it protects them from extravagance, temptation and sin; how it makes them better husbands and fathers; how it strengthens and elevates their characters and lives; how it has been to many, humanely speaking, the means of saving their souls." Mr. McCook wrote how the managers of the railroads were beginning more and more to see the good the association is doing.

J. M. Burwick of Worthington, Ind., a freight conductor, told what the association had done for him and was doing for others on the road.

Rev. W. H. P. Faunce of New York closed the evening's program with a stirring address on "The Bible and Its Supreme Importance to Young Men."

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 10.—The tuberculosis bill was engrossed in the house, in concurrence with the senate. It provides for full sound compensation for slaughtered tuberculous cattle, the use of tuberculin as a diagnostic agent only upon the written consent of the owners of the cattle, and allows an appropriation of $100,000 to carry on the work of the year. The house considered several amendments to the Boston city charter bill. Among the more important amendments adopted was one restoring the power of confirmation to the board of aldermen and one declaring the mayor eligible to re-election. The bill was ordered to a third reading. The senate engrossed the Woburn police commission bill and passed the bill to increase the efficiency of the militia. The debate on the bill to abolish the death penalty was begun in the house, and showed a strong sentiment in favor of abolishing the penalty. The vote wes not taken at adjournment.

Suspicious Financial Transactions.

Work or Idleness?

PROVIDENCE, May 10.—The report that the Saxon mill was to break loose from the combination of manufacturers here and offer its operatives an increase in wages is pronounced to be without foundation by the treasurer of the company. It is stated that every mill in Olneyville will shut down on Saturday night for an indefinite period unless the operatives vote to return to work at once. It is the only thing that will save them from a summer of idleness.

JAPANESE DECLINED.

China Was Willing to Allow America to Arrange Peace Terms.

Official Announcement of Ratification of Treaty.

Victors Took Care to "Feather Their Nest" For Future Possibilities.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The state department has just published an appendix to the volume of foreign relations of 1894, comprising a history of the Chinese-Japanese war; the correspondence relative to the enforcement of regulations respecting fur seals; affairs at Bluefields and the Mosquito territory; the old Mora claim; reciprocity correspondence with Colombia, Hayti and Venezuela, and correspondence concerning affairs in Samoa.

With the exception of the first named, all of these subjects have been fully treated in documents supplied to congress in answer to resolutions during the last session. The connection of the United States with the troubles of China and Japan first appears in a dispatch dated June 22, 1894, from Mr. Uhl, acting secretary of the state department, to the United States minister, Mr. Sill, at Seoul, in which directions are given to the American representative to Corea to use every possible effort for the preservation of peaceful conditions. There follows a long statement of the action taken by the Corean government, of the appeals to the United States for assistance, of the strict policy of neutrality adopted by the Americans.

The Cleveland administration, however, tried their customary diplomatic channels to prevent hostilities, but was not successful. China was willing to allow the United States to decide the grounds upon which peace should be arranged, but Japan, triumphant and successful, declined.

An Official Dispatch

Received at the Japanese legation yesterday afternoon from Tokio states that the ratifications of the treaty of peace between Japan and China were exchanged at Che-Foo on Wednesday. No change was made in the text of the treaty as originally concluded.

Taking into account, however, the recommendation made by Russia, Germany and France, the Japanese government has agreed to renounce the permanent possession of the Liao-Tung peninsula on condition that the arrangements regarding the terms and form of renunciation shall be reserved for adjustment between itself and the government of China.

This latter stipulation is construed to mean that Japan will not surrender the peninsula until a suitable indemnity shall have been paid, and that it may be even agreed between Japan and China that the possession of Port Arthur itself will be retained by the Japanese for a term of years extending beyond the date when the indemnity has been paid in full, thus assuring to Japan not alone the payment of the indemnity itself, but also sufficient time to safeguard herself against anything like a war of reprisal.

It will be remembered that the treaty of peace itself provides that Wei-Hai-Wei shall be held until the first 100,000,000 of the indemnity and the next two annual installments have been paid, so that with the added guarantee of the possession of Port Arthur, even although temporarily, the Japanese government would appear to have taken every possible precaution for the future.

The foregoing statement is official, coming direct from Tokia by cable. The understanding is that it embodies the reply which Japan recently gave to Russia and the allied powers.

Voice of Civilization.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 10.—The envoys of Great Britain, France and Russia are preparing a joint note, which will be presented to the porte conjointly with the scheme of reforms for Armenia. The united action of the powers has amazed the Turks. Germany, Austria and Italy have made it known that their sympathies are with the other powers.

The Next Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Delaware having been the last state in which a United States senator remained to be elected, the senate roster for the opening of the Fifty-fourth congress is now complete. Omitting the second Delaware senatorship, the senate politically will be composed as follows: Republicans, 42; Democrats, 39; Populists, 6.

Samoan Siftings.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—The following advices arrived from Samoa by steamer: The rebels are still defiant, but show no signs of making an attack on the government. A fire in Apia April 2 caused a loss of $100,000. The British warship Wallaroo left here in April and has not been replaced. Business is badly depressed.

America First.

LIMA, O., May 10.—George W. Saul has been appointed receiver of the Ohio Southern railroad. In addition to $8,000,000 of bonds the road has $400,000 of floating debts, and is in default of taxes and interest.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

ELECTRIC CAR parties are in favor now that open cars are running, and they make a delightful outing for a small cost. Thursday evening we noticed a party of eight ladies who boarded a car for Weymouth. They went as far as they could for five cents and turned about. When the Braintree connection is made, a round trip through Braintree, the Weymouths and Quincy Point will be popular, providing close connections are made.

IF THE old stone building on School street was not good enough for a school building or central fire station, is it good enough for a police station? In the first place a police station should be near the centre, and then one of the most serious objections to the building for fire department purposes was, that it was damp and unfit for the men to occupy. If it was unfit for men to occupy then it certainly is not now.

THE METROPOLITAN Water bill has been specially assigned in the House for Tuesday, May 21, at 11 A. M. It promises to be one of the most important matters of the session, as anything of that magnitude should, and Quincy looks to her representatives for some amendments to the bill which will make it more favorable to this municipality.

IT HAS been suggested that the city furnish a series of band concerts in the city during the summer months. It might be a good idea to give them on some of the numerous public playgrounds, which is about the only thing that would attract the citizens to them.

IT IS proposed to let the city of Woburn off with a water assessment only about one-third that of Quincy, but the mayor is endeavoring to have the city exempt. The bill will encounter considerable opposition.

EXCELLENT REPORTS of the international Y. M. C. A. convention are found each day among our telegraph news. See first page today.

Peep O' Day.

Many were unable to gain admission to St. John's hall Thursday evening to witness the second performance of Peep O'Day. Though the piece was creditably done on Wednesday evening, the acting this evening was undoubtedly the best ever seen on an amateur stage. Miss Moynihan's work in the third act is worthy of special mention, she showing herself a young lady of great versatility. During the second act Miss Sullivan was presented with a handsome bouquet. Dancing followed the play and lasted until one o'clock Friday morning, Mr. Arthur Metcalf acting as prompter.

—We are glad to know of one dry goods house, Shepard, Norwell & Co., of Boston, who has the courage at last to exhibit in their windows some of their most beautiful fabrics, labeled, "Made in America." These same goods have been made in America for years, but have been sold under foreign brands, because they could thus be sold more easily. The frank avowal by such a house as the above named, has had a good effect upon the public at large. It has opened their eyes to the immense amount of cheating that has been carried on in so called foreign goods, and has given us a better appreciation of the value of domestic goods. "Made in America," will in the near future doubtless be one of the most noticeable placards in our stores. —Franklin Sentinel.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles For Sale by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.

G. A. R. Surprised.

Camp 27, S. of V., descended on Paul Revere post 88, Thursday evening, about nine o'clock. They brought with them a collation, and quickly the tables were set, Rev. Mr. Wilder offered the blessing, and soon all were enjoying a baked bean supper.

After the inner man was satisfied, a social feast was listened to, consisting of banjo and harmonica solo by Bro. Barron of West Quincy, singing by A. O. Allen and Powell, readings by Past Capt. C. E. Bowker, singing by Merrill and Powell. After an encore they gave a clog dance which was enjoyed by everybody.

All were entertained by speeches by Commander Webb, Past Commander Holt, Past Commander Jacobs, Past Commander Souther and Comrade Merrill, who gave a reminiscence of his army life, which everybody listened to with interest.

Then the Post called on Capt. C. E. Bayard, who said he hoped the United States would never allow a confederate monument to be dedicated on Memorial day. Past Capt. M. C. Holmes in his usual manner addressed the assemblage, seconding the last speaker's sentiments, hoping it would never happen.

The sentiment of the assemblage was that this being the first social gathering of the two organizations so closely bound they should continue often in the future, as the veterans were fast falling and in the near future the work of Memorial day would all fall in the hands of the Sons of Veterans, organized to perpetuate the memory of heroic dead. This year more of the work of decorating the graves will be alloted to Camp No. 27.

Atlantic May Festival.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of Atlantic held its closing sociable of the season at Memorial chapel Wednesday evening. It took the form of a May festival with May baskets, ice cream and cake, and an entertainment. The latter consisted in part of five scenes from the story of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The scenes were well arranged and beautiful. The characters were taken as follows:

Earl of Dorrincourt	Mr. Safford
Lawyer of Haversham	Mr. Litchfield
Mrs. Errol	Mrs. Robbins
Lord Fauntleroy	Miss May Nelson

There were baritone solos by Mr. Charles A. Pearce of Boston, piano solos by Mr. William Spaulding of Neponset, and a xylophone solo by Mrs. Sanford Small. The accompanists were Mrs. Charles L. Coe and Miss Taylor of Neponset.

Paul Revere Post Condemn.

At the meeting of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., Thursday evening, these resolutions were adopted concerning the proposed erection of a confederate monument at Chicago on Memorial Day:

WHEREAS, it is proposed to dedicate a monument to commemorate the deeds of traitors now buried at Chicago, the ceremony to be held on our sacred Memorial Day, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, members of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., Dept. of Mass. do most heartily and earnestly condemn this action of the parties in charge of this occasion, together with the action of the government in loaning loyal cannon to decorate the grounds, thereby endorsing the deeds of traitors.

J. H. WEBB, Commander.
FRANKLIN JACOBS, Adjt.

The Water Board.

But little real business was transacted at the meeting of the Water Commissioners Thursday evening except to consider schemes for increasing the supply in case the present supply runs low this summer.

Several plans were considered among them being to raise the dam at the reservoir, buy water from Boston, Weymouth or Braintree, and to lay a pipe to Blue Hill river.

However nothing definite was done but in case the supply does run low the board will be ready to meet it.

Plans are being made for the stand pipe at Forbes' hill, which will be submitted to the Park Commissioners for approval.

The board will push the collections in order to get them in early.

A Clever Capture.

It was not a burglar, but a runaway horse, and the man who so dexterously effected the capture is Mr. F. S. Patch, the well-known coal and ice dealer. The horse had been for the first time harnessed into a butcher cart, on Tuesday morning, and when the driver stopped at a customer's house on Columbia street, leaving him unhitched, he started at a lively gait along Columbia street toward Mr. Patch's ice house. Faster and faster he flew along. When he got to Penn street he turned sharply to the right. Mr. Patch, who happened to be standing a few yards from the street, rushed out and seizing the frightened animal brought him to a standstill in a jiffy. Those who saw it done have very complimentary things to say of Mr. Patch's prowess, and his courage in performing this rather dangerous feat.

Wollaston Realty.

Amos T. Leavitt has bought of N. G. Nickerson, a colonial house on Lincoln avenue.

Mr. Nickerson will build two more colonial houses on Lincoln avenue. He will also build a double house on Winthrop avenue opposite the hose house and two houses near the corner of Central avenue and Fayette street.

General Miles at a dinner party in this city surprised the guests by reminding them—a fact little popularly known, by the way—that the flag of the Union is older than that of any other now used by any other nation. The French tri-color is antedated by the stars and strips a few years, and the British union jack as now flown came a little later. All other National flags have been modified to their present unfurling even after that period. Then what bird is older of creation and fuller of longevity than the eagle? If there be any, let him scream.—New York Mercury.

Appears to Have Fastened Upon New England's Pet Ball Tossers.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Boston put up one of the worst fielding games ever seen on the West Side grounds, and was beaten easily by the Chicagos. The local team had the visitors goose-egged sadly for eight innings, but in the last they made a spasmodic effort to take advantage of a sudden let down on the part of Chicago, and on two hits, one of which was a triple by Ganzel, and four glaring errors, managed to score four runs.

Unslacked Lime for Blasting.

Apropos of the late Gen. Newton is a little story he told 20 years ago, when his work at Hell Gate made him a much talked of man.

"I was in the quarry country of Indiana," said he, "where they take out great blocks of oolytic limestone without the use of a pound of powder. I had heard of the process and I took a team at Greensburg and drove down to the quarries to see.

"They had drilled a series of holes in the place marked, his judgment and trained intelligence telling the foreman where the dividing line should run. Then they tamped these holes full of unslaked lime, poured water on it, keyed them shut, and waited.

"In 12 hours the mass of rock he wanted would begin with groans and cracklings to separate. In 16 hours it would be free and the force of the lime would be spent.

"'If I used powder or dynamite,' said he, 'I would rip out such a mass as that in 15 minutes; but it would be chipped and cracked into a hundred pieces.'

School Exhibit.

There is an exhibition in the window at the office of the superintendent of schools of some fine work in water colors, charcoal and pencil, executed by the pupils of the Quincy High school. The subjects are Japanese lanterns, flowers, fruit, books, jars, faces, etc., and the color work, especially on the flowers, is very fine and reflects great credit upon the school. It can safely be said to compare well with any other school work of the State.

Miss Soule, who has been engaged in the millinary business here for some little time, having made arrangements to move her business to Randolph, went to Boston on Wednesday morning to attend to some duties. When she left her home she was not feeling very well, and on arriving in Boston she was obliged to take the first train for home; reaching home she became worse; physicians were called but at about one o'clock she expired. Heart trouble is supposed to be the cause of this sudden death.

TODAY'S COURT

East Weymouth was well represented in the court room this morning. They were not present as witnesses, but as spectators; the case in which they were interested being that of Henry W. Vogel for assault on Dr. Charles R. Greeley, the local tooth extractor.

Dr. Greeley owns a horse which was out to pasture. Wednesday afternoon he discovered boys stoning his animal, and, as he says, caught a young brother of the defendant and was laying down the law to him in regard to cruelty to animals when the defendant appeared on the scene. The result was that Dr. Greeley had his right eye badly disfigured and lost several of his teeth without the use of anæsthetics or forceps, and in a much shorter period of time.

The defendant admitted he did hit the doctor, but that the blow was much harder than he intended, as he was angered at seeing his brother being thumped.

The court said the matter was a serious one, but it was hard to determine how much provocation had entered into the case, but would impose a fine of $20.

—Mrs. Caroline A. Thomas of North Weymouth was granted a pension this week.

It Did the Business.

Mr J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the wr ter was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

CHURCH AND STATE.

France Said to Be Divided Into Factions on the Verge of a Rebellion.

PARIS, May 10.—The government will be unable to much longer ignore a rebellion which is gaining ground all over France—that is, a rebellion of the church against the state. The attitude of the bishops is making a great impression on the public mind and the country is being divided into two camps. Only one bishop has had the courage to advocate submission to the law, and he was promptly extinguished by his metropolitan. The strangest part of the affair is the apparent turnabout of the pope. It is an open secret that his holiness will not withhold the papal benediction from those who think it ther duty to resist the droit d'accroissement.

MANAGUA, via Galveston, May 10.—Prominent Nicaraguans are openly favoring the establishment by the United States of a protectorate over Nicaragua or the interior portion of the central great republic. This desire is evidently increasing rapidly now among all prominent Central Americans.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—A gigantic scheme for the wholesale defrauding of accident insurance companies by means of bogus claims has been unearthed. Nearly every accident insurance company in the United States is involved, and the amount secured will run into the thousands. Operations of a Dr. Soupcoff in Pittsburg became suspicious, and he was watched. An agent investigated, and it is said that Soupcoff has confessed that his claims were fraudulent, and implicated two physicians and four other persons in this city.

More Time to Think It Over.

WINNIPEG, May 10.—Upon the reassembling of the Manitoba legislature yesterday, Premier Greenway asked the house to order a further adjournment, until June 13, in order that further consideration of separate schools may be had. He said it was not the intention to proceed with other business until this matter was disposed of. The premier's motion to adjourn was productive of an animated debate, but the motion was finally carried, and the legislature was declared adjourned to June 13.

IS ARGON THE LINK?

THE NEW GAS SEEMS TO EXPLAIN THE MYSTERIES OF SCIENCE.

It Causes the Wonderful "Aurora" and Bears a Curious Relation to Electricity, Heat and Light—May Be the Primal Cause of Life.

The aurora borealis has now been explained as the work of argon, the element in the atmosphere revealed to the scientific world only a few months ago, and savants are asking in amazement what further chemical discoveries are impending. Mysteries which for ages have puzzled men of science may, it is pointed out, find their solution in argon, a basic element hitherto unsuspected, which is destroying all the old laws and setting up new ones.

Who is to say where the frenzy of experiment which has now seized the scientific world over this new substance may not end?

Who can tell what revolutions are impending as the new gas is condensed and tested and as one scientist after another contributes the results of his work to the general knowledge?

But a few months ago and argon was unknown, and now the aurora, nature's noblest phenomenon and a never ending puzzle to scientists, is explained by its action. A few months or even weeks hence no one can tell what other mysteries may not also be solved, and from day to day the field is broadening in the pathway of discovery along which the thoughts of the scientific world are now directed. A gas present in stupendous quantity has been found which reveals strange qualities and bears a relationship to light and heat that is yet mysterious. Without it human life would be impossible, and under its influence electricity is curiously affected.

Tested under the spectroscope, argon is found to have light giving qualities. It is also mysteriously affected by heat and cold. At these phenomena the men of science are astounded. Here, it is admitted, may be a discovery greater than that of electricity, more revolutionary in its effects than that of steam itself.

The primal and hitherto undreamed of cause of many of the forces of nature may at last have been unearthed. There is hypnotism, for instance, a strange, mysterious force, well recognized, but unexplained by known laws. Argon, it is suggested, may lie at the bottom of this scientific mystery. By breathing it into the lungs in greater or less quantity the human system may become charged with this new gas, which, having mesmeric influence of its own, may affect the wills of other individuals.

In medicine this new gas, which, condensed, looks like cheese, may play a most important part, yielding to the physician drugs and fluids of the greatest potency. It may cure diseases, refresh exhausted natures and be the veritable elixir of life which shall banish death. Affecting the brain, it may excel opium or alcohol in exhilaration, and emotions like fear or love may be under its control. In explosive force argon may excel dynamite. Being lighter than air, argon may lift balloons to illimitable heights and cause men to fly. The cause of the aurora, it may dispel the night. It may be the essential principle of electricity, the potential force of energy or that missing link of science, the primal cause of life.

These are few of the outcomes of argon which are now visible to the scientific mind as results attainable in the near future. No one can tell what discoveries are at hand while the news of argon's solution of the aurora is still fresh from the laboratory.

It was the eminent French scientist, Professor Berthelot, who sought to ascertain whether argon might not explain the aurora and whose work has now been crowned with victory. He says:

"During experiments in passing electric currents through argon mixed with benzine I obtained splendid displays of colors similar in every respect to those of the aurora borealis. Testing these with the spectroscope, the identification seemed fully confirmed. It will be necessary to investigate further with larger quantities of the new gas, but the results already obtained certainly suggest that the aurora borealis is caused by the action of electric currents upon the argon and other elements in the atmosphere."—New York World.

Let It Pass.

The title of the novel, "Ships That Pass In the Night," has been kneaded over, turned over, twisted inside out and outside in, beheaded, detailed and subjected to every possible form of transposition by the newspaper paragrapher. It's time to stop now. Let us assume that all the ships have passed and the dawn is breaking and hunt up something else for the paragraphs that pass in the day.—New York Mail and Express.

Would It Be Right?

It is easy to sneer at a brother's tear
When sorrow his cup hath filled,
When the shadow of wrath hangs over his path,
And his warm heart's blood is chilled,
When hope seems lost to the winds and lost
In their mad and scurrying flight.
It is easy to sneer at a brother's tear;
But, think you, would it be right?

It is easy to sigh at the orphan's cry
And hurriedly pass along,
To meet the wail of the widow pale
With a rollicking burst of song.
When far away, like a bird at play,
Joy fadeth—a fickle wight.
It is easy to sigh and pass them by;
But, think you, would it be right?

It is easy to weep o'er the forms that sleep
In their mantle of gloomy clay,
Then laugh in your pride at the welling tide
That saddens a passing day,
For the friend and the foe must come and go,
And sorrow is lost to sight
In the whirligig dream of life's swift stream;
But, think you, would it be right?

You may bow your head in the glad light shed
By the altar's beckoning arm
And his name extol who keepeth the soul
From the moldering touch of harm;
You may humbly seek in a manner meek
The regions of pure delight
While your heartstrings chime to the things of time;
But, think you, would it be right?
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

President Cleveland's chief recreation at Woodley is a drive in the afternoon and a game of cards in the evening. The president is a good whist player and is also fond of penuchle. He has been strongly urged of late to take to horseback riding for exercise, but his friends have failed to make an equestrian of him.

William R. Smith, the present superintendent of the Botanic gardens in Washington, assumed that office in 1852, during Millard Fillmore's administration. Mr. Smith is big and brawny, strong and active, notwithstanding the 67 years which he carries lightly. He was born in Athelstane, Haddingtonshire, Scotland, in 1828.

Will N. Harlen, the southern novelist, who has just returned from a prolonged visit to Europe, says that the realistic school of romance is "on its last legs," and that the French influence in fiction is most strongly dominant.

Joel Chandler Harris ("Uncle Remus") is a man of extreme diffidence. A Georgia editor, who knows him well, says that he once left Boston very suddenly, without even sending to his hotel for his trunk, in order to escape a dinner at which he was apprehensive of being lionized.

Being Too Good.

It doesn't pay to be too good.
But, then, few of us are.
In fact most of us do not reach
The standard mark by far.
We criticise our neighbors' faults,
Mostly behind their backs—
But who sets out to find what he Himself most sorely lacks?

It doesn't pay to be too good.
But, then, who ever knew
A man who really was too good?
Such folks are mighty few.
In most of us there is a streak—
As fat is streaked with lean—
Of something that unprejudiced
Observers would call mean.

It doesn't pay to be too good—
Just good enough will do.
It answers pretty well for me,
And it will serve for you.
Don't fret about your neighbors' faults—
It isn't right you should—
And bear in mind they try as hard
As you do to be good.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

*CAPTURE OF FORT TICONDEROGA 1775.

DUPONT FOR SENATOR.

He Is Named as the Choice of Republicans of Delaware.

Addicks and Higgins Are Both Out In the Cold.

The Contest, However, Is by No Means Definitely Settled as Yet.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 10.—The general assembly of Delaware adjourned at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after being in session since Jan. 1. The session ended amid great disorder, and by expiration of the time set for adjourning. The house did not adjourn separately, and the journals of both bodies are left in confusion.

A successor to ex-United States Senator Higgins was not chosen, although the Republicans claim that their leading candidate, Henry Dupont, was legally elected. The matter will probably be taken to the United States senate for a decision.

J. E. ADDICKS.

The 211th ballot since the deadlock began four months ago, and the last of the session, was taken a few minutes before 3 o'clock. It resulted: Henry A. Dupont (Rep.), 15; J. Edward Addicks (Rep.), 4; Edward Ridgely (Dem.), 9; F. W. Tunnell (Dem.), 1.

During the day the Democrats filibustered with the object of preventing the balloting, and when the death-knell of the executive session of 1895 was sounded, the clerk was in the midst of a roll-call on a dilatory motion made by a Democrat.

As soon as Governor Watson (Dem.), who, by reason of the fact that he was speaker of the senate previous to his elevation to the gubernatorial chair upon the death of Governor Marvil, presided over the joint session, announced the sine die adjournment, Speaker of the House McMullin (Rep.) arose and formally declared Henry A. Dupont elected United States senator. This action had previously been Agreed Upon by Republican Leaders.

The Delaware legislature is composed fo 21 Republican representatives and 9 senators, 16 being a majority on joint ballot. The Republicans claim that when Senator Watson, by virtue of his position as speaker of the senate, succeeded to the governorship on the death of Governor Marvil a month ago, the number of senators was reduced to 18, and therefore there were only 28 on joint ballot, and that 15 votes constitute a majority.

On the other hand, the Democrats and Governor Watson distinctly declare that the "speaker of the senate" shall become governor. Therefore, if Mr. Watson withdraws from the senate, he ceases to be "speaker of the senate," and consequently Loses the Governorship.

The senatorial question is likely to occupy a large amount of public attention for months to come. Whether the governor has a right to appoint is a disputed question. If he has, the appointment will be only until the next legislature, which meets in January, 1896, unless called sooner by the governor.

Addicks has made good his threat, uttered at the very beginning of the contest, to prevent the election of a Republican senator from Delaware if he could not secure the prize for himself. He has been aided in this by Senator Hanby, who from the first has conducted the Addicks canvass, and Representatives Ball, Moore and Robbins.

The deadlock practically began on the night of the caucus, Jan 14. Previous to the caucus, both the Higgins and Addicks factions had been making claims of an election on the ballot, but when the time for a caucus arrived the Addicks forces had retired. Higgins got three votes, Massey one, and there were two blanks.

On Jan. 16 the first ballot for a United States senator was taken in joint session. Higgins received 10 of the 19 Republican votes; Addicks, 6, and Massey, 3. From that time until the close yesterday the legislature has been in session six days a week, it having been decided that at least one ballot must be taken each day until the deadlock was broken.

The feeling between the Higgins and Addicks factions increased as the balloting proceeded, the friends of the latter repeatedly declaring they would not desert their candidate, even if it caused a vacancy in the United States senate. The Higgins followers also stuck firmly to their favorite until within a few weeks past, when they began to show a disposition to agree upon some person acceptable to both factions, but their overtures in this direction were Spurned by Addicks' Friends.

Not until Tuesday did the Addicks force desert him, but four men returned to him yesterday. He has never polled less than four votes during the contest. During the past two weeks Addicks has been polling six votes, Representative Money deserting Higgins for the former. Almost from the time the balloting began, there were rumors of a break from the ranks of one or the other of the two candidates.

This is the third time there has been a vacancy in the United States senate from Delaware.

Colonel Henry A. Dupont, who will make the contest for the senatorship, is a member of the famous Dupont family who have been manufacturers of powder and other explosives in Wilmington for over a century. He is a son of the late General Henry Dupont, and was born at Brandywine Banks in 1836. He attended the University of Pennsylvania, and was subsequently appointed to the United States Military academy at West Point, graduating in 1861. He entered the Fifth United States artillery and served through the civil war.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 12. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How can we Endeavorers help our church?—I Cor. xii, 1-27. (Meeting to be led by the pastor.)

In this chapter Paul, by analogy, represents the relation that exists between Christ and the church as similar to that which exists between the head and the body, Christ being the head and the church the body, and going still further he represents the relation of the individual members of the church to it by that which the members of the body sustain to it. Endeavorers, therefore, as members of the church are members, organs, of the body of Christ, and in studying the relation of the members of the body to it we may see the relation of the members of the church to the church and consequently how they may help it.

1. All the members of the body have something to do. Not one organ of the body has been created without an object. God intended it to do something, and if it does not do it it loses the power of doing it. The blind fishes in Mammoth cave once had the power of sight, but by living in continual darkness they neglected to use it and consequently lost it. To fulfill his relation to the church, to help the church, the Christian, the Endeavorer, must have something to do. Inactivity, do-lessness, can never help the church. Christ wants the members of His body to be active in His service. We are to present our bodies a living sacrifice, not a dead one. We are to be living stones as a part of Christ's temple. There is no place in the body of Christ for slothful, idle and indolent members. The branch that does not bear fruit is removed and cast into the fire. The one who does not use the talent given to him loses it. Forfeiture is the penalty of neglect in all cases.

2. Each member of the body has a definite, specific work to perform, and the success and harmony of the whole structure lies in its faithfully performing it. All have work, but not all the same work. The eye is for seeing, the ear for hearing, the feet for walking. It is the same in the body of Christ. To each one God has given some talent—ability to do some special work for Him. All are not apostles, all are not prophets, all are not teachers, but it takes the work of all to make a full rounded, symmetrical, successful church. If you would help your church, find out what is the talent God has given you and use it. Be content to fill a little space if necessary that the Lord may be glorified and His church may prosper.

3. All of the members of the human body work in harmony and unity. The eye is not jealous of the ear or the ear of the tongue. Endeavorers, do the work that God has given you the power to do in peace, harmony and fellowship with one another, and you cannot but help your church.

Bible Readings.—Ex. xxxv, 21; Neh. iv, 6; x, 39; Ps. xxvi, 8; lxxxiv, 1-4; cxxii, 1-9; Mal. iii, 10; Math. v, 14-16; xxv, 14-30; Acts ii, 44-47; xx, 28; Rom. xii, 4-8; I Cor. x, 31-33; xi, 22; xiv, 19; Eph. v, 29, 30; vi, 18; Heb. x, 23-25.

Stands For Christian Endeavor.

The editor of The Lutheran Evangelist devotes the first two columns of a recent issue of his paper to a defense of the Christian Endeavor form of organization as opposed to all forms that might be used to separate the young people of his church from the young people of other evangelical denominations. He says that if the animus of such societies as he names is antagonistic to the Christian Endeavor society "then we stand squarely for the great Scriptural providential movement which has organized the young for Christian work with the pledge of loyalty to Christ and to the denomination."

The Greatest Attraction.

"It was the best meeting that I have ever attended, because so many testified of Jesus." Such was the testimony of an unconverted young man concerning a Christian Endeavor prayer meeting in Savannah, Ga., which he chanced to attend. We cannot too early learn that the most attractive thing about our meetings, as about our religion, is Jesus Himself.—Golden Rule.

Proves His Sincerity.

The only conclusive evidence of a man's sincerity is that he gives himself for a principle. Words, money, all things else, are comparatively easy to give away, but when a man makes a gift of his daily life and practice it is plain that the truth, whatever it may be, has taken possession of him.—Lowell.

As God Wills.

We can all be servants of God wherever our lot is cast, but He gives us different sorts of work, according as He fits us for it, and calls us to it.—Beacon.

Christian Endeavor Jottings.

The Epworth league meets in international conference in Chattanooga June 27-30.

Junior Endeavor has taken ship and now sails the high seas. A society is in existence among the bellboys aboard the Majestic. Hurrah for the juniors!

Missions! Missions!! Missions!!! These are the words that we hear growing louder and louder as the time for the Boston convention draws near. Boston, '95, is to be first and foremost a missionary gathering.

The Hawaiian Islands report several flourishing Christian Endeavor societies that know no revolution from the steady march of Christian progress. It seems as if "every kindred, every tribe," could praise God for the Christian Endeavor movement.

A Lima (N. Y.) society finds an "antigossip pledge" conducive to the spirituality of the members.

See how Christian Endeavor grows in Wales! In July, 1893, only 29 societies; in February, 1895, more than 120, and rapidly increasing.

MILLS CLOSE TONIGHT

Unless Olneyville Strikers Return to Work at Employers' Terms.

Nearly Ten Thousand Operatives Will Be Idle.

Claim They Are Not Frightened at What They Consider a "Bluff."

PROVIDENCE, May 11.—All the Providence mills, from present indications, will close tonight for an indefinite period, unless the operatives consent to go to work at the old schedule within a very few days. Superintendent Ward of the Riverside mills said that the manufacturers had agreed not to open their mills on Monday unless the help came to work today, and that every mill stood ready to keep the agreement.

The Weybossett mill, owned by Taft & Weeden, drew its fires last night and did not open this morning. The Saxon mills and the Providence and National mills will close their doors at noon today. The Saranac mill, which has been running full time with all its help since the commencement of the strike, also closed today. Proprietor Kimball positively denies the rumor that he will break away from the other manufacturers and open his mill next Tuesday. He said that he was bound by the same agreement that controlled the other manufacturers, and that he should hold to it, whether he liked it or not.

I. G. Ladd of the Saxon mills stated that the help will soon find out that the manufacturers are in earnest, and that the notices posted in the mills were not merely idle threats. He said that all mills would positively be closed Monday, and that they were prepared to Continue the Lockout Until Fall.

The mills closing at this time will cause the loss of the market for heavyweight goods, and if opened again in summer would only be run at a loss. In the fall the mills will open for the manufacture of lightweight goods, and it is unlikely that they will be able to run before that time unless the operatives consent to return at the present schedule within a very few days. This statement is endorsed by all the manufacturers.

The operatives, on the other hand, still regard the matter as a bluff, and believe that the present movement to close the mills is merely the last card in a big threat to frighten them back to work. The district council will meet this evening, and it is expected that some action will be taken on the situation.

By the closing of the mills which were in operation this week 1000 operatives will be added to the 8300 already out of employment.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 11.—The question of substituting for an adverse committee report a bill to abolish the death penalty came up as unfinished business. Substitution was refused—29 to 106. The yeas and nays were ordered, and substitution was refused—43 to 125—and the committee report accepted. The bill to authorize the city of Northampton to accept a gift of an opera house was passed to be engrossed after being so amended that it shall take effect when accepted by the city council and mayor. The resolve directing the state board of health to prepare a plan of sewage disposal for Salem and Peabody was passed to be engrossed. The bill providing for a reconstruction of the state house and the bill to provide for preserving and extending the front were both rejected.

Face Was Scratched.

BROCKTON, May 11.—William Maher died Thursday after a sickness since Saturday last. There are some suspicious circumstances connected with his death, and the police authorities are investigating the case. It is learned that Maher went into the Tipperary district Friday afternoon last to visit friends, and while there got into a fight. There were severe scratches on his face as though made by finger nail. The doctor saw that erysipelas had set in and treated him for it. Maher grew worse and died Thursday.

Risley's Little Black Box.

HARTFORD, May 11.—The little black box belonging to the late O. H. K. Risley of Willimantic was opened yesterday. It was supposed that the box contained some sensational evidence regarding the disposition of the large amount of money Cashier Risley was short in his connection with the First National bank. The box held a few securities, certificates of stock, etc., such as might be in any private box, but nothing in it threw any light on the missing bank funds.

A Murderous Shot.

NASHUA, May 11.—Joseph Deshanue's children were playing on Worcester street when Leon Tarren came along and got into some trouble with them. He began to cuff them when Deshanue objected. Tarron drew a revolver and deliberately fired two shots at the father of the children, one of which entered his head just above his right eye and was embedded in the forehead. Later it was extracted at the hospital. Tarren escaped.

Brought Nearly a Million.

PROVIDENCE, May 11.—The biggest real estate deal ever made in Rhode Island was completed yesterday, when the Grosvenor estate in this city was sold for nearly $1,000,000, or at the rate of $30 a square foot. The purchasers were Boston capitalists, who will erect a 10-story building, covering 22,000 square feet, at a cost of $1,000,000. The sum of $25,000 was deposited yesterday as a forfeit, and the balance will be paid within three days.

Ended at Last.

PORTLAND, May 11.—The police muddle was brought to a close last night by the officers of the old force retiring by order of Mayor Berry. He sent a letter to City Marshal Rowe to deliver up all property belonging to the department to the police commissioners. Chief Engineer Marden has also delivered over the fire alarm keys to the new officers. The city is now guarded by the officers of the new force.

Teachers Get Old Salaries.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 11.—The deadlock over the school teachers' salaries has been broken, the city auditor approving the payroll. The same salaries the teachers were receiving before the increase was voted by the school board. If the teachers want to get an advance they must sue the city for the difference.

He Examined Milk.

LYNN, May 11.—Samuel Eaton was arrested last night on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses from Edward Hall, a milkman. Hall states that Eaton stated that he represented the board of health, and that he had tested Hall's milk and found it bad. For $20 he offered to suppress the alleged report. Hall paid the $20, and afterward found that Eaton was not connected with the board of health.

Deputy Sheriffs Guard Receipts.

NEW HAVEN, May 11.—Vernon Somers attached the box-office receipts and scenery of Miss Pardee last night in a suit to recover damages on a broken contract which she made, as he alleges, with him to play in her show of "Bobby Melville of London," which was first presented here last night. Two deputy sheriffs are in charge of the receipts. There was a crowded house.

Objections to Trolley Road.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., May 11.—Chancellor Rowell of the state supreme court has ordered the Brattleboro Street Railway company to show cause, if any, why an injunction should not be issued against the company according to the prayer of property holders, who dispute the right of the road to build a trolley line under their charter obtained from the legislature in 1888.

Will Be Settled In Court.

PORTLAND, May 11.—In 1894 congress appropriated $19,000 to establish a light and fog signal station at Two Bush island. The island belongs to C. F. Guptill, who refuses to sell it for the price the government is willing to pay. The government has therefore begun condemnation proceedings against Guptill.

Rain Needed.

SOLON, Me., May 11.—The Kennebec drive, which has been hung up here for several days, was again started over the falls yesterday, and a large number of extra men are employed on the work of getting them down river. A heavy rain is necessary to get the short crop to the mills.

Cohen Has Skipped.

NEWBURYPORT, May 11.—The grand jury yesterday indicted Nayhen Cohen for arson. Cohen's tailor shop in Lynn was burned, and the circumstances led the police to issue a warrant for Cohen's arrest. He left Lynn at the time, however, and his whereabouts are unknown.

Not Wanted Here.

BOSTON, May 11.—Orders were sent out by the treasury department yesterday to the various custom officers along the border calling for renewed efforts from the officials to prevent smuggling, and in particular the unlawful entry of Chinese, into the state.

A Compromise.

AMESBURY, Mass., May 11.—A settlement was effected yesterday between the striking operatives of the American Hat company by the concession on the part of the company to an increase in wages, although not so great a one as was at first demanded.

Chemicals Exploded.

NEW BEDFORD, May 11.—An explosion of chemicals in a dye house here started a lively blaze, which spread to three adjoining buildings. Loss, $3000. Louis Pihl was severely burned, but will recover. A fireman was slightly injured by a falling ladder.

Trilby's Author Coming Over.

BOSTON, May 11.—A cablegram received in this city announces that Du Maurier, author of "Trilby," will sail for America within a few days to settle the disputes over copyrights and the rights to dramatize his novel, claimed by rival play producers.

Incendiarism Suspected.

RICHMOND, Me., May 11.—Citizens of this town have awakened to the belief that there is an industrious firebug in the town. Four fires of the last three weeks have been of a mysterious character. State detectives have the matter in charge.

Preliminary Practice.

BRISTOL, R. I., May 11.—The yacht Colonia, from New York, with Captain Hank Haff and crew on board, cast anchor in the harbor last night. Captain Haff and crew will practice on the Colonia until the Defender is launched.

Work For Two.

AUGUSTA, May 11.—The work in the office of the state inspectors of factories and workshops has so increased that Governor Cleaves yesterday assigned J. S. Bowdon to duty as assistant to State Inspector Chalk.

Ton Fell on His Leg.

CONCORD, N. H., May 11.—A block of granite weighing a ton fell on the left leg of William H. Perry yesterday afternoon. His leg was badly injured and his entire nervous system shattered.

Death Resulted.

BAR HARBOR, Me., May 11.—John Haynes, a mason, was hit by a board which fell from a derrick, and his neck was broken. He died in about 10 minutes.

Shot His Home's Destroyer.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 11.—Bert Hall, who keeps a grocery store, shot and killed his clerk, Volney Baird. The latter's undue intimacy with the former's wife was the cause of the murder.

Good Work Goes On.

WHEELING, May 11.—Four thousand steel workers employed in the Riverside and Wheeling, Belmont and Top mills, are to be given an increase in wages averaging 10 per cent.

Did $100,000 Damage.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—The Langdell gingham mills were damaged last night to the extent of $100,000. Four hundred hands are thrown out of employment

STILL MORE IS NEEDED.

Over $20,000 Pledged at the Convention of the Y. M. C. A.

International Work Considered by the Delegates.

Laying of the Corner Stone of the New Training School Building.

SPRINGFIELD, May 11.—President J. M. Coulter of Lake Forest university, Illinois, discussed "The International Permanent Fund and Its Relations to the International Work" at yesterday's session of the Y. M. C. A. convention.

He said there was great need of coordination in the work of the association on account of the vast area covered by its work, and that there was a need, too, of stimulation. Another need was of propagation, which should carry the work farther than had been done. The two ways of raising money for organizations are by direct annual subscriptions, which tend to make the work uncertain and spasmodic, and the endowment plan, which is the better one.

Chairman Bierce read resolutions favoring the adoption of the report of the international committee, and that the committee should be authorized to spend this year not less than $75,000 for the work, and for 1896 as much more as was necessary. This report was unanimously adopted. Pledges to the amount of over $20,000 were received for carrying on the work. One individual subscription was for $3000.

A fitting close to the afternoon was the laying of the corner stone of the new dormitory building for the International Y. M. C. A. training school, which took place shortly after 5 o'clock. The exercises were brief, but impressive.

Charles H. Barrows of Springfield introduced the speakers of the occasion. A portion of the Scriptures was read by George E. Day, vice president of the Alumni association. This was followed with invocation by D. A. Bridge.

Of Deep Significance.

The formal service of laying the corner stone was performed by Frederick B. Pratt, chairman of the international committee. He said, in part: "Before I place the last bit of mortar upon this foundation that will bind this stone, I want you to think for a moment what the laying of this stone signifies. There are assembled here representatives of the Y. M. C. A. from all over the country. Of all the general secretaries of the country, about 26 per cent are graduates of the Y. M. C. A. training school.

"This institution is a standard of Christian manhood to which young men may attain. It is very fitting on the occasion of this international convention that we should lay the corner stone of this building, which is so vitally connected with the Y. M. C. A." After placing the last trowel of mortar upon the bricks, Mr. Pratt remarked: "I now declare this stone well and truly laid."

An Indispensable Institution.

This was followed with a brief address by Robert Weidensall. He said: "It was necessity that suggested this great work which we represent. Not many years ago the Y. M. C. A. secretary would not pass muster with the trained secretary of today. Since the founding of those schools Y. M. C. A. work has been raised and elevated to a higher plane. There is unlimited demand for these workers, and these institutions are indispensable."

Following this address, the hymns "How firm a foundation" and "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow" were sung by the students.

Last night the subject of the evening was "The Relation of the Association to the Foreign Mission Cause." The principal speakers were Rev. Dr. Barton of Boston; David McConaughy, Jr., of Madras, India; D. W. Lyon, secretary-elect for China, and Louis Hich, secretary-elect for Ceylon. The tenor of the addresses was an earnest plea for Y. M. C. A. work in foreign countries, particularly as a means of educating the natives.

Needs More Evidence.

CHICAGO, May 11.—A story is floating around in women's temperance circles to the effect that Miss Frances Willard may be led to the altar before autumn. A Young Octogenarian.

Rev. Luther H. Angier, who has supplied the pulpit of Rev. Robert Westly Peach during his absence, and is well known to Presbyterians of the city, is a remarkable young man although of 85 summers. He takes a bright view of life as will be seen from the following extract from a letter to Mr. Peach last week:

"I have been up an hour, (since 5 o'clock) had my usual cup of coffee by my own hands, and take this early hour of May day morning of sunshine to write a line and send off at a venture. I went out to Quincy Sunday morning and had a capital time. It was a cloudy and rather dismal day after the rain of Saturday—but no rain through Sunday. A very fine congregation in the morning—more than I expected—a great gathering in the evening, as many perhaps as I ever saw in that house, the seats filled up to the desk. It was a grand sight and most inspiring. I was in my best condition all day and evening. My evening discourse, "Christian Patriotism;" excellent singing; altogether a marvelously good day. I had made such drafts upon all the forces within me that I felt a little anxious for the results, subjectively. Got back to my rooms (in Boston) a few minutes past ten, slept well, and Monday morning felt as fresh as a June rose. I go again next Sunday, and Monday expect to leave for New York and perhaps Washington."

I can assure you that you will have the pleasure of riding over the electric railway from Holbrook to Houghs Neck before July 4.

BASE BALL.

Adams Sends a Substitute Team to Milton and is defeated.

Adams Academy was defeated by Milton yesterday 7 to 6. The Milton boys having refused to play the regular Academy nine, because of the presence of two teachers on the latter team, were able, barely, to take a victory from a substitute team, which lacked three of the regular players. The high sand bank in left field makes good fielding impossible and two of Milton's runs may be attributed to Hayward's fall in attempting to jump down the sand-bank and catch a fly at the same time.

An examination of the error-column will show the superiority of the fielding of the Adams nine. The loss of the game is due to Milton's three lucky hits into the sand-bank and Perkins' phenomenal catch of a long drive fly by Hayward with two men on bases. It was a remarkable catch, but it was fully equalled by Kent's catch of a difficult fly. Manning's catching was again perfect and his throwing to bases was good.

Another game has been arranged to be played on the Park, and we hope to turn the tables.

Cheaper Suburban Rates.

It seems very probable, says the Norfolk County Gazette, that within the next two or three weeks suburban fares on one or more of the steam railroads will be considerably reduced. Competition of the electric roads has for some time suggested such a reduction, and railroad men have talked it over pretty thoroughly. President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine Railroad says that his company at least will be obliged to take the step in the near future, in order to successfully compete with electric roads along its lines, and be on a uniform scale for all distances. General Manager Sanborn of the Plymouth division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad says that a reduction may be looked for at any time. The Albany Railroad lowered its rates as late as last January, and probably that road and the New York & New England will maintain the present rates.

First Church Vespers.

The concluding vesper service will be held at 4 o'clock, Sunday, at the Unitarian church. The choir will sing:

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. DO NOT FAIL TO ATTEND THE

GRAND OPENING

OF HIGH CLASS

SEA SHORE LOTS,

Wednesday, May 15, 1895,

Of 65 choice shore front lots at Wollaston Park, and the adjoining estate of Charles Francis Adams, 2d. These are all FRONT LOTS, beautifully situated on the charming Quincy Bay and located directly upon a well-made street with plank sidewalk the entire length. It is the plan of the Commissioners to include this street in their park boulevard and sea-shore drive, which must greatly enhance the value of every lot.

There is a fine beach of sand and pebble with best of boating and bathing facilities, and the protection of a half-mile break-water, just completed. The sites command superb views of the city and the harbor with all outgoing and incoming vessels, Boston Light, etc.

Lots contain 3,500 feet—some larger—and are particularly adapted for summer cottages. Stores, churches, schools and all advantages are near at hand, the Boston & Quincy Electric Railway is within five minutes of any lot, and the Old Colony R. R. (Wollaston Heights Station) within ten minutes' easy walk.

Remember these are not cheap lots, but are of thoroughly high-class character and will be duly restricted to insure desirable buildings and neighbors. These lots will not be sold at auction but entirely by private sale, on easy terms: $25 down and moderate weekly or monthly payments, without interest or taxes.

Those wishing to make selection before the opening day can obtain all necessary information, free tickets and guide to visit the property, by calling at

at any time from 8.30 to 5 P. M. daily. As the lots are limited in number, intending purchasers will do well to be present at the opening sale, if their convenience will not allow an earlier visit.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

The Art Show.

Editor Daily Ledger:

It is often said, and truly, that "charity covers a multitude of sins." It might also be well to add that "charitable exhibitions cover a multitude of silly fads." Not the least among them being the art, hitherto undiscovered, declared to exist in theatrical and other posters. Pray consider, seriously, for a moment the source of this Renaissance, suddenly bursting, Phoenix like, from the dying embers of the 19th century! Who are its promoters, who are its champions and protectors. Note the piggish sensuality depicted in the female faces by Anbrey Beardsley, its founder, the friend of Oscar Wilde! Recall the Moulin Rouge posters, the most notorious concert hall in Paris, with their travesties on the female figure, evolved from the absinthe, heated imaginations of the lowest type of Parisian artists, the so-called "Bohemian" class, itself a fad of the most degenerate and unhealthy tendency. The tone of the whole exhibition, lately given in Quincy is flippant, shallow and weak, with the exception of Beardsley, which is gross in its covert sensuality.

Of what possible benefit can it be to hang, as a type of artistic sentiment, a picture of a frail, but enterprising young Parisian female, kissing the bulbous nose of a father not her own. If there is any art there, where in the name of the subway is it concealed?

Is the sole end and aim of art the depicting of the female figure in as many different forms of suggestiveness as possible? No, my humble opinion is that the superficial touch shown by the artists in the exhibition, was as far from the immortal genius of the true artist, as the writings of society-novelists (so called in the absence of a better title) are from the peerless tone of Shakespeare.

Yours truly, in the interest of Art but not buffoonery,

CHARLES T. SAVAGE,
Wollaston, Mass.

Bro. George Vinton.

WOLLASTON, May 6, 1895.

At the last meeting of Wollaston lodge, the following resolutions were adopted:

Again has the saddened news come to the members of Wollaston Lodge, Knights of Honor, that a respected brother has received the summons that closes his work with us here, and bidding him to join the Supreme Lodge above. Brothers, another link has been broken in our fraternal chain, a true Knight of Honor in principles as well as in deeds, has gone on before us, to that silent shore.

Bro. George Vinton was initiated a brother with us Aug. 5, 1878, and during his long membership we ever found him a loyal Knight, a faithful friend and a most honored companion. Quiet and modest in his manner, yet most faithful did he carry out in his life the principle of our creed, "The Golden Rule."

In appreciation of his worth as a genial brother, we, the members of Wollaston Lodge, wish to pay to his memory our tribute of respect, realizing however, that mere words are but finite, and can but feebly express our heartfelt regrets at the great loss that has come to us all.

Be it resolved,—That the brothers of Wollaston Lodge tender to his family, our brotherly feelings of love and respect, and in this, their hour of affliction, our hearts go out to them in deepest sympathies.

"Sometimes when all life's lessons have been learned,
And sun and stars forevermore have set,
The things which our weak judgment here
had spurned,
The things o'er which we grieve with lashes wet,
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in darker tints of blue;
And we shall see how all God's plans were right,
And how what seemed reproof was love
most true."

Be it resolved,—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our late brother and also be spread upon our records.

Wollaston Park.

It was the first laid out, some 4 years ago, the best and most desirable portion was reserved by the owners for their own use. It has now been decided to offer this reserved portion to the public for home sites. Those who are familiar with this delightful spot, will realize the opportunity the opening of this portion of the estate offers, either for the location of a home or for a safe and sure investment. To those who have not already visited this beautiful place, we say do so at once. It is in every sense a Park. Trees of magnificent growth abound, giving a sylvan aspect to the surrounding; while seen between the intervening trees are the blue waters of Quincy Bay, within eight minutes' walk.

The lots now offered for sale are few in number and will soon be taken. They will be sold on easy monthly payments or for cash at option by purchaser.

No interest, no taxes, no water, no mortgages. Ten per cent. discount for cash, 10 per cent. extra credit on all payments in excess of regular monthly dues. Deed will be given as soon as half the price of lot is paid. We have placed such restrictions on the land as will make it a most desirable neighborhood.

—Memorial Day, May 30, the Waltham Bicycle Track will be opened for the season with the races of the Boston Associated Cycling Clubs and the Massachusetts Division L. A. W.

Good Health

means the enjoyment of nature's best gift. Keeping well is easier than getting well—its cheaper, too. To keep well you must help nature when derangement is indicated by headache, backache or dizziness. It's the neglect of such symptoms that promotes disease.

prevent disease, regulate the blood and tone the vital organs by regulating the Kidneys, which means keeping the blood clear of waste matter. Sweet Patience.

Oh, trifling task so often done,
Yet ever to be done anew!
Oh, cares which come with every sun,
Morn after morn, the long years through!
We shrink beneath their paltry sway—
The irksome calls of every day.

The restless sense of wasted power,
The tiresome round of little things,
Are hard to bear as hour by hour
Its tedious iteration brings.
Who shall evade or who delay
The small demands of every day?

The bowlder in the torrent's course,
By tide and tempest lashed in vain,
Obeys the wave whirled pebble's force,
And yields its substance grain by grain.
So crumble strongest lives away
Beneath the wear of every day.

. . . . . .

We rise to meet a heavy blow—
Our souls a sudden bravery fills—
But we endure not always so
The drop by drop of little ills!
We still deplore and still obey
The hard behests of every day.

The heart which boldly faces death
Upon the battlefield, and dares
Cannon and bayonets, faints beneath
The needle points of frets and cares;
The stoutest spirits they dismay—
The tiny things of every day.

And even saints of holy fame,
Whose souls by faith have overcome,
Who wore amid the cruel flame
The molten crown of martyrdom,
Bore not without complaint alway
The petty pains of every day.

Ah, more than martyr's aureole,
And more than hero's heart of fire,
We need the humble strength of soul
Which daily toils and ills require.
Sweet patience, grant us, if you may,
An added grace for every day.

—Elizabeth Akers Allen.

FIRST IN THE COUNTRY.

Columbarium Which Has Just Been Finished Near San Francisco.

A columbarium has just been finished near San Francisco at a cost of $22,000. A columbarium is a place where the ashes of those who have been cremated are filed away in pigeonholes, with a neat little placard on the outside of each giving the name of the departed and other facts for identification.

The urn in which the ashes are sealed is an ornamental little piece of pottery or metal, and it may be taken out of the pigeonhole and dusted or handed about from one to another of the relatives and friends of the departed upon the occasion of their visits to the "grave." More than 1,000 urns can be stored away in the columbarium, on whose possession the Californians are now priding themselves and which is the only one of the kind in the United States.

The building has been so planned that wings can be added at any time, but it is expected that it will be many years before the 1,000 pigeonholes now ready will all be occupied, although the San Francisco crematorium, since the time of its completion, has done a steadily increasing business every year.—Chicago Times-Herald.

How Money Begets Money.

An example of the way in which money makes money appears in one of the accounts on the books of E. S. Jaffray & Co., the big New York dry goods firm which failed recently. An English friend of Mr. Jaffray loaned the firm $25,000 in 1847 and let it lie there ever since at 6 per cent per annum, drawing only $1,000 each year. The first year left him $500 to the good, and the yearly accumulations and compounded interest for these 48 years make him figure on the books as having $154,000 to his credit.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Of Course It Does.

PRONOUNCED EVIDENCE

Of a General and Substantial Improvement In the Business World.

The Crop Prospects Have Greatly Improved.

Shipments of Leather Grow Larger Despite Frequent Advances In Price.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Bradstreet's says: The present week brings distinct, and in some instances even more pronounced, evidences of improvement in business, notwithstanding the increase of the wave of industrial discontent and strikes for higher wages, always the accompaniment of an upward tendency in prices.

The movements of prices of staples are found to be based on broadened demand and a more buoyant feeling. Sole leather is up another 2 cents, and prices of shoes are following. Galvanized iron and wire nails are higher, as is bessemer pig, about 10 cents; sugar, 1/8 cent; print cloths 1-16 cent, and wheat flour 15 cents.

In addition, prices have remained firm for lumber, tin and cotton; and while no actual advances are announced for steel billets, live cattle and rice this week, the tendency in each instance is upward.

The heavy drop in wheat prices early in the week prevents wheat quotations from showing a net advance, notwithstanding the sharp upward turn in the past few days.

Large receipts of hogs have put prices down 5 cents, and lard and pork have followed. Oats are also lower than a week ago.

Railroad gross earnings for April show decided improvement over preceding months.

Dun's Review.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

The event of the week is the demoralization of foreign exchange, caused by enormous sales of bonds.

Besides a sale of $10,000,000 Manhattan and other railroad bonds through the syndicate, large purchases on foreign account have been recorded for some weeks, so that the aggregate probably exceeds $50,000,000 since the sale of governments. Safety for the summer means much for all business, and the syndicate deems it so fully assured that it distributed 40 per cent of the money advanced by the associates, which relieves a large amount to stimulate operations in securities and products.

Crop prospects also have greatly improved, and this is of still higher importance, as it will do much to determine the character and volume of all business after summer uncertainties are over. In addition, business is reviving, though the gain in great industries is retarded by many strikes.

The failures this week have been 227 in the United States, against 206 last year.

The Industrial World.

The industries were distinctly gaining when strikes began, which have spread quite widely. Garment workers in several cities and Pocahontas coke workers are still out, with several thousand woolen workers near Providence. Other woolen mills, and the furnaces in the Shenandoah and Mahoning valleys, which were making 25,000 tons a week, have stopped, and the Illinois steel works, the largest western concern, so that works are directly affected which produced 23 per cent of the entire output April 1. The Amalgamated association also proposes a struggle over the new wage scale.

Leather, Wool and Cotton.

Hides are in demand at 8¾ cents for western buff, and consequently leather still advances—oil and plow grain ½ cent and hemlock sole 1 cent. In consequence, many makers of shoes are refusing to take orders, being unable to get the prices which will cover past advances and others liable to come. But shipments from Boston continue larger than in any previous year.

Sales of wool for the week are less than in 1892, but larger than in the past two years, though prices do not rise.

Rather more demand appears for men's woolens, but cancellations are also more numerous, and imports of woolen goods, with withdrawals from warehouses, were about $19,000,000 in the first quarter of the year, against about $5,000,000 last year.

Cotton goods continue strong, mills being well employed, and they hold heavier stocks than ever of raw cotton bought at low prices.

Over the Border.

Bradstreet's says: General trade reports from the Canadian Dominion are exceptionally favorable. Toronto reports that advances in cotton, sugar, leather and wheat have increased demand, helped collections and created a buoyant feeling.

The opening of navigation at Montreal and advances in sugar and whisky, due to tariff changes, are additional factors. Quebec city shoe manufacturers are doing a good business. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick report a fair volume of trade and Newfoundland a successful seal fishery. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax equal $21,442,000 this week, a gain of about 16 per cent over last week.

The total of 27 business failures in Canada this week is contrasted with 36 last week.

Created a Panic.

CHICAGO, May 11.—In the mayor's office yesterday a discharged employe, Philip Chester, made a rush for the mayor, yelling all sorts of threats, but was overpowered by clerks. The noise frightened the people in city hall, and in the rush for safety several were knocked down and trampled upon. The mayor was unhurt.

Caused a Shaky Feeling.

HALIFAX, May 11. — Steamer Halifax City arrived from London yesterday. Captain Newton says he has not met such gales for 18 months. The steamer has a lot of shells and ammunition in her hold, and the pitching broke them loose, causing considerable anxiety, but they are all right.

Cycle Record Smashed.

PUEBLO, Colo., May 11.—L. C. Wahl of Colorado Springs broke the world's 50-mile road bicycle record yesterday, riding the distance in 2h. 15m. The previous American record for 50 miles was 2h. 30m. 40s.

Grand Trunk Officials.

LONDON, May 11.—The new board of directors of the Grand Trunk railway of Canada yesterday elected Charles R. Wilson president and Joseph Price vice president.

MORTON'S SIGNATURE

Affixed to a Measure Which Legislates Gotham Magistrates Out of Office.

ALBANY, May 11.—Governor Morton has signed the New York city police magistrates bill, which legislates the New York city police justices out of office.

The bill, which wipes out the present board of police justices, provides for the appointment by Mayor Strong, by June 20, of 14 magistrates, five of whom shall be justices of the court of special sessions, at $9000 a year each, and the other nine city magistrates at salaries of $7000 a year each. They are to enter upon their duties on July 1. The terms are for four, seven and 10 years, and appointees thereafter are to receive 10-year terms. A supplemental bill is now in the legislature, which provides that no term shall be less than eight years, and some are to be extended until 1908.

Mayor Strong can reappoint any present police justice to the office of magistrate or justice of sessions, and the Republican justices, Meade, Taintor and Donel, are all candidates. Except police justices reappointed, the appointees must be lawyers of 10 years' standing at the bar to qualify as justice of sessions, and five years' standing to become city magistrates.

SAND AND DUST

Make Life Miserable For Unhappy Residents of Oklahoma.

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—One of the worst sand and dust storms ever known prevailed in Oklahoma and at one or two points in Kansas yesterday. At Pittsburg, Kan., comparatively no outdoor work could be accomplished. A duststorm blew nearly the entire afternoon, caking everything in its path. The ground is baked and all crops are suffering for want of rain.

At Kingfisher, O. T., a storm of great vehemence raged from 1 o'clock yesterday until late last evening. The forenoon had been intensely hot. Shortly after 12 o'clock a norther came up with remarkable suddenness, driving things before it with fearful velocity. For five hours the storm kept up with unabated fury, the temperature during that time falling 37 degrees. The sand carried before the storm drifted like snow, while the dust and debris caught up made the atmosphere impenetrable and pedestrianism extremely dangerous.

The town of Hennessy was also struck, but the extent of the damage suffered there is not known.

Doings of the A. P. A.

MILWAUKEE, May 11. — The A. P. A. convention elected supreme officers as follows: W. H. J. Traynor, Detroit, president; Judge J. H. Jackson, Fort Worth, Tex., vice president; E. H. Dubar, Boston, secretary of state; J. M. Taulbee, Covington, Ky., chaplain; C. T. Beatty, Detroit, secretary; F. C. Campbell, Minneapolis, treasurer. The report of the committee upon an international declaration of principles and the extension of the order to any and all the countries of the world was adopted unanimously. The organization will thus become international and will have supervision over the various bodies of the world. The platform of the order, as adopted and promulgated at the annual session a year ago at Des Moines, was reaffirmed as the principles of the organization, no changes being made.

Pushing It Along.

PARIS, May 11.—M. Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs, has invited the leading financiers to meet to consider the impending Chinese loan, the ways in which the bourse might co-operate and the conditions on which French capital might participate. Russia, France and Germany, in return for Japan's pliancy in acceding to their demands, practically engaged to hasten, if not ensure, the punctual payment of the war indemnity. It will not be surprising if the loan should be £180,000,000 sterling.

Cereal Crop Reports.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The May returns of the department of agriculture show an increase in wheat of 1.5 points from the April average. Winter rye, like wheat, has advanced nearly two points since last month. The average condition of winter barley is 94, against 62.3 in the month of May, 1894. The condition of spring pasture is 89.7, of mowing lands 89.4. The proportion of spring plowing done May 1 is reported as 82.8 per cent, against 83.5 last year and 73.4 in 1893.

Emperor Takes a Hand.

VIENNA, May 11.—There is no danger now of an immediate crisis. Emperor Francis Joseph has decided that representations will be made to the Vatican in regard to the proceedings in Hungary of Mgr. Agliardi, the papal nuncio at Vienna, who went about the country denouncing the ecclesiastical bill. Baron Banffy, the Hungarian prime minister, who protested against the nuncio's course, will receive a high decoration.

A Queer Case.

ALBANY, May 11.—Wesley A. Campbell was arrested here yesterday for getting printing done at a local job office and having it charged to the First Baptist church. He arranged for a song service in the First Baptist church without permission. Mrs. H. A. Fuller of Malden, mother-in-law of Campbell, has informed Chief Wallard that she believes Campbell has obtained a strange power over his wife by drugging her.

If It Comes Off at All.

WASHINGTON, May 11. — An evening paper is authority for the statement that members of Duval Athletic club of Jacksonville, Fla., have been looking over ground in various states where the Corbett-Fitzsimmons mill could best take place and finally have selected a location at Carlin Springs, Va.

Deficit Will Swell Into Surplus.

LONDON, May 11.—The house of commons adopted the proposal made by the chancellor of the exchequer reimposing a duty of 6 pence a gallon on beer, which will convert the estimated deficit of £319,000 into a surplus of of £181,000.

Where Spain Came In.

MADRID, May 11.—Spain's adhesion to the three powers that protested to Japan against the annexation of territory in Manchuria was promised only on condition that the powers induced Japan to abandon Formosa.

Back From Exile.

BELGRADE, May 11.—Ex-Queen Nathalie arrived here yesterday, after having been in exile four years. She was met by her son, King Alexander and a vast and enthusiastic crowd.

Four Men Instantly Killed.

TRINIDAD, Colo., May 11.—An explosion of coal dust in Mine 10, near this place, resulted in the instant death of four men.

The tubular construction that has been followed out in the general construction of the frame and forks, is distinctly noticeable in the crank hanger bracket.

Throughout it is entirely tubular. All connections with frame tubes are of thimble construction, and the sleeve containing the crank bearings is of seamless tube. Over the crank axle is a tubular oil duct, conveying oil directly to the bearings themselves, and entirely removing the necessity of oiling from the outside, and insuring the introduction of oil to the bearings themselves, and as a combination, we have a crank bracket and bearings unexcelled for strength, lightness and simplicity.

Chicago Pops Into Second Place In the Race For the Pennant.

CHICAGO, May 10. — Chicago administered another crushing defeat to Boston in the second game of the series, thereby passing into second place in the League race, and making it seven straight games on the home grounds this season. The visitors were never in the hunt from the call of play, and only missed being shutout by scratching an unearned run in the seventh inning. Wilson, who was selected to do the pitching for the Beantown players, was the softest box artist the Colts have had this season, a total of 17 hits for 21 bases being made in the six innings he lasted.

England's Terms.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 11.—Governor O'Brien has received dispatches from England, intimating that the imperial ministry is willing to give favorable consideration to certain suggested conclusions on the part of Great Britain toward consummating the union of Newfoundland and Canada, provided that the Newfoundland government party would guarantee to pass a measure settling the French shore question satisfactorily to Great Britain and France. The Whiteway party will probably agree as required.

Smith's Easy Victory.

LONDON, May 11.—Jem Smith and Ted Pritchard fought last night for the heavyweight championship of England, £200 a side and a purse. The decision was to be given to the best man in 20 rounds. In the second round Smith got in a severe blow on Pritchard's body, and soon knocked him out of the ring. Pritchard was unable to respond to the call of time and the fight was awarded to Smith.

Lowell Man Drowned.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The body of a man found drowned at the foot of Beekman street, East river, was identified as that of Francis McClorey of Lowell. His wife keeps a notion store in Lowell, and he sold fancy and dry goods in the adjacent country. It is probable that he fell into the river while on a carousal, as there is no reason to suspect foul play.

Bangor's Conflagration.

BANGOR, May 11.—A wooden structure, owned by the Bangor Gas company and containing 500 tons of soft coal, 200 barrels of coal tar and several thousand bushels of coke, was destroyed by fire yesterday. A toolhouse and lime kiln were also practically destroyed. The fire was caused by dumping hot ashes upon the floor of a woodshed. Loss, $10,000.

Fraud Alleged.

DETROIT, May 11.—A suit, in which an accounting of the Michigan Mutual Life Insurance company and the removal of President Oscar Looker are prayed for, was begun here yesterday. The bill alleges that for 10 years past Looker has manipulated the company's business in his own interest and with intent to defraud the stockholders.

France Is Kicking.

SHANGHAI, May 11.—France has formally protested against Japan annexing the island of Formosa, and has preferred a number of prior claims. It is regarded as certain that Great Britain will strongly resist France's claims.

OF HIGH CLASS

SEA SHORE LOTS,

Wednesday, May 15, 1895,

Of 65 choice shore front lots at Wollaston Park, and the adjoining estate of Charles Francis Adams, 2d. These are all FRONT LOTS, beautifully situated on the charming Quincy Bay and located directly upon a well-made street with plank sidewalk the entire length. It is the plan of the Commissioners to include this street in their park boulevard and sea-shore drive, which must greatly enhance the value of every lot.

There is a fine beach of sand and pebble with best of boating and bathing facilities, and the protection of a half-mile break-water, just completed. The sites command superb views of the city and the harbor with all outgoing and incoming vessels, Boston Light, etc.

Lots contain 3,500 feet—some larger—and are particularly adapted for summer cottages. Stores, churches, schools and all advantages are near at hand, the Boston & Quincy Electric Railway is within five minutes of any lot, and the Old Colony R. R. (Wollaston Heights Station) within ten minutes' easy walk.

Remember these are not cheap lots, but are of thoroughly high-class character and will be duly restricted to insure desirable buildings and neighbors. These lots will not be sold at auction but entirely by private sale, on easy terms: $25 down and moderate weekly or monthly payments, without interest or taxes.

Those wishing to make selection before the opening day can obtain all necessary information, free tickets and guide to visit the property, by calling at

at any time from 8.30 to 5 P. M. daily. As the lots are limited in number, intending purchasers will do well to be present at the opening sale, if their convenience will not allow an earlier visit.

WEAVING OF SAMPLES

All That Will Be Done at Olneyville Mills For the Present.

Operatives Have One More Chance to Return.

They Are Given Until Next Friday to Make Up Their Minds.

PROVIDENCE, May 13.—All the Olneyville mills are now closed, but it is the intention of the manufacturers to continue to weave samples until the work is completed. The work on the samples will be commenced at once, and will be done by the overseers, secondhands and the few loom fixers who have not left the mills.

A special meeting of the Manufacturers' club was held Saturday afternoon and the situation was discussed. It was decided that the weaving of samples did not conflict with the agreement to keep the mills closed, as it would be impossible to obtain a lightweight market in the fall, if all samples were not ready at that time.

It was voted to notify the operatives that there was still time to prevent a long period of idleness if the operatives voted to return in time to give the mill owners notice next Friday. The mills will probably be opened the following Monday, but if the notification is allowed to pass unheeded, it will be too late to prevent the closing of the mills until fall, as the New York commission houses will not consent to hold the market longer.

Operatives Will Fight It Out.

The district council authorized a press committee to make a statement saying that the operatives had been waiting for the manufacturers to carry out their threat. They believe that the mill owners do not mean what they say. They would fight now just as well as they did in '93.

Twenty-five collectors will leave Olneyville today for Pascoag, Woonsocket, Pawtucket and Lymanville, R. I.; Maynard, Mass., New Bedford, Fall River, Lawrence and Fitchburg; Hanover, N. H., Rockville, Me., and Lewiston, and Philadelphia. The union expects good results.

The strikers have money enough to last six weeks, and with the smallest expected income, they can stay out from 15 to 20 weeks. The district council denied that there is any break in the ranks of the strikers. They say that if the manufacturers propose to wait until they go back to work under the old scale, they will never start their mills again.

Further Sensational Developments In Darling Case.

Dr. Spranger and His Bride Accused of a Most Henious Crime.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The department of state will, within a few days, be presented with the deposition of Cricor Manassian, an American citizen, concerning treatment received by him at the hands of officials in Turkey.

The affidavit made by Edward I. Darling was written partly by himself in the presence of witnesses a few hours before his death. In the statement he tells how in December, 1890, he met with an accident when attempting to save property for a firm he was with in Detroit. He recovered rapidly and returned to business on March 1, 1891.

Dr. Oleetz was the surgeon and Dr. Spranger the physician who attended him. He declared that the intimacy between Dr. Spranger and Mrs. Darling, his wife, began during his sickness.

Darling said that his wife's peculiar actions began in the spring of 1892, when she became acquainted with Dr. Spranger, and up to that time his health was perfect. Early in March he had a severe attack of what was called cholera morbus. He did not seem to recover, but kept attending to business.

Dr. Spranger, he said, frequently gave him medicines which seemed to afford temporary relief, but ultimately left him in a worse condition. In a few weeks his weight from 148 pounds went down to 95 pounds. He was sick without being able to find out what was the matter.

An Attack In Washington.

The statement continues: "June 1, 1892, Miss Clayton came to my house to write "The Viking." We continued at the work until July 4, when my wife came into absolute possession of an estate yielding about $12,000 annually. We left for Washington July 5; went to the Ebbitt House. The day after our arrival I had a most violent attack, nearly dying. We returned to Detroit July 18.

"During the time we were in Washington Mrs. Darling developed an entirely new phase of character. She did not wish to see any of our friends." Darling declared that his wife continued to grow vindictively abusive without the slightest provocation. This treatment continued after their return to Detroit, where he grew worse, Dr. Spranger attending him. The statement continues as follows:

"The variety and quantity of drugs he (Dr. Spranger) poured into me were sufficient to justify classing me as an annex to his laboratory. He gave no prescriptions, only medicines. I failed rapidly. My mother and aunts came to me. They were not welcomed or desired by Mrs. Darling. Dr. Spranger told them that I had bright's disease of the kidneys. They did not accept his opinion. Dr. Spranger called in two of his friends—Dr. Oleetz and Dr. Long. They at the time did not concur with him.

Antimony In Whisky.

"Dr. Spranger told me to continue taking whisky. I had some of the whisky that was given me at that time analyzed, and it was found to contain antimony. My mother is a witness that she saw my wife pour the contents of a small vial of yellow powder into the decanter used by me at my bedside."

Darling said that he fought against sickness and tried to keep up, but it was impossible. Sept. 12, Dr. Spranger gave him two pellets, which he was told by the doctor were of nitro-glycerine. A few minutes afterward he fell to the sidewalk unconscious.

The statement continues with the assertion that Darling found his wife had a private letter box. He also discovered that his wife and Dr. Spranger were circulating a report that he was drinking himself to death. It dawned on him that he was not being properly treated, and he refused to take any more medicine. He then began to recover. In November he left for New York. Concluding the statement, Darling declared:

"In November I was improved, and Mrs. Darling decided to close the house. My mother went to Mt. Clemens. I left for New York. She, with the children, were to go to Washington. She did not go. Soon as I left, Dec. 8, she filed a bill for absolute divorce for 'drunkenness, nonsupport, cruelty and desertion,' which she expected to obtain with money through default.

"On June 26 she joined me in New York, came to my rooms of her own volition, and lived with me as a devoted wife until March 1. I was at work on "The Viking." The day she left I was taken seriously sick, and have failed slowly, but surely. I am dying, without hope or hurry."

Mrs. Flora Adams Darling has filed a document with the district attorney.

Cabinet Will Not Resign.

BERLIN, May 13. — Reports from the various provinces show the national joy at the rejection by the reichstag of the anti-revolution bill. The papers stated Saturday that a cold wave was coming and some parties, at present unknown, determined to prepare themselves at the expense of others, who this morning mourn the loss of these handy garments.

RELIGIOUS WORLD.

The Second Stormy Sunday of the Month.

REV. E. W. VIRGIN ON SUCCESS.

Concluding Vespers at the First Church Held on Sunday.

There was a large congregation at the First church, Sunday morning, but the rainy afternoon kept many away from the vespers at 4 P. M., which was the last of the season, and one of the very best.

Rev. Roderick Stebbins of Milton, preached at the First Parish church, Brookline, on Sunday, and read the resignation of Rev. Howard N. Brown, for twenty-two years the pastor.

"Transformation Phases in Religion," was the subject taken at the morning service at the Baptist church, Wollaston, Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Gurney called attention to the fact that during these changes, everything was in a state of unrest and turmoil, and especially at the time of Jesus' birth, the people were in commotion, wanting something they did not have and yet not ready to give up what they did have.

At the close of the sermon at the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday morning Mr. S. M. King sang the tenor solo. "If with all your hearts ye truly seek me," from Elijah. This society is to be congratulated in obtaining the services of Mr. King.

At the West Quincy Methodist church Sunday morning, the pastor spoke to the young people upon "Success," founding his sermon on the proverb of Solomon "The hand of the Diligent maketh rich." The value of industry, perservance and right ways generally were pointed out by many illustrious examples. The many comforts of the poorest laboring man, as compared with one hundred years ago were shown. Work, work and still work is the secret of all true success. There is no luck about it, as a rule, but pluck and grit and determination to succeed. It is good for a man to bear the yoke in his youth, the yoke of work. There is a great deal of go in youth, and the frequent phrase "Go it while you're young," is all right, provided one goes right. Abraham Lincoln said the country was saved because the young men came forward to the support of the government. The coming generation is to have great and successful men, because they will learn stern discipline in their youth.

The Wollaston Baptist Junior Endeavor society is in a flourishing condition. They hold meetings on Sunday afternoons in the church vestry.

The evening service at the West Quincy M. E. church was conducted by Mr. J. Edwin Taylor who spoke interestingly upon the twenty-third Psalm, and the great blessing of a present personal salvation, and appealed to persons present to commence an investigation of the claims of religion and test by themselves the truth of Scripture.

The Ladies' Foreign Missionary society meets with Mrs. Sparrow of Wollaston on Wednesday afternoon. The meetings are very interesting and different countries are studied. China is the subject this week.

What's the matter with that electric light in front of the Thomas Crane library? The pole is in place and the wires are run but the light itself does not appear.

The boulevard near the Sailors' Home offers one of the most desirable spots near Boston for a retired seashore home, yet it is handy to electric cars and but a few minutes from Boston.

FOUND UNDER LOGS.

Maine Mystery Solved by the Discovery of Henry Britton's Body.

PORTLAND, May 13.—The mystery of the disappearance of Henry Britton of Raymond was solved yesterday morning, when a man named Butler, while moving a small jam of logs in the river about 30 feet below the bridge, found Britton's body under the logs. The moving of the logs dislodged the body and caused it to float. The body was uninjured and the clothes were just as they were when Britton disappeared. All the articles which he was known to have, including $30 in cash, were found in the pockets.

As soon as the finding of the body was known, there was a great deal of excitement in Raymond. Dr. Jordan made an examination of the body, and Dr. Thompson of this city was sent to make an autopsy. So far as known, there are no marks of foul play. There are no bruises on the head, but there are some on the body, caused by logs. There is apparently little doubt that Britton accidentally fell off the bridge, as has been surmised.

Horrible Butchery.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The World has the following special advices from Tokio: The last battle of the war between Japan and China at Ten-Chwang-Tai, March 10, resulted in a butchery of equally the atrocities of Port Arthur. Ten-Chwang-Tai is in Manchuria, a few miles from New-Chwang. The Chinese, under General Sung, had fortified it. Forty thousand Japanese infantry and 50,000 cavalry and artillery attacked General Sung's position March 9 from three sides. The Chinese were quickly routed, and the Japanese army fired the town and began the slaughter. Though 3000 Chinese were killed, only one wounded Chinaman was taken prisoner. The wounded were dispatched on the field in American Indian style. Then the town was sacked and burned.

To Test Britons' Skill.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 13.—After three months of severe training on the part of over 50 Cornell oarsmen, intense rivalry and daily races on Cayuaga lake, the 12 men who are to sail for England on May 29 to compete in the Henley royal regatta have been selected. They are F. M. Matthews of Buffalo, bow; M. B. Spillman, No. 2, Tonawanda; F. C. Hager, No. 3, Buffalo; F. W. Freeborn, Ithaca, No. 4; Thomos W. Fennell, Elmira, No. 5; T. Hall, Washington, Ont., No. 6; C. A. Louis, Brooklyn, No. 7; V. B. Hamilton, stroke, Ithaca. The four men who are to go along as substitutes in case of accident or in case of any of the regular crew becoming sick have only been partially selected.

Tragedy In an Infirmary.

FINDLAY, O., May 13.—At the country infirmary near this city, A. B. F. Wise, a semi-paralyzed inmate, aged 40 years, and John Karg, another inmate, aged 74, quarrelled over a trivial matter. Karg secured a butcher knife and attacked Wise. Wise, being paralyzed on one side, was at Karg's mercy. Karg slashed him across the neck and head, drawing the knife across the back of his neck, nearly severing the head from the body. Wise managed to get down stairs, but died soon afterward. Karg was placed under arrest.

MANY CLAIMANTS.

For the Asa Cleverly Estate Amounting to Nearly $100,000.

Quincy, Weymouth and other descendants of the late Rev. Asa P. Cleverly, are interested in the disposal of his property, valued at $75,000 or more and an interesting will case is promised soon in the Supreme Judicial court.

Mr. Cleverly, says the Journal, was a Universalist minister, who during his life presided over parishes in Brighton and Quincy, and was an intimate friend and associate of Rev. A. A. Miner. He died several years ago, leaving a large amount of real estate in Boston and North Weymouth, which, by will, he bequeathed to his wife.

One of the questions at issue in regard to the will is whether that instrument devised the property in fee, or simply gave his widow a life interest in the estate. Mrs. Cleverly's heirs claim that the will conveyed the property to her and her heirs, absolutely, while the relatives of Mr. Cleverly contend that she was given only a life estate, and that it was his intention that the property should pass to his heirs upon the death of his widow. Mr. and Mrs. Cleverly were childless. He had several brothers and a sister, while his wife also had brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Cleverly died last winter, and a document, purporting to be her last will and testament, was presented for probate in the court at Dedham. By this will $10,000 in money was devised to Mrs. Larkin Turner, and no mention was made of what disposal should be made of the residue of the estate, which is estimated at more than $75,000. Her next of kin comes forward, and claims the property, and also protests against the devise to Mrs. Turner, on the ground of undue influence on the part of her and her husband, Dr. Larkin Turner.

Mrs. Turner was formerly a Miss Loomis and was engaged as a companion for Mrs. Cleverly many years ago. Subsequent to Mr. Cleverly's death she married Dr. Turner, who went to live with the family.

The relatives of Asa claim that it was his intention, and say that they have evidence to prove that he had frequently said that upon his death or that of Mrs. Cleverly if she survived him, the property would come to them.

The claimants are Wilmot Cleverly, Rasmus Cleverly, Mary L. Cleverly, Mrs. William W. Burke, Mrs. Leonard F. Wolfe, Mrs. John F. Bates of Weymouth, Alonzo and S. Augustus Cleverly of Hingham, Mrs. Andrew R. Moulton of Brockton, Mrs. Winslow M. Beal of Holbrook, James Cleverly of Quincy and Marcus Cleverly of Fairhaven.

They have retained counsel and will immediately take steps to obtain possession of the estate of their deceased relative.

does this. It is a scientific compound of Cod Liver Oil, Ozone and Guaiacol. It is unlike any other preparation of Cod Liver Oil, because it contains Ozone and Guaiacol, the destroyers of germ life. That is why it cures consumption and all wasting diseases. It does not treat symptoms, but strikes at the cause—the poisonous germs. It kills them first and then builds up the wasted tissues. The Cod Liver Oil does the building—that's all. It can't destroy the germs; Ozone and Guaiacol do that. All the Cod Liver Oil in the world couldn't kill a germ. He would simply live on it—and grow fat. Ozomulsion cures because it first destroys the cause of disease and then restores the wasted body to a healthy condition. It is not an experiment. Thousands of people attest its value. Good results are always proof of merit. It is ANOTHER VICTORY.

Adams Academy, 23; Belmont School, 8—Accident to Hall.

The Adams Academy nine went to Belmont on Saturday and played a long game with the Belmont school, defeating them by a score of 23 to 8.

Until the fifth innings the game was close and hard fought. Then the visitors seemed to have sized up Shaw's pitching, and before the third man was out they had scored nine runs, eight of them being earned. The batting was strong, two-base hits being the favorite style. In the second half of the innings Mr. Hall met with an accident which will prevent him from playing on the nine again this year. In attempting to put out a man at second, he was struck by the base-runner, and was obliged to retire. Kent came in to second base and Hayward was put in centre field. On examination it was found that Mr. Hall had broken two bones in his left hand.

This had no apparent effect on the playing of the team, for in the four innings which followed, they batted out twelve runs and held their opponents down to five.

In the fielding, Sargent's assist to first base, Manning's throwing and Holden's work at first base, were praiseworthy. Everbody hit the ball.

For Belmont the fielding work was good, especially in the out field, but many of the long hits of the Academy boys might have been put outs if the out fielders had played deeper. The shortstop work of Armstrong was good. Becker and Hayes did good work at second and first respectively.

The victory is due to the superiority of Adams at the bat, the fine pitching of Mr. Linfield, and the base-running of the team.

Owing to Mr. Hall's injury it will be necessary to change the make-up of the nine a little. Probably Kent will cover second base. Below is the score:

South Quincy vs. Atlantics.

The South Quincys went to Atlantic Saturday for a practice game and defeated the local team by a score of 14 to 13. The features of the game were a running catch made by Marnock, making a double play, and pitching of Birrie. The score stood 13 to 13 in the first of the ninth, when the Atlantics came to the bat and failed to score. Then the South Quincys scored by a single by McIntosh and a double by Barron and won the game.

Prize Fight Broken Up.

About one o'clock Sunday morning Officers Bailey and Pratt of Weymouth broke up what would evidently have been a prize fight.

The two officers were between South Weymouth and Weymouth Landing when they saw two men under the influence of liquor and they overhauled them in hopes to find out where they obtained the liquid refreshments.

While talking with them a gang of thirty or more men rushed down from the hill to assist their friends. Finding that the invaders were officers, the gang dispersed.

The officers then searched the hill where the gang came from and found all the paraphernalia for a prize fight, including a forty foot rope, glove bags, beer, etc.

The officers know many of the parties in the gang and arrests may follow.

THE GRANITE INDUSTRY.

All at Work and Prospects More Encouraging.

There are but few unemployed stonecutters in Quincy just now and this condition will continue for at least the remainder of this month. The prospects after Memorial day, seem brighter than they promised to be at the earlier part of the season.

One of the South Quincy yards changed hands on May 1. Mr. Turner of Penn street, having sold out his plant to other parties. The members of the new firm combine practical experience in workmanship with a serviceable knowledge of the selling market. They propose to make business more lively than it has lately been in this locality.

In order to accommodate the ever increasing demand for freight facilities the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. has just erected near Quincy Adams depot another large derrick. It will be a decided boon to South Quincy shippers as, for a long time there has been more or less delay in loading cars, on account of continued strain on the single derrick there.

It is proposed after June 1st, to close most of the Quincy yards on Saturday afternoons. Last year during the summer season, the half holiday was very generally adopted, but except in one or two yards it was discontinued throughout the winter. There is a growing sentiment in its favor among both workers and employers, and its restoration will be cordially welcomed by a large proportion of those interested in the business.

The new headquarters of the Granite Cutters' National Union in Baltimore, Md., are further removed from the staple eastern centres of the trade than they have hitherto been. Though an entirely new set of officers will be in charge of its affairs, it is not expected that there will be any radical overturn of the policy pursued by their predecessors.

McGilvray & Jones have completed the granite work of a fine mausoleum for the great railroad magnate and orator Mr. Chauncey M. Depew. The stone was procured in Barre, Vt., and cut in their works in South Quincy. Its cost is understood to be about $20,000.

A new granite gateway and lodge is to be built near the entrance of Calvary cemetery. There is perhaps no cemetery in the vicinity of Boston, where Quincy monument, so predominates as at Calvary. Many of the best specimens of local granite are on evidence there, and compare favorably with the choicest products of other localites.

New Magazines.

The May Little Men and Women opens with "Birdlings," a delicious picture of a child, a nest, and leafy springtime. A pretty poem by Mrs. Butts, "The Spring Call," and a Memorial day poem, "The Boy and the Soldier," by Marian Douglass, are seasonable features. The opening story, "Treasure Trove," by John Ernest McCann, is a romantic little tale of the historic North End of Boston.

The May Babyland opens with a funny story of a father's difficulties in finding out "How 'Gumma' Dressed Jack." The frontispiece illustrates this story. Mary Ellen, in "The House of the Grandmothers," masters the accomplishment of creeping—it is an amusing episode. The Marching Play (for Nursery and Kindergarten) will appeal to every child.

"The Churches of '49," is one of the leading articles of the May Overland Monthly. Being illustrated with buildings and preachers, it will be appreciated by the few survivors and will interest others. The story of the "Bear Flag" gives more light on an historic incident. Another instructive article is "The Evolution of the Stamp Mill." There are many other illustrated articles, and the number is an unusually bright one.

—Miss Jane Adams of the Hull settlement in Chicago, will try her hand at street cleaning in one of the dirtiest districts of that city. She has taken a contract to do this and finds that the main thing in street cleaning is to keep separate the clean from the unclean rubbish. She contends that ashes must be placed in one receptacle, rags, bottles, etc., in another, while the refuse of food and garbage goes into another vessel. She has contracted with certain railways to furnish them with clean ashes for making fills. She buys from the householders in her district at the rate of a cent a bushel for strictly clean ashes.

—The heartfelt plea of Hon. George F. Hoar for the preservation of the lives of the eagles, representatives of which he has lately seen in the vicinity of Asnebumskit, should not fall upon deaf ears. Even the most avaricious sportsman should acknowledge that there is no sport in the destruction of the life of a bird which is not fit for food, and is not an enemy to human life. Never a vandal hand should be lifted against the bird whose form is emblazoned on the seal of the United States.—Boston Journal.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

—The Salem News is to take legal proceedings against one of those smart Alicks, to be found in every community, who succeeded in getting into that paper a bogus marriage notice. It is to be hoped that as a lesson to others similarly afflicted with a desire to hurt somebody's feelings at the expense of reputable newspapers, the News will obtain for the offender the full reward of his iniquity.—Charlestown Enterprise.

—To say your goods are "best and cheapest" is not enough, because buyers think they have a right to know why they are best and why cheapest. Wise merchants tell them why.—Printer's Ink.

—An old woman who played a hand-organ in the streets of Denver, Col., has been found to be worth over $100,000 and to have earned as high as $25 a day. Moral: Glue yourself to a hand organ, young man. There's lots of fun in it, you can see the country and get rich.

—A statistician has learned that the annual aggregate circulation of the papers of the world is calculated to be 12,000,000,000 copies. To grasp any idea of this magnitude we may state that it will cover no fewer than 10,450 square miles of surface.

SELF JUDGED AUTHORS.

Froude believed that his "History of England" would better stand the test of criticism than any other of his works.

Hobbes believed that when he had finished the "Leviathan" he had begun the revolutionizing of the world's thought.

Alison had a stalwart opinion of his own merits. In speaking of his "History of Europe," he said "that work will never die."

Jeremy Taylor is said by a contemporary to have devoutly believed that no better sermons existed in any language than his own.

Lamb thought that the description given by him of the origin of roast pig, in the "Essays of Elia," was the best thing he ever wrote.

Coleridge regarded the "Lectures on Shakespeare" to be his best literary and critical effort, and the "Ancient Mariner" his best poem.

Wyclif was one of the most modest of men. After his translation of the Bible was finished, he simply said, "I hope it will do good."

Bulwer Lytton was conservative in expressing his opinion of his own works, but on one occasion in conversation admitted that he thought "What Will He Do With It?" to contain his best ideas.

Fielding's "Tom Jones" was his favorite, and after that he seemed to think that "Don Quixote In England" was the next in order of merit. Coleridge thought that "Tom Jones" was one of the most perfect plots that was ever planned.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

It is bad economy to let a 10 cent hen destroy a $10 garden.

Remember that on an acre of rich, well cultivated land there may be grown $500 worth of strawberries.

If hay is designed for the market, red clover is very objectionable, as it cures dark colored and makes the hay dusty.

A mistake of a lifetime is for a woman to get the notion that it is her business to milk the cows and cultivate the garden.

The increased value of cattle should not result in rearing poorly bred and runty calves. The sooner a bad calf goes to the butcher the less money is lost on it.

The peach trees of this country cover 507,000 acres, and the value of the crop is $76,000,000. Upward of $90,000,000 was invested in peach growing in the census year.

The number of acres a man controls is no index of either wealth or prosperity. It has been far easier to get land poor than to get prosperous from owning land in the last decade.

Many a man could save a good home and enough land to live comfortably on if he would unload the mortgaged end of the farm to his creditor. It would often improve the appearance of things about the farm if the weeds and rubbish along the road were burned and grass seed sown on the foul spots.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

SILVER TRIFLES.

Silver standards for tea balls are new and are sold separately.

Tasteful silver and enamel rings have been put forth at modest prices.

Buckles of oxidized silver with sectional ornament in dull silver forms inclose colored enamels. These have great distinction.

Yachting buckles have the club pennant in enamel flung athwart the circle, mingled with some other marine insignia, as the anchor.

A new photograph frame is of large silver links alternately plain and chased. Through these links ribbons are run and tied in a flamboyant bow at the top.

There might be a chapter written on so insignificant a trifle as a tea ball. One of the novelties is pipe shaped, with a handle of smoked ivory. There are diamond shaped tea balls. A new form is of flexible links like a purse.

A pretty novelty in the renaissance buckles has a plain central surface, with foliations and crossed lines so intertwined as to have the effect of a wreath. This design, mingled with white and blue enamel, is seen on oval and diamond shaped forms. —Jewelers' Circular.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

A new telegraphic invention will convey 2,000 words a minute over the wires.

The speed of projectiles is measured by electricity. The projectile strikes wires and breaks the circuits.

Electrical energy from a primary battery at the present time costs at least ten times and probably 20 times as much as that obtained by the use of a steam engine and dynamo.

It is said that since the introduction of the electric light public performers are able to preserve their voices in better condition, being 50 per cent more often in good voice. They are cooler, do not perspire and do not get husky.

A London restaurant uses an electrically heated plate to keep one's food warm. So long as the current is turned on one can dine as leisurely in a way as he likes. There is no danger of receiving a shock from touching the plate.

THE BRITISH LION.

John Bull has troubles of his own these days.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

In any event, Great Britain never lets the handle of the jug get on the farther side.—Detroit Tribune.

"The large English bulldog steps in front of the gate and barks. It is curious to watch and see if our American mastiff will coil his tail and run under the house." —Atlanta Constitution.

Umra Khan doubtless wishes by this time that he had left the British alone. If he had been better informed before he started out on his now famous expedition, he would never have inaugurated it.—Providence Journal.

POLITICAL PLEASANTRIES.

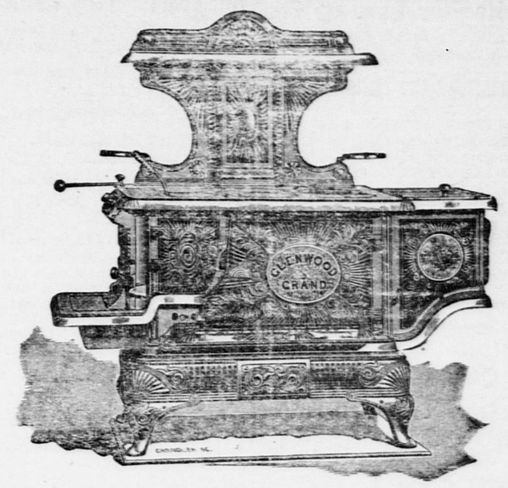

A shower of mud which fell in Oklahoma yesterday would indicate that another campaign is under way.—Chicago News.

The campaign liar is at work in the west. He started a report that the women in politics chew gum.—Baltimore American.

Now they are saying that because "silence is golden" the women of Colorado are a unit for silver.—Boston Standard-Union.

A consumption cure that would help statesmen would be a rare medical triumph.—Philadelphia Record.

Comfort for Life.

So far as we know—and we made it our business to find out long ago—there isn't a range manufactured that will give such universal satisfaction as the Glenwood. That's why we sell them.

Admiral Meade Prefers Charges.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Seneca Haselton, United States minister to Venezuela, who is in Washington ostensibly for leave of absence from his post, will not return to Venezuela. While Admiral Meade was at La Guayra with his squadron this spring he had occasion to communicate with the United States legation at Caracas. What he saw there he made the subject of a special report to the secretary of the navy, and the latter, in his turn, is said to have regarded the matter contained therein as of sufficient importance to require its immediate transmission to the state department. Thence it found its way to the president. The latter is said to have acted immediately, and this accounts for the minister's sudden departure from Venezuela for Washington.

Revolution on the Tapis.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A dispatch to The World from Teguciglpa says: The government has proof that dissatisfied Nicaraguans and Hondureans have combined for simultaneous revolutions in these countries. The date set for the double revolt is in August. The greater part of the army here is said to be in the conspiracy.

Poison and Knife.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Two unfortunates sought self-destruction here. A fortune teller named Mrs. Mary Stewart, 50 years old, swallowed laudanum, and John Howesher, 37 years old, cut his throat.

A Disagreement.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 13.—The jury in the case of the state vs. ex-State Treasurer Hill, to recover $300,000 of state funds, lost in the failure of the Capital National bank, disagreed after two weeks' trial.

Russia and Japan.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 13.—Information from official sources is to the effect that negotiations between Russia and Japan are proceeding in the friendliest manner possible.

Where Science ends and Common Sense should rule. Persons of sedentary habits are liable to indigestion or dyspepsia. These, in turn, will bring on nervous disorders, kidney complaints, constipation, etc. This is especially the case with merchants, students and scientists. They will give you the exact dimensions of Jupiter, the distance from Saturn to the sun, to a foot, but they cannot or will not tell themselves what will cure this train of disorders.
For ailments resulting from sedentary habits—inactivity of the liver, habitual constipation, etc.—the entire medical fraternity of Europe and America almost unanimously recommend the genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salt and the Waters of Carlsbad.

A VISIT TO TURKEY

And What It Meant to Cricor Manassian, a Citizen of America.

Insulted and Imprisoned by Turkish Officials.

Impossible to Obtain Satisfaction From Our Representatives Abroad.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The mother of Edward Irving Darling, the musical composer, has filed with the district attorney the dying declaration of her son, who, it is alleged, was poisoned by Dr. Spranger and the composer's wife.

Mr. Manassian, who is of Armenian birth, became an American citizen in 1893, after a residence of seven years in the United States. Mr. Manassian's statement is as follows:

"I left New York in July, 1893, and went to my native city of Tokat, Turkey, to visit my relatives and attend to matters relating to my family. At Constantinople I showed my passports at our consulate and desired a permit from the government to go to Tokat.

"About three months after, I was called from Tokat to Sassoun, where my nephew lay dying. I applied to the government to have my permit changed. They took my passport, also, saying the governor wished to see it. They kept both and gave me a provisional passport, with which I went to Sassoun and returned.

"I could not recover my passport, and was at last told, after three months, that it was sent to Sivas to the vali (governor general). I wrote to Consul Jewett at Sivas and sent my citizen's papers at his request, but Could Not Secure the Passport.

I was then beginning to make plans to return to America. The consul wrote me again April 15, '94. 'The vali informs me he has sent your papers to Constantinople.'

"In September the vali came to Tokat. I applied to him about my passport, but he said: 'You should not have become an American citizen.' Three days after, Sunday, late in the evening, seven Turkish soldiers came into the house where I was with my wife and child, and in spite of my protests that I was an American citizen, and that they had no right to arrest me without the information of an American official, they compelled me to go, saying the vali wanted me.

"They took me to prison, and the next morning they put me in chains and manacles, together with two murderers, in a dungeon, and then sent me in a cart to Amasia. From Amasia to Kavak they made me walk in chains with the murderers, five days' distance, making me sleep at night in dungeons in chains. My feet were so swollen I could not walk any more, and persuaded the murderers to pay for a cart till Sassoun was reached, which we could not walk in three days. Neither I nor my friends could send telegrams.

No Satisfaction Obtainable.

"But a person was sent to Sivas, and information given to Consul Jewett, and nothing was done either by him or the consul at Sassoun for two weeks. At the end of two weeks I was sent as a prisoner to Constantinople in a Turkish steamer, and upon arrival put into prison. The next day Minister Terrell was informed, and I was released and sent to him. It was some days after my arrest that a letter came from Consul Jewett, and both he and the consul at Sassoun confirmed the outrage and injury inflicted upon me by order of the vali.

I had my wife and child come to Sassoun, and, as no man was allowed to come with her, I had to take a steamer for Sassoun again. I was dumfounded to find that she had no money whatever, all the money that I had, about $350 in American money, and my watch, having been stolen by the Turkish soldiers who remained behind and ransacked my house on the night they arrested me.

"I sent an appeal by registered letter from Constantinople, Dec. 12, last to the President of the United States, begging him that telegraphic instruction be sent to Minister Terrell to secure justice for me. No answer came. Neither our minister nor the consul general could do anything. They took my affidavits and said they would be sent to our government, and that if I managed to reach the United States the matter would be settled from there.

"We finally reached Marseilles, and thence here. Our consul at Marseilles gave me to understand that they had orders not to protect American citizens who were born Armenians."

Not a Murder.

NEW YORK, May 13.—An autopsy on the body of Patrolman Williamson dispelled the question of murder, it having been supposed that Williamson had been assaulted and killed by two unknown men. It was found that the aorta had been ruptured. There were no marks of violence on the body.

Frank Myers was released by Nashua because it was said he couldn't hit. He signed with the Haverhills, and the next day he made two home runs and a single.

The Salem News says that all the Salem club needs are about seven more players to take the places of the seven cigar store Indians that are now putting up a big bluff as ball players.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Jeff de Angelis will not star next season, having signed to go out with Della Fox again.

Many prominent managers are trying their new plays through the medium of summer stock companies. It is an excellent and not an expensive plan.

Shrewd managers declare that the talk about the public wanting the romantic drama is the veriest rot. Plays of today are what the people will pay to see.

William Gillette has offered Edwin Arden of Richard Mansfield's company an important role to originate in Mr. Gillette's new war play, "Secret Service."

John Hare, the noted actor manager of the Garrick theater, London, has the distinction of being the only actor that has appeared three times before English royalty.

The Empire, the Lyceum, the Garrick and Daly's are the only New York theaters whose productions are now controlled by their managers. The others are combination houses.

E. E. Rice will produce R. A. Barnet's "Excelsior, Jr.," at Oscar Hammerstein's to be Olympia theater in New York in November, but it is quite likely that the play will be seen in September in Boston.

"The Queen's Necklace," the romantic drama which Mrs. Potter and Mr. Bellew have bought for production in this country next summer, is at present the most sumptuous and successful production in Paris.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke, the popular comic opera star, used to do the tragic. A decade ago he impersonated the King in "Hamlet." In support of Louise Pomeroy in "Romeo and Juliet," in which he played Mercutio, he prided himself on the symmetry of his legs.

THE STAMP OF STYLE.

Stylish jackets of cloth, with vest to match, are made to wear with dark skirts of wool fabric.

Embroidery is again in great demand, and some of the most stylish new chambrays and ginghams are made up with it.

Dresses of white swiss trimmed with Dresden ribbons are much liked for lawn parties and afternoon wear for young girls.

Capes of silk, satin and ermine are worn for spring, and are convenient to have for evenings and cool days as well as for driving all through the summer.

There never was such a demand for lace as at present. Pretty organdies are made up with an abundance of lace edging and Dresden or plain satin double faced ribbons.

Cotton crepons and ginghams are used for summer waists, and may be laundered successfully provided one uses the little sleeve board that is now almost indispensable.

A very odd bonnet is the merest skull cap with wide fanlike projections on either side. These are of braid like the crown, and are used mainly as a support for enormous bows.

Very stiff skirts are going out, and the best dressmakers are using facings from 12 to 18 inches deep either of haircloth or grass cloth and omitting the full length linings that have heretofore been thought indispensable.—New York Ledger.

WHIP AND SPUR.

Arion, 2:07¾, will be raced next year.

Pacers, fast ones, are in great demand.

Allerton is still reported as going strong. It is to be hoped he will be fit to race.

The latest rumor is that Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt will buy a stable of trotters for campaigning in Europe.

C. H. Nelson believes that the Red Wilkes colt Red Hawk, 2:18¼, will be able to cope with the fastest kind of company this year.

Whirligig, 2:10, the champion 3-year-old pacing filly, has been sent to W. J. Andrews and will be trained for the coming campaign.

Ralph Wilkes is supposed to have about 40 living foals, and there are many who expect to see the history of this great horse equal that of Alcyone.

Experienced horsemen believe some further advance in tracks or appliances must be made before we can expect the advent of the two minute trotter.

The best record to high wheel sulky is 2:08¼, by Sunol, and it is doubtful if it would ever have been beaten except for the invention of the "bike" sulky.

Image, 2:19, and Mite, 2:27¼, sisters by Delmarch, 2:11¼, are to go through the circuits in the hands of Budd Doble, the famous driver of champions.—Turf, Field and Farm.

THE NORTH POLE.

Nobody will believe that Dr. Nansen has discovered the north pole until he shows a sample of the wood.—Cincinnati Tribune.

The north pole having been found, it only remains for American enterprise to string a trolley wire on it.—Philadelphia Record.

The report that Dr. Nansen has discovered the north pole should be accompanied with a small end of the earth's axis, just as an evidence of good faith.—Kansas City Star.

It is not impossible that the rumor is a forecast of the news. For several reasons it is hoped that it is. The principal reason is the negative one that it will discourage arctic exploration for some time to come. The other is that it will add to positive knowledge.—Brooklyn Eagle.

If Nansen returns at all, he will probably return without having reached much farther north than others have gone, but in any event the search will go on. If he should report the pole found, a dozen exploring parties would be organized to confirm or disprove the assertion.—New York World.

ROYAL ROBES.

Leo XIII is the two hundred and fifty-eighth pope.

The empress of Germany rises at 6 and makes her husband's coffee with her own hands.

The king of Italy is credited with dispensing more charity than any other of the crowned heads of Europe.

The czar of Russia smokes a pipe, and no brand of cigars has been discovered that can tempt him to forsake his meerschaum.

Princess Laetitia has now converted the whole royal family of Italy to the use of the bicycle. They ride in the king's park at Monza, near Milan.

Queen Isabella has more godchildren than any other woman in the Catholic church. She was never known to refuse to act as sponsor whenever asked by parents who had any sort of claim on her kindness.

THE TURN OF LIFE.

WOMAN'S CRITICAL PERIOD

Contemplated with Less Fear than of Old.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

There is no period in woman's earthly career which she approaches with so much anxiety as the "change of life." Yet during the past twenty years women have learned much from a woman.

It is safe to say that women who prepare themselves for the eventful period pass through it much easier than in the past.

There is but one course to pursue, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be used in time to subdue the nervous complications, and prepare the system for the change.

It is well for those approaching the time to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and get her free advice. Such testimony as the following should be convincing:—

"Your Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me: it saved my life when all else failed. I would have been in my grave ten years ago but for it. My womb had fallen and rested on the bladder. The doctor could not relieve me: my mind was deranged. Your Compound cured me. It helped me through the change of life all right: am now in good health. It has also cured my husband of kidney trouble: made him like a new man. Please state my words in the strongest terms. I am glad to send you my picture. I travelled twelve miles to have it taken for you. MRS. W. L. DAY, Bettsville, O.

AT OLD RATE OF PAY.

Only Terms Upon Which Olneyville Strikers Can Return to Work.

Mill Owners Disavow Rumors of a Compromise.

They Expect Operatives to Submit After Two More Weeks of Idleness.

PROVIDENCE, May 15.—Much of the talk about Olneyville yesterday, at the various union meetings and among the business men, centered on the reported compromise which it was said the mill owners would make.

The report, it was found, after much inquiry among the leading superintendents, who are now left to speak for the manufacturers, has no foundation whatever. One of the superintendents said the mills would never open with wages advanced above what they were at the time of the strike; that the Operatives Must Submit.

The statement was made by this gentleman that the factories could resume work at any time, and that the different manufacturers would be willing to start up any day during the next three weeks if the operatives so choose.

The talk of the superintendent in question showed clearly that the manufacturers were hopeful of an early end of the contest, at least a submission by the 11,000 operatives at a time not much distant beyond two more weeks of idleness.

The mills at Olneyville have not canceled many, if any, orders, and some of the orders have been continued with the mills subject to filling after the strike is at an end. It is not known whether there is any limit given to the strike period by these cloth buyers, but they have been led to believe that the strike will not be prolonged over

Two Or Three Weeks.

Secret agents of the manufacturers have been at work ferreting out the financial circumstances of the strikers, and the union leaders are closely watched from all sides. They will be marked men when the strike is at an end.

With much emphasis some of the bosses are openly talking of the Textile union officers as "the socialistic crowd," and they are particularly bitter because the non-union as well as the union operatives stand by and endorse the strike management.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 15.—The house engrossed the veterans' preference bill. A bill to establish the basis of taxation of registered and enrolled sailing vessels was substituted for an adverse report. The bill allowing Gloucester to take the water works in that town was engrossed with an amendment requiring the taking of the plant in one year. The bill incorporating the Massachusetts Ship Canal company to cut through Cape Cod was ordered to a third reading. The bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to women to be drunk on the premises was rejected. The senate concurred with the house in admitting a petition that Lowell be authorized to make an appropriation for Memorial day observance. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment to the caucus bill. The committee on water supply presented a bill to authorize Worcester to make additional water loan of $500,000. At the house evening session the bill requiring the protection of railroad crossings at all times by flagmen or gates was rejected—83 to 56. The bill requiring contractors on public works to pay their employes the same wages and observe the same hours of labor as the municipality in which the work is being done was ordered to a third reading. The house refused to reject the bill throwing the burden of proof on railroad companies in case of the death of a person killed by the cars. The bill to punish any person who willfully and maliciously kills, maims or disfigures any dog of another person was rejected. The bill permitting corporations now operating electric light plants to transmit electricity for heating and cooking was engrossed. The bill authorizing the Worcester, Nashua and Rochester Railroad company to issue $200,000 bonds for the purpose of funding a portion of the floating debt was engrossed in concurrence with the senate.

Child Was Abandoned.

WORCESTER, May 15.—The mystery of the babe's head found in a stone wall at Ashburnham has been cleared up to a great extent by the confession of Ada Chamberlain, 21 years old, of Wardsboro, Vt. She acknowledged that she was the mother of the child, who was born in the middle of February. She says the child was dead when she left it, but denies cutting off its head. She will be arraigned in Gardner, as she came to this state without extradition papers. Her parents are respectable farmers.

The N. E. F. U's Decisions.

BOSTON, May 15.—The New England Firemen's union met here yesterday. The chief business was the election of J. H. Wetherbee of Hyde Park as secretary, to fill a vacancy. The playing rules were amended so that second class engines can enter the flirst class, if so desired; but cannot enter both classes. It was decided to procure a large canvas wind shelter for streams at musters. The first muster will be held at Fitchburg, June 17.

Leaned Out a Car Window.

FALL RIVER, May 15. — Champa Guiseppe, 18 years old, was on his way from Lynn to New York. When the train reached Fall River the man was found in a closet of the smoking car with wounds in his head, supposed to have been caused by contact with a bridge while leaning from a window. Death ensued in a short time.

Talked of the Stage.

CAMBRIDGE, May 15.—Actor Joseph Jefferson was given a splendid welcome to Harvard last evening. He spoke of various phases of his profession as he saw them. He said he thought that an academic training was of value to an actor, though it lessened none the more practical training an actor must have, and was not necessary.

At Employers' Terms.

OAKLAND, Me., May 15.—The strike at the Cascade woolen mills at this place, inaugurated some three weeks ago, is settled, the help returning to work at the price list presented by the company.

Freshies Were Too Fresh.

CAMBRIDGE, May 15. — The Harvard freshmen ball nine are in a fair way to be prohibited from playing any more games this year. After Monday's game with the sophomores, the '98 rooters used firearms in their celebration of the victory, and mobbed the yard policemen. The faculty has the matter under consideration.

Maine Industry Crippled.

AUGUSTA, May 15.—The state board of agriculture reports that there will be a great falling off in canning of sweet corn in Maine this year. Owing to the active competition in Illinois, Iowa and Texas, the canning industry in Maine has received a setback from which factories in this state cannot recover.

Death Was Accidental.

RAYMOND, Me., May 15.—At the inquest on the body of Henry Britton, who was thought to have been murdered, but whose body was later found in Panther river, the jury returned a verdict that Britton came to his death by drowning and not from violence at the hands of any person or persons.

A Singular Coincidence.

SOUTHERN FIREWORKS.

Governor Evans Uses Indiscreet Language In an Address.

A Call For "Protection of Homes and Liberties."

Talks of "Jeffries," "State Rights" and "White Men With Black Hearts."

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 15.—The recent decisions in the registration cases has brought forth a lengthy address from Governor J. Gary Evans, in which he treats the matter with no unsparing hand, and argues for the state's right "to manage and direct internal affairs without national interference."

J. GARY EVANS.

The governor says, in conclusion: "The doors have been thrown open and the ballot again placed in the hands of every man, white or black, of the age of 21 years. The abuse and slander heaped upon the state by the counsel for the plaintiff were only surpassed by that of the judge, in a document styled a decree in equity.

"But the pity of it, the humiliation and the shame of it, is yet to be told. Besides the 'Jeffries' on the bench sat an old man who was gray, who had fought on the field of battle for states rights, who had been speaker of the house of representatives of South Carolina, and in whose handwriting part of your registration laws exist in our archives.

Scathing Denunciation.

"There he sat, wearing the judicial ermine, hearing his state defamed, his comrades in arms denounced as rebels, and his own handiwork adjudged as a crime. If the law was a crime, was he not the criminal? Should his head not have been bent and his eyes moisten with tears of humiliation? Alas, they were not. With a mephistophelian grin on his wrinkled face he nodded assent to the most infamous document ever emanating from a court in equity, while the black audience exclaimed: "A Daniel has come to judgment; yea, a Daniel."

Governor Evans also asserts that the issue is now between the blacks and the whites, and urges citizens to see to it "that white men, not white men with black hearts, and negroes," shall control the constitutional convention.

"I will not call the legislature together," he said. "They could do nothing. An appeal will be taken to the supreme court of the United States, but under the red tape and technicalities surrounding it, a decision cannot be had in time to affect the election of delegates.

"It must be a free, open fight. I appeal to the sovereign people of South Carolina to protect their homes and liberties. The government of the people must and shall be perpetuated, and we are ready to lead the fight under the white man's flag."

Just So!

LONDON, May 15.—The Chronicle says the proposed reforms in Armenia are excellent on paper. The scheme presented by the sultan is based on existing laws, and the regulations, therefore, should not be difficult of extended application. The most peculiar and, at present, somewhat enigmatical proposal is for a high commissioner, who must not be a European.

This Wasn't a Draw.

BOSTON, May 15.—Fred Morris (colored) knocked out Dick Moore, middleweight champion of the northwest, last night, at the opening of the 11th round of a 15-round contest. Both weighed 158 pounds, and the fight was characterized by terrific infighting.

That Confederate Monument Again.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., May 15.—The state camp, Sons of Veterans, adopted resolutions, 51 to 41, denouncing the proposed dedication of the Confederate monument in Chicago on Decoration day. The vote was made unanimous.

A Presidential Plum.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The president has appointed W. D. Rutan collector of internal revenue in New Jersey, to succeed J. D. Connelly, who has been appointed United States consul to Osaka and Hicka, Japan.

Jumped to Her Death.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Miss Julia Phelps, daughter of Inventor Phelps, committed suicide by throwing herself from a third story window in Brooklyn. Grief over the death of relatives is said to be the cause.

Business Falling Off.

MONTREAL, May 15.—The annual statement of the Bank of Montreal shows a decrease of net profits. For the year ending April 30, 1894, the profits were $1,813,369; for 1895, $1,210,436.

Organ Recital.

A classical and very enjoyable organ recital was given at Christ's church Tuesday evening by Mr. Harry Brooks Day, organist and choir master of Grace church, Newton, assisted by Masters William Clapp and William Poole, soloists of Grace church choir.

The selections given by Mr. Day were from such celebrated composers as Florsheim, Guilmant, Wely, Batiste, Widor, Gounod and Tombelle, and under the skillful touch of the organist the magnificent instrument seemed at times to almost talk.

Master Pool sang, "One Sweetly, Solemn Thought," and Master Clapp, "Jerusalem, thou that Killest the Prophets," and Masters Pool and Clapp sang, "I waited for the Lord," all of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Birthday Remembered.

Probation Officer Francis A. Spear passes the forty-first mile stone in his life today and occupying a prominent place on his desk at the court room this morning was a basket of handsome and fragrant cut flowers to remind him that some kind friend had not forgotten the event. Frank however, did not occupy his accustomed seat this morning, having been detained at home by a slight cold and after court adjourned the basket was sent to his home.

Missing from Weymouth.

William Hatchard of Weymouth is reported as missing since Sunday morning. That morning he left home intending to return in a few moments but has not been heard from since. One of the census enumerators found a house this week where there were half a dozen young ladies all 25 years of age. Probably they will be but 25 in 1900.

—The Tribune says: "Framingham's authorities have done a very sensible thing in the purchase of the wide tired wheel road carts. The benefit to our roads of a loaded two-horse tip cart going over them with six inch rims may be counted by hundreds of dollars. We wish that every private owner of a tip cart in town would take pattern by these, and help to keep our roads in good order."

—The remodelled Jubilee will be ready to go into commission about June 1.

—Milking will yet be done by machinery, says the Massachusetts Ploughman, but the time is not yet. The milker shown at the World's fair was as good as any we have seen, but it would not milk quite clean.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

NEW WATER BILL.

Extracts as to Apportionment of the Cost.

AND DUTIES OF LOCAL BOARDS.

Allowance for Water Furnished will Give Rebate of $4,000.

Quincy is becoming quite metropolitan. Some think too metropolitan. A year or two ago metropolitan parks were launched; now its metropolitan water; and metropolitan sewers, metropolitan police, metropolitan fire department, etc., may follow. All is well if Quincy can stand it. The cost and maintainance of local parks will call for quite an expenditure. For twenty odd years the maturing water debt of Quincy, for which the city must continue to provide, is over $25,000 annually.

The metropolitan water bill now under discussion authorizes the expenditure of $27,000,000 and it has been estimated that Quincy's net assessment when the system is in full operation will be $25,200.

Twenty-five thousand annually for the Quincy water debt and $25,000 annually toward the metropolitan system promise to be burdensome.

It will be noticed in the extracts which follow that a rebate of $12 per million gallons is proposed for water furnished by local systems. In 1894, according to the recent report of the superintendent, the consumption was 291 millions. The rebate on this would be $3,492, which would not pay the expenses of the pumping station. These expenses in 1894 were $5,039.14. The total maintenance in 1894 cost nearly $14,000.

Extracts as to the apportionment of the cost, and the duties of the city and local board of water commissioners, follow:

Apportionment of Expenses.

SECT. 19. Provided, further, that no such amount shall be so apportioned until the year eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and in said year only the amount of five hundred thousand dollars shall be apportioned, and in the succeeding years the same amount and three hundred thousand dollars additional for each year thereafter shall be apportioned until the entire amount required as aforesaid is reached, and thereafter such entire amount shall be apportioned. Said treasurer shall in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-eight apportion to the several cities and towns in said district in addition to the amount herein provided, the sums of money expended by the state board of health under chapter four hundred and fifty-nine of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three and chapter four of the resolves of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five in the manner therein provided. HORRIBLY MANGLED.

Eight Men Become Victims of an Explosion in a Pennsylvania Sawmill.

WEST BINGHAM, Pa., May 15.—The bodies of eight men, horribly mangled, scalded and disfigured, were picked out from among the ruins of Peck, Haskell & Cobb's sawmill here yesterday afternoon, the victims of the explosion of a boiler in the mill. Five were dead, and of the other three two have since died.

The mill was run by steam, generated in an old 80-horse power boiler, which had been condemned by an inspector a few days before, because the steam failed to record accurately the amount of steam pressure. Manager Mat Haskell is said to have declared the inspector an impostor and refused to shut down.

No Hope For Haselton.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Several friends of Seneca Haselton, the minister to Venezuela, whose resignation has been called for by the secretary of state on account of Admiral Meade's charges, have represented to the state department that the minister has attended faithfully to the duties of his office and has been most popular, personally, and as an official, among the Venezuelans. The friends of Mr. Haselton have no definite expectation that the department will conclude to change the decision reached before the minister's resignation was asked for. Representations have been received from others than Admiral Meade, bearing out, in part, the admiral's report.

Womanly Sympathy Counts.

BERLIN, May 15.—Prince Bismarck, in receiving the delegation of Silesian women, said: "I believe that womanly sympathy is a stronger bulwark for our political institutions against social democracy than the anti-revolution bill would have been if it had been accepted by the reichstag. I appeal from our parliament to our women to help us by influencing the men with whom they come in contact to arm and defend themselves against the dangers of the future and to use greater courage than that displayed in the anti-revolution bill."

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

A Domestic Tragedy.

There's quiet in the study room,
A monotone of A B C,
The governess sits half asleep,
Absorbed in contemplation deep,
When suddenly shrill yells arise,
An endless howl of piercing cries
That seem to pierce the very skies—
When auntie spanks the baby.

Perhaps it is the hall clock smashed,
And baby buried in the debris;
Some act of thoughtless babyhood,
Too young to know bad form from good,
But we, pursuing wisdom's lanes,
Sit helplessly, like slaves in chains.
Oh, would that we could bear his pains
When auntie spanks the baby!
—New York Sun.

Explaining a Joke.

Two girls were riding in a Pittsburg cable car, and one of them was reading a comic paper.

"I don't see the point to this joke," said the reader as she displayed to her companion a picture. It represented a man in his shirt sleeves with a tiny baby on his lap and was labeled "The New Woman."

The other girl was thoughtful for a few moments, and then she said:

"Oh, that's plain enough. The baby is a girl, and of course it's quite new. Don't you see?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Doubtful Fellow.

There's a sense of summer in the air, in every bird's sweet note,
But never mind my duster, dear; just mend my overcoat.
The flowers are flaming on the hills, and loud the thunders roll,
But never mind the season, dear; just keep on buying coal.

The peach trees shake their blossoms down, the rose reels red and white,
But never mind the peach tree, dear; just keep the fires bright.
And spring—sweet spring—has come at last, with glory in her soul,
But never mind the spring time, dear; just keep ahead on coal.

"What makes Whykins' lawn look so weedy?" said the neighbor who comments. "I should think he'd mow it once in awhile."

—Gov. McKinley has been making an inspection tour through the south, and has felt the pulse of the politicians in this locality and according to reports feels much encouraged at the future prospect of his chances in the Convention. It was bearding the lion in his den to enter these states, for the strength of the opposition to his tariff bill rested there. The north has always supported his protective views, and while they see grave errors in the schedule of his taxation, on the whole it was declared sound and reliable. His friends claim equal results from his recent visit in Connecticut, and expect a like influence throughout his journey in Massachusetts and Maine.—Whitman Times.

From June 1791 to Nov. 1813 the French government enrolled 4,556,000 men, nearly three-fourths of whom died in battle, of wounds or of diseases contracted in the field.

"For years I had suffered from falling of the womb, inflammation of the stomach, and weakness of the female organs. "I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found a perfect cure in it for these troubles." MRS. LIZZIE DECLINE, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, New Jersey.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

WYOMING'S STATE SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT TALKS OF HER CAMPAIGN.

Woman's Influence on the Drama—For the Summer Girl—The New Child—A Remedy Against Flies—The Latest—New Wall Papers—A Red Letter Day.

A chat with a real, for sure political woman of the west is all the more interesting in view of extravagant assertions regarding fair suffragists of Wyoming and Colorado—the two states where women have full franchise—that intermittently appear in eastern newspapers. The woman first honored with the office of state superintendent of public instruction, Miss Estelle Reel of Wyoming, is in Chicago. She talked enthusiastically of various phases of suffrage to a reporter at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Miss Reel, who, by the way, is a daughter of Illinois, is a young and attractive looking woman. Naturally she is proud of the unique honor conferred upon her by the pioneer suffrage state last autumn. Soon after, however, Colorado followed the example of Wyoming by naming a woman—Mrs. Peavy—to a similar position in that state.

The novel experience of Miss Reel makes an interesting story, not devoid of many ludicrous features. In answer to the query, "How did you manage the campaign?" she said:

"The fact that I am a woman did not keep me from bearing my share of the burdens of the campaign, financial or otherwise. I traveled over most of the great state of Wyoming, which has an area of 97,000 square miles, much of the distance being covered by stage-coach or wagon. I did not make any attempts at oratory in my speeches and did not try to discuss the political issues of the day, but confined the remarks to explaining the duties of the office for which I was a candidate, telling why I thought I could perform them with satisfaction. I was treated with the greatest courtesy in all parts of the state and by the press of whatever political faith. Of course some of the eastern papers tried to manufacture a funny side to the campaign, and a paragraph went the rounds to the effect that I had agreed with my opponent to marry him in the event of his election and my defeat. As the man already had a wife, this campaign story did not carry much weight when it reached Wyoming. Another story was circulated to the effect that I secured my large vote—I had the largest vote of any candidate, by the way—by having sent my photograph to every man in the state. The only foundation for this story was the fact that I, in common with other candidates on the ticket, sent out considerable campaign literature bearing our none too flattering pictures. Wildly exaggerated tales of perfumed notes being sent to cowboys who rode 100 miles to vote for me as well as to wave six shooters in the faces of those who voted against me also went the rounds. Well, to make a long story short, the battle was won, and I am satisfactorily pushing my work."

"Is there any dissatisfaction in regard to woman suffrage in Wyoming?" was asked.

"There is not," was the decisive rejoinder. "On the contrary, the institution seems to give general satisfaction to all political parties and to both sexes."—Chicago Tribune.

Woman's Influence on the Drama.

There are 24 theaters in New York city now open. In 16 of these theaters regular performances of plays are given. In eight diversified or continuous performances make up the bill. The current attractions at the regular theaters are made up almost exclusively of light operatic or farcical plays and comedies of manners and fashion, plays appealing particularly to the favor of women. At three theaters only, theaters of the cheaper class, are melodramas or sensational pieces presented. At no establishment is there a tragedy on the bill. At one house is a comedy written by a woman. There has been of late years a visible change in the standard of public entertainments. Some theater goers, in discussing the alleged evils of "the theater hat" and the laws proposed to abate them, declare that it almost seems as if a majority of the audience were women. They are. This applies particularly to the high priced orchestra or balcony seats. So long as it was against the prevailing custom for a woman to go to a theater without male escort, men predominated, but since the fashion in this respect has changed it is no uncommon thing for two women to go to a theater together.

The increased number of women in audiences and the relatively decreased number of men in theaters of the first class have been reflected in the changed standard of taste in these theaters in New York. The boisterous and blood curdling melodramas of other days, with duels, abductions, combats and surprises, have given way to gentler plays, studies of conventional life and character, permitting the introduction of elegant furniture, fashionable gowns and fine accessories. Patriotic plays, plays recalling important episodes in American history, are, it must be added, no longer as popular as in the olden time. —New York Sun.

For the Summer Girl.

The very latest tea table is designed expressly for the summer girl. It takes the shape of her beloved racket and is in every way adapted for tea upon the lawn or in the piazza corner. It has the merit of being serviceable as well as unique. It is made of handsome wood and is two shelved, so that there is ample space, and the hostess need not fear being called on to sacrifice comfort for a fad. The general shape is that of a racket, meant to represent the land strings. The price asked for the model is $13.50. It is new and it is ample enough to do real service; but, on the other hand, fantastic shapes seldom hold any permanent place, and the outlay entailed seems rather large for a mere whim.

It has been suggested that the various women's athletic clubs may be tempted into the expenditure, and that in such a tearoom the table would be singularly well placed.

There seems to be a peculiar fitness in the idea that appeals to the mind at once. Authorities and sticklers for the highest taste will doubtless all agree that the whole thing is absurd, and that no table should be grotesque, but the great multitude is certain to be attracted by the novelty, and we may safely look for all sorts of odd shapes now that the fad has been inaugurated and the racket table has been assigned a place.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The New Child.

There is to be a "new child" as well as "new woman," and one of them is being brought up by a new method. Mrs. Digby Bell is a firm believer in the theory of the effect of the signs of the zodiac on every life, and that if people lived in accordance with the significance of the signs much sorrow would be avoided in this world. Consequently she is bringing up a young son in as strict adherence to the directions to be read in the signs of the zodiac as possible. When she sings "Read the Answer In the Stars," it is like chanting her creed. The child's playmates and everything else that concerns him are ordered by the zodiac indications.

Another young woman who is eminently successful in the world, but has modestly avoided all publicity, is following Mrs. Bell's example to a certain extent, but she also has a phrenological chart of her little son's cranium by which she is guided. This woman confesses that she selected her husband in accordance with the same rule, and after his proposal of marriage she insisted that he should visit a phrenologist with her. The man demurred, but finally went, and the result was so satisfactory to the girl that she accepted him at once. The couple are extremely happy. —New York World.

A Remedy Against Flies.

"I never use window screens," said a wise housekeeper the other day, "because I have a fancy that they shut out all the air in hot weather, and besides they serve to keep the flies in the house as well as to keep them out."

"But I never see a fly in your house," said her friend. "How do you manage it? For my part, I must confess that, screens or no screens, my summer means to me one long battle with the little pests."

"My remedy is a very simple one," said the good housekeeper, "and I learned it years ago from my grandmother, when I used to watch her putting bunches of lavender flowers around to keep the flies away. My method is simpler. I buy 5 cents' worth of oil of lavender at the drug store and mix it with the same quantity of water. Then I put it in a common glass atomizer and spray it around the rooms wherever flies are apt to congregate, especially in the dining room, where I sprinkle it plentifully over the table linen. The odor is especially disagreeable to flies, and they will never venture in its neighborhood, though to most people it has a peculiarly fresh and grateful smell."

"I shall certainly give it a trial," said the other woman.

A Flower Stand.

Every room is made more cheery by one or two growing plants here and there, even if they be merely green palms, but a blooming plant adds a wonderful brightness to a room where the sun seldom shines. The pictured stand is made of bamboo or rattan and is decorated with satin ribbons, either in foliage green or a color to match the blossom of the plant.

The Latest.

An odd New York class is called the "wallflower," and here the girls and women who are backward in the small arts and graces which go to make women popular in the smart set are taught. For instance, the woman who never can see a joke is coached to pretend she sees it. Her facial expression is made to answer for the lack of quickness, and she is taught to look puzzled—which doubtless comes quite natural to her—then pleased, and then her lips curve into a smile, and she laughs heartily in appreciation. The women who can't play cards are taught all the popular games, as well as a little chess.

The woman who can't get interested in news and knows she is stupid is given a daily list of great events much talked about, which are going on, and her maid is instructed what to clip out for her morning perusal, thus giving her the drift of affairs without infringing too much of her time and patience. The woman who has no small talk at her command, or who can't talk at all, is also taken in hand with great success. She is taught how to talk and what to talk about and how to listen. The unmentionable things for ordinary conversation are religion, politics, family history, personal experiences, long winded stories and spiteful remarks.—Brooklyn Citizen.

New Wall Papers.

A new wall paper in blue and white imitates Dutch tiles in color and designs. For bedrooms in country houses some of the papers are most florid and striking, having immense rose trees loaded with flowers, giant poppies or cactus blossoms that nearly cover the light colored background. Drawing room wall coverings, whether of silk or paper, are colored in the very palest tints. A new material for curtains that is strong yet very dainty and "lacy" in appearance is the Calcutta net, which is a pale ecru with a pattern of dots, squares or rings on the lace ground.

Some pieces of the prim looking colonial furniture that is so much sought after for colonial rooms are of oak, tinted green to give it an appearance of age. The most popular fabric for cushions to lounging chairs of oak and mahogany and for the immense wicker chairs and lounges now the fashion is a Morris velvet. When this is too expensive for one's purse, the Morris chintzes are liked.—New York Post.

A Red Letter Day.

Under the heading, "A Red Letter Day For Woman Suffrage," Zion's Herald says:

The friends of this cause will not soon forget April 18. For on that day the Rhode Island senate committee on special legislation reported back a bill granting the right of suffrage to women on all questions that can legally come before town, ward or district meetings. On the same day in Salt Lake City a motion in the constitutional convention to reconsider the clause adopting woman suffrage was killed by a decisive majority, thus finally disposing of the matter. More important than all, however, on the same day the New York senate, by a vote of 20 to 5, passed a resolution which proposes to submit to the vote of the people of that state a constitutional amendment giving to women the right of suffrage. The same resolution had passed the assembly by a large majority. This triple victory on a single day will inspire with fresh courage the champions of this reform.

A Philanthropic Duchess.

Here is a good story of the Duchess of Devonshire:

Her grace likes to go among the duke's people as "my lady bountiful." One day the duchess met a tenant on one of the ducal estates, and the man, questioned by her grace, said that "the water came in here and got out there, and this wanted repairing and that." "My good man," said the duchess, "you have only to complain to Mr. Blank, the steward." To this he replied that he had done so without avail. "Then I'll speak to the duke." "Ah, my lady, the duke is in the steward's hands and won't do nothing." "Then," said the duchess, "I will punish them both by ordering a new house to be built for you." And one is now in course of construction.

Sarah A. Chadwick.

Sarah A. Chadwick was surgeon of a volunteer cavalry regiment, the Seventh Illinois, in 1861. The regiment was stationed at Cairo, and Miss Chadwick acted as its assistant surgeon for several months. The regiment wanted her regularly appointed in commission, but the war department was unwilling to appoint a woman. For these services congress voted her $800 at its last session. Miss Chadwick is a graduate of Oberlin college.

The custom of writing "Present," "Addressed," "Kindness of," and "Favored by" on letters sent by a private messenger is said to be going rapidly out of fashion. The name of the person, the street and number are all that is now usually written.

Mrs. Leland Stanford sent Miss Anthony a free pass for herself and Miss Shaw over all the California railroads and a check for $400 to pay the other expenses of their western trip.

We suppose the Ohio women, now that they have had a taste of suffrage, will desire a further extension of the franchise. That may be the result.—Cincinnati Gazette.

The woman suffrage amendment to the Rhode Island constitution was discussed in the senate on April 24 and was referred to the next legislature.

The foundation stones were lately laid for the new hall of residence for women students in connection with Aberystwith college, Wales.

Mrs. Zella Dixson has been promoted from the assistant librarianship of the University of Chicago to an associate librarianship.

Ten women have been appointed on the list of census enumerators in Boston.

His Fruits Shall Follow.

The books say well, my brothers. Each man's life
The outcome of his former living is.
The bygone wrongs bring forth sorrows and woes;
The bygone right brings bliss.

If he who liveth learning, whence woe springs,
Endureth patiently, striving to pay
His utmost debt for ancient evils done
In love and truth alway—

If he shall day by day dwell merciful,
Holy and just and kind and true, and rend
Desire from where it clings with bleeding roots,
Till love of life have end—

He, dying, leaveth as the sum of him
A life count closed whose ills are dead and quit,
Whose good is quick and mighty, far and near,
So that fruite follow it.

Living Picture Sermons.

For advertising the Salvation folk are only equaled by the circus man. The other morning nearly every house for half a mile in all directions from the North Side garrison in Chicago was "bombarded"—that is what the Salvation folk call it—with a poster which advertised in huge black letters:

2. The Army Girls to the Rescue.
3. The Happy Salvation Home.

A Sunday sermon on the subject, "Jonah, Come In Out of the Wet," is also announced.—Chicago Record.

FISHERIES IN DANGER.

British Concessions to Canadian Sealers Considered Unwarranted.

Opportunities to Slaughter Herds by Firearms.

A Crisis Which May Result In the Abrogation of a Treaty.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The pending negotiations between the United States and Great Britain looking to the adoption of uniform regulations for the government of the seal fisheries this season promise to have an abrupt termination in the near future.

The British government positively refuses to re-enact the regulations of last year, which prohibits the carrying of firearms by sealing vessels through the zone north of the 35th parallel during the closed season.

The United States officials look upon this as disastrous to the seal fisheries, holding that the result will be to relieve the pelagic sealers of the only restriction which has operated to prevent an unlimited slaughter of the herds. While killing by firearms remains illegal, it is realized that it will be impossible to enforce this prohibition if arms can be freely carried, for the sealers would kill freely unless they should happen to be under the Very Eyes of a Revenue Cutter.

Meanwhile, the United States cutters have gone out under the old instructions to seize all vessels carrying arms not under seal. These must be modified speedily by orders sent through the Alaska Commercial company's steamer, which leaves San Francisco in a day or two, or else there may be another big claim for damages on account of illegal seizures filed by the British government.

The attitude of the latter is viewed with much dissatisfaction at the state department, where it is regarded as an evidence of unwarrantable concession to the Canadian pelagic sealers. It is also held that the effect of the British action is to practically nullify all measures of protection for the seals that were conferred by the Paris arbitration, and it would not be surprising, if this course is persisted in, if it resulted in a declaration by the United States of the abrogation of the treaty.

Cape Colony and Canadian Trade.

CAPE TOWN, May 15.—In making a motion in parliament for the papers concerning the proposed treaty of commercial reciprocity with Canada, Mr. Weiner says that the premier would do better to cultivate the trade relations with our own neighbors. Premier Rhodes said in reply that negotiations had not gone beyond a proposal that a Canadian delegation should visit Cape Colony with a view to discussing the matter.

Carnegie Raises Wages.

PITTSBURG, May 15.—The board of managers of the Carnegie Steel company decided last night to advance its 25,000 men 10 per cent, the raise to take effect on June 1. It is claimed that the increase was first suggested by Mr. Carnegie. This is the first advance since the reductions of 1892.

Socialist In the Rear.

LONDON, May 15.—The by-election in Walworth proved a rebuff for the government, the Conservative candidate, James Bailey, winning the seat with 2676 votes, against 2105 for Reade, the Liberal candidate, and 347 votes for Lansbury, the Socialist candidate.

Manhattan Club Going Under.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Referee Varnum has filed his report on the petition praying for the dissolution of the Manhattan Athletic club. No opposition was offered to the dissolution, and the referee recommends that the petition be granted.

The Law Stands.

COLUMBUS, O., May 15.—The supreme court decided the law constitutional which requires the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York, and similar companies, to deposit $50,000 with the state treasurer in order to do business in Ohio.

Solon's Log Jam.

SOLON, Me., May 15.—Another large jam of logs has formed just above the dam. It is estimated that the jam contains 3,000,000 feet of logs. A locomotive has been called into service to haul the logs from the jam.

Judge Parsons.

Extra Session Probable.

NASHVILLE, May 15. — The legislature adjourned sine die last night, a resolution to that effect having been adopted by the senate and house. It is more than likely that an extra session will be held.

Disapproved by Altgeld.

PICNIC FOR GIANTS.

Rolled Up a Big Score While Colts Barely Escaped a Whitewash.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The Giants had everything their own way and gave the Colts a bad drubbing. Terry was hit hard, while Rusie was almost invincible, allowing but four puny singles off his swift delivery. The solitary run scored by Ryan came through two rank errors by Captain Davis.

CHICAGO, May 15.—The storm which swept Lake Michigan Monday and Monday night, was the most disastrous since the gale of last May, in which so many lives were lost. The list of the missing vessels up to the present is as follows: Quickstep, wrecked off Racine; J. B. Kitchen, wrecked at Middle island; Viking, driven aground with three consorts at Sand beach; unknown steam barge ashore six miles north of Sand beach; steamer Unique, wrecked at St. Clair; three schooners wrecked off East Tawas, Mich.; Schooner Reindeer, reported stranded at Black River; unknown schooner, wrecked off Racine; three-masted schooner, wrecked near Milwaukee.

Japan Asserts Her Rights.

LONDON, May 15.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that, despite the pressure exerted by the powers, Japan persists in declining to fix the date for the evacuation of points held by her on the Liao-Tung peninsula and Corea. The Japanese government maintains the right to hold Port Arthur until the first half of the indemnity is paid by China, and to hold Wei-Hai-Wei until the whole is paid. The Japanese will not evacuate Corea until a settlement of affairs is secured and the independence of Corea is assured.

A Heavy Burden.

LONDON, May 15.—The Times says the government of Newfoundland has asked England to guarantee the savings bank deposits of the colony. To accede to this would be merely be taking over, in an indirect form, a good part of the colonial debt. It is not probable that the government will reverse its decision that a commission must be held before financial assistance is given.

The Way Out.

OTTAWA, May 15.—The Dominion and Manitoba governments have almost arrived at an understanding on the Manitoba school question. Manitoba, it is stated, will not object to allowing Roman Catholics the privileges of establishing separate schools while paying for them out of the taxes of the Catholics.

Rejection Predicted.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 15.—The Daily News (independent) announces that the terms of confederation will be presented to the legislature only to be rejected. Canada has refused to assume any debt over $50 per capita, while our debt and contracted obligations reach $75 per capita.

Minnie Palmer Divorced.

LONDON, May 14.—In the case of John R. Rogers, against his wife, Minnie Palmer, for absolute divorce, the court rendered a decision yesterday, expressing conviction that there was no collusion and granting the decree asked for.

Broken Rail Caused Disaster.

SILEX, Mo., May 15.—A passenger train was derailed by a broken rail two miles from here and thrown down a 20-foot embankment. Very few of the passengers and train crew escaped injury. C. Meyer was instantly killed.

A Boodle Assemblyman.

ALBANY, May 15.—The Albany grand jury has found an indictment against an assemblyman for accepting a bribe of $3000. The name of the accused is not given. He has left the city and officers have not yet located him.

GHOSTS.

Ghosts always vanish into thin air, never into a fog or a snowstorm. Sometimes, though, they sink into the ground.

Ghosts are queer. When you think you see 'em, you don't see them. When you want to see 'em, you can't, and when you do see them you wish you didn't.

Archbishop Williams Has Been Fifty Years In the Priesthood.

Church Dignitaries From All Sections Pay Homage.

Celebration In Honor of the Venerable Prelate Begun at Boston.

BOSTON, May 16.—Amid all the magnificence of religious state and ceremony the golden jubilee of Archbishop Williams was ushered in this morning. The grand pontifical high mass at 10 o'clock, in which the central figure was the venerable archbishop himself, did not find absent a single one of the noted prelates whose presence has been so long anticipated. Cardinal Gibbons, Mgr. Satolli and a great number of archbishops, bishops and monsignors were seen at the great altar of Holy Cross cathedral when mass begun.

It will be the last time probably for many years that there will be witnessed in Boston a religious procession of such grandeur as that which preceded the opening of the mass.

It was formed in the chapel on the Union Park street side of the cathedral, and from there passed out by the left transept along the north aisle and hallway into the body of the church. There by a cross aisle it reached the middle aisle, and turning, proceeded directly to the center of the altar railing and into the sanctuary.

First was formed the little altar boys, then the sanctuary choirs, seminarians, priests, vicars general, monsignors, bishops and archbishops. Not far from the head, in the ranks of the archbishops, was the pope's representative, Mgr. Satolli, with an escort of priests.

Behind them a body of acolytes, preceding Archbishop Williams, who was surrounded by the priests who assisted him in the celebration of the mass. The towering form of Cardinal Gibbons was seen in a cluster of attendant priests at the end, two train bearers supporting the flowing ends of his long state vestments.

Music attended upon the celebration of mass, and the voice of Bishop Bradley was heard from the pulpit.

There will be a slight respite during the afternoon, which, however, will not be altogether uninterrupted, as there are many memorials and gifts to be offered to the archbishop, although without ceremony.

Numerous Costly Gifts.

The presents for the archbishop are already being received at the archiepiscopal residence in great numbers. Yesterday a splendid set of vestments, the gift of the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul of Massachusetts, reached the archbishop. They are the work of the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul of Paris, in which city Archbishop Williams was ordained 50 years ago. A golden chalice, set with precious stones, and blessed by the pope on Easter Sunday, which the bishops of New England are to present Archbishop Williams, has also been received at the archbishop's residence.

Many other gifts and memorials were sent by various societies and bodies, among them a fine gold chalice from the seminarians of Brighton.

One of the most remarkable testimonials ever presented to a prelate will be conferred to the archbishop by the Immaculate Conception branch of the League of the Sacred Heart.

It will contain a record of the pious devotions, communions, masses, prayers and good works performed in honor of the archbishop's jubilee by the members of the league during the past two weeks.

The idea of the memorial originated with Rev. Father Reid, S. J., treasurer of Boston college. It will be in book form, elaborately prepared with covers in watered celluloid lined with heavy ottoman silk.

The ornamentation will be in gold leaf shaded with carmine. At the top are the dates 1845-1895. Underneath this, suspended by a gold chain, hangs a promoter's cross, and on the scroll are the words, "Spiritual gifts presented to his grace, Most Rev. John J. Williams, D.D., by the promoters and associates of the Church of the Sacred Heart in token of the sincere affection and profound veneration for the bishop and pastor of their souls on the 50th anniversary of his priesthood."

The spiritual bouquet, containing the figures showing the record of devotions in honor of his grace, forms the inner part of the book, and is done on vellum in gold shell on a decorated scroll ornamented with violets in Dresden style.

The record shows that there have been of holy communions, 41,583; masses celebrated, 318; masses heard, 74,520; visits to blessed sacrament, 120,323; beads, 89,178; stations of the cross, 35,954; hours of labor, 88,984; prayers, angelus, etc., 234,835; various good works, 61,819.

OBVIOUS FALSEHOODS

By Citizens of Hawaii Who Claim to Be British Subjects.

Walker and Rickard Took the Oath of Allegiance.

Great Britain Now Objects to Their Being Punished For Treason.

HONOLULU, May 8, via San Francisco, May 16.—This little republic has a new difficulty to overcome, one which is causing no little amount of uneasiness among government officials.

The decision of Lord Kimberley regarding Great Britain's position on the question of citizenship and protection to those concerned in the recent uprising has just been received in the cases of Walker and Rickard, convicted of treason. According to this decision, Walker and Rickard are looked upon as citizens of Great Britain and subject to protection from that country.

The decision is particularly interesting on account of the letter recently received from Secretary Gresham, which indicates a policy directly opposed to that of Great Britain. Walker and Rickard are naturalized citizens of Hawaii; took the oath of allegiance to support the constitution and the laws, and swore allegiance to the king.

Walker and Rickard have made oath that when they took oath of allegiance to Hawaii the king told them that it would not affect their British citizenship, the British commissioner at that time coinciding with this statement. While in the dispatch Earl Kimberley simply states that Rickard and Walker must be protected as British subjects, it makes no indication of what steps will be taken.

Hawaiians' Firm Stand.

It is understood that the Hawaiian government will not admit for a moment these men are British subjects, and will accept the consequences. Hawaii is willing to leave the matter to arbitration as a final resort, but will not yield in any other way.

In the archives of the interior office have recently been found the written applications of Walker and Rickard requesting that they be allowed to become naturalized. These documents convict them of falsehood and may close up the discussion.

The Hawaiian oath of allegiance is as follows:

Section 452—Every foreigner so naturalized shall be deemed to all intents and purposes a native of the Hawaiian Islands; be amenable only to the laws of this kingdom and to the authority and control thereof; be entitled to the protection of the said laws and be no longer amenable to his native sovereign while residing in this kingdom, nor entitled to resort to his native country for protection or intervention. He shall be amenable for every such resort to the pains and penalties annexed to rebellion by the criminal code.

Earl Kimberley's decision, setting at naught this law, has been made without asking for the Hawaiian government's decision. The remainder of the decision is a matter of much doubt. In view of the action of Great Britain in the matter of Nicaragua, it is feared that the British may proceed to extreme measures without submitting the matter to argument or arbitration.

Indemnity May Be Asked.

If this course should be taken, the republic may be asked to release Rickard and Walker and pay a large indemnity at once, or it will be threatened with forcible occupation of the south. If there should be a forcible occupation it would unquestionably be followed by insurrection and bloodshed, as the natives would believe it meant nothing but the forcible restoration of the ex-queen.

While the dispatch of Earl Kimberley simply stated that Rickard and Walker must be protected as British subjects, it goes no further and makes no indication of the step which would be taken. It is understood that the government will not admit for a moment that these men are British subjects, and accept the consequences. It would leave this matter to arbitration as a final resort, but will not yield in any other way.

The many rumors regarding the arrival of a filibustering expedition have caused the government to charter an island steamer for the purpose of patrolling Hawaiian waters to prevent the landing of arms for the revolutionists.

Now For the Crisis.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The Canadian government has received a cablegram from Lord Ripon confirming the announcement from Washington that the imperial government has decided not to renew the agreement with the United States government as to the sealing of arms on sealing vessels for the coming season. During the coming season Great Britain will have only two gunboats.

Crops Ruined.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—Monday night's frost has caused more damage than was at first anticipated. Reports from the various fruit and vegetable regions in Missouri and Illinois indicate hundreds of thousands of dollars damage has been done. It is estimated that the entire local grape crop has been destroyed.

Troops Turned Traitors.

TANGIER, May 16.—The rebellion of the tribes around Morocco City continues, and it is reported that the rebels have succeeded in entering the city. It is said that the sultan's troops, which were sent to reenforce the garrison of Morocco City, have joined issue with the rebels.

High Tariff.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 16.—It is reported that the government will increase the duties on imported goods by from 5 to 30 per cent. This step is necessary in order to provide funds to meet the colony's obligations if the separate government is to be maintained.

Silver Boomers.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 16.—The silver convention convened here yesterday, and 17 western states and territories were represented. The policy outlined is to encourage men to work in the silver cause without asking them to break any party lines.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

IT IS pleasant to contemplate that the State tax will be further reduced this year. In 1893, the last year of Governor Russell, the total was $2,500,000; During the first year of Governor Greenhalge it was reduced twenty per cent. to $2,000,000; and the prospects now are that another twenty per cent. will come off this year reducing the total to $1,500,000. This means a reduction of over $3,000 this year in Quincy's proportion, which will probably more than offset the park assessments to be added. But for the increase in current expenses of the city, the tax rate of Quincy would be much smaller this year, as there is a reduction in the maturing debt as well as the State tax.

The Sea Shore Boulevard.

Wednesday was not one of the best days for the opening of sea shore property and therefore the attendance at the opening of those lots at Wollaston Park bordering on Quincy bay, was not large, although every pleasant day previous to Wednesday has seen a number of visitors, among whom were many prospective buyers.

The driveway along the boulevard is indeed a pretty one, and is destined in the near future to become a much used drive. The road is good and hard, and besides this there is a plank walk extending the whole length. A prettier promenade on a moonlight evening would be hard to find.

There are something over 60 lots for sale, and one is almost as good as the other. Restrictions have been placed upon them so as to secure a desirable class of buildings and Manager A. J. Miller and his salesmen are on duty every day to show the property.

He Kept Open House.

Although Probation Officer Francis A. Spear passed his birthday indoors Wednesday, time did not hang heavily on his hands, for throughout the day and evening he received many of his friends who took the opportunity to call and extend congratulations and wish him many happy returns of the day.

It is unnecessary to say that a cordial welcome was extended to all who called, and they were made to feel at home at once by a hearty hand-shake.

Frank was found seated near a table, upon which were several remembrances in the way of flowers, and besides these were all the necessary paraphernalia to gladen those who smoked, which made the time pass all too quickly, and when the callers left for home it was with promises to come again a year hence.

$20,000 Too Much.

The committee appointed at the meeting of those interested in the formation of a representative club in Quincy are about ready to make their report, which will probably be in the nature of a communication through the columns of the LEDGER early next week.

The committee have individually looked over the proposed site and the general opinion formed seems to be that the price asked for the house and land, viz: $20,000, too much to pay and it is more than probable that in the report committee will not recommend paying over $15,000 for the land and house.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

Councilman Bigelow Proposes a Public Hearing on Monday.

BY THE QUINCY CITY COUNCIL.

On the Proposed Metropolitan Water Supply Bill in Legislature.

Councilman Bigelow, a member of the Finance Committee of the City Council, proposes that the people shall be heard on the Metropolitan water supply, and will move at the Council meeting next Monday evening that a public hearing be given then and there. Time is short to take any action, but matters of this importance should not be saddled upon a city without consulting its wishes. The expenditure is very large, the yearly assessment is excessive and unfairly apportioned, and covering as it does a term of forty years, the debt will not be extinguished during the life time of most of the taxpayers of today.

A communication of Councilman Bigelow follows and is self-explanatory:

Editors of Daily Ledger:

House bill, No. 1,225, is on its final reading on Tuesday, May 21 next.

This bill is from the joint committee on Metropolitan Affairs and Water Supply, and is entitled "An Act to provide for a Metropolitan Water Supply," and may be seen at the city clerk's office by any and all citizens who desire.

The first official notice of this scheme given to the City Council came by communication from His Honor the Mayor, under date of May 6, 1895. President Bass of the City Council referred the same to the joint committee on Water Supply and Legislative Matters, who at once called a meeting for Monday, May 13. A full attendance of the committee listened to the following citizens: Ex-Mayor Porter of the State Board of Health, and Wm. G. A. Pattee, Esq., of the Quincy Water Board. Provisions of the bill were in LEDGER of 15th instant.

An estimate of the assessment on the City of Quincy makes a payment in 1898 of about $9,000; in 1899, 18,000; in 1900, about $24,000, (providing for a population of 28,000 in that year.)

Citizens and taxpayers, your protests of commendation will be heard by the City Council at the next regular meeting, which is the only opportunity as it occurs Monday next, May 20, and this bill will receive its final action in the House on Tuesday afternoon.

Allow me to say right here, that this is a most extraordinary proceeding in legislation to have a bill drafted, committed and re-committed go through its several hearings and calendar readings, arrive at the last stage, before our City Council or its citizens are notified, officially or otherwise, whether or not they wish to join in expenditures counted by the millions.

Especially with a water plant guaranteed for 30 years or more from 1892-3. Again with Blue Hill river valley and the magnificent watershed of those splendid hills in our control.

Where is this valuable plant recently purchased for $900,000? and where are the advocates of its 50 years' sure supply? Rally at City Hall and instruct our representatives by Council resolutions.

JOHN P. BIGELOW.

A GERMAN SYMPHONY.

A Wollaston Audience Enjoys a Sleigh Ride in May.

Never perhaps since the day when Job the ancient poet, collided with a bicycle in the streets of Jerico and fractured his Tibia bone, has a more unique entertainment been given, than that, presented in the Wollaston Baptist vestry on Wednesday evening, May 15, under the direction of Mr. A. D. Albee. A German Symphony, entitled a "A Merry Jolly Sleigh Ride," was the production given by the following well known artists:

1st violins,—Miss Bjorkman, Mr. Ransom.

Second violins,—Miss Edith Olney, Miss Grace Lord.

Violoncello,—Professor Ichabod Faunce.

Mandolin,—Miss Idina Rippey.

Trumpet,—Charles B. Dickey.

Metelephones,—Miss Emma Sparrow, Miss Isabel Albee.

Zobos,—Mrs. H. W. Fiske, Mrs. C. E. Goodspeed.

Kazoos,—Miss Imogene Perry, Miss Mabel McKay.

Mozumbos,—Herbert Albee, Orville Rideout, Miss Ida Goodspeed.

Zither,—Miss Margery Rideout, Mr. J. Arthur Sparrow.

Drums,—Mr. Herbert McKay, Mr. John B. Manning.

Piano,—Mrs. A. M. Cook, Miss Florence Olney.

The effort of the artists was a pronounced success, and a repetition was demanded. So realistic was the imitations of the different sounds peculiar to a sleigh ride, that one could close his eyes and almost feel the frost snipping his nose and ears as the merry party sped on. A large company was present to enjoy the exceedingly pleasant occasion which took the place of the regular social.

In Archbishop Kain's Hands.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—The Christian Endeavorers will now look to Archbishop Kain to punish Rev. Father Phelan for his editorial comment on their annual convention. Mgr. Satolli, whom the Endeavorers petitioned to remove Father Phelan, has written that the matter belongs to Archbishop Kain. Father Phelan has received many letters denouncing him for his utterances. The latest is from Dr. John H. Seiffert, Washington. He calls Father Phelans article "A hell-born insult," and declares that his daughter is an Endeavorer. He says further: "Your base, hellish insult is entirely uncalled for, and if I ever get in reach of you, I'll let you feel my presence quite sensibly."

Mohammedans Kick.

LONDON, May 16.—A meeting of the Central Association of Mohammedans of London was held last night to protest against the agitation which so vigorously pushed on the Armenian atrocities. Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett expressed his doubts that any deliberate atrocities were committed in Armenia by the troops. The Armenian agitation was declared to be an attack on Mohammedanism. Mr. Gladstone and the Duke of Argyll were bitterly attacked for their reflection upon the Turkish government. A disturbance occurred at this, and Sir Ellis personally ejected the disturbers. Sir Ellis is American-born, Brooklyn having been his birthplace. He was educated in Massachusetts at Amherst college.

Three May Die.

ATLANTA, May 16.—At the new building occupied by the Exposition Cotton Mills company, workmen on the third floor were handling a heavy piece of timber by means of a derrick when the rope gave way. The timber fell and struck other timbers, and the whole inside work of the immense building was soon in ruins, with five men buried beneath the lumber. It is thought three of the men will die. The damage to the mills is considerable.

Japanese Labor Invasion.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Investigation has resulted in showing that California is being flooded with cheap Japanese labor, every steamer from the Orient, Honolulu and Victoria, B. C., bringing them in large numbers, in violation of the alien contract labor law. Within the last year about 10,000 Japanese have found employment on farms and in vineyards, and white farm hands are idle by thousands.

See-Saw Fighting.

HAVANA, May 16.—The insurgents recently attacked the fort at Cristo, but were obliged to retire. The garrison lost one man killed. The loss of the rebels is not known. The village of Palestina has been destroyed by the rebels, who set fire to it. The rebels have also attacked several stores in Tiarriba and burned them. At Puerto, the rebels burned several houses.

Senator Mitchell's Opinion.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Senator Mitchell of Oregon, who is the senior Republican member of the senate committee on privileges and elections, which will pass on the credentials of Henry A. Dupont and of any person appointed senator by the governor of Delaware, has written a letter saying that in his opinion Dupont was legally elected.

DEATH IN THE AIR.

A changeable climate is the most exciting cause of pneumonia. The mild to-day, cold to-morrow, weather is a prolific breeder of the disease. It is contracted by exposure to wet and inclement weather, from standing or sitting with cold feet; by going from hot and over-crowded rooms into the keen night air, and by sitting in draughts.

The proper way to treat pneumonia is to prevent its development.

Have a care that you are sufficiently clad to meet inclement and changeable weather. See that the wet feet and exposure to draughts do not result in cold. If a cold is contracted check it at once before pneumonia is developed; for it is a well known fact that a protracted cough may suddenly develop into pneumonia, with a slight additional cold. Don't let the disease make any headway. Fortify the system against it by rich, nutritious, liquid food. This can be accomplished in no other way so well as by the liberal use of Ozomulsion, an ozonized preparation of Cod Liver Oil with Guaiacol, prepared by T. A. Slocum Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists. Taken early, when the first symptoms of the cold appear, it cures it promptly and prevents the development of pneumonia. It is a rich, liquid food, and it is a well known fact that strong food is the most formidable foe of pneumonia. It keeps the blood well nourished and puts the tissues in such a condition that they throw off the cold and thus resist the disease.

ADAMS VS. THAYER.

Braintree Boys Unable to Bat Out or Kick Out a Victory.

On Wednesday afternoon Adams played a successful but uninteresting game with Thayer Academy. Adams has played many nines where kicking seemed to be a feature but Thayer leads in that art.

Orcutt on second base and Holbrook in left field put up the best game for Thayer. Eldridge pitched a strong game and all of the Adams boys hit the ball without any trouble. Holden and Rippey hit two very pretty three base hits.

Although Thayer found fault with the umpiring, an examination of the batting record will show that however poor the umpiring might have been, it was not responsible for Thayer's defeat. Mr. Follett umpired with great coolness. The score:

Educational Splinters of General Interest.

THE WILL POWER OF A CHILD.

A Crusade Against Cigarettes in the Lynn Schools.

Palfrey says that the first £400 voted to the first American university in 1636 was equal to the whole colony tax for a year. It would require more than a million dollars to signify so much now, says George H. Martin.

An Anti-Cigarette League was formed at a meeting of the Lynn school teachers last week. Every school in the city was represented, and the teachers reported that great success was being met with in their efforts to induce their pupils to become members of the league. Badges will be given to each member.

The new Brookline Educational Society held its first meeting last week, with a good attendance of interested people, who were anxious to find some means of bringing the pupils, teachers and parents in closer touch with each other, with a view to mutual improvement and the creation of greater interest in the school work. "Nature as a Factor in Education" was discussed.

The public schools of Hanover are to hold patriotic exercises previous to Memorial Day.

The Melrose High school has an athletic association which held an outdoor handicap meet on Saturday last.

Will power is the best intellectual power. This power develops, as all other powers do by self-activity. Activity on the part of a child in obedience to the dictates of another dominant will—its mother's, or nurse's or governess's—will not develop its own will power. It develops a tendency to act under the control of others. This makes the majority of the race slaves to a much greater extent than they realize. Self-reliance, self-control, self-reverence are the true educational ideals. The will of the child grows in definiteness and power by exercise in guiding the child. If the child be guided by others there is no opportunity for exercising its own will-activity, and therefore no development of its own will.—Jenness Miller Monthly.

The proportion of Christians among college students is far greater than in the country at large, and the influences which help toward Christian life are nowhere so powerful as there, except in the Christian home. We notice that the reports from 335 Y. M. C. A.'s in colleges indicate that of 75,000 young men in these institutions 32,000 are members of evangelical churches. Of the 200,000 young men in the higher institutions of learning in this country, it is estimated that 85,000 are professing Christians. Here is great need of encouragement to prayer and great need for it. Many of these colleges were planted by the churches and are in part sustained by them. From them must come our ministers and the men of largest influence in all walks of life.—Congregationalist.

CONFIDENCE IN WARD ONE.

What Will Be the Population of Quincy Wards by the Census.

A Ward One man furnishes an estimate of the population of the city today and places Ward One higher than does the LEDGER. The total is some hundreds smaller.

	1890 Census.		Ledger Estimate.
Ward One,	3,269	4,450	4,400
Ward Two,	2,383	2,875	3,000
Ward Three,	3,741	5,025	5,100
Ward Four,	4,164	5,175	5,300
Ward Five,	1,805	2,725	2,900
Ward Six,	1,304	2,125	2,300
	16,726	22,375	23,000

Everybody is invited to forward an estimate.

—The revival of activity in the building trades is evidenced by the fact that in New York city alone, during the four months since January 1, about 1,300 new buildings have been commenced at a total cost of over $32,000,000. This is nearly twice as many in number and more than twice as much in value, as during the same period in 1894, and a handsome increase over the record for the same period in 1893.

It is the manner in which different colors are absorbed or reflected by a body that its color is due. If a white light falls upon a red rose bush, the red alone is reflected, from the flower, the other colors being absorbed.

Badges worn in the buttonhole have taken the place of commutation tickets in Belgium, where the new system of fortnightly season tickets, good on the railroad over the whole government system, has greatly increased the number of commuters.

In several European countries, including France and Belgium, elections are held on Sunday.

Parlor Dramatics.

When the people hear from the Pickwick club it is generally a treat. The members enjoy many good times during the winter, meeting for profit and sociability. Wednesday evening was the "wind-up" for the season and they entertained a few guests in the parlors of The Greenleaf with dramatics and music.

Miss Fuller opened with a piano solo, and was followed by the amusing drama in one act: "That Patrick." The parts were taken as follows:

Mrs. Churchill, a widow with estate but no money,	Miss Hardwick
Marie, her French maid,	Miss Sargent
Mr. French, a suitor of Mrs. Churchill,	Mr. J. O. Hall, Jr.

A vocal number by Miss Isaac accompanied by Miss Mitchell, followed, and then came "The Veneered Savage" in two acts, which delighted the audience. The cast:

Lu Dayton, alias "Lightning Lu,"	Mrs. Gurney
Madge Dayton, alias "Mashing Madge,"	Mrs. Marsh
Dick Majendie, a cousin,	Mr. Gurney
Duchess of Diddlesex,	Mrs. Simmons
Sir Algernon Penryhn,	Mr. Simmons
Lady Fannie,	Miss Hubbard
Footman,	Mr. Mitchell

Miss Fuller gave a piano selection between the acts. The Greenleaf was an admirable place for the dramatics, and it was an enjoyable evening.

May Festival.

The May festival given at the Universalist vestry last evening attracted a large audience. The supper was excellent and although two long tables were set, there was not room to accommodate only about one-half at the first table. Even at the second table all could not find seats and a few waited till the third.

Soon after all had enjoyed the rich menu provided, the entertainment commenced and continued for over an hour. Its length, however, did not exceed its goodness; it was pronounced as one of the best given this season. The duet by Miss Walker and Miss Milne was greatly admired and received a hearty encore. The readings by Miss Prentiss were very fine; but the humorous pieces by Master Borden of Braintree brought down the house. The violin solos by Mr. Stewart were excellent; and so were the harmonica and banjo solos, also the song by Mrs. Craig, and the piano duet by Miss Brown and Mr. Nye.

This evening the Sunflower Chorus of 13 voices, of Braintree, will entertain the audience. The supper is at 6 30 and there are sale tables of various kind, including ice cream and cake.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

CLOSING SCENES OF THE WAR.

A Confederate Band Which Deserted In a Body to Washington.

In the latter part of the month of March, 1865, Washington saw many signs of collapse of the rebellion. The Confederate army appeared to be badly demoralized, and deserters, who arrived constantly in large numbers, reported that men from Alabama, Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas could not be expected to have any heart in a fight which then seemed only for the defense of Virginia, while their own states were overrun by the armies of the Union. During the month of March more than 3,000 deserters were received at Washington, and great numbers were quartered at Fort Monroe, Annapolis and other points nearer the lines, where they were put to work in the quartermaster's department or in the naval service.

One curiosity of the times was a Confederate regimental band which had deserted in a body with its instruments and was allowed to march through the streets of the national capital playing Union airs. This was one of the oddest signs of the final break up. People recalled a story, told by Hooker, that when the Union army scaled and occupied Lookout Mountain a rebel sentry on duty on the crest of one of the most difficult precipices saw our men pile up in solid masses over steeps which had been thought inaccessible and was so surprised that he forgot to run, but stood with feet rooted to the spot, watching the Union force climbing up, and streaming past him, and driving the enemy far to the rear, until he was left alone, a statue of amazement. Recovering himself at last, he threw down his musket, stripped off his rebel gray jacket, stood on them both, and looking far off to the sunny south stretched out as a map below him, said, "How are you, Southern Confederacy?"

But notwithstanding such indications of a collapse of the rebellion at this very time many northern Union newspapers, led by Horace Greeley and others of his stamp, were demanding that appeals should be made to the southern people "to stop the flow of blood and the waste of treasure," and that some message should be sent to the southerners "so terse that it will surely be circulated and so lucid that it cannot be misconstrued or perverted," by way of an invitation to cease fighting. Curiously enough, the nearer the time came for a final surrender the more fervid was the demand for negotiation and appeal from the unreasonable radicals in the ranks of northern Unionists. But all this was soon to end, and while a small party was asking, "Why not negotiate?" the downfall came.—Noah Brooks in Century.

Food Tin Cans.

In a recent government report by Dr. H. W. Wiley it is stated that in Germany the law requires that the tins employed for holding canned goods shall not contain more than 1 per cent of lead, while in this country there is no restriction whatever in regard to the character of the tin used, the result of this latter fact being the employment of cans in some cases containing as high as 12 per cent of lead. This practice prevails, notwithstanding the unanimity among physiologists as to the effect of lead salts upon the human system, the continual ingestion of even minute quantities of lead into the system being followed eventually by the most serious consequences—painter's colic, lead palsy and other trying diseases well known to physicians being the direct effects of continual exposure of the system to any such minute portions of lead salts. It is said to be possible to exclude the latter by requiring that the tin shall not contain more than, say, 1½ per cent of lead; also that the solder be as free from lead as possible.

In Germany the solder made use of in sealing the cans is not allowed to contain over 10 per cent of lead, while in this country the analysis of numerous samples of the solder applied shows that it contains fully 50 per cent of lead, in addition to this being the lack of care to prevent such solder from coming into contact with the contents of the can, and the surfaces of solder on the seams are often found exposed to the action of the acid contents of the can.

Tourists' Gold In Italy.

At the British embassy to the king of Italy a calculation was made some time ago of the amount of gold brought by travelers into Italy every year. By far the largest number of these travelers come from England and the United States. The calculations made it evident that no less than £20,000,000, or $100,000,000, are brought into this country and left here by these travelers. In the scantiest years that sum has not been less than £14,000,000, while on other occasions it has risen to £22,000,000. Mr. Stamer, a writer on Italy, relates that an old woman in Sorrento once told him that the people in England had no sun, because the English had told her time and again that it was not for society they had come to Italy, but to see the sun. Besides all the English were fair and ruddy. If they had had a sun, why were they not all sunburnt? If they do get sunshine in Italy, as they do, they pay very sweetly for it.—Rome Letter in Baltimore Sun.

Advice From the Gallery.

Of the Dublin gallery boys a famous baritone, in his reminiscences, tells some facetious tales, one of "Faust," in which he played Valentine: "After the duel, Martha, who rushed in at the head of the crowd, raised my head and held me in her arms during the first part of the scene. There was a deathlike stillness in the house, which was interrupted by a voice from the gallery calling out, 'Unbutton his weskit!'"—Dublin Herald.

The Good of Today.

Of better days that mortals sing,
When all were happy as the spring;
When none knew want or discontent;
No back by selfishness was bent;
When hearts were pure and heads were sound;
When not a grumbler could be found.
If folk were wiser, better then,
Pray tell us where it was and when.

For brighter days let mortals sigh
And hope for fortune by and by—
Prosperity to fill the land,
With plenty strewn on every hand,
When all men shall be wise and good,
Bound up in one grand brotherhood—
But point out now some of the men
Who are to be contented then.

'Tis in the future or in the past
Ambitious man must live at last.
He looks behind or hopes before,
Despising all his present store,
Forgets all blessings of today
And follows fancy far away.
What man has not he magnifies,
And pleasure with possession dies.

Flattering Himself.

The young lady from Boston had just met the young man from Chicago at the house of a friend, and as he had been represented to her as a very bright fellow she felt that she was going to have a pleasant talk with him. She led him along through an interesting little series of personal compliments to accustom him to the Boston manner, so to speak, and then she sprung Ibsen on him.

"Of course," she said after just a brief touch upon books, "you know Ibsen?"

"Ibsen? Ibsen?" he repeated slowly as if in doubt.

"Yes. Henrik Ibsen."

"Um—um," and he rubbed his chin and contorted his face. "Does he live in Chicago?"

"Why," she laughed, uncertain whether he was serious or only trying to quiz her, "of course he doesn't."

"I thought not," he said in a tone of great relief. "I've only been in the business six months, but I rather flattered myself that I knew every pork packer in town."—Detroit Free Press.

O'Brien to Retire.

LONDON, May 16.—William O'Brien, M. P., has been served with a notice that he has been declared a bankrupt in consequence of his failure to satisfy the judgment obtained against him by Patrick A. Chance, M. P., who was Mr. O'Brien's solicitor in the latter's action against Lord Salisbury for libel. O'Brien says he intends to retire from parliament.

Worked the Gullible.

CHICAGO, May 16.—G. Arnold of this city was arrested yesterday charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes. He has made a practice of inserting matrimonial advertisements in various papers, representing himself as a woman. Then he would induce his male correspondent to send him money "with which to buy a trousseau."

Nature's Work.

BERLIN, May 16.—A serious landslide occurred in the Baltic canal. Dredges are at work night and day, but they will not be able, before the contemplated fetes which have been planned in connection with the opening of the canal on June 20, to get over 26 feet of water.

Killed by One Vote.

ALBANY, May 16.—The Horton anti-sparring bill, lost several days ago, was reconsidered yesterday in the senate by a vote of 17 to 13. It was put on final passage again, and lost by a vote of yeas 14, nays 15.

Marblehead at Algiers.

ALGIERS, May 16.—The United States cruiser Marblehead has arrived here from Naples. Salutes were exchanged between the warship and the troops ashore.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recomme dation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles.

FAVORITES OUT OF IT.

Hornpipe Comes In First and Captures the Coveted Brooklyn Handicap.

Lazzarone Finished Second, Sir Walter Third.

The Only Three Horses That Stood Any Show on the Home Stretch.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The Brooklyn handicap is over and Hornpipe is the winner, Lazzarone finishing second and Sir Walter third. Ramapo, the favorite, finished last. The crowd at Gravesend numbered about 15,000 people.

At 4:30 the bugle called the horses to the post for the big event. But a few minutes elapsed before all got away, but the start was too straggling, and they had to go back. There was a little more maneuvering, and at 4:45 Starter Rowe caught them in a good line, the red flag fell and it was followed by the roar, "They're off!" and the great opening race of the year had begun.

Counter Tenor was quickest on his feet and led the way for an instant with Dr. Rice close behind, followed by Sir Walter, Hornpipe, Declare, Ramapo, Rubicon, Lazzarone, Assignee, Ed Kearney, Rey El Santa Anita and Bassetlaw. The first quarter was passed in 25 seconds, with Assignee making the pace a nose in front of Ed Kearney, who was three parts of a length in front of Ramapo, a head in front of Sir Walter and Dr. Rice, with the rest following, with Bassetlaw a bad last.

Completely Out of the Race.

At the three-furlong pole Assignee had a good lead of three lengths and was going well, while Griffin was urging Ramapo to keep him up in the front.

At the half-mile pole, which was reached in 50 seconds, Ramapo was within half a length of Assignee, and was a length in advance of Sir Walter, who was a length ahead of Ed Kearney. Then came Dr. Rice, Taral quietly waiting for the last struggle, and Counter Tenor next. Murphy had urged Lazzarone into seventh place, a little ahead of Hornpipe, while Rubicon was next and beginning to fight. Rey El Santa Anita was in tenth place and Declare had joined Bassetlaw in the struggle for last place.

On the way to the five-furlong pole Ramapo tumbled back to the sixth place. Sir Walter took first place by a head from Assignee, with Ed Kearney on third place, Dr. Rice fourth, Counter Tenor fifth, Hornpipe next, Rubicon and the others following. Then Ed Kearney stumbled and was out of the race altogether, Penn pulling him up and cantering home slowly.

The three-quarter pole was reached in 1:47, and the great Ramapo was last of the bunch. Sir Walter was still in the lead and had half a length the better of Lazzarone. Hornpipe moved up. Counter Tenor moved into fourth place. Dr. Rice was in fifth place. Rey El Santa Anita was close behind him, with Assignee in seventh place.

The turn was in sight, and the seven-furlong pole at hand. Sir Walter could only get half a length in front of Hornpipe, who was half a length in front of Lazzarone, he three-quarters of a length in front of Counter Tenor. Taral was now trying to get Dr. Rice to the front, but it was of no avail.

A Slow Mile.

The mile post at the head of the stretch was reached in the slow time of 1:45, and the horses were straightened out for the judges' stand, only a quarter of a mile away. But there were only six horses in the race then. Sir Walter still had the lead by half a length, but Lazzarone had a head the better of Hornpipe. Counter Tenor was fourth, while Taral could not get Dr. Rice any higher in the line, with Rey El Santa Anita gaining on him, while the others were hopelessly out of it.

Down through the stretch the racers rushed, every jockey working his hardest to win what only one could. Sir Walter began to falter. Lazzarone got within a neck of him at the last furlong, while Hornpipe was only a short head behind. The others had not changed places, leaving only these three to do battle for the $10,000 prize.

Inch by inch Lazzarone crept past Sir Walter, and, as he did so, Hamilton came up with Hornpipe and began to pass Lazzarone, much to Murphy's surprise. Both jockeys were working as hard as they knew how, but Murphy saw Hamilton had the better horse under him and had to rest content with second place by half a length, while he was three lengths in front of the nearly exhausted Sir Walter, who was a length in front of Counter Tenor, followed closely by Rey El Santa Anita, Declare, Dr. Rice, Rubicon, Assignee, Bassetlaw and Ramapo, with Ed Kearney a quarter of a mile behind.

It was a true run race, with the exception of the favorite, Ramapo, who was undoubtedly beaten by Griffin's attempt to make a pace with top weight, when the first half mile was run in 50s. The time was 2:11¼.

To Close Up Shop.

BERLIN, May 16.—It is semi-officially announced that the reichstag will close on May 23. It is believed that under the circumstances the government has adopted the wisest course, as the aspect of the reichstag during the last few days has shown plainly that it would be impossible to keep a quorum.

Bid In For $2,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Pursuant to a decree of the court, all the property of the Pennsylvania Steel company was offered at auction yesterday and sold for $2,000,000, the purchaser and one bidder being the committee on reorganization, which represents all classes of creditors.

Receiver For Street Railway.

MILWAUKEE, May 16.—Application was made in the United States court here today for a receiver for the Milwaukee street railway properties. The company had defaulted on three sets of coupons, and is unable to meet the June obligations.

A Peculiar Strike.

PITTSBURG, May 16.—All the men in Oliver's Tenth street mill went out yesterday because the company would not sign the amalgamated scale. The company is willing to pay more than the amalgamated rate, but will not sign the scale.

Season Is Opened.

HALIFAX, May 16.—The first catch of spring mackerel on the coast of Nova Scotia was made yesterday, large stops of No. 1 being made off Yarmouth. The fish will be shipped to the United States.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

Tom O'Brien Must Answer to the Charge of Killing Reed Waddell.

PARIS, May 16.—The examination of Thomas O'Brien, the notorious American bunco steerer, for the murder of Reed Waddell, or "Kid" Waddell, at the Northern railway station on March 27, was held here yesterday. Both are well known in criminal annals, the murdered man having been a gold brick swindler.

REED WADDELL.

O'Brien is said to have swindled Americans out of $300,000, and was well known to the London police. He was extradited from London, in 1891, and taken to America, where he was imprisoned, but escaped. He narrowly escaped lynching at the railway station on the day he shot Waddell. Waddell lingered until April 4, when he died.

TOM O'BRIEN.

O'Brien has maintained the utmost coolness since his arrest. When the magistrate asked him why he killed Waddell, he said: "It was necessary that one of us should disappear. I knew him to be capable of everything, so I made a point of acting first. He got what he deserved."

The prisoner was committed for trial at the next session of the court of assizes for the department of the Seine.

Catholics Enjoined.

ROME, May 16.—The Observatore Romano publishes a letter, in which it is asserted that the pope says, that while the participation of Catholics in the administrative elections in Italy is praiseworthy, it is to be avoided in the case of political elections, for weighty reasons. For the conditions imposed in Italy upon the sovereign pontiff are such as to prevent him from assuming again that entire liberty and independence becoming his apostolic ministry.

Others May Get It.

HALIFAX, May 16.—Word comes from St. Lucia, W. I., of an outbreak there among British artillery troops of a serious epidemic of yellow fever. About 30 soldiers have already died. The troops will be invalided to England, and it is possible that batteries of royal artillery at this place will be sent to take their places.

A Horrible Tragedy.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Eli Williams, colored, while supposedly insane, started a fire in the cellar of his residence and then hit his wife, Mary, who was asleep in bed, on the head with an ax. As a finale to the tragedy the negro committed suicide by blowing out his brains with an old musket. The woman will die.

Considering Consolidation.

OMAHA, May 16.—In convention here, the Catholic Knights of Omaha considered the proposition of admitting all of the Catholic bodies of similar character in other states to consolidate with it. No definite action was taken, but the indications are that something of the kind will be done.

Ohio Bank Closes.

MASSILLON, O., May 16.—Great apprehension is felt because the German Deposit bank closed yesterday. It was explained that the bank was controlled absolutely by the late P. G. Albright, who died without leaving a will. Relatives say that Albright died perfectly solvent.

A Quick Decision.

ATCHISON, Kan., May 16.—The jury in the case of Jim Nutt, who made a murderous assault upon Leonard Coleman and Jessie Payton in this county last February, returned a verdict of guilty in the Coleman case last evening. The jury was out four minutes.

Silver Advocates Carry the Day.

QUINCY, Ills., May 16.—The Adams county Democratic convention to select delegates to the state silver convention in June resulted in a battle between the silverites and the sound money men, which was won by the former after lively discussion.

Searcy Sentenced.

STAFFORD COURT HOUSE, Va., May 16.—Charles J. Searcy was arraigned yesterday for his participation in the Aquia Creek train robbery and pleaded guilty. Searcy was sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years.

No Betting Allowed.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Warrants have been placed in the hands of the sheriff for the closing of the Harlem track. No attempt will be made to stop the racing, but no betting will be allowed.

Seven Coolies Killed.

SIMLA, May 16.—A telegram from Dir says the native tribesmen made a night attack upon the British post at Kambat. Seven coolies were killed and 20 wounded.

And Still They Come.

ALBANY, May 16.—It is said that indictments have been handed down against three assemblymen, charging them with having received bribes.

MAKE ME STEADFAST

Every one said that it was an absurd engagement. Every one pointed out with the air of having made the discovery himself that Laura Clayton and John Baxter were totally unsuited to each other. Old Mrs. Baxter spoke of it to her son with conviction, and Mrs. Clayton suggested it to her daughter delicately, as her manner was.

"What on earth would your father have said, John?" demanded his mother fiercely. "Is she intended for a country minister's wife? Look at the way she dresses! Look at her hair, done in the latest waves and knots! Look at her hands! I don't want to say anything against your happiness, John, but she's a butterfly! She has no stability of character! I'm even afraid that when the first glamour"—

Then John interposed with a few remarks which sent his mother from his study more than ever inclined to find fault with Laura Clayton.

What Mrs. Clayton said was:

"Darling, I don't wonder you are in love with John. He is the dearest boy and the best—so stanch, so true—I shall never worry about you. At least not so far as John is concerned."

"I see," laughed Laura. "You're afraid that I'll long for the fleshpots of Egypt, aren't you? And that I'll be the one to grow tired? When I'm the most constant person on earth, too, mamma!"

"Solid as ocean foam," quoted Mrs. Clayton, smiling and sighing a little. "Laura, dearest child, I don't want to croak, but are you sure you know your own heart? The Claytons—well"—she sighed again—"the Claytons are not cut out of granite. And you're a thorough Clayton, dear."

So it was that even their own households had doubts about the engagement of the young people. Every one knew that John Baxter stood for Puritan high mindedness and singleness of aim and heart, and every one knew that Laura Clayton with all her charm was a dancing sunbeam—never long still—that is, every one except John. Laura knew it. She felt her own unworthiness keenly enough without being told of it as frequently as she was. She humbled herself in her praying and asked daily to be made steadfast and good "like him," her petitions ran. Meantime there were those who were willing to wager on the breaking of the engagement before the end of the year, for John was to go to his first parish in a small town in another state, and the skeptical smiled at the thought of Laura Clayton's remaining of the same mind for a year.

At first the young woman behaved admirably. She eschewed gayety, and almost her only dissipations were afternoon musicales and teas. She wrote to John every day, and she slept with his latest letter beneath her pillow every night. She continued to pray for steadfastness and goodness "like his." Then, at the end of two months, Laura suddenly plunged into gayety again.

"My dearest mother," she said to her remonstrating parent, "I am not a Hindoo widow. I am not even married. When I am, I shall do exactly as John wishes. Meantime I shall not drive myself to suicide by never having any fun. You know I never see a man!"

"No," said Mrs. Clayton sweetly, "Arthur Holbrooke is rather a boy."

"I've known him since I was a baby."

"With the exception of the last four years, during which he has been away."

"Do you mean to say you think I'm flirting? Doesn't Arthur know of my engagement? Doesn't John know every time I see Arthur? You are horrid to me, mamma."

"My dear," sighed poor Mrs. Clayton, "I beg your pardon for seeming to interfere. I only want you to do nothing that you'll regret."

Whereupon Miss Laura flounced out of the room and wept over John's fortunately glass incased photograph for awhile. Then she went to walk with Arthur Holbrooke and told him her theories concerning friendship between men and women.

Meantime Mrs. Baxter wrote letters.

The more Laura found companionship of one sort and another essential to her happiness the more she despised the light nature she had always been credited with and the more ardently she desired those severe, Spartan virtues which her lover possessed. She grew morbid in the desire to be like him. She distrusted her most fleeting interests, her most cursory fancies. She strove with all the force of her undisciplined nature to make herself a person of one idea, and failing signally she condemned herself. Her letters to John were strange, self accusatory affairs which, added to his mother's epistles, destroyed the young man's peace of mind most effectually. Relying on his own strength of character, never doubting for an instant the unshakable nature of his regard for Laura, he began going for temporary comfort to one Miss Dorothea Granby, a member of his altar guild, and a girl rather given to wearing silver crosses and other ecclesiastical jewelry.

* * * * * * *

"Why doesn't Arthur Holbrooke come here any longer?" demanded Mrs. Clayton of her daughter one day.

Laura looked up strangely white and weary.

"I sent him away," she said indifferently.

"My dear! Then it came to that?"

"Yes."

"Are you regretting it, Laura, dear?" asked her mother gently.

"No."

"You didn't care for him?"

"No."

"I am so glad. Poor boy!" remarked Mrs. Clayton. "But, darling, you must not send him away out of a mistaken sense of loyalty. It would be a wrong to John, you know"—

"Don't," cried Laura, burying her face in her hands, and then she handed her mother a letter.

John released her from the engagement which all reports, her own included, agreed to be an irksome one to her. John begged her not to blame herself. It had been a mistake on both sides. He was more to blame than she, and Dorothea Granby had helped him to discover his fault.

That night, when she prayed, unconsciously the old prayer rose to her lips, "Make me steadfast and good, like him," she whispered, and then, remembering, she buried her face in the coverlid and cried.—New York World.

What He Admired.

"What did father say when you asked him for my hand?" asked the young woman.

"Oh," replied Augustus, "he—he did his best to be pleasant. He said there was something about me that he really admired."

"Did he say what?"

"Yes; my impudence."—Washington Star.

Kate Field's Troubles.

Kate Field's Washington has suspended publication, and Miss Field has sent out circulars to the subscribers informing them of the suspension, compelled by reason of ill health. The circular, which is characteristic, says: "An attack of grip, added to excessive work, forces me to give myself an interval of rest from the unceasing care of journalism. Without health life is a delusion, and as I have had no vacation for more than five years nature rebels. It is a physical as well as mental impossibility to give my personal attention to my paper, and I will take no risks by turning it over to outside management. The Washington is in good shape now to stop publication for awhile. It does not owe a dollar—has not a single debt. Such subscribers as have paid in advance will receive their money back. I have paid off my office people and got places for them—none turned out to shift for themselves."

Hanging Baskets.

Hanging baskets are always desirable for a handsome summer window garden, and it is of special importance to have them deep enough to hold plenty of soil, so that the roots will not lie against the sides of the porous pot and become scorched in the hot suns. The summer blooming oxalis is always satisfactory for this purpose, as the rich mass of foliage will soon droop down and cover the sides of the baskets, and the graceful spikes and clusters of bloom will continue to develop all summer long. The various tradescantias, with their handsome variegations, should also find a place in these hanging baskets. It is easily rooted from slips, and a small plant purchased now will produce many thrifty plans before warm weather if the branches are broken at all the joints and rooted in dishes of sand, and when planted in the baskets they will soon form ropes of handsome glossy foliage.—Exchange.

Two Japanese Women.

That is a sweet and valuable leaven which the two young Japanese women just now leaving the Chicago Baptist hospital, after the completion of their course as trained nurses, have cast about them. One of them was asked by the superintendent one day how she always managed to be so happy, and she said that the children in Japan were taught that, no matter what happened, they should always appear cheerful and not make others wretched.

These young women will return in July to their home and expect to open a hospital in Tokyo. One of them, Miss Sakaki, is the daughter of a member of the Japanese parliament, a very wealthy man, and the other, Miss Nagano, is the only child of a rich Japanese merchant. They have been in America nearly three years, pursuing a thorough course in the profession which they have adopted.—Chicago Correspondent.

A Dainty Summer Costume.

The material of the gown is summer silk showing a blue satin stripe upon black. The skirt is made with the usual flare, and while it is stiffened and stands out well still it does not appear, as the skirts that are overstiffened, to stand out beyond the underskirts. The bodice is slightly fulled in the back and draped across the front, writes Isabel A. Mallon in The Ladies' Home Journal. A square yoke of blue satin, like the stripe, is overlaid with coarse black lace, and the collar is of the black lace also, with two tiny rosettes in blue ribbon, one at each side of the center of the front. The sleeves are large and so lined that they stand out well, shaping into cuffs of blue satin overlaid with black lace. The belt is of broad blue satin ribbon folded about the waist, and falling in two long ends at the back, so that its width and beauty are seen.

Girls Save a Building From Burning.

The credit of saving the large railroad restaurant from destruction by fire at Rockingham Junction a few nights ago is due to the young ladies employed at the restaurant. Manager Graves gave each girl a water pail, and they mounted the roof, and by a systematic arrangement the water was passed up to them one pail at a time and emptied on to the slowly burning timber whenever it blazed out anew. It was an interesting sight, and the railroad officials have paid them a deserved compliment. Manager Graves made everything pleasant for all who assisted in saving the property. The female fire brigade is a grand success.—Manchester (N. H.) Union.

Miss Agnes Blackadder.

Dundee is becomingly proud of having produced the first lady M. A. of St. Andrew's in the person of Miss Agnes Blackadder of Broughty Ferry. Miss Blackadder was a distinguished pupil of a Dundee high school, where she carried off many prizes, and has done well at University college, where she is studying medicine, being one of the two pioneer "lady medicals" to whose agitation is due the throwing open to their sex of the Royal Infirmary at Dundee for the purposes of clinical research. Miss Blackadder, who is only 19, is a very pretty girl.—Glasgow Mail.

Women's Voting.

Some can remember when nine people out of ten laughed at the idea of women's voting. Part of the women are honestly opposed to woman suffrage on principle, believing it to be an injury to society, and others do not want to vote because it would give them trouble to inform themselves how to cast their ballots properly. When the latter see the duty they owe to others in helping to secure pure government, the majority of women will ask for woman suffrage.—Boston Morning Star.

Head of the List.

Miss Annie Hoyt of Hillsboro, O., has carried off the faculty gold medal of the Pulte Medical college in Cincinnati with marks 99 9-13 out of a possible 100. At the annual reunion of the Alumni association of the college in the Scottish Rite cathedral Miss Hoyt responded to the toast "The Class of 1895."

EVERYTHING SEEMS WRONG to the dyspeptic. The world is upside down; the times are out of joint; he's ready to turn his back upon his best friend.

Now, the thing that oftenest is wrong with dyspeptics, is their choice of a remedy. There are drugs and medicines on the one hand—the Carlsbad Sprudel on the other. They can't both be right; there's too much difference in their methods and in their results.

Carlsbad—the waters of the Sprudel Spring at Carlsbad have been curing dyspeptics for hundreds of years. Curing them. No remedy in the world has been so thoroughly tried and proved, in all digestive disorders, stomach troubles, lack of appetite, or perverted nutrition. Add a little of the genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salt to the first tumblerful of the water, if you desire to increase its purgative action.

Insist upon the genuine article, which must have the signature of "EISNER & MENDELSON CO., Sole Agents, New York," on every bottle.

TRIBUTES OF RESPECT.

Church Ceremonials and Civic Honors For Archbishop Williams.

Elaborate Commemoration of His Golden Anniversary.

Highest Representatives of the Catholic Church In America Pay Their Respects.

BOSTON, May 17.—Golden in every aspect, secular and ecclesiastical alike, and glowing also in aureate memories for those who participated, were the festivities of yesterday, the opening of the series devoted to the sacerdotal golden jubilee of the first archbishop of Boston.

The day might fittingly resolve itself into two portions, the earlier assigned to the imposing ceremonials of religious ritual, and the later to the felicitous commingling of lay and clerical jubilation.

High officials from all over the country gathered at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in the morning to do honor to Archbishop Williams by celebrating with fitting display the jubilee.

Of course, the archbishop himself was the central figure, and as celebrant of the pontifical high mass he was clothed in golden robes and wore on his head the peaked archbishop's cap. On the richly draped throne at the gospel side of the sanctuary, where the archbishop usually takes his position, was seated Cardinal Gibbons, whose eminence as the highest official present was marked by the brilliant coloring of his robe and the small cardinal cap.

Assemblage of High Dignitaries

On the other side of the sanctuary, seated on the delegate's seat between two white-robed chaplains, was the delegate from Pope Leo XIII himself, Archbishop Satolli; while on the right of the cardinal's throne, between him and the sanctuary rail, there were seated the 20 or more visiting archbishops and bishops, the rich purple of their robes harmonizing finely with the deeper purple of the desks before them, and serving to set off the snowy whiteness of the robes of their priests in the benches behind.

But little attempt was made to enhance the effect of the scene with decorations, for, besides a display of beautiful lilies on the altar, only a few potted plants and palms were distributed about the sanctuary. The lights upon the altar, however, the carefully modulated glow of daylight falling upon its marble whiteness from the windows above—through which in passing the rays almost seemed to absorb and diffuse the spirit of the sacred figures thereon depicted—this, with the presence of many priests and prelates before the altar and of 400 of the clergy of New England in the pews nearest the sacristy doors, was sufficient to impress the vast body of people that filled the great building with the solemnity of the occasion.

Presentation of the Chalice.

After the preliminary ceremonies, Archbishop de Goesbriand passed from his place in the sanctuary down the aisle, preceded by a priest bearing a magnificent golden chalice, which had been brought from Rome, and which received the blessing of the pope on Easter morning. Archbishop de Goesbriand made a short address, in which he alluded to Archbishop William's 50 years of service in the church and to his influence among his people in Boston, and then presented the chalice to the archbishop in the name of the clergy of the province of Boston.

The sermon was by Rt. Rev. Bishop Bradley, who took for his text, "And the people were joyful in the sign of the sanctuary."

After the sermon came the completion of the celebration, in which Rev. Nicholas Walsh acted as deacon and Rev. Edward Connolly as sub-deacon. Rev. Thomas J. McCormack and Rev. Hugh O'Donnell were masters of ceremonies, and the assistant priest was Very Rev. William Byrne. The music was given by an augmented chorus of 150 voices.

The Banquet.

The banquet hall was as densely crowded last night as the cathedral was during the morning exercises. Tables were spread for 1000 upon the capacious floor of Music hall, while the galleries were crowded. The hall was a bower of beauty, the tables being handsomely decorated with choice cut flowers, while the walls and ceilings were covered with bunting, interspersed with the American flags and draperies.

When Archbishop Williams arrived, a roar of applause burst from the audience. It had but just subsided when it broke forth again as Mgr. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons appeared. Governor Greenhalge was also heartily greeted. Archbishop Williams took his place at the head of the guest table, with Cardinal Gibbons and Governor Greenhalge on his right, and Mgr. Satolli, Alderman Allen and Archbishop Corrigan on his left. The menu was elaborate.

After the banquet, Father Ronan of Dorchester, who acted as toastmaster, opened the exercises with a brief address, ending with an introduction of Rev. Thomas Magennis, who gave the address for the clergy.

Thomas B. Fitzpatrick followed, responding for the laity of the Catholic church.

The Archbishop's Gratitude.

Archbishop Williams then arose to make response to the address of the representatives of the clergy and laity. His movement was the signal of such applause as has seldom been heard at a public meeting. The archbishop began by saying that this was the happiest day that he had passed in 50 years. "In reply to the addresses presented," he continued, "I have to say to my clergy that I have always had confidence in them and could rely upon them. The clergy and laity have always responded to any call made by me, and they have been most instrumental in the success of this archdiocese. I have to thank all those who have come to do us honor.

"Our hearts are full of gratitude to our holy father, the pope, for his many kind acts to us in Boston. After a day of various emotions, in which I have heard a great many exaggerations of what I have done, let me tell you that I have only been the standard bearer, and when you salute a standard bearer, you salute all those who fought with him. In conclusion, I trust the Union will remain at peace; that the country will be prosperous, and that dear old Boston will have special blessings."

The Responses.

Mgr. Satolli was the next speaker, and after reading the papal letter his address was read by his secretary, Dr. Rooker.

Governor Greenhalge followed. He paid both official and personal tribute to the worth and valuable life of the archbishop as a citizen of the commonwealth and a leader of men.

Cardinal Gibbons was to have spoken on the "American Hierarchy," but said he would ask the favor of being allowed to speak of a member of the American hierarchy—John J. Williams, archbishop of Boston. After this introduction, the cardinal delivered a eulogy on the archbishop and an historical sketch of the diocese of Boston since 1844.

Alderman Allen, who was present in place of Mayor Curtis of Boston, spoke for the municipality. His remarks closed the day's exercises.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 17.—The senate adopted an order for an investigation of the methods of the Boston departments, a la Lexow. The order provides for a joint committee of the senate and house to sit jointly during the legislative recess. The house voted to reduce the state fire marshal's salary to $3500; the treasury committee reported against the bill increasing the insurance commissioner's salary to $5000, and a number of minor salary bills were engrossed or rejected. The house restored the original appropriation of $10,000 to enable the state to be properly represented at the dedication of the national military park on the battlefields of Chickamauga and Chattanooga. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment to the children's aid bill. The bill authorizing the Brookline Gas company to lay its pipes across Fort Point channel was enacted. The house substituted a bill providing for a commission to investigate the claim of Worcester that the state should reimburse that city for a portion of the expense of constructing its new sewer system. The bill authorizing Spiritualists to solemnize marriage was engrossed. The bill authorizing Boston to borrow $1,000,000 for the completion of the strandway was ordered to a third reading in the house, as was the bill for the further prevention of gambling.

Hawaii's Return to the Monarchy Said to Be Only a Question of Time.

Plan to Place Princess Kaiulani on the Throne.

Ex-Minister Thurston Credited With Being at the Head of the Scheme.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—Private letters received from Honolulu declare that a change of administration will soon occur there, and that the change is advocated by no less an important personage than ex-Minister Thurston. At a recent conference between Mr. Thurston and President Dole and members of his cabinet, the former declared that the only hope of permanent peace on the islands will be in placing Princess Kaiulani in the position which the former monarchy proposed that she should some day have.

PRINCESS KAIULANI

Mr. Thurston is reported to have advocated this step so strongly that President Dole and his cabinet became alarmed, and have since given the matter

Many Hours of Consideration.

There is probably no one who understands Hawaii's position better than Mr. Thurston, and it did not take him long after his arrival in Honolulu to fully appreciate the danger that threatens the republic.

Passengers on the Australian, although not anxious to have their opinions and names appear in print, have confided the fact that the republic is on its last legs.

"An alarm is likely to be sounded any night," remarked one passenger, "and if it is, you can expect to hear of the downfall of the republic. There is no escape for it. The people are dissatisfied, and particularly the Americans, who, if aroused, will find at their sides all the assistance they need to effect a change in the government.

"Various big organizations are breaking away from President Dole, and opposing forces, which were somewhat subdued after the recent uprising by the show of arms made by the government,

Are Now Becoming Bolder.

"Ex-Minister Thurston's uneasiness has become apparent to the opposing forces that later have gained more courage. The fact that Mr. Thurston favors a change is no longer a secret, and when we left Honolulu it was then common talk that he was then planning to carry out to a successful end the reversion of the republic to the monarchy."

Building Collapsed.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., May 17.—Early this morning the power house of the Lynn and Boston railroad here collapsed, and the building is a complete wreck. The roof fell in owing to the sinking of one side of the structure where the piling was weak. Norman Bishop, the only employe in the building, heard the crash in time to escape before the roof fell. Twenty cars and seven snowplows were considerably damaged. The loss is over $5000.

Republican Representation.

The Republican State committee at a meeting, Thursday, fixed the basis of representation for the state, congressional, councillor, county and senatorial conventions next fall. There is to be one delegate at large for each ward of a city and for each town; one delegate for the first 75 votes cast for the Republican candidate for governor in 1894 in each ward of a city and in each town; one delegate for each succeeding 150 votes cast for the Republican candidate for governor in 1894, in each ward of a city and in each town, or for a fractional part as large as 75 votes so cast.

The basis of representation for representative conventions is one delegate at large for each ward of a city and for each town; one delegate for every 25 votes cast for the Republican candidate for governor in 1894, in each ward of a city and in each town which is entitled to send delegates to a district convention held to nominate one or more candidates for the legislature.

The increased Republican vote in this city and the new basis entitles each ward to much larger representation at the Representative convention which will this year nominate two candidates. The number for each year is given below. The basis to the State and other conventions is the same as last year, but the city gains two, one each in Wards Three and Five.

The summary gives the vote for Gov. Greenhalge in 1894 and the representation to all conventions for both years.

	Vote of 1894	Representative Convention 1895	Representative Convention 1894	State and other Conventions 1895	State and other Conventions 1894

The delegates to the recent International convention will speak at the Men's meeting Sunday at 3 30. They will give an account of some of the interesting addresses and events which they heard and saw.

The convention at Springfield and the conference were far ahead of any previous gathering in the scope of work considered. The wonderful opportunities for work along educational lines, and the need of greater attention to social problems were thoroughly discussed.

Unless all signs fail the next two years will witness the great progress along these lines, through the Association, ever witnessed in the history of the world. To those who were present, the wonderful magnitude of the fields opening up was a revelation.

Settled Ahead of Time.

LONDON, May 17.—In compliance with the agreement under which the British men-of-war withdrew from Nicaragua, on condition that the smart money, amounting to $75,000, demanded by Great Britain for the expulsion of Consul Hatch be paid in London within 15 days, that amount was yesterday covered into the treasury of Great Britain on behalf of Nicaragua by Senor Chrisanto Medina, minister to London for Salvador, who has acted for Nicaragua in London throughout the episode thus closed. Nicaragua had until May 20 to pay the indemnity under the terms of agreement, which allowed her 15 days after the British warships left Corinto. The departure of the British took place May 4.

The strikers say they will not return, under any circumstances, unless the manufacturers come to terms.

Law Violated at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, May 17.—It is said that the manner of betting at Gravesend was conducted in violation of the law. It is held that when bookmakers advertised their calling by dressing in a certain way, or had the old paraphernalia, with the exception of tickets, they committed an offense which was likely to send them to prison for felony.

MILTON

Every once in a while some of the young boys of Milton become possessed of the idea that they must destroy property and when they do they usually carry out their desire. Some time recently these boys thought it would be a good idea to smash windows, etc., and the houses selected were four unoccupied buildings owned by Charles E. Stratton. At these houses the boys smashed windows, doors and blinds and did other damage to the amount of $150. The matter was placed in the hands of Chief Pierce and as a result he summoned into court this morning seven boys whose ages range from 7 to 15 years who answer to the name of Nathan Talbot, Charles Talbot, Nathaniel Perkins, Harry Martin, John Martin, Thomas Haley and Walter Kerwin who were arraigned and the cases continued until next week.

School Attendance.

Supt. Lull's report of Quincy schools for the month ending May 3, shows 3,770 enrolled in our public schools an increase of 228 over the March report.

The Wollaston school is becoming one of the largest in the city, the report showing an enrollment of just 400, but three buildings having more scholars. In attendance however the Wollaston is below the Coddington.

The total average attendance was 3,626, an increase of 316 over March, and 153 over April of 1894.

The per cent. of daily attendance is the best for some time, being over 97 per cent. The Coddington led with over 98 per cent.

Beginning with this month a visitor is counted but once for the whole building, not once for each room as in the past. The Coddington and Lincoln lead in visits, the former receiving nearly 20 each day.

The High, Lincoln and Washington report no cases of truancy, and the High and Coddington very few cases of tardiness.

The report:

Inter-School Base Ball.

The grammar school nines of the city put up some very good ball games almost every afternoon after school, attracting large audiences. Thursday the Adams and Coddington met near the Quincy Adams depot and played an interesting game. The score was a large one and the scorers do not agree as to the result, but the Coddingtons claim the victory by a score of 37 to 34 as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Coddingtons,	1	0	8	11	1	2	9	5	0	—37
Adams,	2	3	0	7	4	5	6	3	4	—34

A little more care should be taken in keeping the score. Keep it by innings, boys, and compare totals at the end of each inning.

The Coddingtons have won five games out of nine, defeating the Washingtons, 1; Graduates, 1; Picked nine, 1; and Adams, 2. They have lost 1 to the Graduates, 1 to Lincolns, and 2 to the Washingtons.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

Mr. Nash was given a lively game cock during the evening and its antics immeasely tickled the audience.

The two new open summer cars for the B. R. & H. street railway have arrived from the Jackson & Sharp Manufacturing Company at Wilmington, Delaware.

The cars were side tracked at South Braintree, but will undoubtedly be taken to Braintree and removed from the flat cars today. They are pronounced by those who have peeped under the canvas that covers them to be about the prettiest summer cars ever built.

Work on repairing the track at Mayflower Park is being rapidly pushed and the Braintree part of the track will soon be put in better condition.

Tuesday forenoon, while examining the bottom of a car of the 10.15 out bound train in the Old Colony depot, Mr. Holland of Hall avenue, South Braintree, had one of his legs terribly crushed under the wheels.

Mr. J. B. Poore, who has been missing for about ten days, returned yesterday to Braintree. He has been in Chicago.

The Braintree Pine Tree club are to have their annual supper at the Town Hall, Tuesday, May 21. A nice time may be expected.

Mr. John V. Scollard leaves town June 1 for Hartford, Connecticut, where he will take charge of the shoe factory of Herbert Glazier & Co.

It is expected that an organ recital will be given at the Baptist church next Wednesday. This will introduce the new pipe organ to the public.

Mrs. Saltonstall of Wollaston moved her furniture into the Dow place this week. She will have a large hennery in the building at the rear of the lot.

Yesterday afternoon there came near being a big fire in South Braintree. A barn owned by Mr. John Carmichael caught in one corner and owing to the high wind the fire instantly spread to the roof.

There is a dredging machine at work about half way between Sheppard's coal wharf and the toll bridge in East Braintree.

It is proposed to deepen the channel so that there shall be at least six feet of water at low tide.

The work is being done under the act of the legislature for river and harbor improvement. The big machine came up early this week for a probable two weeks' visit.

Quincy Man in Swimming.

The Globe says Patrolmen Russell and Critchett of the Joy street station were in the vicinity of Craig bridge at 11.20 last night, when they heard cries for assistance coming from the river. They ran to the bridge and saw a man floating in the water, whom they speedily hauled out, and sent to the station in the patrol wagon. The rescued man proved to be Dennis Cashman, 41 years of age, who belongs in Quincy. Cashman said that he had fallen into the river from one of the railroad bridges but being a good swimmer, had managed to keep afloat until he was rescued. He was cared for at the station for the night, and will return to Quincy by rail today.

First Apple Blossoms.

The following table gives the date on which apple trees each season were earliest in bloom in Massachusetts, for nearly one hundred years. The record for the first 59 years was kept by Isaac Stearns at Mansfield, Massachusetts, and for the last 37 by Dr. Fisher at Fitchburg. This completes a record of 96 years, and is worthy of preservation. The earliest season was in 1830 when apple trees were in blossom May 9; the latest in 1882, when they did not blossom until June 5:

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

THE BIRDS' OIL CANS.

How the Feathered Tribe Protect Themselves In Rainy Weather.

Ted's eyes opened wide with surprise. "Oh!"

Two birds were sitting on the hedge in the yard, enjoying the rain hugely—if one could judge from their merry "Che-e! che-e! che-che!"

"They don't mind the rain," laughed grandpa, "for their little oil cans have done them a good service today."

"Whoever heard of a bird having an oil can? Birds don't have lamps, do they?" And Ted moved away from the window with an air of positive unbelief.

"They don't have any lamps, for they use their oil for something else," laughed grandpa, more heartily than before.

"Didn't you ever see the hens use their oil cans?"

"No!" replied Ted shortly.

"Well," continued grandpa, "every bird has a little oil can—some call it an oil gland, but it means just the same thing. This tiny oil can or gland is placed at the base of the tail. It is of great value to birds, for they don't always have a home to shelter them, and it would be very disagreeable to them to be drenched to the skin every time it rains. To prevent this they have their little oil cans. They dip their little bills into their tiny cans and cover them with oil, and then they rub the oil over their feathers, and it thus makes their feathers waterproof—in fact, Ted, they all have a gossamer for rainy weather."

"Do they all have an oil can?" inquired Ted, with delight. "The hens too?"

"Yes, indeed," answered grandpa. "Now, Ted, get the umbrella, and we will go down to the barn, and who knows but that we shall find the hens using their oil cans, so they can go out for a worm!"

Sure enough! When Ted reached the barn Old Speckle and Bright Eyes were just putting on their gossamers!

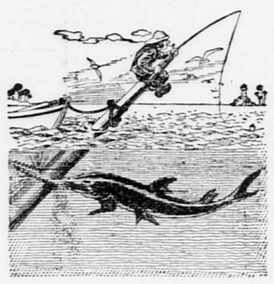

"See, grandpa!" And Ted laughed outright at the novel sight.

"Grandpa, you must know lots of funny things! I never knew that before—'bout the birds' oil cans!" And Ted took hold of grandpa's hand lovingly as he spoke.

"'Tis rather queer, I'll admit," laughed grandpa.—Young Idea.

The Secret of His Success.

A lady once crossed a street where a little boy was busily sweeping the crossing. She noticed with pleasure the care with which he did his work and smiled as she said to him, "Yours is the cleanest crossing I pass." He lifted his cap with a gallant air and quickly said, "I am doing my best."

All day the words rang in her ears, and for many days afterward, and when a friend, a rich, influential man, inquired for a boy to do errands and general work for him, she told him of the little fellow at the crossing. "A boy who would do his best at a street crossing is worth a trial with me," said the man, and he found the boy, engaged him for a month, and at the end of that time was so pleased with him that he sent him to school and fitted him for a high position, which he filled with honor. "Doing my best at the street crossing made a successful man of me," he was wont to say in after years.—Home.

A Model Child.

Her temper's always sunny; her hair is ever neat;
She doesn't care for candy—she says it is too sweet!
She loves to study lessons—her sums are always right,
And she gladly goes to bed at eight every single night!

Her apron's never tumbled; her hands are always clean;
With buttons missing from her shoe she never has been seen.
She remembers to say, "Thank you," and "Yes, ma'am, if you please,"
And she never cries, nor frets, nor whines; she's ne'er been known to tease.

Each night upon the closet shelf she puts away her toys;
She never slams the parlor door, nor makes the slightest noise,
But she loves to run on errands and to play with little brother,
And she's never in her life been known to disobey her mother.

"Who is this charming little maid?
I long to grasp her hand!"
She's the daughter of Mr. Nobody,
And she lives in Nowhereland!

ROYAL FLUSHES A DELUSION.

They Come Once In a While, but Do Not Always Win Much.

"These stories about men making big winnings by accidentally catching a straight flush when luck seemed down on them make me very weary," said an amateur poker player, who has been "poking" off and on for about 18 years, playing, however, nothing more imposing than "penny ante."

"I always class such stories with snake stories and fishing tales," the player went on. "There may be some truth in them, but I have never had any such luck—and I have held my own very well at 'penny ante' too.

"I have had just two 'royal flushes' in my experience. So far as the accidental and surprising part of them was concerned, that was all right, but for the big winnings—I never saw them. On the contrary, on both occasions, my opponents—I was playing two handed games each time—'lay down' on me unceremoniously. And I don't think I gave my hand away either.

"The first royal flush I ever had the fortune to hold in my hand was about six years ago, when I was having a quiet little game with an old friend. It was a modest 'jackpot.'

"My opponent opened it for a nickel—the limit. I skinned my hand, but could not find a pair. A king and queen of hearts looked pretty, and I chipped in my nickel and drew to them.

"Imagine my surprise when an ace, a ten and a jack of hearts came to me. I kept mighty quiet, hoping to make a 'killing.'

"My opponent threw in a nickel chip, and I saw it and raised it the nickel limit. He lay down. He had not bettered a measly pair of jacks.

"The other time I had a royal flush was about a year and a half ago. My opponent asked me if I had ever had one and said that he had not.

"The second hand after his remark I had the 'age,' and he staid in. I had a queen, jack and ten of clubs and thought I would try for a straight or flush. The king and then the ace of clubs came to me.

"My opponent skinned his hand and then said, 'I'll give it to you.' He had only an ace high, with king next.

"I showed him my hand, and he volubly congratulated himself that he had not 'bettered' his draw, while I—well, I never swear in company, but I felt mighty like it."—Kansas City Star.

Prince Charlie.

He was a young Prince Charming, beautiful, brave, capable of enduring hardships and, till his misfortune soured him, not only kind, but of an uncommon and almost impolitic humanity. Well might Walton, the spy, pronounce him, with the blood of John Sobieski in his veins, "a far more dangerous enemy to the present establishment of the government in England than ever his father was."

In those days, when a king of some sort was a necessity, England seemed to have in Charles a king born to be adored. But the tendency of things was invincibly against him. He appears, I own to myself, to have had better qualities than any man of his line since the fourth James fell at Flodden. There was nothing in his Scotch expedition, till the fatal morrow of Culloden, that did not become a gentleman and a king. The Cameronians, a feeble, but virulent remnant of the auld leaven of the covenant, publicly blamed his "foolish lenity and pity" to the "redcoats whom Providence put into his hands."

If his courage is accused, so has that of Marlborough been, and the evidence of Malcolm McLeod, "never was a man not a coward so prudent, nor a man not rash so brave," may be taken as disposing of a childishly malevolent accusation. He was gentle and considerate till misfortune taught him suspicion and hope deferred made the heart sick. The exposure, which he bore so gallantly in the highlands, and the habits of that country, taught him his fatal vice, which corrupted and debased a character naturally noble and generous.—Scribner's Magazine.

He Returned the Tip.

The Bristol (England) Mercury says that while Paderewski, the pianist, was in a nearby town recently he received a courteously worded letter asking to allow an invalid lady to call upon him and hear him play one piece, promising in return for "this great treat" a douceur of half a guinea, which was tendered with much apology. The letter was so worded as to be a courteous and delicate appeal to the pianist's generosity. The letter had the desired effect, and he appointed a time. Punctual to the moment, the lady appeared, and Paderewski played her a few pieces. The lady thanked him and slipped the promised half guinea in the most gracious mode of tip giving into his palm. "Ah! what is this?" blandly asked the pianist. "The half guinea I promised you." "I really believe," he answered, with a smile, "that I shall be able to get to the next town without it," saying which he returned the proffered largesse, bowed the lady out and sat down to his interrupted breakfast.

The Tramp's Opportunity.

Queer things happen in this world. A tramp took refuge in an old graveyard in Georgia and prepared for a sound night's rest between two graves. About the hour when churchyards are supposed to "yawn" he was awakened by a strange noise, and on looking up he discovered an escaped convict in the act of filing his shackles. As the tramp stood up the convict, in superstitious terror, fell upon his knees, whereupon the tramp arrested him, delivered him over to the authorities at the camp near by and received a reward of $20.—Atlanta Constitution.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 19. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The story of Pilate and its warnings.—Math. xxvii, 17-39.

Pontius Pilate was the sixth Roman governor of Judæa. He was appointed A. D. 25-76 in the twelfth year of Tiberius and reigned until A. D. 36. The principal event of his life was his relation to the trial, condemnation and execution of the Lord Jesus Christ, and it is from this standpoint that we are to study his life and its warnings.

1. Pilate's life warns us against moral cowardice. Pilate was not a physical coward. He was a brave soldier on the field of battle, but he was a moral coward. He was afraid to do right in the face of the possibility of losing the political position that he occupied if he did it. He knew Christ was innocent. He acknowledged it, for he said, "I have found no fault in Him," and yet when the Jews charged that he would not be Cæsar's friend if he set Christ free he yielded to his fear of man and delivered Christ to be crucified. Yet this did not save him from political disaster. Through difficulty with the Samaritans he was sent to Rome to answer charges against him and lost his kingdom and is said afterward to have taken his own life. This is a terrible warning against moral cowardice. We should never fear to say no to evil. We should never fear to do right. Our only fear should be to do what is wrong in the sight of God.

2. Pilate's life warns us against trying to shift our responsibilities upon others. When Pilate heard that Jesus was a Galileean, he sent Him to Herod of Galilee, thinking that He would place the responsibility upon Herod of condemning or acquitting Him, but Herod returned Him. When at last Pilate consented to release Jesus, he took water and washed his hands, as if to cleanse himself of the guilt of Christ's blood, and said to the Jews: "I am innocent of the blood of this just person. See ye to it." But all the water in Christendom would not have cleansed Pilate's hands. He was the ruler and not the people. He was the judge and not they. Although so willing to have His blood upon their heads, they could not take Pilate's guilt upon them. We are every one individually responsible to God for our actions. We cannot place this responsibility upon any one else. Each one must answer for himself, and himself alone, to God. What a solemn thought! Individually responsible to God!

3. Pilate's life warns us against rejecting Christ. Christ stood before Pilate, but the day is coming when Pilate will stand before Christ, and it were better for him if he had never been born. Christ now stands before us, but soon we will stand before Christ. What are you doing with Jesus, the King of the Jews? Answer for eternity.

Bible Readings.—Isa. xiv, 12-16; Prov. xxix, 25; Eccl. xii, 13; Math. xviii, 1-4; xxvii, 22; Mark viii, 35-37; Luke xxiii, 5-7; John xii, 25; xix, 12, 13; Acts iv, 18, 19; v, 27-29; Rom. xii, 2, 10; xiv, 12; I John ii, 15-17.

Social Obligations.

Christian Endeavor has a social side. It assumes social obligations, and it exerts a social influence. The chief end of Christian Endeavor is not the discharge of social duties, and this is not the most important business of the society. This should be borne in mind. But when this is said it remains that the social obligations of the Endeavor society are of great importance. One of the important committees is that which has charge of the social work of the society. The extending of social courtesies to individuals and the providing of social entertainment for the members and their friends may exert a very important influence upon the popularity and efficiency of the society. Recreation and amusement are a want of our nature. Especially is this true of young people. Moreover, it is right and fit that Endeavorers should act in concert in providing for this want. It is well that the society as an organization should, in a degree at least, give direction to the social life of the members.—National Presbyterian.

True Christian Endeavor.

In one Christian Endeavor society of Australia was a young lady who offered herself to the mission field. The missionary board of her denomination was not financially able to send her out, but her Christian Endeavor society at once took up the matter, fixed upon an annual contribution that they themselves would make and canvassed the church for the remainder, so that now they have guaranteed her permanent support.—Golden Rule.

Where Heaven Is.

Where the good man stands with his eye on God is heaven. Where the wicked man cowers is hell. No longer joy gilds the guilt, and misery no longer vexes the goodness. The setting free of joy and sorrow from their long unnatural attachments to seek their fitness of character—that is the coming in of the King; that is the judgment day.—Phillips Brooks.

Proverbs.

Sleep much, weep much.

Unbridled passions bridle the soul.

The secret of popularity is personality.

Fallen man's only hope is a risen Christ.

The Christian's sole aim should be a soul aim.

Until we are willing to pray we cannot be ready to work.

Sin lions cannot hurt the man who lives close by the Lamb.

The weak kneed Christian is the one who seldom exercises his knees.

Open hearts, with closed purses, satisfy no neighbor's hunger.

The fires of ambition often end only in smoke, and cigarette smoke at that.—W. T. Ellis.

An Old Fashioned Girl.

Revolt my Myrtle never chose,
Nor comely gentleness derided.
No cylinders her limbs inclose;
Her simple skirt is not divided.
She neither swears nor bets nor smokes,
Zola she hasn't read a word of,
Nor takes delight in doubtful jokes,
Like some young ladies that I've heard of.

She is not forward in her speech,
Nor yet too silent to be winning;
A kiss for one, a smile for each,
Too frank for fear, too pure for sinning.
She does not overdress, and yet
Is always trim and neat and tidy—
Thanks to her mother, pretty pet,
For she was eight months old last Friday.

STORIES OF THE DAY.

He Did the Job, but Ruined All the Furniture.

"In the early telephone days," said an old timer, "we had some curious experiences.

"A doctor in Cincinnati ordered a telephone put in his front parlor. We sent a man to do it. He brought his wire in through the window frame.

"Not having a stepladder handy, the fellow moved the piano around the room, and by placing a chair on top of it was able to attach his wire to the lower part of the frieze, near the ceiling, and carry it nearly around the room to the instrument.

"Our man came back and reported the 'phone installed. Next day the doctor called on our general manager.

"'I want you to send a paper hanger up to my house and get me a new piano,' says he.

"'What for?' says our manager.

"'Send a man up, and you'll see,' says the doctor.

"I was sent out to investigate and found the top of the piano ruined by chair marks and the imprints of hobnailed shoes.

"The wall paper was adorned with a prominent frescoing of dirty finger marks, and the job of wiring was a sight. We had to paper the room, do the wiring again and get a new top put on the M. D.'s piano.

"And in spite of numerous experiences of this kind those were the halcyon days of easy money in the telephone business."—Electrical Review.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 17.—Henry A. Gage, a veteran printer and newspaper man of this city, died last night, aged 76 years. He was the inventor of the Gage plow paper cutter.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

PACIFICATOR CAMPOS.

The Spanish General's Suggestions For Securing Peace In Cuba.

Home Rule the Principal Basis of Settlement.

Spain, However, Must Observe Pledges More Strictly Than In the Past.

HAVANA, May 17.—General Campos has advised the Spanish government to allow him to institute a series of reforms in Cuba as a means of bringing the rebellion to an end. It was by such means that General Campos brought the former rebellion to an end.

On Feb. 10, 1878, Campos issued a proposal of reforms, embracing eight articles, including amnesty to all who had borne arms, surrender of the rebel bands in private, where they would not be subject to humiliation, liberation of the slaves, a reform of the government, giving the same privileges already enjoyed by Porto Rico, and release of all prisoners.

This was accepted by the rebels, and the uprising, which had lasted 10 years, was closed. General Campos was given the name of "The Pacificator," which has since been applied to him. Spain was slow, however, in carrying out the promised plan of reform, and it is claimed that some of the Promises Were Never Kept.

This has stimulated the present outbreak.

It is said that an offer of settlement at the present time in order to be acceptable to the rebel leaders would have to include autonomy, or home rule for Cuba, expenditure of income from Cuban taxes on internal improvements instead of for Spanish war and naval expenses, amnesty to all engaged in the present uprising, and the full execution of reforms promised in 1878.

A few months ago the Queen Regent of Spain assented to a plan by which a certain approach to home rule was granted to Cuba, but the rebellion broke out, and Spain thereupon she was about to grant. It is said these now will be put into operation as a part of the plan of settlement.

Suspended the Reforms

The conservative classes of Cuba are said to be anxious for such a settlement, and the radical element, it is thought, is too much reduced by defeats to lose the opportunity of an honorable peace, assuring their personal safety.

The scheme proposed would secure Spain's continued sovereignty over Cuba, and yet would give the island a colonial form of government.

Railroad Fatality.

SARATOGA, May 17.—A New York express on the Delaware and Hudson division was wrecked and the engine ditched about two miles south of this place. Fireman Lamborson was killed and Engineer Meyers severely bruised. Seventy-five passengers were badly shaken up, and several of them received painful bruises. The accident was caused by a heavily laden freight car, which had broken loose from a train, colliding with the express.

River Full of Logs.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 17.—Seven million feet of logs are stalled in the Merrimac river opposite this city, the drive of A. L. Brooks & Co. of Lowell having reached here yesterday. A gang of 65 men are managing the drive, which could not be started over the falls on account of repairs which are being made to the Amoskeag bridge. It will take three weeks for the drive to pass this city.

Balfour at the Bar of Justice.

LONDON, May 17.—Jabez Spencer Balfour was again arraigned in court yesterday to answer further charges of fraud. Part of the evidence taken related to the diversion of funds from the Building Securities company toward speculations in land in which Lord Sudeley was concerned. Balfour drew from the building company for these purposes £7770 ($38,850).

Dealt In Real Estate.

BOSTON, May 17.—William N. Langley, 41 years old, is under arrest on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public in conjunction with Charles Stuckland, real estate dealer. Stuckland was arrested some time ago on a charge of selling real estate for many times more than its value, through false statements. It is alleged that Langley was interested in the deal.

Second Wreck.

HOUGHTON, Mich., May 17.—The glycerine house of the Hancock Chemical company at the Woodside dynamite factory was blown up yesterday. One life was lost and several persons were severely injured. The works were blown up on March 15, and one man was killed. The works had just been rebuilt.

A Tragic Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 17.—John W. Murray, aged 23 years, assistant stage manager of the "Aladdin, Jr.," company, now playing at the Broadway theater, shot himself yesterday through the heart in the presence of two friends and died instantly. He died to "end his troubles."

Pension Figures.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Assistant Secretary Sims of the interior department signed requisitions yesterday for $10,140,000 for quarterly payment of pensions at six agencies. The amounts in New England were: Boston, $1,700,000; Augusta, $670,000.

The Japs In Corea.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 17.—It is learned from Japanese sources that, in accordance with the arrangements arrived at with the powers, Japan will withdraw her garrisons from Corea at about the end of the present year.

No Improvement.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—There has been no improvement in the condition of Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton). The paralysis of the left side, due to a clot on the brain, shows no change.

Third Attempt Was Successful.

SPRINGVALE, Me., May 17.—Edward H. Littlefield, a farmer, living near here, hanged himself yesterday. This was his third attempt within a few years.

Troops In Open Revolt.

TIEN-TSIN, May 17.—The troops stationed at Shan-Hai-Kwan openly revolted last evening (May 16) and looted the city. The people are fleeing.

Sierra Ashore.

HALIFAX, May 17.—Schooner Sierra ran ashore on Georges island while going out the harbor.

ARMENIAN ABUSES.

Powers' Suggestions May Not Have the Desired Effect, After All.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17.—The note presented to the sultan by the representatives of the powers, respecting reforms in Armenia, comprises 25 closely written quarto pages. Among the measures preliminary to the reforms, the note demands the appointment of a high commissioner, general amnesty for and release of all political prisoners, the revision of certain judgments and the appointment of a commission to sit at Constantinople, charged with the surveillance and application of the reforms, and working in concert with the high commission previously referred to.

The principal reforms demanded are that the governors and vice governors of Van, Erzeroun, Sivas, Bitlis, Kharput and Trebizonde be Christian or Mussulman, according to how the population of these places is divided. In any case, the governor or vice governor is to be a Christian.

In regard to the finances, all the taxes are to be collected by the local and not by state officials, and enough is to be retained before the money is forwarded to Constantinople to defray the cost of local administration. This is the exact opposite to the present system, by which taxes are first sent to Constantinople, from which city but little money returns to Armenia.

The judicial reforms proposed by the powers make radical changes in the present system, ensure proper trials, the surveillance of prisons and the total abolition of torture. The gendarmerie, or police, is to be composed equally of Turks and Christians, and the latter and Kurds are still to be retained in the notorious nomadian cavalry, but they are not to be allowed to have arms, except during drill.

In many circles here it is contended that the foregoing reforms are quite inadequate, and that the abuses complained of by the Armenians will soon recommence.

McNulta's Serious Charges.

CHICAGO, May 17.—The culmination of the charges against J. J. B. Greenhut, ex-president of the Whisky trust, and some of his associates, was reached last evening in a bill filed in the United States circuit court by Receiver McNulta. Greenhut and Nelson Morris are accused of having used the funds of the trust for outside speculation of a personal character. Then, to make good the losses, they are charged with having conspired to secure the assent of the board of directors of the trust to the issuance of bonds in the summer of 1893. That they sold $1,000,000 of the bonds at 50 cents on the dollar, appropriated the proceeds to make up their losses in speculations and secured possession of $800,000 of the bonds so issued at the 50-cent valuation in order to "milk" the trust for the other 50 cents on the dollar, thus giving them a profit of $400,000 on the transaction, besides securing the payment of their losses in speculation.

Charged With Murder.

BROCKTON, May 17.—Peter Wingdren, a peddler, was arrested last night on suspicion of having murdered Nils Paulson, a stonecutter, whose body was found April 22 in a bog hole in a meadow at East Bridgewater. When the body was found it was given out that Paulson met his death by drowning. Yesterday afternoon the body of Paulson was exhumed, and Medical Examiner Paine found a wound back of the left ear, which was sufficient to cause death. Wingdren is 33 years old. It is not known what motive could have prompted any one to kill Paulson, but it is believed that the police have evidence which they have decided not to make public just yet.

Damaging Evidence.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—At the forthcoming trial of Durant, Miss Willis will testify that some time before Blanche Lamont's murder she (Miss Willis) asked Durant, in his capacity of church librarian, for a book from the church library. He escorted her thither, left the room a few minutes and returned entirely nude. The young woman made her escape with difficulty. Similar conduct would explain the absence of blood stains on Durant's clothing after Minnie Williams was murdered.

Neglected License Formalities.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., May 17.—Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Weeks and United States Marshal Harris descended upon an illicit still in the basement of James H. Chamberlin's wheelwright shop in Plymouth and arrested Chamberlin, who was held without bail for the federal grand jury. The still had been used in making cider brandy. Chamberlin has been prosecuted before for illegal sales.

Poor China!

LONDON, May 17.—The Brussels correspondent of The Telegram says that, by command of the emperor, the Chinese admiralty was dissolved March 24, owing to the abject incompetence of its officials and a deficit of over $5,000,000. There is no prospect that the department will be re-established, or that China will buy any more warships abroad.

Fishermen's Fate.

PORTLAND, May 17—Two fishermen from a Gloucester schooner, whose names could not be learned, arrived at this port last night in a dory. They were in an exhausted condition. On Sunday they left their schooner at Cash's banks to draw some trawls and were lost in the fog. They rowed from Cash's banks to Portland, a distance of 70 miles.

Pigeonholed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 17.—The terms offered by Canada to induce Newfoundland to enter the Dominion are so unsatisfactory it is expected the legislature will unanimously reject them. The whole proceedings of the conference were tabled yesterday in the assembly. But for legally necessary formalities they would have been thrown out.

Under the Ban.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—The funeral of State Senator Peter B. Morrissey, who was shot and killed by his mistress, Maud Davis, took place yesterday. There were no prayers over the remains, and no services of any kind at either the house or cemetery were held, owing to the refusal of the Catholic clergy to conduct them.

Griffo Under Cover.

NEW YORK, May 17.—A warrant has been issued for Young Griffo's arrest, charging him with heinous offenses, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children being the complainant. The pugilist is understood to be in hiding.

Ample Assets.

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., May 17.—The Citizens' bank has closed its doors; assets, $150,000; liabilities, $100,000. Recently there was a reorganization and assessments on the stock. Some of the holders refused to pay, hence the suspension.

FOR WOMAN'S SAKE.

Sergeant Major Bolitho of the ——th hussars was summoned into his colonel's presence one very hot morning.

"Sergeant, I have a telegram from the general saying that this confounded mutiny has broken out in this province. Take ten men, with four spare horses, and ride down at once. Tell them they are to return with you as soon as the horses are rested."

"Yes, sir. May I pick my own men?"

"Certainly." The colonel rose and walked over to the sergeant. "I don't mind telling you, Bolitho, what I have not told any one else—I feel very nervous. My wife and her sisters would go to this place last week, and my children are with them."

"Trust me, sir. I will bring them back safely. Rest quite assured about that. I will start at once." Saluting gravely, he left his chief's room, leaving him quite at ease about his wife and children.

Ernest Bolitho was the sphinx of the gallant Seventh. No one knew why he was in the ranks. Every one liked him, no one could help seeing that he was a thorough gentleman. All they knew was that his past had been an unhappy one, and that he had been more sinned against than sinning.

He had steadily refused to take a commission, telling the colonel privately that he could do more good by living with his men. Foremost in sports and manly exercises, he strove to wean his men from the deadly canteen by interesting them in shooting, cricket and such like.

In an hour the party trotted out of the station into the glaring heat of the sun. By dint of very carefully riding and judicious short halts the bungalow was reached in four hours.

Bolitho dismounted his men in the compound and unsaddled the horses. The natives struck him as looking surly, and full of apprehension he entered the house where the ladies were at tea. The butler started when he saw Bolitho enter, and after a brief pause drew him into an adjoining room.

"Quick, man! What do you want?"

"Sahib," said the butler, glancing nervously round, "you saved my poor boy's life when the tiger had got him down, and if I am killed for it I will repay you.

"The servants have heard that a party of native cavalry is coming up to loot the house."

Rapidly entering the tearoom, he, in a few terse sentences, informed the ladies that the "colonel was very ill," and they were to lose no time, but to ride as they were.

Mrs. Rose, with pale face, placed her children in the trooper's arms, and after helping her sister to mount was placed in the saddle by Bolitho.

Twelve miles were covered, and they had arrived at the foot of a steep hill, crowned on the top with a small wood, round which a low, broad mud wall had been built.

In pressing up this hill Mrs. Rose's horse fell, fortunately not injuring the rider. Instead of rising it remained on the ground, and Bolitho found that it was dying.

Calling the men aside, their sergeant ordered them to place their carbines against the wall, and to put Mrs. Rose's saddle on his horse, at the same time informing them in an authoritative tone that they were to make the best of speed on to camp.

"Madam, kindly send a horse for me when you get back to camp, as it is too hot to walk."

Mrs. Rose, grateful for his consideration and quite unaware of the real facts of the case, promised she would.

Away they went, the children laughing and waving their hands to him, standing alone in the road, and the ladies wondering how they would find the colonel.

Bolitho had seen the dust coming in a cloud about three miles behind them—he guessed their enemies were on their track and saw certain death to the whole party before him.

Clasping the carbines in his arms, he got over the low wall and arranged them in such a way as to be readily able to fire them rapidly. He opened his cartridge case and laid that ready, and then knelt down with a gun in his hand behind the wall.

Suddenly over the brow of the nearest hill poured a squadron of native cavalry, coming at a gallop down to the foot of the hill upon the top of which Bolitho was intrenched.

He judged then they were in range, and taking a quick shot he fired his carbine, clutched another and another as that was discharged. He poured five shots in quick succession into the mass of troopers.

His aim was deadly, and deceived by the rapidity of the shots the enemy was checked, and halting suddenly wheeled off sharply and retired a hundred yards, leaving three dead men and two horses behind them.

On again getting to the foot of the hill they unbuckled their carbines and began a vigorous fusillade of the wood. In a moment Bolitho was struck in three places.

Realizing all was over, he crawled to a free and got himself propped against it. Still unconquered, with a revolver in his right hand and blood oozing from his wounds, he was at bay, and nobler quarry no hunter ever saw.

The natives, hearing no further firing, began to take courage, and after a final volley again returned to the charge.

But hark! He hears his regimental call brayed out; then the charge is sounded, and with a hoarse cheer a squadron of his own regiment came galloping round the plantation and crashed into the rebels.

Short and sharp was the reckoning, and within five minutes the whole body were either dead or prisoners.

Their work done, the troopers swarmed into the wood, headed by the colonel himself, in search of their comrade and found him dying against the tree. Kneeling beside him, the colonel placed his arm round the wounded man.

"My poor fellow! Are you much hurt?"

"Done for, sir," gasped Bolitho. "Are the ladies safe?"

"Yes; you saved them. A mile from here we found them, horses quite done up—the quarter of an hour you gave them saved them all. How can I thank you?"

"Listen," gripping him by the arm, Bolitho huskily whispered to his chief. "Write to the addresses in my pocket to say how I died. My father is the bishop of ——. I was a clergyman. To save my honor I enlisted. Tell Colonel Wise and Mrs. Wise I died like a man. Promise"—He paused while trying in vain to catch his breath.

"I promise you, Bolitho, on my word."

They buried him that evening outside the fort, the colonel, with shaky voice, reading the service, and his wife as chief mourner. In all that throng there was not one dry eye as he finished up with:

"And greater love can no man show than by laying down his life for his friends."—Answers.

INDIANS AND THE RAINBOW.

The Zunis Think the Heavenly Phenomenon Embodies the Form of a Demon.

Captain Trevitt W. Okey of Los Angeles, Cal., for many years stationed in Arizona and New Mexico with the regular army, told about the myths and superstitions of the Zuni Indians to a group of friends at a Broadway hotel one evening.

"In the Zuni mind," said he, "the rainbow has ever been a deified animal, having the attributes of a human being and also the body and some of the functions of a measuring worm. Obviously the striped back and arched attitude of the measuring worm, its sudden appearance and disappearance among the leaves of the plants which it inhabits, are the analogies upon which this personification is based. As the measuring worm consumes the herbage of the plants and causes them to dry up, so the rainbow, which appears only after the rain, is supposed by the simple minded Indian to cause a cessation of rain, and consequently to be the originator of droughts, under the influence of which plants wither away, as they do under the ravages of the measuring worms.

"It will be seen that the visible phenomenon called the rainbow gets by analogy the personality of the measuring worm, while from the worm in turn the rainbow gets its function as a god. Of this the cessation of the rain on the appearance of the rainbow is adduced as proof. The fading of the flowers is attributed to the rainbow, which, consuming their imperceptible existences, thus derives his brilliant coloring, just as it is believed that the measuring worm gets his green, yellow and red stripes from the leaves and flowers which it devours.

"The influence of this union upon the Zuni mind is to place the rainbow among the malignant gods. It is frequently painted on war shields and made a demon to be propitiated, yet shunned. When a rainbow appears in the sky, the Zuni Indians and those of many other tribes turn their backs upon the beautiful sight and covertly imprecate the unfriendly spirit."—New York World.

"THE BRACELET."

It Was Beautiful Until It Became a Reminder of His Doubt.

"Here," he said, "is a bracelet. Wear it always, that like our love it may prove endless and unbroken in its circle." And from a silken case, in which the name of the goldsmith glistened, he drew the pledge of their new affections. She stood before him, radiantly palpitating, as it seemed to him in the ecstasy of his attention—perhaps with the pleasure of so rare a trinket. The diamonds lost their luster in the rapture which her flashing eyes conveyed. Holding her hand, he was adjusting the gift to the flexible wrist into which tapered her well rounded arm—its skin seemed whiter now, as if expressive of so much purity about to receive the binding earnest of his words.

"But," he said, hesitating suddenly, "I must tell you, and yet why should I? This bracelet, by the touch of some mysterious magic—so the jeweler tells me, and yet I can hardly believe it—shrinks about the wrist of her who proves untrue, and its wearer loses forever the use of her hand, which then hangs limp and lifeless, in token of her perfidy."

"Surely," she answered, "you cannot wish to put me to such a test as this who need none. I should wear it were it not to me but an eternal reminder of your doubt, each diamond but an eye to watch—and it is much too gaudy. A plain ring will do for me."—Philadelphia Press.

Indignant.

There used to be an old porter at a certain Irish railway station who was more remarkable for independence of character than attention to his duties.

On one occasion two of the directors were traveling over the line and noticed that the name of this station was not called, the neglect being the more serious as it was a junction. This was made the subject of complaint, and old Charley, who was the delinquent, was promptly brought to book and reprimanded.

He was very wroth that any one should find fault with him and thirsted for revenge. So, keeping a lookout until he saw the directors on their return journey, he stood opposite their carriage and shouted in a stentorian voice:

"Cookstown Junction! Change here for Randalstown, Castledawson, Magherafelt, Moneymore and all stations on the Cookstown line, and don't say, ye blaggards, ye weren't towld!"—London Answers.

The Best Signal Light System.

The best night signal lights are those invented by Lieutenant Very of our navy, and named after him Very's signals. The consist of a white, a red and a green star, each fired into the air from a pistol, so that by firing one, two or three of them in quick succession and in different orders, with a pause between the groups, different letters or signal numbers can be made until a sentence is complete. They can be easily read from vessels 12 miles away.—St. Nicholas.

"Old Kentucky Home."

"Old Kentucky Home" is the twentieth song in Foster's book of plantation melodies, though when and under what circumstances it was composed cannot be exactly stated. One writer on musical curios says that it was suggested by an allusion that Foster heard a slave make to his former home in the Blue Grass State.

The "Celestial Empire," referring to the domain of China, has a significance in the Chinese legend that the early rulers of that country were all deities.

HOUSE TOPPLED OVER.

Lives of a Man, Woman and Child Crushed Out at Coventry, R. I.

Several Others More or Less Seriously Injured.

Building Was Being Raised but Occupants Were Assured of Safety.

PROVIDENCE, May 18. — A tenement house at the village of Jericho, in Coventry, fell over into the street yesterday afternoon while workmen were placing a new foundation under it. Three persons were crushed to death and 11 were injured.

The following are the killed: Mrs. Guertin, 50 years old; Asa Aldrich, 55 years old; 2½-year-old child of Louis Lemoine.

Fatally injured: Mrs. Joseph Lemoine, 70 years old, crushed and bruised, internally injured; Noah Richard, workman, scalp wounds, side crushed, internally injured.

The injured: Mrs. Louis Le Moine, 35, seriously injured about the head; Fred Balliere, 10 years old, scalp wounds; Frank Le Moine, 18 years old, leg fractured; Joseph Le Moine, 85 years old, bruises; — Cosselin, 10 years old, scalp wounds, crushed shoulder.

Two small children named Ganniere were injured. One, a boy, had a deep cut on the head, and the other, a girl, had her leg crushed. Two others were slightly injured. The physicians in the surrounding towns attended the injured, most of whom were sent to the Providence hospital.

Workmen Said Building Was Safe.

The building was a wooden one, 2½ stories high and about 50 feet long, with a frontage of 20 feet. The lower portion of the building was formerly a store, and the owners recently decided to raise it 30 feet and fit up the lower stories for tenements. Contractor Poole of Apponaug was given the contract, and about three weeks ago the structure was raised to the required height.

The two families in the upper stories did not move out, as they were told the building was perfectly safe, resting, as it did, on stout piling. One end hung over the street, and several persons observed within the past few days that it had an incline outward. The workmen who were preparing the foundation, however, stated that there was no danger of it falling into the street.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while the men were working at the underpinning, the building slid off the piles and pitched headlong into the street, striking the ground with a terrific crash. The building was literally smashed to kindling wood.

The cries of the dying and injured could be plainly heard by those who reached the scene first.

The Centreville fire department was summoned and the mill bells were rung. The wires in the street were first cut to prevent the wreck from taking fire. The firemen and mill hands, after a short search,

Found the Body of a Woman

lying in the street under the second floor. The body was terribly crushed, but was recognized as that of Mrs. Mabel Guertin, a widow, who lived on the second floor. A short distance away the body of a child was found. The neck was broken and the lower parts were badly mangled. Half an hour later the body of Asa Aldrich was found. His back was broken and his head was terribly crushed. Aldrich was moving a heavy jack under the building when it started.

Mrs. Joseph Lemoine, wife of the owner of the building, and Noah Richardson, a workman, were found in the ruins so badly injured that they will die. Half a dozen others, including several children, were also injured. Joseph Lemoine, a man 65 years old, the owner, was in the building when it fell, but he was not seriously injured.

The electric lighting and street car system of the Pawtuxet Valley was crippled last night owing to the grounding of the wires at the scene of the accident. The valley towns are all in darkness.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 18.—Governor Greenhalge vetoed the Holyoke police commission bill. The senate tabled the veto for consideration on Tuesday. The house in concurrence with the senate engrossed the bill authorizing persons qualified to vote at the next state election on the question of granting municipal suffrage to women. The act becomes law when the governor signs it. A resolve for the employment of the Keeley cure at the Massachusetts hospital for dipsomanics and inebriates was substituted for an adverse committee report. The committee on expenditures reported a resolve for a board of managers for the Atlantic Cotton States and International exposition, consisting of three men and two women, and appropriating $25,000 for the purpose. A petition for the repeal of the charter of the Cape Cod Canal company was admitted. The senate ordered to a third reading the veterans' preference bill. A motion to reconsider the adoption of the order for an investigation of the departments of Boston was put over to Tuesday next.

Two Women Prostrated.

LYNN, May 18.—The residence of Edward D. Dearborn, 22 Elm street, was completely wrecked by an explosion of a two-gallon can of naphtha. Mrs. Dearborn and her mother were at home when the explosion occurred, but escaped serious injury. They are now prostrated as a result of the shock. It is a mystery how they escaped alive, as every bit of furniture in the room was destroyed, the floors blown out of position and the walls bulged out.

Y. M. C. A. Innovation.

BEVERLY, May 18.—An organization which promises to be of national importance was formed in this city yesterday. It is to be called the Y. M. C. A. Mutual Aid society. Celebration Ended.

BOSTON, May 18.—The two days' celebration of Archbishop Williams' golden jubilee terminated last night with a reception tendered him by the Catholic union. A Daring Burglary.

PORTLAND, May 18. — Thieves broke open the sidewalk grating of John E. Palmer & Co.'s store on Congress street, and entered the basement. From here an entrance was made to the store by smashing through a door. An attempt was made to drill the safe, but this was given up, and the money drawers opened. Only $18 was obtained.

Old Bridge Gone.

HARTFORD, May 18.—The East Hartford bridge was destroyed by fire last evening, only the small drawer on the Hartford side being saved. The fire started, presumably, from the electric trolley wires at the East Hartford end. Engine company 3's hose wagon and horses were burned. The structure was built in 1818 at a cost of $135,000.

AMERICAN JOAN OF ARC

Who Would Build a Religious Kingdom on Ruins of Mexico.

Law and Order Authorities at Their Wits' Ends.

"Saint" Teresa and Her Image Implicitly Believed In by Lower Classes.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 18.—A religious riot has taken place near Presidio del Norte, just across the river from Texas. The several hundred followers of the so-called "Saint" Teresa obtained firearms and ammunition, and, with a stone image at the head of their column, have been marching from one river hamlet to another, working up the ignorant inhabitants to a high pitch of religious excitement.

"SAINT" TERESA.

Down on the shores of the Rio Grande, and in the midst of a rough and thickly settled country, an American Joan of Arc has arisen, with trappings and surroundings as picturesque, if not as grand and imposing, as her historical namesake of the 15th century. Like the Maid of Orleans, this modern maid of northern Mexico of the state of Chihuahua has a mission that at first sight seems purely a religious one.

While Jeanne d'Arc carried before her the standard of white, with the Supreme Being among the clouds depicted on one side and the annunciation on the other, "Saint" Teresa advances on horseback with a small wooden virgin, its paint worn and blistered from exposure to the weather, but yet a sufficient talisman to muster to her side hundreds of followers. And it is interesting to know that this extraordinary woman

Rides Her Horse Astride.

It is a border war in which this new Joan of Arc figures as general, backed up by a mob of uncivilized Indians and low-class Mexicans, religious enthusiasts of the most despicable type, who one day hide themselves on the American side of the river, in the ravines and amid the sandhills with which that region is dotted, and the next stealthily ride into the the rich mining country of Chihuahua, and, sweeping like a whirlwind, headed by this mountain woman bearing the image high above her head, her black hair falling far below her waist, her bosom undulating, stampede and sack the little Mexican towns.

The law and order authorities of northern Mexico are at their wits' ends. Their troops avail little, and even the United States rangers of the region, clever scouts and used to Indian warfare, seem powerless to handle the elusive mob. Several fierce battles have been fought and Blood Has Been Spilled.

Born of a Mexican father and a half-breed Indian mother, of an Arizona tribe, she has in her blood all the Mexican gallantry, dash, daring and intrepidity, and an adequate amount of Indian cunning as well. Physically, the Mexican traits are mainly dominant. The "Saint" Teresa of the image is tall, graceful and dark.

The actual revolt started on the evening of March 16. For several days previous "Saint" Teresa had been proselyting in the little Mexican village of El Polve, a few miles from the town of Presidio del Norte, displaying her image, praying and calling upon the inhabitants of the country round about to follow her in a great and glorious movement for the regeneration of Mexico, the overthrowing of the civil government and the establishment of a religious kingdom. She proclaimed herself to be a "Saint," an inspired messenger from heaven, sent to relieve the people from suffering and poverty and to guide them

Directly to the Holy Virgin.

The enthusiasm grew unbounded and continued unabated. The people at El Polve believed her and flocked about her by hundreds. The civil authorities arrested her and placed her in El Polve's tiny jail, but within an hour the jail doors were broken open by the mob and the "inspired" maiden was carried out in triumph.

By profession Teresa is a medicine woman, and has made a great reputation as a healer of diseases and wounds by the laying on of hands, incantations and the application of certain mysterious liquids she always carries in flasks hung about her neck. She hears voices in the air and sees visions. She claims that no bullet can hit her, and it is said that some of the best shots in the army have tried to kill her in vain.

Just now she is said to be safely intrenched in her mountain stronghold, practically safe from disturbance, arranging for more raids on the valleys and refusing to see or treat with commissioners the government of Chihuahua sent to offer her full amnesty if she would only abandon the Joan of Arc role and become once more the peaceful medicine woman.

It looks as though Teresa had the better of the situation at present, and might make the government considerable trouble before she is killed or captured. She has the ignorant and superstitious people all with her, and her undoubted ability as a leader makes her an antagonist with large powers for mischief.

South Boston Strandway.

The Strandway of Boston, now before the Legislature, is the name which has been popularly given to a pleasure road which it is proposed to build along Dorchester Bay from the Crescent avenue station in Dorchester to the Marine Park at City Point. Joining the Dorchesterway at the first named place it is intended to be the last link which connects the entire park system of Boston.

The Strandway and Dorchesterway were designed at one and the same time by F. L. Olmstead, the famous landscape architect. The Dorchesterway, which is almost completed, extends from the Edward Everett square in Dorchester, now commonly known as Five Corners, to the railroad crossing at Crescent Avenue. On the marshy shores of the bay across the railroad embankment the Strandway will be built. The whole thing is magnificently planned, and if carried out would give Boston a driveway along one of the fairest sheets of water in the harbor, and one that would be unique the world over.

Electric Street Railways.

There appears to be considerable change in the electrical world, and Randolph, Holbrook, Braintree, Weymouth and Quincy seem to bear prominent parts in the great scheme. It is now announced that the Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook line of electric road may pass into other hands than the present owners. The road from Braintree to Holbrook is already built, and the road to Randolph is expected to be built; that the Weymouth and Braintree people would like to possess the franchise to build the Randolph road, so would President Graham of the Quincy Electric Road. It is anticipated that important changes are about to take place, and time alone will reveal the result.—Randolph Register.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Rogers appeared before the court this morning charged with drunkenness to which he pleaded guilty. Some six months ago he was arraigned for the same offence and the court released him upon the condition that he leave the State. This William did and the population of the state of Maine was increased thereby. This week William had a longing to see Quincy again so he packed his grip and started for his former home. He arrived in Boston all right but the exhilarating ozone of Massachusetts proved too much for him, and when he arrived in Quincy Friday night he had what is known in sporting parlance as a jag, and as a result he ended by being locked up under City Hall. This morning he told his Honor that he wanted to return to his farm as his potatoes, etc., were coming along finely and in fact they needed his attention. The court thought the matter over and gave William until tonight to disappear, with the warning that if he was in town tonight he would be locked up and would have to take his medicine.

Swithin Bros. of Quincy have recently designed and executed a beautiful sarcophagus monument for Mr. Thomas W. Lincoln of Quincy, a former Hingham resident, which was placed in the Fort Hill cemetery on Wednesday. This fine piece of workmanship is erected to the memory of Helen M., his wife.

The monument is of the finest Quincy granite. The lower base is 3 ft. 10 in. by 5 ft. 10 in.; the second base, 2 ft. 9 in. by 4 ft. 9 in.; the die 2x4 feet, while the Gothic cap is 2 ft. 10 by 4 ft. 10; the whole is surmounted by an urn. The height of the whole affair is 9 ft. 10 in., and it is very imposing and pretentious.

The second base is highly polished with the name "Lincoln" on front and back. There is a pediment front and back over the name which bears tracings of an oak branch.

Surmounting the second base the die is also highly polished, while four polished columns are in the corners topped with carved capitals. Around the top of the die is traced a continuous vine of ivy. Above the die rests the Gothic cap bearing an old English letter "L," intertwined with ivy. The urn is finely proportioned, ornamented with handles, and polished tracings of Grecian darts.

As a work of art it certainly is a very fine affair. This does not stand alone as the only work in the cemetery at the hands of Swithin Bros. The beautiful Swedish granite monument of Mr. Andrew J. Gardner is by their hands, and was placed there a year or more ago. Both are worth a visit to the cemetery to inspect.

Birthday Party.

A large company gathered in the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston, on Thursday evening, every person intent on attending his own birthday party. The cards of admission were little silk bags, each one containing as many cents as the bearer was years old. These sums varied all the way from one cent to one dollar the latter sum having been sent by three or four persons who were not present, though it was hardly supposed that any of them were centenarians.

The entertainment opened with a piano solo. This was followed by two entertaining dialogues entitled, "A Love of a Bonnet" and "No Cure, No Pay," which were presented by several ladies of the society. It was then announced that the sum received at the door was $46. Ice cream and cake were served to all who were present.

Cooking in Milton Schools.

Friday afternoon, the young ladies who compose the class in cooking at the Milton High school, received their closing lesson for the season at the home of their teacher Mrs. E. R. Wade, Prospect street, Atlantic. The girls did all the cooking and served a dainty lunch of nut sandwich, deviled ham sandwich, orange jelly, cake, sherbet, chocolate. The invited guests were Dr. Leslie of Milton school board, Mr. Morse, Superintendent Milton schools, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Yeoman and Miss Fisher of Atlantic. Without doubt another year in the new High school building, this class under its efficient teacher will do even better work than this.

BUDS AND BLOSSOMS

The Blooming Period in the News Orchard.

CHOICE FRUIT OF PROMISE.

The Growth of a Day Among the Granite Hills.

Plenty of rain lately.

Another stormy Sunday tomorrow.

The latest sales of Quincy & Boston street railway stock was at 108.

The Squantum yacht club will build a wharf 200 feet long and maintain a float this season.

The pretty new house on Washington street, near Union, has been purchased by Pinel, Bros.

An arc light has been placed over the entrance to C. F. Derby's clothing store in the Adams building.

A variety entertainment of unusual excellence will be given at Hancock hall on the evening of May 30.

The enameling and nickel plating of Quincy Cycle Co. will hereafter be done in Quincy. It is a busy place now at this manufactory.

The funeral of Mr. Michael Goodhue was held from St. John's church this morning, the interment being at St. Mary's cemetery.

The ball games announced for this afternoon are, Adams Academy vs. Belmont at Merry Mount park; and Quincy vs. Atlantic at Atlantic.

The school committee held a special meeting Friday evening to look over the plans that had been obtained by the Committee on Public Buildings of the Council for the two new school buildings. No other business was transacted.

At the meeting of the directors of the Sharon Water Co. held in the city Saturday May 11, Dr. J. A. Gordon was reelected president of the company. It was voted not to accept the offer of $30,000 from the town for the works, and the president and treasurer were appointed to negotiate with a committee of the town for the sale of the works.

A Fresh Water Bath.

The Park Commission has some very good plans for the use of Hooslewhisick or Houghton's pond, at the base of Great Blue Hill the coming summer. Mrs. Alfred Hemenway not long ago asked permission to bathe in the pond during the coming summer, and this set the commission to thinking, and now the members have decided that not only Mrs. Hemenway will be allowed to have the use of the waters but a number of bath houses will be erected along the banks of this beautiful sheet of water for all comers. This will be a great thing for all bicyclers, as the run to Blue Hill is one of the favorites among the fraternity.—Traveller.

Won by Taylor.

Everybody at the Duck's Nest went wild with excitement Friday evening over the bowling of the finals by E. F. Taylor and Geo. F. Briggs for the Williams silver cup. The contest was close as at the end of the second string both were tied, but on the third string Taylor broke the tie and defeated Briggs by four pins amidst tremendous cheering. The score:

E. F. Taylor	157	140	163—460
G. F. Briggs,	137	160	159—456

—It is announced that the prices of boots and shoes will be considerably advanced before the opening of the fall trade. Some dealers say the advance will be as high as twenty-five per cent. The organization which is causing all the trouble is the United States Leather Company. It is a trust with a capital of $120,000,000, and in it are about eighty per cent. of the tanneries, leather brokers and jobbers in the country. The members of this trust ought to be cowhided.

—Chicago is getting economical. It is said that 530 men in one department are now doing the work formerly done by 2960 men.

—"Who cares," says the Springfield Republican, "if the oil wells do all run dry and Russian kerosene come to be worth $10 a barrel? We won't have to burn tallow candles. By that time the gas-works everywhere will be making the new acetylene gas, which costs 25 cents a thousand feet, and gives a light 12 1-2 times as brilliant as the ordinary gas."

--If apparently well founded reports are true, American carpets are finding a market abroad, as well as American woolens and shoes. So good an authority as the Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review says: "The surprising revelation is made that American ingrain carpets are being exported to Great Britain, Europe and the Levant; in fact, shipments have been made from Philadelphia for several months past."

HOUGHS NECK.

The Season Well Advanced at Quincy's Summer Resort.

Many families have already arrived and many cottages have been let, which will be occupied as soon as school closes. A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

AN ACTORS' MATINEE.

GENERALLY THE SPECTATORS TEAR THEIR HOST TO PIECES.

Actors Are the Harshest Sort of Critics of Members of Their Own Profession—The Have Beens and Those Who Will Be Smile at the Efforts of the Star.

The soubrette came clinging to the arm of the villain. She was glorious in a yellow silk waist and he was glorious in a high hat and patent leather shoes. Thus armed they felt quite sure of conquering the world, which means that they expected to "star" together some day.

Nine out of ten persons in every audience which consists entirely of players have like expectations, and right here lies the structural weakness of the actors' matinee. Your future star begins criticising the performance as soon as the curtain is lifted for the first act. In every movement of the star, in every word spoken by the star, he sees how much better he could have done the part if he had had the chance. As it is not half satisfying to have half of the house whispering when one is in the midst of his loftiest flight in the third act, the star's first actors' matinee is usually his last.

"There are three reasons for giving a professional matinee," said an old manager. "First, for the self gratification of the actor, who wants his colleagues to know what fine work he is doing; second, out of courtesy to the profession, and third, to get a little advertising. The second is the most common. The manager of every production which has a long run gets many requests from actors who say they want very much to see it, but can't, because they're engaged.

"The first thing a manager does when he determines upon a professional matinee is to ask the different managers of attractions playing in town how many seats they can use. Usually every person in every company wants two or three seats. Their extra seats are generally occupied by some stanch admirer of theirs who will believe that every criticism they utter upon the performance is true. This person is called 'the sympathetic ear.'

"Ticket sellers complain about finicky people, who always insist upon such and such a seat. But an actor, when the seats are given to him, will come and raise a terrible hullabaloo unless they are in a certain, exact spot in the house. I've even known a manager to send back a dozen seats because he couldn't get them six instead of twelve rows back. There's a line of would be actors waiting outside your door all day long, who want anywhere from one to twenty seats apiece, and you don't get a moment's peace until the thing's over. You don't get much peace even then."

After all of their trouble to get seats to please them, many of the actors who have engaged seats do not come. If they are merely enemies of the actor who gives the matinee they present the tickets to a boarding house keeper; if they hold an actual grudge, they give them to a bootblack. Consequently the well dressed leading man doesn't always find the persons at his elbows exactly the sort of company he would choose.

The most important figure at the professional matinee is by all odds the middle aged lady who is a relative of a soubrette. The more distant the relation the more important she is. If she is an eighth cousin she expects the great doors to swing open when she is within a block of the theater, and eight ushers come out to meet her. She is fat and comfortable looking, and she always has a temper.

The old time actor, who has barn stormed it in the legitimate as long as he could, comes to see how low the stage has fallen. Maybe one of these fat and comfortable boarding house keepers is his sympathetic ear. He tells her that things were far different when he and Booth were starring it; these young actors don't know much, and the stage has gone to the bowwows.

Between the acts the corridors swarm. Acquaintances meet, and then they begin to talk in this way:

"How did it happen?"

"Don't ask me, dear boy. Bullhead luck!"

"And, do you know, he really thinks he can act."

"Yes. I suppose that he thought he was going to astonish the natives. Gad! Did you notice that entrance?"

"Horrible. Conception is all wrong. Now, if I"—

"And if I"—

But they break right there—each being immediately convinced that the other does not know anything about it.

But there are exceptions. They are usually the most prominent actors. Sometimes the hand of the star is grasped warmly between the acts, and he feels the thrill of triumph with the words: "It's immense, old man. You are a revelation."

The reporter had on his right side the soubrette and the villain, and on his left a very nice old lady with white curls, who had come with her son. The young man was very critical. He picked out flaw after flaw, and regaled his mother with them. The old lady was an actress herself—a very good actress, apparently. And finally she said to this boy in a gentle aside:

"Willie, you may think that you can play the part better, but we do not see ourselves as others see us. And don't you think, Willie, that it would be better to say that your opinion of the part differs from that of the gentleman? And, Willie, do you think it exactly right to talk about your best while he is talking? Now, I am sure, Willie, he can do the part a great deal better than you could. Not but that I am proud of you, Willie, and I hope that some day, if you study hard, you may even do better."

And Willie looked hard at the bald head of the orchestra leader, and doubtless thought that mothers were unappreciative.—New York Press.

Curfew Tide.

"The long day closes."
The thrushes sing in every tree;
The shadows long and longer grow;
Broad sunbeams lie athwart the lea;
The oxen low.
Round roof and tower the swallows slide,
And slowly sinks the sun
At curfew tide,
When day is done.

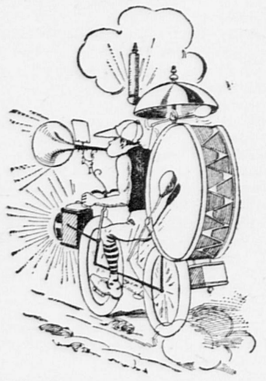

Sweet sleep, the nighttime's fairest child,
O'er all the world her pinions spreads.
Each flower beneath her influence mild,
Fresh fragrance sheds;
The owls, on silent wings and wide,
Steal from the woodlands one by one
At curfew tide,
When day is done.

No more the clanging rookery rings
With voice of many a noisy bird.
The startled wood dove's clattering wings
No more are heard.
With sound like whispers faintly sighed,
Soft breezes through the tree tops run
At curfew tide,
When day is done.

So may it be when life is spent,
When ne'er another sun can rise,
Nor light one other joy present
To dying eyes.
Then softly may the spirit glide
To realms of rest, disturbed by none,
At curfew tide,
When day is done.

A Suggestion.

Bicyclists must give sufficient warning of their approach when within 100 feet of a street or road crossing by means of such sound producing devices as shall be approved of by local authorities.—New York Evening World.

A Short One.

PORTSMOUTH, May 18.—Stephen Wedge of Worcester was arrested here yesterday with stolen goods, taken from summer cottages at York beach, in his possession. He is wanted in Worcester for stealing d. monds.

On a Western Trip.

BOSTON, May 18.—Gilbert F. Evans, who disappeared from his home in this city two weeks ago, has been heard from, en route to the west. He writes that he is in good health and better off than when in Boston.

Prompted by Insanity.

METHUEN, Mass., May 18.—Mrs. A. P. H. Andrews, 68 years of age, while temporarily insane, committed suicide by hanging.

Wallace Declines.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—General Lew Wallace, who, with General Knefler and Colonel Menzies, was appointed a regent of the state soldiers' and sailors' monument, has declined to accept the office.

Growing Worse.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Representative Cogswell of Massachusetts is worse, and his condition gives rise to much apprehension regarding the outcome.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recomme dation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles.

GAINS ARE RETAINED.

The General Business Situation Has Many Favorable Features.

Improvement In Conditions Affecting Transportation.

Sharp Inclination Upward Noted in the Prices of the Staples.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Bradstreet's says: General trade conditions throughout the country continue in the main quite favorable. Activity in speculative and investment circles has exceeded that in merchandise lines, but gains made in the latter have in nearly all instances been retained.

Among the more favorable features of the situation are bank clearings, the aggregate for the week being $1,161,000,000, or 3 per cent more than last week, when the total was the heaviest since the second week of June, 1893. The falling off, as compared with the like week in 1893, the panic period, is only 5 per cent.

Gross and net railway earnings for the first quarter of 1895 confirm early reports of improvements in conditions affecting transportation. The best relative showing is made by the roads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers. The grangers make the poorest showing.

Prices of staples this week again show a sharp inclination upward. The price movement includes the following changes: Advanced: Hides, calf skins, shoes, cotton, petroleum, wheat, wheat flour, Indian corn, lard, sugar (refined), bessemer pig iron, steel billets, nails, wire, copper, lead, structural iron, merchant steel, quicksilver, bags. Declined: Oats, live cattle, live hogs.

Dun's Review.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

No advance has been found practicable in the woolen mills, where conditions as to prices and foreign competition are very different, and about 10,000 workers are still idle at Olneyville, R. I., where the works should consume 600,000 pounds a week. In other departments of labor, troubles are not serious, and the demand for manufactured products increases.

With material and steady enlargement in domestic trade, there is still great want of employment in the interior for money which comes hither, $3,500,000 during the past week, and with the millions distributed by the syndicate on bond account,

Stimulates Speculation.

Accordingly, wheat has risen 5 cents, although the reports of injury by frost do not appear, upon sifting, to concern any considerable proportion of the growing grain. Western receipts for two weeks of May have been 2,917,305 bushels, against 2,600,298 last year, and Atlantic exports 3,059,484 bushels, against 4,555,101 last year.

Corn has advanced ¼ cent, though apparently injured more than wheat, but the acreage gives promise of a yield of 2,000,000,000 bushels.

Cotton is ¼ cent stronger, in spite of the fact that 9,461,081 bales had come into sight Friday week, which is over 400,000 bales more than the largest crop ever recorded. Northern spinners have taken a little less than three years ago to date, when the crop was over 9,000,000 bales, but at least 500,000 more than they have consumed as yet, and foreign spinners hold nearly 800,000 bales more than they have consumed, while commercial stock here and abroad are 246,000 bales more than three years ago. The manufacture is prospering, though no one can suppose its consumption is quite at the maximum, and for the year it certainly has not been. Goods are in fair demand for the season, and recent advances in price

Are Fully Maintained.

Failures during the past week have been 211, against 219 last year.

Sales of wool continue remarkably heavy; for the past week at the three chief markets 5,536,750 pounds, and for two weeks of May 11,059,750 pounds, against 11,767,750 in the same week of 1892, the last year of full demand. In that year the sales of domestic were 5,962,000, and this year 5,681,750 pounds. The markets are quiet, almost unprecedented apathy prevailing, because stocks of foreign wools held here are remarkably large and are offered at prices relatively lower than those demanded by western growers.

The shoe manufacture is doing remarkably well, as usual, though operations for the future are materially retarded by the advances in leather and in hides, which many begin to think have gone somewhat too far. Within the past two weeks the demand for shoes has somewhat diminished.

Latest From Olneyville.

OLNEYVILLE, R. I., May 18—Dresser tenders held a special meeting last night, at which it was reported that about 25 dresser tenders were doing the work of striking weavers in making samples. It was voted to at once order all such operatives out, under penalty of expulsion.

Hurt by Hard Times.

PROVIDENCE, May 18.—P. S. Peckham, manufacturer of woolen yarns and one of the oldest mill owners in the state, assigned yesterday. The mill is located at Silver Lake, Coventry. The cause of the failure was the inability of Mr. Peckham to weather the business depression.

DOUGHTY CAPTAIN MASON

Showed a Spanish Consul That Americans Are Not Easily Frightened.

TAMPA, Fla., May 18.—When the Infanta Isabella was detained, Gavino Gutierres, Spanish vice consul, chartered a steamer commanded by Captain J. A. Mason to visit the warship. Captain Mason was told to present his bill to the Spanish consul office for payment. Yesterday Captain Mason went to the Spanish consul's office and presented the bill. The Spanish consul imperatively told him to take off his hat. The captain refused to do so. "Then," said the consul, "I will have it taken off," and he called in an assistant. "I am an American citizen and a free man. I am here on business and not to pay my respects to you," the captain replied. There was some talk of forcing the captain from the office, but the captain left of his own accord, without even lifting his hat.

Where Are the Japs?

HONG KONG, May 18.—Anarchy prevails in the northern part of the island of Formosa, and riots are of daily occurrence, numerous persons having been killed and wounded. General Ku Hung Kuk, a Hatta chief, has proclaimed himself king of the northern portion of the island, and several thousand well equipped soldiers have joined his standard, and his force increases daily. The Chinese authorities have captured and beheaded many of his followers, but the revolt seems to be spreading. China advocates the recognition by the powers of a Formosan republic.

Back at Old Rates.

PITTSBURG, May 18.—The coal strike in this district was practically broken yesterday. All the mines, from West Newtown south, resumed at 42 cents a ton. About 2000 of the miners signed the iron-clad agreement by which they promise to work for a year at that rate, sever all connections with labor organizations, and not attend miners' meetings.

An Eccentric's Will.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—The will of John Herron, an eccentric Englishman who came to Indianapolis 30 years ago from Cincinnati, was probated yesterday. He left an estate of more than $250,000. The Indianapolis Art association is to receive $225,000. Herron was unknown to a single member of the association.

Drummer Shelled Out.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 18.—While George Huntress of Colchester was driving George L. Story of Boston, a traveling salesman, to the village of Essex Junction, they were held up by a masked highwayman, who presented a revolver and demanded money. Story emptied his pockets and they were let go.

A Business Speaker.

HARRISBURG, May 18.—Warrants have been issued by Speaker Walton for the arrest of 74 members of the house of representatives for contempt of the house by absenting themselves without leave. Their absence prevented the transaction of business yesterday and caused an adjournment until Monday.

Diplomatic Changes.

WASHINGTON, May 18. — The Earl of Westmeath has arrived to assume his duties of attache to the British embassy. Grant-Duff, who was to accompany him, has gone to another post, and it is probable that his place in Washington will be taken by Mr. O'Beirn, now at St. Petersburg.

THE MODERN SAFE.

AN UP TO DATE FIREPROOF AND BURGLAR PROOF DEPOSITORY.

Skillful Workmanship Displayed In Its Manufacture—Locks With Simple Mechanism That Are Extremely Hard to Open if You Don't Know How.

The latest burglar proof safes and vaults are magnificent specimens of skillful workmanship. Although the doors often weigh tons, they swing as easily on their hinges as a window shutter. After the first great door is thrown back and displays its glittering array of bright locks, its glass incased clocks and its smooth steel bolts there is another door almost as strong, with bolts and locks of its own. When this is open it reveals three other doors. The upper two are of thin steel and have no locks. Only papers and books are to be kept in the little pockets or pigeonholes which they inclose.

Under them and shutting in the cash drawer there is the third door with its own lock and bolts. In this safe the size of the cash repository bears about the same relation to the size of the whole safe as a pumpkin seed does to the pumpkin. And it is not only burglar proof but fireproof—warranted, in fact, to stand for at least 75 hours the greatest amount of heat that any burning building could give it.

The making of a safe of this kind is a complicated and expensive operation. All the steel used comes in the form of plates from the works. After having the necessary screw holes bored in them they are heated to a high temperature and then tempered by suddenly immersing them in water. When they come out they are often a little twisted and warped, and have to be rolled cold and sometimes polished clean by a swiftly moving emery wheel. The noise of this operation is ear splitting and so rasping that a man with ordinary nerves can hardly endure it. When the plate is perfectly level it is transferred to another machine, where it is clamped tight, and an emery wheel shaves off the edges.

The plates are now put together, first one of hard steel, then one of wrought iron or soft steel, and so on until the necessary thickness is obtained. From the iron the safe receives its tenacious qualities—it cannot be cracked or broken as easily as steel, and the steel imparts a hardness that defies the burglar's drill. The screws are also made of combined steel and iron. Each of them is only long enough to reach through two plates, and the screws which join the third, fourth and fifth plates to the first are never directly under any other screws, so that there is no chance for a burglar to bore down through a row of screws. The plates are also drawn very close together, for if any space was left between them a safe blower might succeed in getting his dynamite into it.

Between the interior and exterior walls of the safe a large amount of hydraulic cement, combined with other ingredients, usually according to a secret recipe, is packed solidly. In case of fire the theory is that the water in the cement—about 43 per cent—will, owing to the heat of the outside covering, become steam, partially, at least, and be driven close to the inner wall. Here it will remain and furnish a blanket impervious to heat. All the bolts are cylindrical and from an inch up to two inches in diameter.

Combination locks are now used exclusively. The mechanism of most of them is extremely simple. In one lock there are a number of round brass disks or "tumblers," each pivoted at the center on a small shaft which runs through the safe door and connects with the lock knob. Each tumbler has a slit in it just the size of the steel arm which controls the bolts and reaching nearly back to the center. When all these slits are together and pointing in exactly the same direction the arm slips into them and the bolts can be thrown. But if the slit in a single one of the tumblers is even a thousandth of an inch out of line the arm will not slip back. The disks are set a short distance apart and small screws with big heads are fastened at random over them. As these strike together in turning the tumblers whirl, and a man might turn the lock knob a thousand years without once getting the slits in all the tumblers together. But the man who knows just how far to turn one way and then how far back again according to the combination numbers has no trouble at all.

The combination and numbers are easily changed by changing the screws in the disk. Many of the best safes and vaults are now being provided with time locks. Two and sometimes three clocks are inclosed in glass cases just inside of the safe door. When the door is locked, no one can open it again until the clock hands have traveled the set distance around the dial and touched a little trigger which releases the bolts. More than one clock is used, so that if one runs down the others will go on and perform their duty. In the big banks the vaults are closed about 5 o'clock in the evening and set to open a little before 9 o'clock in the morning. It is a general impression that an expert burglar can open a combination lock by listening to the clicking sounds, but dealers say it is not possible for any one to do it. If a safe owner forgets his combination, the safe has to be bored into. There is no other way of opening it.—Chicago Record.

The Next Best Thing.

The robber presented his glittering pistol.

"Have you a vacancy in your bookkeeping staff?" he demanded.

The president of the bank shook his head.

"Well," the outlaw sighed — he was palpably chagrined—"I'll have to be contented, then, with what cash you have on hand."

Stealing $17,413.18, he left the place.—Detroit Tribune.

TWO AUTOGRAPHS.

Bismarck Saw Von Moltke's Sentiment and Went Him One Better.

A young German lady of rank, possessed of great personal charms and singularly winning manners, the daughter of a prominent politician, herself now a happy wife and mother, once beguiled Moltke, who was paying a brief visit to her father's country home in Silesia, into writing something in her autograph album. This was the entry:

Luge vergeht;
Wahrheit besteht.
V. MOLTKE, Feldmarschall.

Which in English would be:

A lie must fail;
Truth will prevail.

The wily damsel now determined to bide her time until she should be able to match Moltke's dictum. When her family had again settled down in their Berlin quarters for the winter season, Prince Bismarck called one afternoon, and she showed him her book, calling his attention to what the great strategist had written, adding artlessly: "Do you think the same, dear prince? Perhaps you would like to add your comment? And on the same page? Oh, thank you so very much! And may I send the volume to the Wilhelmstrasse?" The chancellor next day returned the book, now a greatly treasured family possession, and this is what he had written beneath the contribution of his colleague:

Wohl weiss ich, dass in jener Welt
Die Wahrheit stets den Sieg behalt.
Doch gegen Luge dieses Lebens
Kampft selbst ein Feldmarschall vergebens.
V. BISMARCK, Reichskanzler.

Very roughly Englished, the chancellor's lines might run something like this:

In future worlds, beyond the pale,
The truth is strong and shall prevail.
But 'gainst our mundane lies, 'tis plain,
Field marshals even fight in vain.

—Westminster Gazette.

LAMPS THAT ARE CLOCKS.

They Were Commonly Used In the Seventeenth Century.

Of the various examples that have been given of early specimens of the clockmaker's art not the least interesting are the several types of lamp clocks. One of these was of a kind quite common in the seventeenth century and consisted of a lamp burner placed at the base of a glass oil receptacle mounted vertically on a suitable standard. The oil reservoir had attached to it a scale, facing the burner and showing the hours, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the lamp was to be lighted in winter, and ending at 7 o'clock in the morning. The lamp being lighted, the gradually descending level of the oil, as combustion proceeded, marked the hours.

The other device, of later origin, dating back to the beginning of the present century, utilized the same principle. It consisted of two communicating oil chambers, superposed by a clock dial. In one of the chambers was placed a night lamp to illuminate this dial, and in the other was suspended a float from a cord which passed around a small pulley. The latter was mounted on a horizontal axis ending in the center of the dial. The float of course descended as the oil was consumed and carried the index hand along with it, thus making the hours precisely as in the case already cited. At their best these timepieces could have had only an indifferent degree of accuracy, yet they probably served their purpose well and certainly are interesting at the present time as illustrating some of the expedients adopted by mechanicians of an earlier period.—Cassier's Magazine.

An Independent Lawyer.

A lawyer, with his client, called one day at the office of a gentleman who is considered to be one of the leading men of the Philadelphia bar. The lawyer had an important case, and he wanted to take the legal big gun in as adviser. He explained his business and said he and the client would be back in the afternoon. "I won't be here then," said the legal giant. "I have an engagement at 3 o'clock, and I won't be here after that hour." "But there is a $5,000 fee in this for you," explained the younger lawyer. "Can't help it. I won't be here. You will have to come tomorrow."

"But my client can't come tomorrow."

"Well, I can't break my engagement," said the senior. After some further talk it was agreed that a meeting be held that night. That afternoon, having nothing else to do, the young lawyer and his client went to a ball game. The first man they saw inside the grounds was the great lawyer, who was hurrahing for the "Phillies" with all the vigor of his lungs. That was his important engagement. Needless to say the lawyer's practice nets him enough money each year to make him independent.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Old Time Football.

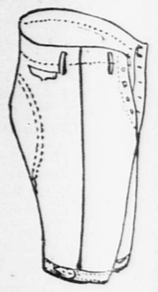

Football has never been a very gentle game, to judge from what Master Stubbes says about it in his "Anatomie of Abuses," published in 1583:

For, as concerning football playing, I protest unto you it may rather be called a friendly kinde of fight than a play of recreation, a bloody and murthering practice than a sport or pastime, for dooth not every one lye in waight for his adversarie, seeking to overthrow him and to picke him on his nose, though it be on hard stones, so that by this meanes sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their armes, sometimes one part thrust out of joynt, sometimes another; sometimes the noses gush out with blood; sometimes their eyes start out.

Servia.

Servia is thus called because it was originally inhabited by the Suedi, or Suevi, who located there, designing to remain, but were driven out toward the north by other tribes, and finally made their way to Sweden.

Goethe's Visit to Carlsbad.

There is no doubt that the life of the great poet was greatly prolonged by drinking the waters of the Sprudel Spring. In our day we have the Sprudel Spring brought to us in the form of Salt, which is obtained by evaporation from the waters of Carlsbad.

The Carlsbad Sprudel Salt (powder form) is in no sense a mere purgative, but is an alterative and eliminative remedy which dissolves tenacious bile, allays irritation and removes obstruction by aiding nature. It acts soothingly and without pain. Beware of imitations. The genuine article has the signature of "EISNER & MENDELSON CO., Sole Agents, New York," on every bottle.

GOT BEYOND CONTROL

Conflagration Proved Too Great For St. Albans Men to Handle.

Over $500,000 Worth of Property Quickly Destroyed.

Wooden Dwelling Houses and Stores Furnished Ample Food For Flames.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 20.—The most disastrous conflagration which has ever visited Vermont laid waste to a great portion of the business section of this town yesterday afternoon. In five minutes the fire was raging in a dozen different places and the fire companies were powerless.

Fire broke out shortly after 3 o'clock in the lumber yard of W. B. Fonda, and in a short time several large piles of lumber and the business office had ignited. A high wind prevailed, and all efforts to check the fire were unavailing. From the lumber yards it spread to adjoining buildings, destroying the blacksmith shop of Louis St. Cyr, Chisholm Bros.' store, and a tenement house and drug store owned and occupied by F. Eldred.

The fire next spread to the big building occupied by the Crown Furniture company and Collins' meat market. The blocks of Wood & Favro, J. H. Montifore and W. E. Dean, adjoining, were also destroyed.

At this point the wind had increased to a miniature hurricane, and burning embers were carried in every direction. The local fire apparatus and a large force of townsmen endeavored to prevent the fire from extending to Main street, where the large business blocks were located, but their Efforts Had but Little Effect.

Swanton and Burlington were called on for help, and at half-past four the first piece of apparatus arrived. A steamer from Burlingon arrived at half-past five, and all streams were directed to the buildings on Main street, which had ignited.

It was found impossible to prevent the Main street blocks from burning, and a dozen buildings were soon on fire at once. The first Main street structures that ignited were the stores of W. S. Bailey and F. B. Morton. The Wallace Printing Co.'s building, the stores of Lombard & Winthrop, Marceau & Vincent, and Fuller's livery stable were laid in ashes soon after. The horses and most of the carriages, harnesses, etc., in the latter were saved.

The government building on Kingman street caught fire a few minutes after 5 o'clock, and was gutted. Most of the papers, furniture, etc., were saved. The Hill block, occupied by J. E. Welch and W. N. Adams, was levelled to the ground.

At 5:30 the Messenger building caught fire and burned fiercely, the fire extending to the block occupied by W. H. Ellis and W. B. Woodward's stores.

Most of the buildings were of wood, and burned like tinder before the strong gale, many occupants not having time to save their effects.

Moore's marble works on Foundry street, Ryan's grocery store and 12 tenement houses in the vicinity on the same street were destroyed. Shortly before six o'clock the entire Burlington fire department arrived and all companies joined forces in an attempt to check the fire on Main street.

Flames Checked.

The attempt was partially successful, and the fire was checked in time to save the best blocks on Main street. The stores of A. L. Weeks, A. J. Lang and G. H. Harvey, however, were burned, and at this point the progress of the fire was stayed. The fire was gotten under control on Foundry street, six blocks north of Moore's Marble works. The fire made almost a clean sweep from Stebbins street to Hoyt. At 6:30 the fire was under control.

The fire swept along the following course, after leaving Fonda's lumber yard: Northerly, along Catherine street, after igniting many wooden buildings nearby, then sweeping Kingman street. Centre and Hoyt streets were next visited by the hungry element. Main street, from Hoyt to Centre on one side and from Kingman to C. H. Harvey's on the other, was laid in ashes.

Fully 30 families are homeless, the wooden tenements having been swept like tinder, giving the occupants hardly time to save their effects. The hotels used kerosene and candles last night, as the gas and electric services were cut off. The only light in the streets was from the smoldering embers. No serious accidents are reported.

Chopped Her Own Head.

WILLIMANTIC, May 20.—Mrs. Henry Dumas, aged 35 years, of Mansfield, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide by chopping the top of her head with a heavy ax. Forty blows were struck with the blade of the ax before she was discovered. Thirty-three stitches were taken and several pieces of skull were removed in dressing the wounds. She had showed symptoms of insanity.

A Savage Assault.

LOWELL, May 20.—As Charles D. Roger, 18 years of age, and three companions were standing on Central street, Saturday night, Eugene Stott, while in a drunken frenzy, rushed among them, pursued Roger up an alley and committed a savage assault upon him with a knife. Roger lost much blood, but will recover. Stott was arrested.

DAUGHTERLY TRIBUTE.

Mrs. Frank Leslie Will Comfort Lady Wilde in Her Troubles.

Has Utmost Confidence In Innocence of Oscar.

Famous Publisher Will Probably Meet Her "Wayward Boy" During the Visit.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Mrs. Frank Leslie is to sail for England on Saturday to visit her ex-mother-in-law, Lady Wilde, and do what she can to comfort that lady in her trouble over the disgraceful scandal in which her eldest son, Oscar Wilde, has out so prominent a figure.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE.

Since her husband's death Mrs. Leslie has been in active charge of the extensive but involved business interests he left. Leslie's Monthly is the publication to which she has given all of her attention for the past few years. Now she has leased that valuable property to a wealthy syndicate which will control it for a long term of years. Who the men are that compose this syndicate Mrs. Leslie does not care to divulge.

Mrs. Leslie, in leasing her property to this syndicate, has not entirely given up her hold upon the editorial and art departments. The syndicate will control both of them till her return in the fall. Then she will of these departments, the syndicate thenceforth having entire control only of the business department.

"I do not make this change because I contemplate retiring from business," said Mrs. Leslie yesterday. "I find it necessary to make an extended stay abroad just at this time. I had a chance to profitably lease my business in this manner, and took it. Yes, I intend to spend much of my time abroad with Lady Wilde. She has bravely borne these scandals and public falsehoods about Oscar Wilde.

"She has arisen from a sick bed to struggle for him against his traducers, and she has the utmost confidence in him, as have all those who knew him so well, and love him for his charming personality and his great accomplishments.

"Do I expect to see my former husband, Willie Wilde? Why,

I Think I Shall See Him.

He is with his sister now, I believe. It will not make any difference. Why, yes, I should like to see him. You know, our marriage was nothing more than a mistake. There is nothing save the most friendly feeling between us today.

"We know now that we were not fitted for each other, although I still have the deep respect for his genius that I always had. Willie is only a wayward boy, and our little mistake does not interfere with the friendship that will always exist between Lady Wilde and myself."

LOUIS, May 20.—Prominent Catholic clergymen and laymen are parties in a suit filed in the district court against Archbishop Kendrick by priests of his diocese and laymen to divest him of all title and control in the valuable church property of the archdiocese of St. Louis, held by him in fee. STILL ANOTHER VICTORY.

Adams Academy, 19; Belmont School, 9, at Merry Mount Park.

When the game began on Saturday things looked dark for the home nine. Owing to absence and injuries, Kent was obliged to put in three players who are not even regular substitutes on the nine. But when play had begun things grew brighter. Nichols, Taylor and Southworth were the new substitutes. Nichols made a splendid catch of a difficult play; Southworth took the only chance he had; Taylor had no work to do. Eldridge pitched a very cool steady game and was well supported. Sargents' batting was terrific; he made as many hits as all the rest of the nine put together and one of them was a home run with two men on bases. His fielding work was not so good, but he was obliged to play in a position new to him.

For Belmont, Hays, Holliday and Russell did some timely fielding. The Belmont pitcher, during the first two innings, was very wild, and Adams had a number of runs given to her. Horton the diminutive right-fielder made a beautiful hit.

Claimed by Adams.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Your paper published on Friday, May 17, the day after the ball game played between the Adams and Coddington schools, had the score 37 to 34 in favor of the Coddington school.

The score kept by Pitts, a Coddington boy, was 39 to 37 in favor of the Adams school and the Coddington captain gave up the game at the above score, the Adams team having at that time, two men on bases and only one out. Will you kindly rectify the error in your next issue?

Yours truly,
ROBERT MCCONNELL.

Captain of the Adams base ball nine.

ROGATION SUNDAY.

Rev. E. N. Hardy at the Centre Congregational Church.

REV. ROBERT W. PEACH RETURNS

Morning Service at the First Church Was Omitted.

Crowded houses greeted Rev. E. N. Hardy of Holliston at the Centre Congregational church on Sunday, as it was whispered that he will be the probable successor of Rev. Edward Norton. He is said to be the unanimous choice of the committee of ten representing the church, society and Christian Endeavor, and he seemed to inspire his large congregations. His text in the morning was from Romans 1:16—"For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first and also to the Greek." He spoke of the power of God in the gospel and in the world. The best in art was associated with Christian ideas; so in music, in history, in aesthetic nature and in the intellectual mind. The gospel was a power today in practical life. Note the arising of the young people. The gospel of Christ will make life beautiful.

In the evening it was necessary to open the folding doors of the chapel to accommodate the large audience. A praise service preceded the sermon.

Rev. E. W. Virgin preached very interestingly in the West Quincy Methodist church both Sunday morning and evening. In the morning he took for his text: Matt. 22: 21, "The things that are God's." Sunday evening he spoke upon the "Higher Criticism" and its relation to the three foundation stones of the American nation, God's house, God's word, God's day.

After a three weeks' vacation profitably and pleasantly spent, the Rev. Robert Westly Peach resumed his ministerial duties in the First Presbyterian church, Sunday. In the morning he preached an earnest and eloquent sermon on the subject of "Justification by Faith." The topic for the evening was "Giving and Taking Advice."

In the absence of Rev. Harry C. Voorman, the Rev. Mr. Dunn preached in the East Milton Congregational church. In the evening Mr. Dunn preached a simple and evangelical sermon from Isaiah 55. 6 and 7.

The West Quincy Epworth League hope to send a large delegation to the Pilgrim Union Convention to be held next Wednesday evening in the Parkman street church, Dorchester. Rev. J. P. Kennedy is to be the principle speaker, his subject will be "Youth and Opportunity."

The Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society connected with the Wollaston Baptist church had one of the most interesting meetings of the season on Wednesday afternoon, May 15. Especial attention was given to the need of medical stations in China and letters were read from missionaries in the different fields calling attention to this need. Mrs. Arthur Pinkham conducted a very interesting map exercise.

The topic which was interestingly discussed at the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at the Wollaston Congregational church was: "The story of Pilate and its warnings."

Rev. Mr. Dewings of Somerville, pastor-at-large, preached at the meeting of the Independent Presbyterians at Wilson's hall Sunday morning at 10.30, following which he took charge of the Bible class.

A special meeting of the Congregational church has been called for this evening.

The morning service at the Wollaston Baptist church was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Gurney took his text from the Song of Solomon 2:15, his subject being "Annoyances which tend to hurt and destroy Character."

A city convention of the Christian Endeavor societies will be held Tuesday evening in the Centre Congregational church.

The morning service at the First church was dispensed with Sunday. The church was cold, as the furnace fires had gone out and the church was full of gas so it was deemed advisable not to hold the service, and the congregation was dismissed.

At the Calvary Baptist church at South Quincy the pastor preached from Hebrews 11:4 In this text was the first record ever made of an offering for sin. Cain's offering was rejected, Abel's was accepted. The difference in these sacrifices was not in the object offered, but in the spirit in which the offering was made. Abels offering was more excellent because of the faith back of the offering. It was Abel's faith also that brought to him the testimony of God's approval. Moreover his faith be-

GRANITE INDUSTRY.

The Grand Secretary of Cutters' Union Visits Quincy.

THE BILL OF THE BLACKSMITHS

Quirk Bill Will Probably Come Before Next Legislature.

The report throughout the country concerning the granite industry are becoming very promising. With the unmistakable indications of a steady revival in all branches of business the trend of business feeling is decidedly hopeful for the immediate future. Many of the local dealers however, do not regard the outlook in Quincy as very flattering, and gloomily predict another dull season after Memorial day.

The visit of Mr. James Duncan of Baltimore, the new general secretary of the Granite Cutters' union, to Quincy on Saturday, was of a flying nature. The impressions Mr. Duncan conveys are of a very favorable description. He seems animated with sincere convictions regarding the duties and responsibilities of his position, and it is safe to predict that he will be both an intelligent counsellor and cautious leader during his term of office.

The blacksmiths' question in Quincy is still an unsolved enigma. One of the disputed articles has been successfully disposed of, however, and it is expected that the remaining bone of contention will be happily buried within a few days. Extra men will be paid at the rate of 22 cents per man, the value to be placed upon piece work being the unsettled problem for consideration.

The new turning machine for the Lyon Granite company has been received, and is being placed in position in their shed. Though not quite so big as the one already in operation, it is considered to be capable of a finer grade of work. It is of American build and will enable the Lyons company to still more successfully meet the demand for circular work.

Though the Quirk bill has failed to pass the legislature, those interested in the passage of such a measure have not by any means relinquished their efforts in that direction. Encouraged by the enactment of a similar law in New York, and by the active sympathy or passive apathy of stone workers throughout the large labor centres, they are more likely to redouble their energies to promote the passage of a restrictive bill. Numerous authorities who are personably opposed to such sectional measures, predict that in Massachusetts also, this law will in the near future go into effect. The pressure that will be brought to bear on the legislators will, in their opinions, be too strong to be withstood. The mere character of the interested opposition it encounters, will commend it to many unthinking waverers in the political field.

Coasting.

On September 15, at Waltham, in a coasting tournament wherein seven or eight of the leading bicycles were represented, "The Spalding" finished first, second and third. The greatest tribute to the coasting ability of "The Spalding" Bicycle was paid by Capt. Allen of Philadelphia. On the trip to Glen Summit he was the only one able to come down the mountain without a mishap, which feat in itself should clearly establish the superiority of "The Spalding" at coasting, when the extraordinary declivity of Glen Summit is considered.

PAUSE AND THINK.

Our trials we could soften
If we'd only pause and think.
Tears would not flow so often
If'd we'd only pause and think.
Our skies would all be brighter,
Our burdens all be lighter,
Our deeds would all be whiter
If we'd only pause aand think.

We would not proceed so blindly
If we'd only pause and think.
We would never speak unkindly
If we'd only pause and think.
We would cease unrest to borrow,
Darkly clouding each tomorrow,
We could banish worlds of sorrow
If we'd only pause and think.

TIMBER PRESERVATION.

Free Access of Air to Woodwork Necessary to Prevent Decay.

Probably no better illustration can be had, even at the present time, of the great importance of free access of air to woodwork as a means of protection against premature decay than the results of an investigation, conducted a few years ago, into the causes of an accident in an expensive apartment house in one of the principal cities of the United States, in which a portion of one of the upper floors gave way, and, in falling, carried along corresponding sections of the several floors below, landing the whole mass of wreckage in the cellar. It was found that a fortunately unusual system of floor construction had been adopted in the building in question, the spaces between the wooden beams having been filled with ashes, presumably with the view of making a comparatively fireproof structure.

Whatever its merits in this respect may have been, there was no question whatever that the mixture of ashes formed a most efficient barrier against the access of air to the timbers, and any moisture that was inherently in them or afterward found its way to them through the tiling above had little opportunity of being carried away by any ventilating air currents. The beams simply had to rot, and that comparatively quickly. In the subsequent work of reconstruction of the floors, however, good care was taken that they should not again suffer in the same way.

Mill architects generally appreciate the preserving influence of free air circulation so thoroughly that they carefully guard against even the painting of any floor beams which are open to the suspicion of imperfect seasoning. Where any moisture is still present in the wood a coat of paint or tar or anything else impervious to air, ordinarily looked upon as a protective agent, simply prevents this moisture from escaping, and thus, instead of guarding against rapid decay, really promotes it to a very material degree. Happily this circumstance is becoming properly recognized and is beginning to receive a due share of attention.—Cassier's Magazine.

Wyoming's Senatorial Twins.

The new senatorial pair from Wyoming have already been christened "The Heavenly Twins," not that Messrs. Warren and Clarke are expected to furnish explosive denouements on the Angelica-Diavolo order, but because of their good looks and other personal attributes.

Warren, who is a returning senator after a brief rest, was one of the tallest and largest men in the upper house when here before, and always was pointed out by strangers as a handsome man whom they wanted to know about at once.

Clarke, who has already put in an appearance, bids fair to prove a good investment for the photographers. Already there is the usual demand for his picture that determines the handsomest men in congress.

He is so good looking that in his own state he is often called the Apollo of Wyoming. This will be the handsomest senatorial pair.—Kate Field's Washington.

Dueling Pistols.

The pistol used in the duel is not the military arm, nor the revolver, but a very carefully made and wonderfully accurate weapon known as the dueling pistol. For many years the length of this arm was a matter of grave discussion at all the clubs in England and on the continent. At first the dueling pistol had a 12 inch barrel and carried 20 round bullets to the pound. But in 1810 the elder Devisure, with his confrere, Lepage, at Paris, and Manton and Egg of London, the most eminent pistol makers of their respective countries, fixed the actual length of the dueling pistol barrel at nine inches, and there it has remained for 85 years. A case of the best pistols costs from 500 to 750 francs, or $100 to $150.

Tea For the Chinese Emperor.

The tea used in the immediate household of the emperor of China is treated with the utmost care. It is raised in a garden surrounded by a wall so that neither man nor beast can get anywhere near the plants. At the time of the harvest, those collecting these leaves must abstain from eating fish so that their breath may not spoil the aroma of the tea. They must bathe three times a day, and in addition to all these precautions, they must wear gloves while picking the tea for the Chinese court.—Philadelphia Record.

Worse Than Critical.

"They tell me that the editor is not very well," said the poet's friend.

"He is feeling quite badly," was the reply. "I called on him this morning."

"Is his condition critical?"

"Worse than that. It's abusive."—Washington Star.

THE UNSEEN WORLD.

Hades as It Is Pictured In the Books of the Apocrypha.

The book of Daniel, dating from the Maccabean age, is perhaps the earliest work in which any clear moral differentiation as regards the unseen world is manifest. "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." To find a more detailed account of hades we must turn to the books of the Apocrypha, written in Greek, and pervaded by ideas not precisely Hellenic, but Hellenistic.

In particular the book of Enoch, which deals largely in eschatology and the secrets of the universe, speaks in some detail of the future of righteous and wicked: "All goodness and joy and glory are prepared for them and are written down for the spirits of those who have died in righteousness, and manifold good will be given to you in recompense for your labors, and your lot is abundantly beyond the lot of the living." And in contrast: "Know ye that their souls (the sinners) will be made to descend into sheol, and they will become wretched, and great will be their tribulation, and into darkness and a net and a burning fire, where there is grievous condemnation, will your spirits enter, and there will be grievous condemnation for the generations of the world."

In the fourth book of Esdras it is said of the enemies of God that "they shall decay in confusion, and be consumed with shame, and wither in fear, when they see the glory of the Most High, in whose sight they sin while they are alive." Much influence on later Jewish thought was exercised by a well known passage of the later Isaiah: "They shall go forth, and look upon the carcases of the men that have transgressed against me, for their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched, and they shall be an abhorring unto all flesh." These words in their primary meaning refer to the material bodies of the dead, but in the Hellenistic age they were used of the future world of spirits. And the picture of which the outline was thus sketched was by degrees filled in from non-Biblical sources. But this filling in went on but slowly and was not far advanced at the beginning of the Christian era.—Contemporary Review.

LETTER WRITING.

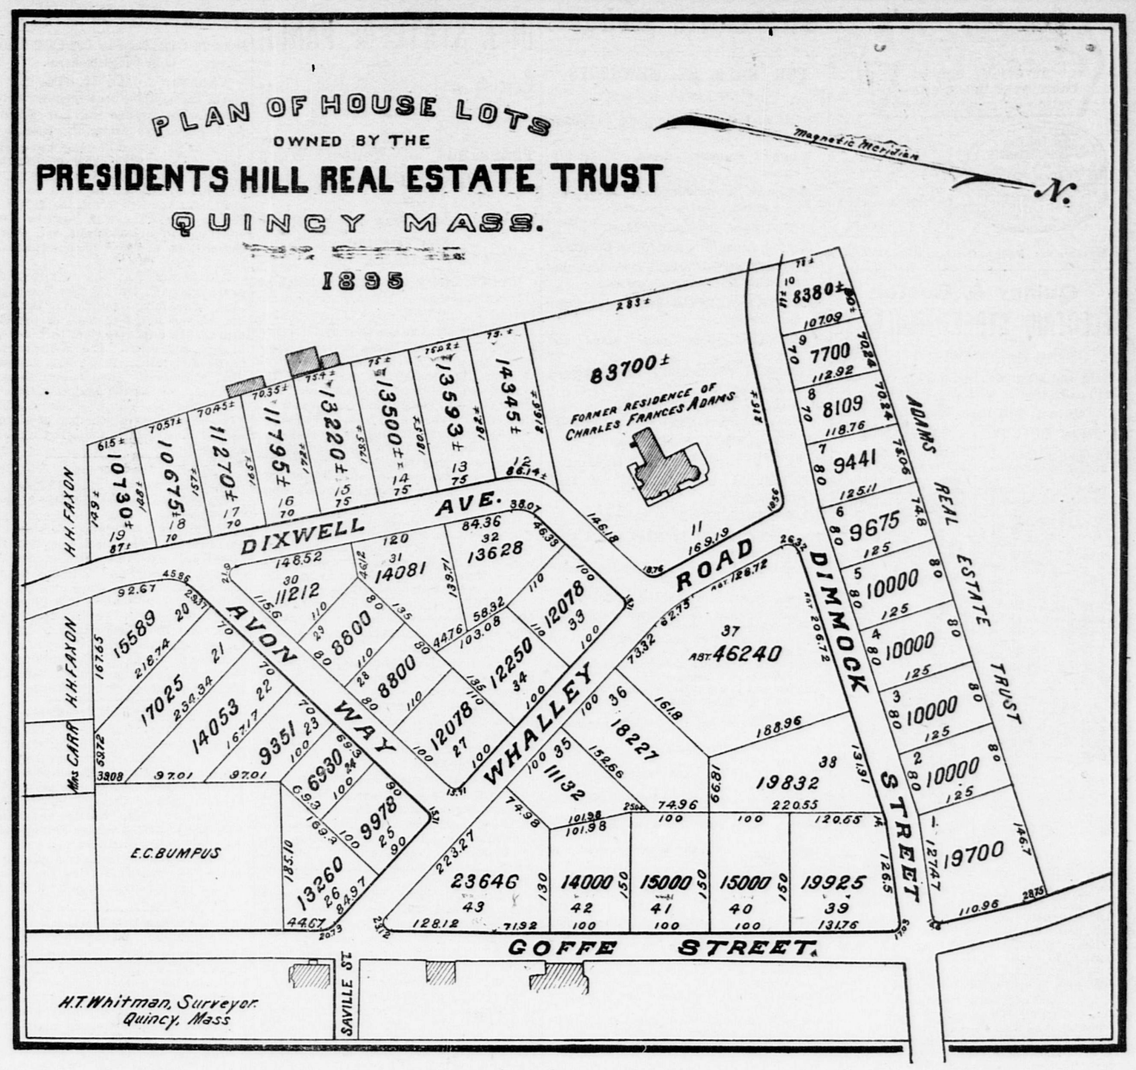

The Art a Lost One to the Present Day Scribblers of Hasty Notes.

Every one knows, of course, that the actual number of letters passing through the mails of every civilized country is greater, rather than less, year by year. But every one also feels that these letters are no longer letters, in the true sense, at all. They are amplified telegrams, bald and bare statements of fact, and they have the loose and disjointed and careless phraseology of the telegraphic message. That sense of the fit expression, the graceful concept; that feeling for the lucid and connected exposition of the ideas, for the balance of the parts, of a letter, for its composition, in short—the very term is pre-Adamite to the end of the century ear—that used to preoccupy the best letter writers of another generation have gone from our present day scribblers of hasty notes, as though such musty things had never been.

The only people who "compose" their letters now are cultivated old ladies. Their college bred granddaughters, intellectually armed and professionally equipped, exhibit productions in that line, of which, for the most part, it might be said, as Henry James remarked of the notes of invitation of the London society woman, that they have nothing in common with the epistolary art but the postage stamp.

It may be held that such an accomplishment is not, after all, of the greatest value. But behind it there is an instinct, deep seated in the race, that a widespread habit of careless writing affects very directly the thinking of a people. And this one cannot but believe to be the case. It takes no intellect to put plain facts into honest, self respecting phrases. But it takes self restraint and attentiveness, and these lead in time to a disciplined and coherent way of looking at life.—"The Point of View" in Scribner's.

—Some men worry because they think they have no opportunity to use their ability. The real trouble is they have no ability to use their opportunity as it should be used. More brains are needed, not more luck.

This property contains about 17½ acres of land and a large mansion, recently the residence of C. F. Adams, Esq., and is located upon Presidents' Hill in this city, within two minutes' walk of Quincy station, N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. By reason of its natural advantages and the liberal expenditure of its former owner, being well graded and interspersed with beautiful trees and shrubbery of many years' growth, make it one of the most desirable locations for a home of any of the many beautiful sections surrounding Boston. Wide avenues are now building—the property has been divided into lots of reasonable sizes for residential purposes, and are now for sale under proper restrictions. My Daughter's Learned to Cook.

We used to have old fashioned things, like hominy and greens;
We used to have just common soup, made out of pork and beans,
But now its bouillon, consomme and things made from a book,
And pot au feu and Julienne, since my daughter's learned to cook.

We used to have a piece of beef—just ordinary meat—
And pickled pigs' feet, spareribs, too, and other things to eat,
While now it's fillet, and ragout, and leg of mutton braised,
And macaroni au gratin, and sheep's head Hollandaised,
Escallops a la Versailles—a la this and a la that,
And sweetbread a la Dieppoise—it's enough to kill a cat!
But while I suffer deeply I invariably look
As if I were delighted 'cause my daughter's learned to cook.

We have a lot of salad things, with dressing mayonnaise,
In place of oysters, Blue Points, fricasseed a dozen ways,
And orange roly poly, float, and peach meringue, alas,
Enough to wreck a stomach that is made of plated brass!
The good old things have passed away, in silent, sad retreat.
We've lots of highfaluting things, but nothing much to eat.
And, while I never say a word and always pleasant look,
You bet I've had dyspepsia since my daughter learned to cook.

Rumors Not Verified.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 20.—Nothing can be learned confirming or denying the story of the alleged lynching of three negroes for the supposed outrage and murder of Miss Armstrong. Diligent inquiry failed to get further light, beyond mere rumor. On this rumor many wild stories were sent out over the country, and wilder stories, without a shred of fact behind them, are now being sent out.

To Talk In Dixie's Land.

We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

IN A STATE OF PANIC.

Florence and Other Italian Cities Shaken by Earthquakes.

Thousands of Houses Were Badly Damaged.

Later Reports May Show That Many Lives Have Been Lost.

FLORENCE, May 20.—The population of this city was thrown into a state of panic Saturday night by a series of earthquakes that did much damage here and in other places. People who were in their houses when the first shock came, ran terror-stricken into the streets, and their wild cries could be heard everywhere. The shocks were so violent that houses swayed like ships in a sea way, and, in a number of cases, roofs fell in, injuring many persons who had not sought safety in flight.

Similar events occurred at Bari. The casualties there include four deaths and many injured. Numbers of houses were also badly cracked.

Other villages in the vicinity suffered still worse damage. At Grassano 40 houses were wrecked. At Lapaggi several buildings fell and three persons were entombed.

The church at San Martino was destroyed while full of worshipers, several persons being crushed to death, and many who were wounded are still in the ruins. The villages of Galluzzo and Gambino were badly damaged.

The Prince of Naples and a corps of engineers have gone to the villages to aid in the work of rescue.

There were two earthquake shocks at Siena. It was less severe at Pisa, Piacenza, Bologna and Parma. The earthquake was recorded on instruments at Rome, Rocca di Papa and Ischia.

All Tuscany Felt It.

After the first severe shocks there were repeated lighter ones. The seismic disturbance was felt at Lucia, Pontedera and generally throughout Tuscany. The center of the movement was at Florence, where, for very many years, nothing similar has occurred.

Around Florence a number of houses were destroyed, and four persons were killed. At the time of sending this dispatch full details were wanting, but it is believed that later reports from the country affected will show that there have been a considerable number of lives lost.

Great damage was done in Florence. An investigation was made by the municipal authorities, who estimated that 3000 houses were damaged. The cathedral (La Cattedrale di Santa Maria del Flore), an imposing example of Italian Gothic architecture, and probably the most remarkable building of its kind in Europe, was somewhat damaged.

The seismic manifestation was the most violent that Florence has known since 1445, the earthquake of 1730, which is historical in the annals of the city, having been lighter.

The population of the city are awed by the disaster. Crowds wander about the streets, their only topic of conversation being the shocks. Everybody is anxiously awaiting the coming of the night, the fear being general that the quakes will then again occur.

In a Cuban Dungeon.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Manuel Fuente, who went to Cuba as a correspondent, has returned to this city. He reports that he was most brutally used by the Spanish authorities, who arrested him on his arrival at the island and kept him in a cell in irons for four days. The state department will be asked to investigate the case. Fuente declares that the Spaniards declared that the life of an American was of little value, and that he overheard instructions to his guards which made him refuse food for 48 hours, fearing that he would be poisoned.

Great Crowd Will Contest.

PERRY, O. T., May 20.—The news that the Kickapoo Indian country would be opened on May 23 caused great excitement in Oklahoma. The Kickapoo reservation is the finest land in Oklahoma, and consists of 206,000 acres, but the Indian allotments and school reservations take up all but about 600 quarter-sections of land. For two years hundreds of people have been camping around the new country, waiting for it to be opened to settlement. No less than 20,000 people will contest for the 600 claims.

An Oklahoma Mystery.

PERRY, O. T., May 20.—Saturday night a well-dressed man engaged a room over a restaurant here. Yesterday the bed was found covered with blood, and great pools of blood were on the floor and much on the walls. The man could not be found. The theory is that the man was murdered and carried away.

Found Dead In Bed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20. — Thomas Bolten, who portrayed Nero in "The Sign of the Cross" and the boxing master in "The Manxman," plays produced last week by Wilson Barrett's company in this city, was found dead in his room in Green's hotel last night. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

Double Time and Higher Wages.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 20.—The Norristown Woolen company, employing nearly 400 hands, has made an increase in wages of 10 per cent, to go into effect at once. The mill is compelled to run on double time to fill orders.

CUSTER CITY, Pa., May 20.—The glycerine tank at the Rock Glycerine company's plant exploded. Two men were horribly mangled, and will probably die.

THE INCOME TAX.

Belief That the Supreme Court Will Declare It to Be Unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The fact that one of the supreme court justices who had voted for the income tax law asked for further time to consider the case as presented at the second hearing has come to light, and this, with other circumstances of a confirmatory character, has led to a general impression that when the opinion shall be announced it will be found that the majority of the nine justices are opposed to it in all its details, and that the law will be declared unconstitutional in toto.

It is known that the members of the court who opposed ths law from the beginning are fairly confident of this result, but will not allow themselves to feel certain till the final vote shall be taken prior to going into court. The justices opposed to the law consider it possible that at the final conference, when it shall so appear that they are in the majority, they may secure other accessions. Such "deathbed" conversions," as a member of the court calls them, are said not to be so rare as is supposed.

The Color Line.

CHICAGO, May 20.—The Chicago Women's club has obliterated the color line. Character, backed by intelligence, is now the only condition of membership in the organization. This was accomplished only after a prolonged and, at times, heated discussion. Since Fanny Williams, a colored woman, failed to become a member of the club, early last winter, this question of color had been the one live issue in the club. But the victory is only half won for the Chicago women. They must carry their point in the Confederation of Women's clubs, a national organization with which the Chicago club is affiliated.

Before the State Department.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Paul Bray, the nephew of ex-Consul Waller, who arrived in New York Saturday from Europe, is in Washington. He saw Assistant Secretary Uhl of the state department yesterday, to whom he told his story of the troubles experienced by Mr. Waller and himself growing out of the concession granted to them by the Hovas government. Mr. Uhl declined to give to the press anything concerning the matter further than the fact that he had a conversation with Mr. Bray on the subject.

New Style Lynching.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 20.—About a month ago, Jerido Shivers and two other negroes enticed three young daughters of a white farmer away from home in Coffee county, and confined them in the woods for a week. The girls finally made their way home again. Saturday night it was learned that Shivers was in a house near Tabernacle, and a posse quietly organized and secured him. He was taken to Pea river, a rope with a sinker tied around his neck and he was thrown into the river and drowned.

Government Bears the Loss.

HALIFAX, May 20.—Fire started on the Intercolonial railway's long wharf in the cattle shed yesterday. Both wharf and shed were soon consumed, as well as the freight and immigration sheds. Next to go were the immense coaling pier, trestle work and wharf, on which were a number of loaded coal cars. Quite a number of cars loaded with hay were burned. The property was owned by the Dominion government, and consequently not insured. Its loss is estimated to reach nearly $300,000.

Triple Crime Alleged.

DULUTH, May 20.—Detective Benson has arrived here with Mrs. Smith, who is wanted to answer charges preferred against her by Mrs. Cameron. The latter has sworn out three warrants—one charging her with forgery, one with obtaining money under false pretenses and the third with falsely impersonating another person with intent to defraud. Mrs. Smith professes entire innocence.

Grandson of President Tyler.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The only male person ever born in the White House, Robert Tyler Jones, a grandson of President Tyler, is dead. He was the son of the oldest daughter of the president. He served in the Confederate army as a captain. In later years he was employed in the treasury department.

THE STRANGE HOUSE.

The detective had dropped the paper telling how Salvatore Cavaliere, the Long Branch Italian, made his dwelling a storehouse of plunder.

"Every house holds its mystery," he began tritely.

Then he told the story of the house on West Tenth street, not far from Fifth avenue. He could not specify more particularly, he declared.

"I was detailed to watch it," he went on, "because there was something odd about its tenant. A most respectable house in a most respectable neighborhood, it had been sublet to one William Smith, a small dark man with a foreign accent.

"He had paid six months' rent in advance in lieu of reference, and as the dull summer season was coming on the agent had not quibbled over this slight violation of his rule requiring references. Whence he came, what his trade, no one could say. The rent had been paid in English gold.

"After Mr. Smith had moved in—he rented furnished—the strange proceedings began which attracted the neighbors' attention. Just after sundown muffled men began to appear at the door, which would open, revealing the dimly lit hall. The visitor entered. Now the peculiar feature of the case was that no one ever came out, while Mr. Smith existed apparently independent of the butcher and baker. If you rang, the manservant simply told you that his master was not in. But other persons evidently found him in. Three or four persons passed that threshold daily, never to reappear over it. Of course the neighboring servants whispered marvelous tales of ghosts. If you went and scanned the faces of those who entered, you found them to be apparently gentlemen, with thin, intellectual faces.

"Going up the steps the visitor would peer about as if fearing observation. One of the double hall doors stood closed. While he waited he invariably stepped behind this screen until the other door was opened. Then it shut on him. You might wait all night and the next day, as I have done, but the visitor never reappeared. The house, heavily shuttered, presented an impassive front to the street that told nothing of its mystery.

"Naturally I indulged in theories of murder or other crime being committed there. But there were no reports of missing men and newspaper personals gave no clew. Nor did we have any complaints of other evidence justifying a raid. Finally I decided to take the matter into my own hands. I did this by boldly going up the steps a third time—I had been told twice by the strange servant that Mr. Smith was out. On this occasion I followed close on the heels of one of the visitors, who probably was destined never to appear again. I rang, and after a few minutes the door was opened. The same servant stood there. He was black, with the regular features belonging to East Indians or North Africans. If you ever venture as far east as Constantinople, you may see men of his type in the cosmopolitan street throng. The peculiarity of this man was his shining black eyes, that looked me through and through. He was in the regulation black coat and white cravat of the house lackey."

"'Mr. Smith?'

"'Sees no one,' he began in a slightly foreign accent. A heavily shaded lamp threw a subdued light on the stairway.

"'But some one entered a half minute before me,' I began. On the other occasions I had asked who this mysterious Smith who concealed an interesting personality very cunningly under that most commonplace name might be, what his occupation, whence he came. On both occasions the door had slammed in my face.

"This time I took the precaution to put my foot over the sill in such a way that the door could not close. The man attempted it. I stepped inside. The door swung into its place with a little metallic click.

"I fancied the black eyes snapped angrily, but the man motioned me civilly into an adjoining room. This was an ordinary apartment furnished in the way of rooms in houses that are sublet, where the bric-a-brac and essentials giving expression have been removed. A lamp with a red shade lit the place.

"'Wait. I will see,' said the black.

"Presently he returned, this time bearing a silver tray, on which were a curiously carved silver decanter and some glasses, with a plate of biscuits. The man made a sort of obeisance that had in it something oriental, as if he had stepped out of one of the stories dealing with the Caliph Haroun al Raschid.

"'While you wait, won't you have some refreshment?'

"His accents were so suave that, forgetting any suspicion, I did not stay his hand when he poured some liquid like claret into one of the long decanters. Lifting it to my lips I found it was a curious tasting beverage. For a moment I thought it was molten fire. Then the black retainer appeared to be dancing before my eyes, and I lost consciousness.

"When I awoke, I was on the couch in the same room. The lamp was still burning. I raised myself up. My head ached terribly. On a chair near me sat a little monkey grinning and chattering. It startled me at first, but in my trade one ceases to be afraid, because back of everything, however mysterious, we are accustomed to find human cunning.

"I rose, threw back the shutters and daylight poured into the room. I had been there all night. No one stirred except the poor little beast of a gibbering ape. I made my way to the outside door, seeing no one, and ran down the steps into the street, the monkey following.

"I returned with the policeman on the beat. We searched the house high and low. There was no evidence of occupancy beyond that of the little ape. No trunk or clothing or food or even the silver decanter from which I had drunk. About the ape's neck was a curiously carved little silver chain with some odd caballistic device. At the zoo in the park they told me that he was of an Indian species.

"During my all night stupor, what had become of the mysterious Mr. Smith and his visitors? They were never seen nor heard of again. The house was just an ordinary dwelling on an ordinary street. But for me it still has an enigmatical expression of inexplicable mystery.—New York Sun.

My Maryland.

"Maryland, My Maryland," was the work of James Ryder Randall, a native of Baltimore. The song was written by him in April, 1861, while he was engaged on a newspaper in New Orleans. The melody is a German folk song, "O Tannenbaum." It is also found, nearly in its present form, in an interlude in Mozart's "First Mass."

Self Slaughter In France.

During the last four years 26,000 persons in France have put an end to their own lives.

DAYS.

What is the message of days, what is the thought they bring—
Days that darken to winter, days that sweeten to spring?

Is there a lore to learn? Is there a truth to be told?
Hath the new dawn a ray that never flashed from the old?

Day that deepens to night, night that broadens to day,
What is the meaning of all, what is the word they say?

Silence for aye and aye, and the heart beats never cease
Till toil and life and the day are the night and death and peace.

—John Hall Ingham in Scribner's.

POSING AT THE PIANO.

Paderewski Thinks Performers Should Look Effective While Playing.

When Paderewski was in New York, he was calling at a prominent Wall street man's home in Fifth avenue when the broker told him he would like to have his opinion of his daughter's playing. The great pianist courteously replied that nothing would give him greater pleasure.

After the young lady had dashed off several selections Paderewski said:

"To get the greatest enjoyment from the piano the music must not only be heard, but the performer should be seen. The performer should therefore be careful of his or her position at the instrument.

"I will be frank with you and say that I preferred to see rather than hear your daughter play. I might better say that I looked more than I listened. She held herself correctly. There is nothing I hate more than a listless, careless posture of the body while playing.

"Then there was life in her touch. Her fingers fairly sparkled as they ran over the board and touched the keys, rebounding from them with a snap that was exhilarating to behold. Her manner of using her hands and her elbowing, if I may so call it, showed proper training also.

"I will therefore add that my sense of hearing would have been equally delighted doubtless if my sense of sight had not been so completely monopolized. I compliment the young lady on her accomplishment."

"There is wisdom in that," said the broker in repeating the conversation. "Teachers of the piano should give far more attention to this matter than they now do."—New York Advertiser.

Electric Light Test.

The public is becoming quite knowing in many branches of electric knowledge, and in none more than in the determination, with greater or less accuracy, of the efficiency of the electric light. At one time a central station had no great difficulty in foisting upon its customers as a 16 candle power a light that the ordinary gas jet would be an improvement upon. Now, however, people are more critical, and they have a very shrewd idea as to whether they are getting as much light as they are paying for. If they have any doubt on the subject, it can be easily set at rest.

The latest method of measuring illumination is based upon the principle that the illumination, falling, say, on a printed page, must have a definite value in order to render the printed characters just legible, and that the intensity of illumination so required will, for a normal eye, depend upon the size and character of the print. A small printed tablet is placed in a darkened box and exposed to illumination from a translucent plate of glass or porcelain, which receives directly on its surface the light whose intensity is to be measured. The area of the translucent plate is then varied until the amount of light received by the test characters just renders them visible. A scale is provided by reference to which the exact degree of candle power of the illumination is determined.—New York Times.

His Pills.

There lives in a town not far from here—in fact, it is at Skaneateles—a couple who think a good deal of each other, and when one is ill the other does everything in the world for her or his welfare. Not long ago the husband was taken ill, and his wife rummaged around to find some medicine in the house. Finally she came across a box of little black pills. There was no writing on the cover of the box to tell what they were, but as they resembled a certain liver pill the wife concluded that they must be the required thing. She gave them to her hubby regularly, and he seemed to improve. About a week after, when he had got down to the last pill, he chanced to turn the box over. He gave a yell that startled the whole neighborhood. His wife ran to him, thinking that he was dying. "Look," he cried. "Read what it says on the bottom." She did as he bade her, and this was what she read: "Prime Crown Morning Glory Seeds!"—Syracuse Post.

Swore Himself In.

In his reminiscences of the Crimea, in 1854, General Sir Evelyn Wood tells a story of a fighting general who, during a conflict, was seen wherever bullets fell most thickly. When not visible, his voice was heard encouraging his men with "a vocabulary borrowed from 'the army in Flanders,'" which Sir Evelyn says will not bear repetition. "Years after he was appointed to the Aldershot command, and her majesty happened to ask, 'Has the new general yet taken up his command?' 'Yes, your majesty,' was the apt reply; 'he swore himself in yesterday.'"

Iceland moss is native to the northern parts of all continents. It is most abundant, however, in Iceland, whence its name has been obtained. Formerly in high repute in medicine, it is now very lightly regarded.

Australia means "south," and the land now known by that name was formerly called New Holland.

The doublet was a close fitting coat introduced into France from Italy about 1100.

MEN GROPE.

A WOMAN SEES THE LIGHT.

She Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid, did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances!

Those things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

This is why so many women suffer.

Twenty years ago Lydia E. Pinkham gave to the women of the world the result of her years of study in the form of her Vegetable Compound,—a universal remedy for all female complaints.

She well deserves the title, "Saviour of her Sex." She saw the light of reason, and gave it to her suffering sisters.

All female diseases put forth their symptoms, such as nervousness, lassitude, paleness, dizziness, faintness, leucorrhœa, faltering steps, sleeplessness, bearing-down pains, backache, and consequent melancholy and the blues.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has for twenty years saved women from all this. Hear this woman speak:—

"Five years ago at childbirth I did not have proper attention. I became very weak; could lift nothing without bleeding from the womb, which was ulcerated badly. I was examined by a physician, and treated for a time, but was compelled to leave the city before I received benefit from the treatment. I decided then to give your medicine a trial. I improved rapidly on the first bottle of Compound, and now feel like a new woman. Ulcers have ceased to form on the womb as they did. I advise all women in any way afflicted with female troubles to take your remedies, and I trust that my testimonial will be seen by friends who knew me when I was so sick, and that they may know I am now well, and that I owe it all to your Vegetable Compound." ANGER AT HIGH PITCH.

Providence Strikers Threatened Personal Violence to Deserters.

Opening of Geneva Mills Led to a Small Riot.

Police Compelled to Charge a Mob to Preserve the Peace.

PROVIDENCE, May 21.—Trouble between the strikers and some of the operatives of the Geneva mills broke out yesterday when it was learned that the mill, which had been closed for several weeks on account of a strike to make it a union factory, had opened its gates and that 300 operatives had returned to work. A large crowd of strikers gathered at the mill and began to make a disturbance. The proprietors at once sent for police assistance, and the prompt arrival of a squad quieted the crowd.

The police were still on hand at noon, and no further demonstration was made until 6 o'clock last evening, when the workmen came out.

The police on duty had been re-enforced by two mounted officers, as the crowd about the factory had increased as the hour for closing drew near. When the operatives appeared, a great shout went up and jeers and harsh names were hurled at the men and threats of personal harm were made.

Police Charged the Mob.

Guarded by the police, the operatives started for their homes, but the mob surrounded them, hooting and jeering; and at last, two men, more bold than the rest, rushed among the operatives and attemped to strike them. The men, who gave the names of Michael Drury and James Harvard, were arrested and the police charged the mob, several of them being ridden down, but not seriously injured.

This action thinned the crowd, but they were not driven away. They continued to follow the operatives to their boarding places, and dismissed each with threats of more harsh treatment in the morning if they tried to go to work. Harvard and Drury were detained at the station for awhile, but were finally let go upon promise to appear in case charges were preferred against them.

In anticipation of trouble at Olneyville, when it was reported that 200 operatives had gone to work in the Atlantic mills, a squad of police were sent there, but their services were not needed, as it was very quiet all day.

Thirteen of the 17 dresser tenders who went to work in the Riverside mills came out later.

The district committee held a meeting last night, but the only business done was in connection with the work of collecting funds. A report was received from Boston stating that committees had been appointed to assist the collectors, and that large contributions were expected.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 21.—The bill to regulate steam engineering and the bill relative to the inspection of steam boilers were engrossed in the house. The house spent the entire afternoon discussing the Boston city charter bill and had not voted on it at the time of adjournment. Several amendments were rejected. The senate rejected the adverse report of the finance committee on the petition of Insurance Commissioner Merrill that his salary be increased to $5000. The bill was then refused its several readings on the spot. After a lengthy debate in the senate, the bill authorizing the governor to memorialize congress for the right to place bridges over Charles river went to a third reading.

Started by Youngsters.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 21.—Hundreds of men are engaged in work on the ruins caused by Sunday's fire. The total loss is a little more than $500,000, not more than half of which is covered by insurance. Forty business places were burned out, 100 buildings laid flat and 250 persons made homeless. It is found that the fire was started in Fonda's lumber yard by some boys who had built a bonfire.

Sympathy For Strikers.

BOSTON, May 21.—A labor meeting was held last night at 264 Boylston street, where a large number of women, prominent in society, assembled to hear the strikers' side of the difficulty at the Boston Gossamer Rubber company of Hyde Park. A committee of strikers presented their side of the case, and resolutions in favor of the strikers were passed. Several contributions were received.

Albee in landing a salmon 2½ feet long and weighing 11½ pounds. Left Children Behind.

LYNN, May 21.—William H. Kimber, colored, has invoked the aid of the police to find his wife, to whom he was married eight years ago. The Kimbers have three children. The children were left by the mother, so the father says, early yesterday morning, and he is convinced that she is not coming back.

BOSTON, May 21.—A stubbornly fought 25-round contest took place here last night between Dick O'Brien of Lewiston and "Kid" McCoy of Boston, which according to the rules of the fight Referee Daly decided a draw. O'Brien was the favorite at odds of $100 to $80, but at the close of the 25th round McCoy was whistling and making game of O'Brien. O'Brien did most of the fighting, but McCoy did some clever sparring and dodging.

DEALT A DEATH-BLOW.

Supreme Court Says That Income Tax Law Is Unconstitutional.

Source of Anticipated Revenue Is Thus Closed.

Review of the Points at Issue and How the War Tax Worked.

WASHINGTON, May 21. — The supreme court has decided that the income tax is unconstitutional. Upon the question of the general unconstitutionality of the law the court was divided as follows:

Against the law—Chief Justice Fuller, Justices Field, Gray, Brewer and Shiras. For the law—Justices Harlan, Brown, Jackson and White.

Inasmuch as one of these dissenting opinions was handed down by Justice Jackson, and as he was absent at the first hearing, when the court divided evenly on the question of sustaining the law on all points except those as to the tax on rents and bonds, it follows that one of the members of the court who at first pronounced for the law, except on those two points, changed his attitude after the second argument.

The opinion of the court and the position of each of the members had been so accurately forecasted that no surprise was expressed in any quarter at the announcements made.

It should probably be stated that while the cases in which these opinions were delivered are uniformally characterized as the income tax cases, they are known on the court dockets as the cases of Charles Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, and Lewis H. Hyde vs. the Continental Trust company of New York, both appealed from the circuit court of the United States for the southern district of New York.

The Stumbling Blocks.

The unconstitutionality of the law was asserted upon several grounds. First—In that it imposes a direct tax with respect of real estate rents, issues and profits, as well as of income and profits of personal property, which, not being apportioned, is in violation of section 2, article 1, of the constitution. Second—In that its provisions are not uniform throughout the United States, and provides for exemptions and inequalities in violation of section 8, article 10. Third—In that it makes no exemption of the tax upon income derived from the stocks and bonds of states, counties and municipalities, which amounts to $65,000,000 annually, and which is not a proper subject for the taxing power of congress.

Unsatisfactory Revenues.

Although the decision of the court will materially cut down the anticipated revenues of the government, it is not thought that it will necessitate an extra session of congress, unless some unlooked for contingency arises to make it advisable. It is known that the administration does not regard an extra session as necessary, although the revenues during the last few months have not been at all satisfactory.

The customs receipts, particularly, are surprisingly low. During last January the receipts were only $17,361,916, and during February they fell to $12,338,180. During March there was an increase of about $2,500,000, but April showed a falling off to $12,453,086. During the same months there has been a slight increase in the receipts from internal revenue resources, those for April being $10,648,880. The deficit for fiscal year on Jan. 31, 1895, was $34,246,386. On Feb. 28 it had been increased to nearly $38,000,000, and on April 30 to about $45,250,000.

Interesting Data.

In the first three years of the 11 years, from 1863 to 1873, inclusive, during which the United States collected an income tax, the exemption was $600; the tax on incomes from $600 to $10,000 was 3 per cent; the tax on incomes over $10,000 was 3 per cent on $4400, and 5 per cent on all above $5000. From 1865 to 1867, inclusive, the tax was 5 per cent on incomes from $600 to $5000, and 7½ per cent beyond $5000. From 1868 to 1871 the exemption was $1000, and in 1872 and 1873 it was $2000, the rate remaining the same. Nearly $347,000,000 was raised altogether. The highest amount was about $73,000,000, in 1866, and the next highest, $66,000,000, in 1867.

The large amount of revenue from any one class of incomes was in 1866 from those above $5000, which then yielded $34,500,000, but the next year it fell to $25,500,000, while the income from incomes below $5000, which was $26,000,000 in 1866, rose to $31,000,000 in 1867. The uniform tax of 5 per cent on all incomes over $1000, which was first collected in 1868, was then $32,000,000, sank to $25,000,000 in 1869, rose to $27,000,000 in 1870, and sank to $10,680,000 in 1871, though in that year $3,750,000 was collected under the law making the exemption $2000, so that the total collections from this source in that year was $14,430,000.

Wide Variance In Figures.

The feature of these figures is their extreme irregularity. For instance, 5 per cent on bank dividends in 1866 yielded $4,196,000, and in 1869 $3,769,000, a shrinkage of about 10 per cent, but the total collections from a tax of 5 per cent on individual incomes shrank from $73,000,000 to less than $35,000,000. The exemption in 1866 was $600, and in 1869 it was $2000. In 1872, the last year that the tax was collected with much thoroughness, the total revenue was only $14,436,000, and about $6,000,000 of this came from dividends.

In 1869 it was estimated that 250,000 persons in a population of 40,000,000 paid an income tax, the total of which was $40,000,000. Allowing for the families of these taxpayers, they represented only 1,000,000, or 1 in 40 of the population.

Doctrine Questioned.

DALLAS, May 21.—The Southern Presbyterian general assembly, on the appeal case of Rev. D. B. D. Greer from the western Texas presbytery to the general assembly, decided upon a trial by commissioners. Rev. Dr. Greer is charged with being unsound, doctrinally.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Another autioneer has been added to the list.

Mrs. C. B. Newton has returned to her residence on Atlantic street.

Geo. W. Gallagher, the advance agent, is billing the city for Scribner & Smith's circus.

The members of the City Council were carried home in the electrics Monday night.

Mayor Hodges forwarded the resolve passed last night to the Legislature today, but without his signature.

L. M. Pratt & Co. begin today independently to close their store at 6 o'clock on Tuesday evenings as well as Wednesday and Thursday.

The adjourned hearing by the county commissioners on the widening of the Hancock street railroad bridge at Atlantic will be held at Dedham on Thursday.

Milton will now rejoice at the prospect of an electric railroad at an early date as President Graham says he will commence work on the new extension immediately.

Postmaster Burke has placed a letter box on the outside of the postoffice so that persons desiring to mail letters at night will have no difficulty in finding the place.

Sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning unknown parties entered a partially completed house at Norfolk Downs and stole a quantity of mason's tools.

The first meeting of the Quincy Christian Endeavor Union will be held this evening at the Centre Congregational chapel. Two speakers will discuss "The Work of an Ideal Union." There will be music, readings, etc.

A distinguished honor has been conferred upon a Wollaston young lady. At a meeting of the senior class of Smith College, held last week, it was voted to accept for the ivy song for Commencement the poem written by Miss R. Adelaide Witham, '95.

A pleasing entertainment was given at Music hall, Atlantic, Monday evening, in which the following talent appeared: J. Brooks Oakes, tenor, Madam Simpson, contralto, Frank King, violinist, D. R. Beckford, reader, and Edward Josselyn, accompanist.

The widening and extension of Hall street, at West Quincy, from Crescent street to the railroad station appears to be well done, and the city fathers are to be spoken well of for it, and the residents of that section congratulate themselves on the good street and sidewalk with curbing, and no fear of being crowded to the wall or wading through mud in case of meeting a team in passing through.

A RECORD BREAKER.

The City Council on Record Against the Metropolitan Water Bill on a Close Vote—The Longest Session of the Year.

As expected the Metropolitan water supply system furnished the opportunity for considerable discussion Monday evening at the regular meeting of the City Council. All the members were present, and all stayed until the adjournment at 11.15, when special electric cars conveyed them home. Quincy is on record against the Metropolitan system and Representative Hammond has been requested to secure an amendment to the bill. The meeting is reported very fully below:

Addition to Park.

A communication was received from the Mayor inclosing a letter received from Charles Francis Adams, in which he notified the city that he had conveyed to the city certain land adjoining Merry Mount park.

Referred to a special committee consisting of Councilmen Bryant, Shackley, Nickerson, Sprague and Rice.

A communication was received from the City Auditor, stating that a bill had been received for $25 from Story & Thorndike for legal services in 1894, and asking if same should be charged to unexpended balances. Referred to Committee on Finance.

Petitions.

Numerous petitions were received for licenses for carriages, intelligence offices, victuallers, etc.

On motion of Councilman Lamb the petitions of Scribner & Smith for a circus license, and C. H. Johnson for an auctioneer's license, were laid on table and subsequently granted. The others were referred to Committee on Licenses.

Councilman Shackley presented a petition that Cross street between Crescent and Common streets be put in a passable condition. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Lamb presented a petition for a bridge over Furnace brook on Reardon street. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Johnson presented petition that North street be put in better repair. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Bryant presented a petition of the Quincy Street Railway for relocation on Copeland street between Water street and Crescent street and on Franklin street between School street and Water street. To Committee on Streets.

Metropolitan Water.

The joint committee on Water Supply and Legislature Matter to whom was refered the communication of the Mayor in relation to the Metropolitan Water Supply bill, offered a majority and minority report.

The majority report was that our Representatives be requested to vote for the bill.

The minority report made by Councilmen Bigelow and Phillips asked that our Representatives amend the bill by having Quincy stricken out.

Councilman Bigelow said he offered this to give Council opportunity to see if the city wanted the bill. It means an expenditure of thirty or forty millions. He moved a public hearing at this time.

Councilman Rice favored the majority report, and Councilman Phillips the minority.

Upon motion of Councilman Rice the reports were laid on the table and a public hearing held.

Chairman Pattee of the Water Board told why he considered it for the best interests of Quincy to favor the Metropolitan bill. Our water was poor in quality and inadequate in supply. In 1894 the average daily consumption was 789,000 gallons and the total supply but 820,000. One day 1,500,000 gallons were pumped. The average consumption of 1895 would be 1,000,000 gallons per day. The Water Commissioners therefore felt the necessity of looking for additional supply for this year. The Blue Hill river was merely a brook, and the only way to utilize it was by constructing a reservoir near present reservoir as suggested. Another way was to build reservoir below present one to take the overflow. Still another way was to purchase water from an adjoining town. This seemed the most practicable as the Metropolitan system would give us water in three years. He quoted from report of State Board of Health as to Quincy's outlook for additional sources which did not promise anything permanent. The Metropolitan system opens a door through which we should enter. The bill entailed no hardship upon Quincy. It proposed a rebate for water furnished. Boston would pay about four-fifths of cost, and other cities about one-fifth. He quoted article 19 as to assessment, but thought it impossible to estimate the same. In closing he was pleased to say he had never advocated purchase of present water works.

H. M. Federhen said he also had been an opponent of purchase of present works, but it was another issue now. This was the legislative body elected to represent and protect the interests of the citizens of Quincy. Here was a scheme involving an expense of over a million dollars, yet the Council had never considered it. This Council for its own honor should get Quincy exempted until an opportunity was offered to investigate the scheme and other sources. Did any man ever hear of such proceedings? Quincy had expended considerable in investigating water sources and in 1890 received a voluminous report from Engineer Blake who found an independent source with a supply for 30,000 people which could be supplemented. It would yield 1,500,000 gallons per day on an average, and all this in addition to our present supply. City now has plans on file and Council should know all the facts in this report. Engineer Blake estimated the cost of a dam at Blue Hill at $60,000 while the state board placed the figures at $600,000. Someone was wrong. The Metropolitan bill has many provisions the Council should understand. No one could tell what such a vast system would cost. Was provision in bill whereby Quincy could enter later. The bill took the control of the local system out of the hands of the City Council, contrary to the charter.

Representative Hammond said that he had personally notified the Mayor and a member of the Water Board when the hearings were being held. He thought interests of Quincy had been taken care of.

Councilman Johnson asked if Quincy was represented at hearings and Representative Hammond said, he thought not.

Councilman Phillips said the more he studied the Metropolitan bill the less he knew of it. If Metropolitan water was better we should not use any of our own, so rebate would amount to nothing.

Henry H. Faxon considered it would be unwise for Quincy to enter any such scheme. Taxes were already high enough. Experts and lawyers would make any water rily. What guarantee have we that Metropolitan water will be better. Water was now extravagantly used.

Mr. Pattee said he was here to represent the Water Board. He believed taxes will be higher if we don't enter the Metropolitan system. Regarded Blue Hill river as but a rivulet, and quoted from State Board that Metropolitan supply would cost but two-thirds of what the Blue Hill source would.

Mr. Federhen argued it was the duty of the Quincy Council to investigate. We had expert testimony that present supply was good for 15 years, and with Blue Hill for 50 years.

Mayor Hodges was in sympathy with report of committee. Had arrived at conclusion by study. Believed Quincy should not oppose Metropolitan system. We had different opinions on present supply. I know a larger supply is needed now. Blue Hill river was practically dry last summer. It was not good in quality or adequate in supply. We should look into subject for future. It was more dangerous to taxpayers to keep out of Metropolitan system.

The hearing closed but the discussion continued in the Council.

Councilman Bigelow moved to substitute minority for majority report. The meagre supply at Blue Hill in summer was the best argument that damages would be slight.

Councilman Bryant was with the minority report. The chairman and superintendent had told him the supply was ample to supply Houghs Neck, and pipes were being extended there now. Believed Engineer Blake knew what he was talking about in his report. Thought cost to enter Metropolitan system later would not be much larger than at present.

Councilman Johnson protested against hasty action on such important matters. Matter should have been brought to attention of Council sooner. Our action tonight will have effect. He favored minority report, and complimented stand of the DAILY LEDGER.

Councilman Russell believed report of majority hasty, and it was not accompanied by any reasons why we should enter Metropolitan system. He favored minority report.

Councilman Pinkham said the committee was satisfied that Quincy needed an additional supply. Blue Hill river might avail for 20 years but then it would be necessary to look elsewhere. It was uncertain what it would cost to enter Metropolitan system in 1920. This important matter should have been brought to attention of Council before. He favored majority report.

Councilman Adams said we want facts as they are, not as they should be. None of us had made a study of the issue. It was forced upon us. It would be very expensive to enter later. We should all act for Quincy and the taxpayers. We would all put off action if we could, but must make our decision tonight. It was hard to tell whether Metropolitan system or Blue Hill would cost the most. The Blue Hill addition complete, would cost at least $400,000, and only last until 1920. We can come in today on fair terms, on terms of equality. Of late there had been a tremendous increase in use of water. These were days of great projects and the Metropolitan supply should be developed. Either State Board of Health was entirely wrong or else Quincy did not know its needs. Those who had made a study of it believed it was clearly for our interests to go in.

Councilman Bryant cited fact that it was proposed to let Quincy enter Boston sewer system at a small cost. Believed we could also enter later the Metropolitan water system on fair basis. In 20 years we may be part of Boston, and then it would cost nothing to enter. It was a grave mistake to enter now. This was the most important question ever before Quincy.

Councilman Geary thought we should go in now if at all.

Councilman Rice said we had no figures on Blue Hill supply or cost.

Councilman Adams said we don't want to throw away money on Blue Hill source.

Councilman Nickerson believed now the time to go in.

RALEIGH, May 21.—The ceremonies of unveiling North Carolina's monument to her Confederate dead attracted here the greatest crowd ever assembled in North Carolina. All parts of the south were represented. Chaplain Smedes delivered the invocation. Captain Ashe made the address of welcome. The oration by A. M. Waddell followed. Colonel Tate presented the monument and Governor Carr accepted it. Then Julia J. Christian, 8 years old, pulled the cord, and the veil fell. There was a great shout of applause as the noble monument stood revealed, while the Wilmington division of the Naval Reserves fired the governor's salute of 17 guns. Ex-Governor Holt and ex-Congressman W. H. H. Cowles then spoke. Thirty-six thousand people saw the parade.

Destitution Ahead.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 21.—Herbert Murray, the British relief commissioner, has closed down the relief works here. A CALL EXTENDED.

Rev. E. N. Hardy Invited to Become Pastor of Quincy Church.

Meetings of the parish and society of the Congregational church were held Monday evening to hear the report of the committee appointed to consider candidates for a pastor.

This committee reported unanimously on the name of Rev. E. N. Hardy of Hollis-ton, who preached Sunday, and it was voted to extend a call to him to become the pastor of the church at a salary of $2,200.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Edward Southworth, E. W. Branch, C. T. Sherman, Theophilus King, R. D. Chase and John Evans were appointed to issue the call.

Rev. Mr. Hardy fitted for college at Cushing academy, afterwards graduating from Amherst college and the Hartford Theological seminary. He was then stationed as an assistant pastor for about two years at Phillips church, South Boston, and from there went to Holliston, where he has been about one and one-half years.

Brookline High 7—Adams Academy 4.

The game yesterday was marked by perfect fielding by the visiting nine, light batting by both teams and the effective pitching of North. His pitching was peculiar; the Academy boys hit the ball often, but it was only to retire at first base. North's out-drop was a puzzle.

The game was slow. There were no brilliant plays. Barker gave several bases on balls early in the game, but soon steadied down and did some good work. The game was won by the perfect fielding of the Brookline nine, and no other reason.

Seaver did excellent work in the field. Lewis' first base work was remarkably clean, his stops of ground balls being exceptionally good. The whole team put up a good, gentlemanly game. North made one unfortunate throw over Lewis' head and let in a run. This was the only error.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Brookline,	2	0	3	0	1	0	1	0	0	—7
Adams,	0	0	1	1	0	1	1	0	0	—4

Serious Accident.

Timothy McCarthy, a driver of one of Frost & Co.'s coal wagons, met with a serious accident at the Sailors' Home, Monday. He was at work hoisting the forward part of the wagon with a crank when it slipped off and he fell under the horses feet. This frightened the animals and one of the wheels passed over his side, inflicting serious if not fatal injuries, as there was about three tons of coal on the wagon at the time. McCarthy was removed to his home on Hancock street.

Verdict for $4,162.00.

(Special to the DAILY LEDGER.)

DEDHAM, May 21.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Frank P. Waterhouse vs. the City of Quincy have awarded Mrs. Waterhouse $4,162 34 for land taken by the Park Commissioners at Quincy Point for a playground. There were about eight acres in the taking.

That pharmacy fair's a good thing I gess. I vum ef I wa'n't so busy I'd like to go tu it myself, jes' ter see ther shotes."

—The exhibition scenes from Hawaii, including the famed Kilauea burning volcano, which attracted so much attention on the Midway Plaisance at the World's fair, is being exhibited in the Casino building, 541 Tremont St., Boston. It is an exhibit educational in character, and the visitor may derive a benefit and gain knowledge from seeing it. From the observation platform one sees just what they would see if they stood in the same position within the volcano crater.

—The work on the subway in Boston is progressing satisfactorily. Pile-drivers are driving into the mud on the Public Gardens the supports for the granite walls of the incline of the entrance. More human bones have been found in the cut through the Common. A tomb was opened Tuesday filled with the bones of the forgotten dead.—New England Farmer.

—Boston will be a great city next July, 50,000 Christian Endeavors are coming to the city. Two immense tents are to be erected on Boston Common, each capable of accommodating 10,000 persons, while all about will gather small booths, like unto the Fourth of July, to dispense lemonade and cooling drinks, cookies and other eatables. Then there will be a monster parade, such a parade which will exceed in numbers even the great G. A. R. parade of a few years back.

—Stoughton expects to have its electric railroad ready for operation by June 16. There has been some delay on account of the grade crossing of the N. Y., N. H. & H. Railroad.

A RECORD BREAKER.

Councilman Pinkham said it would not be necessary if in Metropolitan system to maintain a pumping station. With an abundant supply we would be in a position to supply all demands and the income would be large.

Mr. Pattee said the Boston Water Commissioners were really opposed to Metropolitan system, and considered it a great thing for surrounding towns, The minority report was substituted by a vote of 12 to 11, President Bass voting yea.

A roll call was not taken, but upon a standing vote the Councilmen voted as follows:

YEA—Bass, Bigelow, Bryant, Grindell, Johnson, Lamb, Phillips, Rinn, Russell, Shackley, Sidelinger, and Spear—12.

NAY—Adams, Barker, Dixon, Geary, Hayden, Nickerson, O'Brien, Parker, Pinkham, Rice and Sprague—11.

The preamble of the report was then stricken out and report adopted as follows:

RESOLVED: That our Representatives in the General Court are hereby requested to so amend House bill No. 1225, Sec. 3, line 11, so that Quincy shall be stricken entirely out of the act to provide for a metropolitan water supply, except by affirmative vote of the City Council and reference of the question of its acceptance to the legal voters of such city, and His Honor, the Mayor, is hereby requested to present these resolutions to the General Court in session on Tuesday, May 21, through our Representatives.

West Quincy Drunks.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

What a fool a man makes of himself when he is drunk. There are too many drunks in West Quincy and they are not sufficiently taken care of. One was taken in Saturday night, but released too soon, and was more uproarious than before, disturbing quiet sleepers; at one place ringing the door bell and trying to raise the windows in the house and barn. If the inmates had not known his condition by his frequent falls, they would have been frightened more than they were, but as it was, the sick suffered greatly. If a similar offense occurs again after arrest, a complaint will be entered. W.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. What Every Lover Thinks.

That the maid that he wooes is the fairest
Of all that the solemn stars see;
That her voice is the richest and rarest
Of all that have been or will be;
That her step when she walks is the lightest;
That her movements are made with more ease
Than the flag's when it nods to the zephyr,
Or fern's when it bends to the breeze.

That her tresses by far are sleekest
E'er seen since the launch of the ark,
And her eyes when she sighs are the meekest
That ever made mankind their mark;
That her brow is the noblest and purest
That Time, the gray scribe, e'er wrote on,
And her lips when she smiles just the sweetest
A lover's e'er feasted upon.

That the tenets she holds are the soundest
Of which this old world ever heard,
And her logical lore the profoundest,
Though others may deem it absurd;
That the songs that she sings are the dearest
Of gems ever strewed upon earth,
And she of all treasures the grandest
Since treasures and pleasures had birth.
—Alfred E. Hostelley.

We look before and after and pine for what is not.
Our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those which tell of saddest thought.

Disruption Avoided.

MONTREAL, May 21. — The Manitoba school question is virtually settled, through the good offices of Lord Aberdeen. The plan is for the Manitoban government to amend the school law providing for Catholic schools with the same curriculum as public schools, but with the addition of half an hour's religious instruction, three men to be selected by the clergy to form a Catholic school board. The remedial order will be withdrawn.

'Twas a Fake.

MADISON, Fla., May 21.—Although three days have now passed since it was first made public, nothing whatever can be learned to confirm the story of the criminal assault and murder of Miss Armstrong and the lynching of three negroes charged with the deed. The whole story probably is a fake.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Frost Has Done Considerable Injury to Buds and Blossoms.

Ice Formed In the Interior of New England.

Growth of Crops Very Slow on Account of the Unseasonable Weather.

BOSTON, May 21.—The New England weather bureau issues the following bulletin for the week ending May 20:

The weather for the past week has been unusually cold, with severe frosts in all sections. On the mornings of the 14th and 17th the temperature fell from 2 to 6 degrees below zero; ice formed and ground froze in all exposed places, except along the immediate coast. The mountains in the north were white with snow. The rainfall was light in all central and western districts, but from three-fourths of an inch to one and one-half inches fell along the coast.

Good Outlook For Grass.

The weather in Maine has been cold and disagreeable, and in places farm work has been retarded, but the rain has accomplished much good to grass and field crops. The only report that we get of expected injury from frosts to fruit comes from the central part of the state and from one correspondent only. Others say that the buds were not generally advanced enough to be seriously affected. The cool and rainy weather has thickened up grass, and it is now unusually promising. Farmers are reporting the pastures never better. The planting and sowing is well along, except in the most backward sections.

Early Garden Crops Killed.

The week has been generally favorable for farm work, and it has been pushed along as fast as was consistent for good results. Much of the grain has been sown, but the ground is too cold for seeds to germinate well, and in most places few of the field crops have been planted. The freeze of the 14th and 17th killed all early garden crops that were up, and reports indicate considerable damage to early apples and small fruits, especially in the south. One correspondent from Hillsboro county states that plums and grapes were totally destroyed, and that pears, apples, strawberries and blackberries are probably damaged 50 per cent. In more northern sections the fruit was not so far advanced and probably less damage resulted. Correspondents report considerable damage to clover by the frosts.

Rain Needed.

Very little growth has been made during the week, while all early crops not protected were killed by the severe frosts. Early apples were badly injured, though not all killed, and grapes were frozen; all this year's growth on the latter was killed, where not protected. The ground is being rapidly prepared, and considerable planting has been done. In Chittenden county the potato acreage has been materially increased. The strong winds have taken the moisture from the soil, and rain is much needed.

Caterpillars Plentiful.

The reports vary on the damage to fruit in this state very much. On warm hillsides, where the buds were most advanced, and on low lands, where the frost was most severe, probably considerable damage was done to all fruits, but generally it is not thought that material injury has resulted to apples, especially. Jabez Fisher of Fitchburg states that as far as he can judge the pears and apples generally are but little injured. He reports full apple blossoms on the 12th—three days later than in 1894, and 11 days ahead of the average for 39 years. The new growth on grapes and other small fruits was killed. Strawberries on early fields were considerably injured. All early truck crops that were exposed were injured. Asparagus was cut down, and has made extremely slow growth this week. The correspondent at Duxbury, in Plymouth county, reports that the cranberry crop, where not flooded, is reported ruined, notwithstanding great exertion to save it. From Carver the report is: "Cranberry bogs were badly damaged. Many who flooded their bogs on Monday night neglected to do so on Thursday night. At 11 p. m. the thermometer began to rise and no frost was expected, but at 3 a. m. it ran down very low, and more damage resulted than on Monday night."

Grass is generally very good, although the effects of last year's drought is showing in western counties. Caterpillars are reported very thick. In West Newbury the grange has a delegation of farmers on the road destroying their nests.

Grapes Suffered.

In southern Rhode Island it cannot be learned that any damage of amount has resulted from the frosts, but in northern counties fruit suffered, and all early crops that were above ground were cut down. As in other states, grapes suffered severely. The rain has been very beneficial, and grass is growing well in the south. In the north it is still thin, and the prospect is not encouraging for a full crop.

Grass and Grains Injured.

In central and western Connecticut there is much complaint of lack of rainfall, and consequent injury to grass and grains. Some report that the grass will hardly recover for a full crop even under favorable conditions. In the east and southeast plenty of rain came, and the conditions are very favorable, although the growth of crops were everywhere very slow on account of cool weather. Early potatoes, corn and garden truck were badly frosted during the week, and strawberries were everywhere much damaged. One correspondent from New Haven county reports $1000 damage on at least three nights of the week by frost, strawberries probably suffering most. He reports a discouraging outlook for peaches, but the Hale Bros., in Glastonbury, say: "Peaches were past bloom, the fruit just well formed, but incased in the shuck, which gave full protection. While in a few low places slight injury has been done to the crop, as a whole it has not suffered material damage, and, if present favorable conditions continue, there is far more on the trees now than they can possibly bring to maturity." They report some injury to strawberries, but think there are plenty of buds and blossoms left for a good crop. Generally, it is not thought apples have been injured to a great extent, though one correspondent from Fairfield county reports great damage to apples, as "all were in a pollerizing state, and the petals have turned yellow and dropped off." In New London county cherries are very promising, but in western Hartford county one correspondent states that cherries are ruined.

GOVERNMENT IS SHAKY.

Harcourt's Crusty Temper Highly Displeasing to Scotch Liberals.

LONDON, May 21.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt, leader of the house, was worried in the house of commons last night by Dr. D. D. MacGregor, a Scotch Liberal member, respecting the government's intentions toward the crofters' bill. Sir William replied that he would make a statement on the subject on Thursday next.

Dr. MacGregor angrily retorted: "That is not good enough for me," and the house shouted with laughter as he rose and paced the gangway with stately step, stood in the center of the floor, bowed solemnly to the speaker, and then, turning his back on the chair, walked out of the house. He shook hands with the attendants and the policemen, and announced to the reporters that he intended to resign his seat immediately.

Dr. MacGregor afterward carried out the threat and resigned his seat. The Liberal wire-pullers are working hard to induce him to reconsider his action, and especially as the government majority in last night's debate on the Welsh church disestablishment bill fell to nine.

Dr. MacGregor's action is an open expression of the dissatisfaction of certain of the Scotch Liberals at the shelving of business in the house, and is a sequel to previous expressions of irritation at the crusty temper of Harcourt when approached on the subject.

Important to Iron Hallers.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21.—An order of large importance to Iron Hall claimants was issued by Judge McMasters of the superior court yesterday, who directed that June 10 be fixed as the final date on or before which all branches of the order must complete their accountings with the receivers here, and all claims for allowance must be filed, under penalty of branches or individuals failing to comply with the order being sent out from all future benefit arising from the payment from the final payment.

A Marker For Maher.

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., May 21.—The Atlantic Athletic club opened up here last night. The principal bout was that between Peter Maher and Bob Marshall of England. Maher went at Marshall like a cyclone, and rained right and left hand blows on his head and jaw. The Briton went to his knees four times, and then went down and rolled over on his back. Referee Eckhardt saved him from a knockout by stopping the bout in the first round and awarding it to Maher at the end of 45 seconds.

Forcible Resignation.

COLON, May 21.—General Cabezas, former governor of the Mosquito territory, leaves for Managua tomorrow. General Cabezas was recalled, but he refused to surrender his authority unless compelled to do so by force. General Duarte, appointed to succeed him as governor of the Mosquito territory, then reduced General Cabezas and placed him under arrest. General Cabezas is presumably prepared to come to terms with the president.

Aimed at Europe.

MANAGUA, via Galveston, May 21.—President Zelaya gave a banquet last night to the special envoys of Honduras, Salvador and Guatemala. It is said that the meeting was for the purpose of advocating the union of the Central American states to take action against the importation of European products and to devise means against forced collections of damages, such as that recently threatened by Great Britain.

To Argue on Resentence.

ALBANY, May 21.—District Attorney Fellows made a motion yesterday before the court of appeals that an order be issued directing the warden of Sing Sing prison to produce Dr. Robert W. Buchanan before the court of appeals to show cause why he should not be resentenced. The court issued an order that the prisoner be brought before the court on Monday next.

Needed Legislation.

BERLIN, May 21.—The bill for the punishment of slave raiders and slave traders, who raid or trade slaves in the German-African territory, passed its second reading in the reichstag yesterday. A resolution was also adopted demanding that a bill be introduced to prepare the way for the abolition of domestic slavery in German Africa.

A MAN FISH.

Half a dozen men were talking trout in one of the up town hotels, after a shad supper, the other night. One of the party told of a three pound fish that he landed with a five ounce rod last summer, and another of a seven pound blackfish caught with a similar rod by a well known newspaper man, off the Great Kills, Staten Island, last summer. He was fishing for snappers (bluefish fry) and, hooking a blackfish in shallow water, near an old sunken wreck that lies there, fought it for over an hour and landed it. So the fish stories, true and otherwise, went on. Finally one of the party, a gunner, said, with a laugh:

"To hear you fellows talk one would think a six ounce trout pole and single leader would land a shark. Now, dust shot will not kill an eagle, though it may blind him, and I am a little skeptical about these fish stories."

The best fisherman of the party replied: "Well, you are a pretty good swimmer. I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll bet you a suit of clothes that if you will play the fish, with an ordinary trout line attached to a swivel between your shoulders, I, with a six ounce pole, will land you and bring you to bag."

The bet was accepted, and a few days later the contest came off in one of the swimming baths of this city.

A piece of ribbon was passed in a loop over each shoulder of the man fish and fastened between the shoulders to a fair sized swivel, to which was attached a 37 strand English woven silk line, which was reeled on an ordinary 5½ ounce trout rod. The fisherman stood on the diving platform, rod in hand, with the line rather slack, and the fish stood half way down the bath. The fish was to take a header, and this was to constitute the strike of the fish. The victory was to be decided by the swimmer reaching the end of the bath, or the fisherman towing him within reach of the landing net twice out of three tries.

The signal given, in dived the fish, and the fisherman gave him all the line he wanted until his head appeared, and then put on a little strain, which turned the swimmer slightly sidewise. The fish, not perceiving this for a second, struck out strongly for the end of the bath, but the strain, slight as it was, turned him more and more around, and turning his head to look he lost ground for a breath and was hauled over on his back. For an unincumbered swimmer to turn on to his chest from his back is very easy, but with that pull between the shoulders it is a very different matter. As a finger under the chin will hold a swimmer up when learning, so that touch of a finger on the line towed the swimmer half way down the bath before he could get the line slack and turn again. By that time he was nearly out of breath and still the trifling strain held him just enough to impede him without stopping him.

Slowly and steadily he moved ahead, combating the side strain this time by increased exertion of the left arm, and seemed in a fair way of making the goal, when, zip, the point of the rod swung over, and aided by the strong sweep of the left arm the strain caught the fish as if the butt had been given, and round he came again on his chest. A mad plunge to break the line resulted only in a loss of ten feet of line, but the swimmer secured his turn, and again set his face for the end. Moving the point of the rod to the left, to the right, raising it, sinking it, catching the man fish wherever he showed a weak spot, the wily angler played him right across the open space, and within ten feet of the end, and then, gauging the moment, he gave him the butt, and snap went the line and the fish struck home. One leg of the three for the fish. Time, 7¼ minutes.

The fish had a good rubdown, a hot lemonade and a rest of half an hour, and then a fresh start was made. This time the angler was more at home. Carefully handling the fish, he caught him rising from the header, and promptly turned him on his back in a way that surprised him, and as the fish plunged to the bottom to try to break the line again (this being the equivalent of sparring for wind), another round turn brought him to within 12 feet of the fisherman, and, struggle as he might, he could not get away. Plunge after plunge was of no avail and only prevented further reeling in, until finally a lucky turn brought the fish over, and he was promptly reeled in before he could get on his chest again. Time, 4 minutes. Leg and leg.

Another rest was taken, and now the fisherman wanted to back himself at 5 to 1 for the last leg, but not even the fish seemed inclined to take him. This time the fish dressed himself and rested an hour, walking around, and before going in taking a strong, rough rub. This time a curious thing occurred. As he dived in his foot slipped, and he struck the water sidewise. The anglers had him on his back under the water the next moment, and if he had persisted in reeling him up would possibly have drowned him, so helpless was the fish. Amid laughter he let up, and the fish was allowed to land and start again. This time a successful header was taken, and a strong fight made. Swimming solely with the side stroke, the fish could see all the movements of the angler and so forged ahead until the downward stroke of his right arm swept the bottom at the shallow end of the bath. Feeling the shallow, with victory within reach, the fish turned his head, and that moment the butt was given him, his feet were swung aside and under, and before he knew what had occurred he was in the center of the bath again. Once more he tried the side stroke, but he was fast tiring, and the varying strain of the line, now to the right, now to the left, soon put the issue beyond doubt, and he was towed within reach of the net in 7½ minutes. The swimmer said he was more tired than if he had swam a couple of miles in open water and is inclined to believe any fish story told him during the present season. —New York Sun.

Antiquity of Beds.

The ancients slept on the floor or on a divan covered with skins. During the middle ages beds were made of rushes, heather or straw. It is believed that feather beds were known to the Romans, since a mention in one of the poets of men so luxurious that they slept on feathers is supposed to refer to this kind of bed. Heliogablus had an air cushion, and also an air mattress, 218 or 222 A. D. Feather beds were employed by the better classes in England during the days of Henry VIII, though they were considered luxuries and were expensive. The bedsteads of the Egyptians, Romans and Greeks closely resembled our couches. The Russian peasants place their beds on top of the family oven for the sake of the warmth given forth by the fire. To the present day bedsteads in Holland and some parts of Germany are fitted up with two feather beds, on one of which the sleeper lies, while the other is used for covering.—Philadelphia Times.

THREE NEW YORK LANDMARKS.

Trinity, St. Paul's and Grace Church Defy the Advance of Business Interests.

Three landmarks on Broadway occupy sites so valuable that their retention confounds every calculation of real estate speculators. They are the only three churches on Broadway below Forty-second street, and each has come to be part of the popular distinction of that thoroughfare. They are Trinity, St. Paul's and Grace. All three have high claims to architectural eminence, and all three are of one denomination—the Protestant Episcopal.

The site of Trinity church, on Broadway at the head of Wall street, is appraised officially at $4,000,000; that of St. Paul's church, at Broadway and Fulton street, at $1,750,000, and that of Grace church, Broadway opposite Eleventh street, at $350,000. The frontage of Trinity church, including the churchyard, is 406 feet, of St. Paul's church 167 feet and of Grace church 150 feet. The gross valuation of these three churches is $6,100,000, and as the usual rate of assessment on real estate is about 60 per cent the actual market value of these three Broadway plots is in excess of $10,000,000. In European cities it is no strange thing for public thoroughfares to be dotted with venerable edifices erected for ecclesiastical, military or governmental purposes, but in New York, where there is no material partnership between church and state, and where, perhaps, more utilitarian views prevail than abroad, the steady enhancement of real estate values has been such that few religious corporations have been strong enough or felt themselves strong enough to withstand the temptation to sell. On the present site of Tiffany's, for instance, Broadway and Fifteenth street, formerly a church stood. There was a chapel opposite the site of the old New York hotel. But with the advance of business interests the congregations reluctantly moved away. These three landmarks named have stood their ground, and it seems probable that they will continue to do so.

St. Paul's church is the oldest religious edifice in this city. It was built in 1764, and it was the church which George Washington and his associates attended immediately following the inauguration ceremonies in 1789. Trinity church is the third of that name on the present site, and was erected in 1846. Grace church was erected in 1845, one year before Trinity, and the site, at the head of Broadway where it turns an angle at Tenth street, was carefully chosen. All three buildings enjoy the advantage of being kept in excellent repair, and are improved from time to time by the liberal contributions of benefactors. This is especially true of Trinity and Grace church, which may almost be said to improve year by year. It is a peculiarity of these three landmarks of New York that those who attend them come, in nearly every case, from sections of the city far up town, so that they are, if such an expression may be used, the three churches to be reached by carriage. Very few persons who attend either Trinity or St. Paul's reside in their vicinity, and the number of such parishioners decreases each year. Grace church retains its high rank architecturally, notwithstanding the number of new church buildings in New York, and it has the additional distinction of being popular for fashionable weddings.—New York Sun.

SURPRISED THE OLD MAN.

Richard Thought He Owed the Bank $1, but It Owed Him $343.25.

Richard Roe deposited $705 in the Bowery Savings bank between 1835 and 1849. Between 1835 and 1855 $753.89 was withdrawn. When the last draft was made the depositor's book appeared to be overdrawn $1. There were due Roe at that time, however, dividends amounting to $100.01, which had not been entered in his passbook, and the bank really owed him a balance of $99.01.

The balance went on accumulating dividends until 1875, when it became a dormant account and ceased to draw interest. The amount then due Roe was $343.25. Efforts were made without success to find him. He had become very poor, was too old and feeble to go to work again, and was given a home by his sons at Rutherford, N. J.

Roe always intended to repay the $1 he thought he owed, but never did so. President Townsend of the Bowery Savings bank, in looking over the books the other day, came across Roe's account. A new search was instituted, and Roe was found at Rutherford. He was told to call at the bank with his old account books. Shortly afterward he did so, accompanied by his granddaughter, 17 years old.

"I suppose it's about the dollar I owe your bank that you want to see me," said the old man, addressing Mr. Townsend. He was astonished when told the facts.

"Guess these bank people know what's right," he said to his granddaughter. "I never was much on 'rithmetic."

He pocketed the $343.25, shook hands with the bank officials and returned home.—New York World.

Cutting Remarks.

Mrs. Bugsby—You can't deceive me, John! I'm sharp, you know—sharp as a knife!

Mr. Bugsby—Yes, Maria, you resemble a knife—a table knife—you never shut up.—New York Ledger.

"Fiasco" means a bottle or flask. When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vase they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

Baluchistan was thus called because the Belooches were the dominant tribe in its river valleys and plains.

Candles were first used symbolically on the altars of churches in the fourth century.

COMRADES:

Twenty-seven years have passed since Memorial Day was established by the Grand Army of the Republic. Companies, Battalions, Regiments, Brigades, and whole Corps have passed in review before the Grand Commander of us all. Let us lay aside the cares and business of the day, and remember that Time with busy fingers is gently crumbling Bastion and Redan, Scarp, and Counter-Scarp meet in the ditch. A little ridge only marks the breastworks commanding the fields where contending armies fought, and over which hovered the Angel of Liberty, to give the countersign to the faithful to pass through the Golden Gates of Immortality.

That day by day the darkness of the grave covers one and another of our gallant Comrades who rode out the battle storm when the Angel of Death held high carnival; and soon "Mustered Out" will be written against the name of the last survivor of the War of the Rebellion, and the Grand Army of the Repulic will be known only in history. That our Comrades' graves are hallowed spots, worthy the flowers we this day bring as a loving tribute to their Loyalty and Patriotism Let us gather around these sacred places and perform this beautiful and touching ceremony while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of departed Comrades.

ON SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 26,

The Post will assemble in full uniform at Headquarters at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of attending Memorial services at the Congregational Church and listening to the Memorial address by Rev. W. Sherman Thompson of East Boston. Francis L. Souther Camp, No. 27, Sons of Veterans, Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, and all soldiers and sailors and the public in general are invited to be present.

The Post will again assemble at Headquarters at 6 P. M., and proceed by car to the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wollaston, by invitation of Comrade C. W. Wilder, pastor

Contributions of food and flowers from our many friends will be gratefully received and can be left at the following residences:

Mrs. F. P. Loud,	Ward 1.
Mrs. H. O Souther,	Ward 2.
Mrs. Edward Richardson,	Ward 3.
Mrs. John Gourd,	Ward 4.
Mrs. G. A. Stokes,	Ward 5.

The principals and teachers of the schools are invited to request their pupils to bring flowers to the schoolhouses on the morning of May 29, when they will be collected for the purpose of decorating our Comrades' graves Memorial Day. Bring flowers, that no soldier's or sailor's grave may be unremembered by this beautiful tribute.

May Thirtieth. Orders of the Day:

1. The Post will assemble at Headquarters in full uniform at 7 A. M.

2 Senior Vice Commander Wm. H. Warner will make a detail and accompanied by the Chaplain of the Day proceed to the National Sailors' Home and deposit a floral offering.

BULLET IN HIS HEART.

Manchester Police Sergeant Instantly Killed by an Ex-Patrolman.

Murderer Had Become Crazed With Liquor.

Claimed That His Victim Was Partly Responsible For His Troubles.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 22.—Sergeant Henry McAllister of the Manchester police department was shot and instantly killed about 11 o'clock last night by ex-Patrolman Fred A. Stockwell. Stockwell fired five shots at McAllister in the watchroom of the police station.

Stockwell had some imaginary grievance against McAllister, and while crazed with drink committed the deed. About a week ago Stockwell suddenly resigned from the police force, without apparent cause. Later it was found that he had been drinking heavily while on duty, and on the supposition that it would become known, he resigned rather than be dismissed. Since then he has been seen around town in a more or less intoxicated condition. He has frequently stated to officers and citizens that Sergeant McAllister and Captain Hildreth were the cause of all his troubles, and that they had been watching him continuously.

Last night Stockwell was reported to the police for making trouble on the west side of the city, and Sergeant McAllister started out to investigate. Shortly after he left the station, Stockwell went in and told Captain Hildreth that he was going away and would like to get his things. He proceeded to get them, and was in the watchroom when Sergeant McAllister returned from the west side. When told that Stockwell was in the watchroom, he went out and sat on the lunch table.

Was Quickly Done.

Captain Hildreth, who was in the front office, states that he heard no loud talk between the two men. The sergeant had not been there over five minutes when the reports of five shots, fired in rapid succession, rang through the station. He started for the watchroom, and was just in time to see Sergeant McAllister fall from the table on to the floor.

At that instant Patrolmen Welsh and Callaghan rushed in through the side door, having heard the shots from the outside. Stockwell was reloading his revolver, which was of 38-caliber and a five-shooter. Welsh drew his revolver and leveled it at the murderer, stating that he would shoot if Stockwell did not surrender. Stockwell carelessly threw his own weapon on the table, saying: "All right, Jack; I'll surrender. It's what I told you I'd do." Stockwell was immediately taken to a cell and a guard placed over him.

Captain Hildreth and others found that McAllister was dead. An examination showed that only two shots struck the sergeant, one merely grazing the right side of his head, but one had passed through his right lung and had entered the base of the heart. The murderer stood about six steps away from McAllister when he fired.

The dead man was 48 years old and unmarried. He had been connected with the Manchester department for about four years.

Stockwell is about 28 years old and is married, but has no children. Chief Haley and Deputy Chief Cassidy were summoned after the shooting. The chief was very much affected and broke down when shown McAllister's body.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 22.—The bill to provide a metropolitan water supply was discussed in the house and was materially amended. A number of the smaller towns objected to being compelled to join hands in the stupendous scheme, and on the request of their representatives it was voted to strike out Woburn, Quincy, Milton, Arlington, Brookline and Stoneham from the list of 20 cities and towns comprising the metropolitan water district. The bill was ordered to a third reading. The senate reconsidered its adoption of the Boston "Lexow" order and referred the matter to a committee of five to decide whether an investigation of the departments of Boston is just now practicable. The house engrossed the Boston city charter bill in materially the same form in which it issued from the senate chamber. The bill permitting any street railway company using electricity to use the tracks and motive power of a competing company was rejected in the senate, as was the bill apportioning the expense of laying out, widening or locating a public way, caused by the location of an electric or horse railway thereon. The house had previously engrossed both the bills. The governor's message vetoing the Holyoke police commission bill was tabled to await the governor's action on the Woburn police bill. The veterans' preference bill, giving survivors of the civil war the preference in appointments to public service, was engrossed in the senate and goes to the governor for his signature. A bill authorizing the city of Lowell to appropriate $800 for Memorial day observance was reported. The treasury committee reported against the house bill to increase the salaries of the justice and clerk of the Fitchburg police court. The bill to require the Old Colony Railroad company to restore the ferry between New Bedford and Fairhaven was substituted in the house for an adverse committee report. The bill for the construction of a court-house in Lowell, as originally reported, calling for an appropriation of $800,000, was sustained by the house. The bill requiring the county of Norfolk to erect a new courthouse in Quincy, at a cost not exceeding $70,000, was ordered to a third reading.

Aged Woman Assaulted.

SANDWICH, Mass., May 22.—Wallace Coombs, Arthur Avant, James Palls and Aleck Pocknett, aged between 20 and 35, of Mashpee, are in Barnstable jail. It is alleged that these parties went to the house of Mrs. Jeremiah Oliver, or Jeremiah "Queppish," sometimes called, who is over 60 years of age, living alone in the outskirts of the village of Mashpee, and assaulted the old lady, leaving her in a very precarious condition. They pleaded not guilty, and were put under bonds for their appearance for trial next Monday, owing to the condition of Mrs. Queppish, which is reported very serious. It is said that rum was at the bottom of the trouble.

Dexter Citizens Plead For Pardons.

AUGUSTA, May 22.—The governor and council were yesterday presented with a petition for the pardon of David L. Stein and Oliver Cromwell, now serving life sentences in the state prison for the murder of Cashier Barron, of the Dexter Savings bank, in 1878. Stein and Cromwell were not detected and tried until 10 years after the alleged murder. Leading citizens of Dexter affirm that they believe no murder was committed, but that it was a case of suicide.

Quarreled About Money.

BOSTON, May 22.—Hugh B. Smythe walked into the blacksmith shop of John Hewitt yesterday and asked him for some money which he claimed was his due. He did not get the money, and the men quarreled. Smythe went away, but came back to the shop and drew a revolver and fired at Hewitt. The bullet took effect in the blacksmith's head and mortally wounded him. Then Smythe put the weapon to his own head and fired. He was instantly killed.

Consolidated Must Settle.

PROVIDENCE, May 22.—The suit of William S. Snyder, a brakeman on the Consolidated railroad, for damages sustained by being run over by a train, was decided by a verdict of $15,000 for the plaintiff. Snyder was walking on the track, when his foot was caught by an iron splinter and a train struck him, necessitating the amputation of one leg. He claimed the accident was due to a defective track.

Barely Escaped Death.

BOSTON, May 22.—David Keefe, a subway workman, unconsciously walked under the pile driver yesterday. The big 2300-pound hammer of the pile driver was coming down with terrific momentum. It grazed Keefe's forehead, cutting a severe gash, and shattered the bones of his arm. He was knocked down unconscious, but soon recovered.

Precocious Providence Pair.

PROVIDENCE, May 22.—Lewis Brown, aged 11, and Patrick Shields, only 6, charged with breaking and entering, were sent up to the grand jury, in $500 bonds each. The boys went to Collamore & Hazard's store, smashed in a big window and then ransacked the place, finding very little to suit their fancy.

Shoe Men Worried.

HAVERHILL, May 22.—Shoe manufacturers of this city have as yet been unable to keep up the selling price of their shoes in proportion to the increase in the cost of leather. Many of the smaller firms will be obliged to suspend operations if the present state of affairs continues.

Quiet Again.

PROVIDENCE, May 22.—Threatened disturbances at Olneyville and North Providence did not occur yesterday, the only ripple in labor matters being that caused by the registration of those operatives who have returned to work upon the strikers' black list.

Twelve Years Added.

SALEM, May 22.—Frank C. Hunt, who is now serving a 20-year sentence in the state prison for murder, was arraigned in the superior court and given 12 years additional for breaking and entering.

Son Was Wild.

HARTFORD, May 22.—James Hogan, aged 70 years, of East Bristol, took a dose of paris green in a mixture of horse medicine and died. He had much trouble with his son, who is inclined to be wild.

HOT FIGHTING IN CUBA.

Jose Marti and Many Followers Fall Before Spanish Troops.

Arms, Horses and Valuable Papers Captured.

Twenty Insurgents Were Killed While the Spanish Loss Was Five.

HAVANA, May 22.—General Salcedo telegraphs that the government troops under the command of Colonel Sandoval encountered a force of insurgents at Bizas dos Rios. Many of the rebels were killed, including General Jose Marti, whose body was found by the government troops. General Maximilian Gomez is reported to have been seriously wounded.

JOSE MARTI. JULIO SANGUILY. GUIELLERMO MONCADA.

Another fight between the rebels and the government forces took place near Las Tunas.

Colonel Salcedo received positive information that a band of 700 insurgents under the command of Jose Marti, Maximo Gomez, Mazzo and Barrero had taken up a line of march to pass the river Cauto, thence to proceed in the direction of Victoria de las Tunas, with the design of Marching Upon Puerto Principe.

General Salcedo, confident of the accuracy of his information, dispatched Colonel Sandoval with a detachment of troops to march in pursuit of the rebel band.

Colonel Sandoval found the enemy encamped at a point between Bijas and Boca de Dos Rios, on the right side of the Contramaestre river, a small tributary of the Cauto, the confluence with which is but a short distance away.

The strip of land between the two rivers is high, thus making a strong position. Nevertheless, Colonel Sandoval attacked the camp and found his troops harassed by a scattering fire of single shots from cover. The fight lasted for an hour in this manner. At the finish the Spanish troops advanced and took the enemy's position, dividing the insurgent force in the narrow strip of land by their advance and compelling the rebels to fly in different directions. The Spanish troops hotly pursued and came upon the body of Jose Marti, who was later positively identified.

Of the rebels, 20 were killed and many of their wounded were left in the camp when they took flight. The Spaniards took some correspondence of the rebel leaders with the booty of the camp, among which are some important papers. The arms and horses of the insurgents were also taken.

The Spaniards lost five killed and seven wounded in the engagement.

The political effect of this event is discouraging to the cause of the insurgents.

Again on the Warpath.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Dr. Parkhurst called at the police headquarters yesterday and held a conference with Commissioners Andrews and Roosevelt. Charges were made, it is reported, against some of the highest officials of the department, and rumor has it that Dr. Parkhurst is about to commence another crusade. The commissioners and the minister refused to talk.

Regulations Not Violated.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, received a telegram from Inspector Lee, in charge of the meat inspection at Boston, which convinced him that the charges of carelessness in the work at this particular point are entirely without foundation.

As a large number of patients lack the necessary power to digest sold food, and would through the use of stimulants be merely excited and weakened, therefore, I regard it of immense value to the practitioner to bring to his aid a nutritious tonic and remedy like the Johann Hoff's Malt Extract, which will act not only as a tonic, but as a nutrient as well, and which is less exciting than wine as a stimulant.

The publishers announce that they have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. F. W. He is capable of estimating job work of all descriptions, and will canvass the city for job printing and advertising.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

THE CHAIRMAN of the Water Commissioners was pleased to tell the City Council Tuesday evening that he never had favored the purchase of the present works, and he did not seem to have a very exalted opinion of the department in general: the supply or the quality. Does he know that no city can enter the metropolitan district until it shall first have acquired the works of any water company in said city? This is laid down in Section 23. Quincy would not be in a position to go into the metropolitan "scheme" had it not taken possession of the works of the Quincy water company. With Monday's information, the voters would have hesitated to purchase had they known that by taking one, they would have another saddled upon them without their wishes being consulted. Suppose the cost of the Metropolitan supply is double what it is now figured and Quincy's assessment was $50,000 per year. It might have been.

The chairman quoted from the report of the State Board of Health that the cost of the Metropolitan system to Quincy would be but two-thirds of what the Blue Hill supply would cost Quincy. Since this report was made the estimate of the Metropolitan supply has jumped up from nineteen million to twenty-seven million, so that at the board's figures one will cost about the same as the other. But it is admitted that lawyers and experts stretch figures to gain a point, so it may safely be said that Blue Hill supply will cost much less and Metropolitan much more.

Reservoirs can be constructed as needed for about $100,000 each, and the yearly instalments and interest on these would not approach $25,000.

Extensions to be Rushed.

The street railway means business. Although the order granting locations did not pass the Council until late Monday night the rails have arrived at West Quincy, having been telephoned for Monday night. Work will either be commenced on the Braintree extension this week or not later than next Monday, and President Graham says that extension will be completed in ten days. Work will then be pushed on the East Milton extension, so that by June 17 both extensions will be in operation.

Waterhouse Award.

The land taken from Mrs. Waterhouse at Quincy Point for the Ward Two playground included about 54,000 feet. It was assessed for about $1,500, and about $3,000 was offered by the city. Mrs. Waterhouse sued for $6,200 and was willing to compromise on $5,000. The jury awarded $4,100, nearly eight cents per foot.

QUINCY GETS OUT.

The House by Request Drops this City from the Metropolitan Water Bill—Also Woburn, Milton, Arlington, Brookline and Stoneham.

Quincy is out! Out of the Metropolitan water bill which proposed to assess the city $25,000 per year, and goodness knows how much more.

Representative Hammond in presenting the amendment to the House to have Quincy stricken out, said the city was not able to pay the large assessment annually for forty years required by the terms of the act, having already laid out an expensive system of sewerage, and because the present water supply of the city is good for 15 years, and by taking the Blue Hill river can be made sufficient to last 40 years.

Mr. Grover of Canton, in moving to strike Milton from the bill, said that Milton has already a supply of water sufficient to last many years, especially in view of the fact that the town is not a manufacturing community, and her demands for increased supply are of slow growth. He further urged that if Milton is included in the act, the town will have to pay annually about twice what it now pays for water, and get no better supply.

As the bill was reported by the committees on metropolitan affairs and water supply, sitting jointly, it provided for a water supply for the following cities and towns: Boston, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Newton, Quincy, Somerville, Woburn, Arlington, Belmont, Brookline, Hyde Park, Melrose, Milton, Revere, Stoneham, Wakefield, Watertown and Winthrop.

Through the efforts of the local representatives in the House, Quincy, Woburn, Arlington, Brookline, Milton and Stoneham were exempted from the provisions of the bill, and at one time it looked as though the whole measure would fall through, but the other cities and towns did not withdraw, and the bill was finally advanced.

The vote dropping Woburn was practically unanimous. Milton got out on a vote of 76 to 59. Arlington by vote of 98 to 32, and Quincy and the other towns by scarcely a show of opposition.

There is no doubt that the members of the sub-committee who spent so much time in drafting the bill were disappointed at the withdrawal of the six cities and towns, but after the vote, Mr. Jones of Melrose said the committee felt fairly well satisfied with the result, and expressed his belief that in its present form the bill would accomplish all that is desired, especially as towns which are not now included in the scheme may come in later, on certain conditions.

It is said an effort will be made to have Quincy, Milton, Arlington and Stoneham reinstated, notice of reconsideration having been served by a friend of the bill.

THE Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

Quincy Delegates Tell of Its Inspiring Work.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon was devoted to reports from the delegates to the recent International convention at Springfield. The speakers were Mr. Everett S. Litchfield, Mr. Amos D. Albee and Secretary Colton.

Mr. Litchfield told of the two important features which were introduced for the first time, the educational exhibit and the athletic contest.

The former was located in the new association building, one of the store rooms, on the first floor, being entirely devoted to the exhibit of industrial work, including carpentry, woodcarving, electricity, chemistry, sign painting, molding, forging, chipping and filling, and clay modeling. The Quincy association had the largest exhibit in modeling, Dayton, Ohio, being the only other association to present this work.

The fourth floor was devoted entirely to the exhibit of technical and commercial studies. There were sixty-six Associations represented. The exhibit consisted of over 6,000 pieces, covering over 5,000 feet of wall surface. The cities were classified as A and B. Those of over 25,000 population coming in class A, and those under 25,000 in class B. There were comparatively few competitors in class B, showing that the Quincy Association was in the front rank in educational work. It was the only Association in Massachusetts to receive awards of merit in either class. Clay modeling and free-hand both received first awards, while monumental drafting, being unclassified, received honorable mention; as also did the printed matter advertising the evening classes.

The Quincy attracted much attention from those interested in the educational matter, because of its perfect adaptability to the leading industry of the city. The general secretary of the Chicago association told Secretary Colton that, so far as his knowledge extended, the Quincy classes had a larger per cent. of mechanics enrolled than any association in the country. The education exhibit of the Quincy association reflects great credit on Mr. H. W. Beattie, the instructor.

The athletic contest between the different states took place on the new Association Training School ground. The sports included basket ball, which was won by Springfield in the gymnasium, the pentathlon events, 100 yards dash, throwing the hammer, running high jump, pole vault, and mile run. The Massachusetts and Rhode Island team won this, Brigham of Worcester scoring 423 points, and Carter of Pawtucket 403. Both men received a gold medal. Other events were the indoor test and the team ball.

One of the important steps taken by the International convention was the plan adopted for the organization of an athletic league. Its objects are:—The cultivation of all-round manhood among members of the association, the securing, regulating and maintaining of uniform department tests and awarding of association championships. It will be controlled by the International organization, but educational and religious asssociations will be admitted as associate members. For prizes, certificates of merit are to be given to individuals, and championships will be given for team work alone. The championship emblems will be held only by the association and not by the men winning them.

Mr. Albee said that he noted two things on the athletic field which greatly pleased him. First, the perfect good feeling which prevailed throughout, and second, that there was no smoking. Mr. Albee told of Gen. O. O. Howard's eloquent address on "The Association in the Army," the aim of which was to show that the Association had a wonderful opportunity to reach the men in the army, as it is now reaching the men who are employed by the railroads.

The missionary spirit was aroused by addresses from Rev. J. L. Barton, D. D., David McConaughy, Jr., secretary of India, Louis Hub, secretary-elect of Ceylon, and Mr. D. Willard Lyon, secretary-elect to China.

No address however attracted more attention than that of Prof. Graham Taylor of Chicago university, who spoke on "The relation of the Y. M. C. A. to the social economic questions of the day.

Secretary Colton spoke of the opening service held in the Episcopal church, and known as the "Quiet day service," conducted by Rev. Floyd Tompkins of Providence, a prominent Episcopalian. It was a time of heart searching and meditation.

Flood tide was reached Saturday night and Sunday, when Mr. Moody put in an appearance with his famous quartette and a large male chorus. He spoke Saturday evening on "The Holy Spirit." At six o'clock Sunday morning he spoke again on the same line, to an audience of one thousand persons.

Sunday evening the farewell meeting was held in the City hall, from nine to eleven o'clock, and was attended by two thousand people. There were short speeches by representatives of eleven nationalities.

The convention will mark a new epoch in the education and athletic departments, as well as the study of sociological work. Notwithstanding the stress put on these new lines of work, the need of increased spiritual work, especially Bible study, was emphasized as never before.

Unity Club.

The annual and closing meeting of the Unity club was held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance. Mr. W. E. Simmons was director.

The programme was opened with a vocal selection by a trio consisting of Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Jeannette Noyes-Rice and Mrs. William E. Rowe. This was followed by a reading by Mr. E. Walter Arnold; a paper on the "Irish Land Question," by Mr. Frederick H. Bishop; an instrumental duett by Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Moorhouse; a vocal solo by Dr. George B. Rice; a piano solo by Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith; a reading by Mr. W. E. Simmons; an instrumental duett by Mr. and Mrs. Moorhouse, and a duett by Dr. and Mrs. Rice.

Light refreshments were served after the entertainment.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—H. W. Lull.

Vice-presidents,—Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith and Charles S. Comins.

Secretary and treasurer,—Miss Gertrude Sherman.

Executive committee,—The above officers and Miss Thayer, Rev. James E. Bagley and Frederick Kent.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

One of the steamers that is to ply between Quincy Point and Boston made her trial trip Monday.

The suit of Mrs. Daniel Flowers against Henry E. Hardwick to recover damages for injuries received by being run over by the defendant's carriage about a year ago comes up for trail at Dedham today.

Dr. Helen F. Pierce, formerly resident physician at Laselle Seminary, has recently given a lecture upon personal hygiene to the young women of Woodward Institute. The talk was not only instructive but of great interest.

The board of health should do something to prevent the dumping of old rubbish in the driveway to the brook on Washington street near Canal street. One side of the driveway is completely filled, and the odor that arises from it is anything but sweet.

Quincy council, No. 96, Knights of Columbus, had a large meeting at Doble's hall Tuesday evening at which State Deputy Kavanaugh of Everett and suite were present. The third degree was worked on twenty-five candidates from Quincy and other councils in a very creditable manner. Caterer Nash served a supper after the evening's work.

The wrapper manufactory at Quincy Point is in operation and about 30 girls are at work, although there are machines for many more. The concern is experiencing great difficulty in getting girls for some reason. They are employing all who apply, but the supply does not anywhere near meet the demand. It seems strange when there is plenty of work with reduced fares on the street railway that difficulty should be experienced in obtaining help in these times.

$10,000 for Mrs. Dennen.

The suit of Mrs. Joseph W. Dennen of this city against the Boston and Maine railroad resulted in a verdict of $10,000 and costs in the Superior court Tuesday. Mr. John W. McAnarney was counsel for plaintiff. This is undoubtedly one of the largest verdicts ever rendered in this State in a case of this kind.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—It was anybody's game from the start. Parrott was knocked out of the box in two innings. Phillips, who succeeded him, allowed Boston six hits more, two of which were scratches. Long's muff of a thrown ball in the fifth made possible the three runs which followed.

The Missing La Gascogne.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The French line steamship La Gascogne, which left Havre for this port May 11, and was due to arrive Sunday morning last, had not been sighted up to 4 o'clock this morning. It is now believed that something beyond wind and sea and fog has delayed the French liner. But whatever causes have conspired to keep her at sea so long, no one yet feels fear for her.

France Comes to Time.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The French government, acceding to the demand of the United States, has transferred the case of ex-Consul John L. Waller to ordinary civil jurisdiction. This action apparently nullifies the sentence of 20 years' confinement imposed on Waller by a French military court in Madagascar, and indicates either his trial by the civil judiciary or his ultimate release from prison.

Sub-Collectors Out of Work.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Commissioner Miller of the internal revenue bureau has sent the following telegram to collectors of internal revenue: "Dispense with the services of all persons employed under allowances made for the income tax work at the close of business on the 25th inst., reporting at once the number discontinued and salary and expense allowance to each."

NEW COURT HOUSE.

The Quincy Bill Ordered to a Third Reading.

IT WAS BY A NARROW MARGIN.

Brookline and Wrentham Representatives in Opposition.

It was a great day for Quincy in the Legislature Tuesday. In addition to favorable action on the water bill, the new court house bill bobbed up serenely and was ordered to a third reading by a vote of 65 to 58.

Representative Hammond of Quincy was in favor of the appropriation of $70,000, and it was also supported by Representative Wentworth of this district and Representative Grover of Canton, and Chairman Dallinger of the committee on County Estimates.

Some opposition was offered by Representative Utley of Brookline and Representative Whitaker of Wrentham.

The prospects are now good for the passage of the bill.

THE QUINCY UNION.

Four Societies of Christian Endeavor Join Forces.

The Quincy Christian Endeavor Union has been formed and now includes four societies, those of the Centre Congregational, the Quincy Point church, the Presbyterian of South Quincy, and the Memorial church of Atlantic.

The first meeting was held Tuesday evening at the chapel of the Centre Congregational church and there was a full house. Mr. W. P. Bailey presided.

After a praise service there was an address of welcome by the chairman. A constitution and by-laws were adopted, calling for bi-monthly meetings on the first Monday of the month.

The committee on nominations reported these officers, who were the choice of the union:

President,—Rev. Robert Westly Peach.
Secretary,—Dr. Myra E Drew.
Treasurer,—Walter Sampson.

Rev. Mr. Peach made a speech of acceptance, and was followed by addresses by George W. Coleman of the Golden Rule, and Arthur J. Crockett, president of the Boston Y. P. S. C. E. Both are members of the Boston '95 committee, and made entertaining speeches on the work of local unions.

The entertainment included a mandolin duett by Messrs. Chute of Quincy Point, readings by Miss Bertha E. Pugsley of Neponset, solos by Miss Isaac of Quincy, violin solos by Mr. Hayden of Atlantic.

Ice cream and cake and '95 flags were on sale.

A SECOND DEFEAT,

Hopkinson School, 13; Adams Academy, 12; at the Park Tuesday.

The fifty or more spectators who stood in the rain yesterday afternoon to witness the game between Hopkinson and Adams were treated to the best game of ball played at the park this year. The excitement began early and was kept up to the end.

Hopkinson started in with five runs. The ball was wet and hard to handle. Adams gained steadily till the score stood 7 to 6 against her. Then Hopkinson made one more run. In the sixth innings the home nine had a batting streak and scored five runs, making the score 11 to 8. In the next innings neither side scored. Then Hopkinson made three runs and tied the score.

The ninth innings opened with the score even. Hopkinson made two runs. Adams had the last chance at the bat. The Hopkinson pitcher was excited and by giving bases on balls filled the bases, but two men were out in the meantime. Another base on balls forced a run making the score 13 to 12 and leaving the bases still full. Manning was at the bat: a hit meant two runs and the game. The excitement was intense. Manning knocked a foul, the catcher caught it and the game was over.

There were many pretty plays in the game. Rippey made a superb one-handed stop of a ground ball, and a phenomenal catch of a liner. His many errors are due to the wet, slippery state of the ball. Kent's record of six put-outs at second only half tells of the excellence of his work. He covered a good deal of territory. Barker played a good game at third and Holden had a clean score at first. The battery work was good. Sargent and Kent did the best batting.

For the visitors, Dickson played excellently at short-stop, Lathrop rivaled Holden at first, and Barstow's center-field work was perfect. Every man on the Hopkinson nine hit the ball safely. Mr. Arthur Adams of this city is manager of the Hopkinson team.

It was a great game and the Academy boys have no need to be ashamed of their defeat.

Below is the score:

June Magazines.

The Delineator for June is called the outing number. Supplementing the large display of summer fashions is a finely illustrated article on Garments for Sporting and Outing Wear, in which Ladies, Misses and Girls will find their demands for Athletic Outfits fully satisfied.

Godey's Magazine for June cannot fail to attract universal praise. Beaumont Fletcher's review of "Trilby" as a play is one of the best and most comprehensive that we have yet seen, and is of interest to both those who have and have not seen this wonderful drama. W. A. Cooper has an article on the National Academy of Design, with magnificent illustrations.

—Don't get out of patience with the census man. He isn't a welcome caller to the majority of housewives; he asks too many personal questions; but the law requires it and the poor man is only doing his duty in this respect. Depend upon it his visit is as much an ordeal to himself as it can possibly be to you; in consideration of this fact treat him civilly. He is under oath not to tell on you, and is liable to a fine if he does. The questions as to the birth-place of father and mother are likely to be as perplexing as any to answer, and it will be well to look these up in advance of the enumerator's visit.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

WHY ADVERTISE?

BECAUSE IT PAYS!

HOW HE GETS HIS CUE

HE DOESN'T HEAR THEM, BUT "PICKS THEM UP" PROMPTLY.

A New York Actor's Way of Overcoming a Physical Defect—He Studies the Faces of the Other Players and Counts So as to Tell When to Speak.

Perhaps the most important detail for an actor to master in stage technicalities is the trick of picking up his cue quickly.

Every stage manager knows how important it is that that should be done. The slightest hesitancy in a quick conversation between the lines spoken by different people will surely spoil the scene.

The regulation way for actors and actresses to learn their parts is to also learn the cue, as well as their own lines. Perhaps it is well to tell the uninitiated that the cue consists of the last few words or the last sentence spoken by the other actor. Every part not only contains what the actor is to speak, but also the cue. Most stagefolk will tell you that it is more difficult to learn the cues than it is the lines, as they often convey no meaning to the mind.

Everybody in New York who goes to the theaters knows or has seen Joe Holland, as he is familiarly called. No one would suspect, to see Mr. Holland's rendition of the parts he plays, that he does not hear the cues.

However, that is a fact. Mr. Holland inherited deafness. His father was deaf, and his brother, Mr. George Holland, the Philadelphia manager, is also slightly affected that way.

It would seem to the average thinker that Mr. Holland would have found his infirmity a serious handicap in the dramatic profession. On the contrary, so cleverly has he managed it that it has been almost an advantage to him. Trivial noises do not disturb him, and in consequence he is able to give his whole mind, unaffected by any interruptions, to the work in hand.

Of course Mr. Holland is not absolutely "stone deaf," as the saying goes. He is what is generally termed "hard of hearing."

Now as to how he picks up his cues when he doesn't hear them.

He studies not only his own part, but also the entire lines spoken by other people when he is on the stage. He commits these to memory perfectly. So well does he learn them that he knows just how long it takes for them to be spoken. When he is facing the actor of whom he is to get his cue, of course he can readily tell when his turn comes by the movement of the other's lips or the expression of the face. He says, though, that the expression of the face is what he relies on most. He pays very little attention to the lips, because most people have a habit of moving the lips involuntarily even when they are not speaking, a trick that would easily lead him astray. The expression of the face, however, is a sure cue. It never fails him and always is the same.

His main reliance, however, is on a system of counting. He knows just how long it will take for each speech to be said. He times that speech by a certain number of counts. When he has counted the right number of times for the speech, he knows that it is his turn to speak. This is absolutely necessary when his back is turned toward the other actor.

As, for instance, Mr. Holland comes on the stage, his line is:

"Well; I've returned."

He then turns around to lay down his hat, and the other person says:

"But you were very late in getting back."

As soon as Mr. Holland turns he begins to count. When he has reached eight, he says in a nonchalant way, no matter what is happening:

"Well, aren't you glad to see me back?"

Long experience has shown him that in this way he picks up his cue just as promptly and perhaps more so than though he had heard it.

Mr. Holland's adroitness in this line has been the wonder of New York managers. Probably no one else knows of it, for, as is natural, Mr. Holland is a trifle sensitive on the subject.

The only drawback that he ever finds to his system arises from other faults than his own. He has never yet been caught napping except when some stage hand made a blunder or some unforseen accident occurred. This would only happen when some noise was to be made, as the ringing of a bell or the firing of a gun. In such cases Mr. Holland supposes, of course, that the property man or the stage hand is doing his duty. If, however, the property man or the stage hand does not do his duty promptly, Mr. Holland is left in an embarrassing situation.

Suppose, for instance, that in the business of a piece a bell is to be rung. It doesn't ring when it should. However, that's none of Mr. Holland's business. He naturally supposes that it has rung, and so he calmly says:

"Ah, there goes the bell. Go to the door, Mary!" And just after he has said it the bell rings.

Or if some one is to fire a pistol and Mr. Holland is supposed to be listening for the report with rapt attention, and when it should go off says, "At last he has fired," and no one has fired as far as the audience can discover—well, in such cases the stage manager swears and somebody gets fined.—New York Herald.

A Fitting Title.

"My dear," said Mr. Nubbs to Mrs. Nubbs, "what name did I understand you to call the new hired girl?"

"Japan," replied Mrs. Nubbs sweetly.

"And, pray, why such an odd name, my dear?"

"Because she is so hard on China, love." And the domestic entente cordiale remained serene.—Detroit Free Press.

"VENUS" AND "VICTORY."

How These Treasures of the Louvre Impressed an American Woman.

A New York woman, an art lover, is spending her first season in Paris, and how some of the old world art is seen through her new world eyes she tells in a recent letter:

"To the new world comer among the art treasures of this part of the old world, it is the marbles rather than the paintings to which the soul responds. With the first headless muse, whose flash still throbs after hundreds of years through the draperied masses of her thin Grecian robe, is established a bond which strengthens with almost every step through the marble lined Galerie of the Palais du Louvre. It is a bond that grows with the freedom and promise of the 'Winged Victory' and the fulfillment of the 'Venus of Milo.'

"No statue in all the world perhaps stands so irresistibly for the message of womanhood as does this 'Venus.' From her beautiful throat, her nobly set head and her sweet and gracious mouth to her yielding but perfectly poised body and her firmly set foot she speaks woman—the love, beauty, honor, sincerity, protection, fulfillment of true womanhood. As you look through a long vista of marble set halls and for the first time see the 'Venus' awaiting you at the end with her calm, hopeful smile, and as she draws nearer, until you have come to the salon reserved in simple entirety for her breathing self, you know that she has been waiting for you through the centuries, and that to see her is why you have come all across the miles of sea and land.

"She breathes and smiles as you look at her, and her eyes that have been telling their secret for ages look into yours and bid you read. They tell you that the hand of her fashioner, some young, hopeful enthusiast, some inspired master of his loved art, put, all unknowing perhaps, his very heart into this master creation of early Greece and of the whole world. What matters though he be unknown? To see the 'Venus' is to know that he has not lived in vain since it is his heart, speaking through time and the half century that she has dwelt among us, that has won the homage of every one coming under her spell.

"From one of the grand staircases of the Louvre, where she is set as its crown, the 'Winged Victory' flings her message of promise—the promise of which this age is coming to be the forerunner. As you come face to face with the glorious and sweeping lines of this noble figure you are conscious that it is she who has set the keynote of the times which are among us, the keynote of personal liberty. As the 'Venus' stands for the fullness of life, the 'Victory' stands now, as she did even in her centuries before the Christ, for the very breath of the liberty of effort which shall lead to fulfillment. She bids you hope and strive; the 'Venus' whispers of peace at the end."—New York Times.

THE CHINESE BUY OUR "SANG."

The Herb Dug by Amelie Rives-Chanler's Tanis Goes to Them.

"There is quite a trade in ginseng," said the broker. "We export it to China, for the people of that country have a profound faith in its efficacy. It seems to be a cureall with them. It is an old woman's remedy here—no one considers it as of any value, but the Chinese think differently. That which comes from Manchuria is esteemed better than ours; but, then, they take all we send gladly enough. No European nation sends any.

"The crop begins to arrive in June and keeps on coming till frost destroys the tops. We use the roots, and I believe they say the more forked they are the better. The last crop consisted of about a quarter of a million of pounds.

"Yes, it is growing scarce, for in the search the 'sang diggers' are exterminating it. Since I have been in the business—say, in 20 years—the price has risen from 80 cents per pound to $4. The plant grows in moist woods—in leaf mold—in every state east of the Rocky mountains. You have read a good deal about the 'sang diggers' of the North Carolina mountains, but there are people just like them at work within a hundred miles of the city—men, women and children, who find their work materially helps in getting a living.

"A man up in Onondaga county, in this state, has begun cultivating it, but at present he is giving his attention more to producing seed and urging others to cultivate it than producing the roots for market. He is an enthusiast on the subject."—New York Press.

Sousa.

A resident of Cincinnati who knew Sousa, the bandmaster, when he was a boy in Washington, says: "His mother was a German and his father a Spaniard, and though they had other children Mrs. Sousa would always talk of 'my Chonny' as if he was the only one. Chonny had every whim gratified. He wanted a piano, and got it; a violin, and got it; a drum, got it; a horn, got it. His parlor was like a music store. He played everything with ease. He was at first a drummer boy in the army, but later got charge of the Marine band, whether by influence or merit I do not know. That gave him room to develop, and he did to an amazing extent."

The Riddle of the Sphinx.

What's life? A shadow by a sunbeam shown,
A mazy music closing in a moan,
A bitter potion in a jeweled cup,
A queer conundrum—till we give it up,
And that, perchance, the truth, so long unguessed,
We all shall know or else be well at rest.

Nay, friend, such answers have the patent twist
Of youth—too oft a wanton pessimist,
Who, having gulped crude wine, or rather dregs,
Views life, not standing firmly on his legs,
But on his head, and so is forced to frown,
Because, of course, the show looks upside down.

Yet, verily, though life's gold hath much alloy,
Nor can each day be jeweled with a joy,
Still the skilled workman may at any rate
Carve out a loving cup and blithely pledge his fate.

—Henry Austin.

Who It Was.

"Now who is said to support the world?"

"Atlas, miss."

"And who supported Atlas?"

"Please, miss, my book don't say, but I 'spec' it was his wife."

Payn's American Duel.

James Payn, the English writer, tells this story of the "American plan" of dueling, wherein the two duelists, with one second, meet within doors and draw lots for who shall shoot himself: On a recent occasion, A and B, having had a "difficulty," A was the unlucky man, and retired for the purpose of self destruction into the next apartment. B and the second, both very much moved by the tragedy of the situation, remained in listening attitudes. At last the pistol was heard; they shuddered with emotion and remorse, when suddenly in rushed the supposed dead man, triumphantly exclaiming, "Missed!"

Elevator Wit.

The elevator boy in the big flat was airing his views to a passenger on the proper conduct of children.

"What do you know about it?" laughed the passenger. "You're not married, are you?"

"Well, no," replied the boy, "but I've brought up a good many families in my time," and then he gazed up the elevator shaft with a rapturous expression.—Detroit Free Press.

Tennyson.

Tennyson would not talk about his poetry, but once intimated that he regarded the "Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington" as containing more inspiration than some of the others. He once said that he did not expect much of the "Charge of the Light Brigade" and was agreeably surprised at its reception.

Alleged to Have Eloped.

ROWLEY, Mass., May 22.—A warrant was sworn out yesterday for the arrest of W. E. Smith, who left town Sunday with, it is alleged, the wife of W. P. Kent. The pair are thought to be in Providence. Mrs. Kent left a young child with her husband.

Embezzler Sprague Sentenced.

BOSTON, May 22.—Sidney W. Sprague, ex-cashier of the clothing house of Freeland, Loomis & Co., who pleaded guilty to embezzling $33,000 of the firm's funds, was sentenced to five years in the state prison.

Merchants Swindled.

NORTH ADAMS, May 22.—Three prominent merchants have been victimized in cashing checks, the signatures on which afterward proved to be forgeries. The name of M. L. Manchester was used.

Fatally Injured.

ROCKLAND, Me., May 22.—Joseph Farwell, aged 80, of Unity, was fatally injured by being thrown from a carriage yesterday. He was formerly mayor of Rockland, senator and councilman.

—We have been having some good beach weather this spring and building has been booming. There have been thirty-five cottages erected at Point Allerton.

A SOLDIER-STATESMAN

General Cogswell, a Valued Son of Massachusetts, Breathes His Last.

Wife, Son and Daughter at His Bedside.

He Rendered Distinguished Services Both In Times of War and of Peace.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—General Cogswell died at 1.15 o'clock this morning in his rooms at the corner of Fourteenth and L streets, with his wife and his daughter and his son by his side.

He passed away peacefully and painlessly. Bright's disease of the kidneys had gradually sapped the strength of his system, so that when the end came his life went gently out.

He had been dying since early Tuesday morning, when the physicians said that they did not expect him to live through the day. He surprised the doctors, as he has surprised them before, by showing even in his weakness more strength than they had supposed he had.

The sympathy and interest of the general's many friends and acquaintances brought constant inquiries at the door as to his condition, coupled with expressions of sorrow, and there was general regret throughout Washington when the news of his death was read this morning.

A Brilliant Career.

William Cogswell, son of George and Abigail (Parker) Cogswell, was born in Bradford, Essex county, Mass., Aug. 23, 1838.

He was educated in the schools of Bradford, Atkinson academy, New Hampshire; Kimball Union academy, Meriden, N. H.; Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., and Dartmouth college. He did not finish his course at Dartmouth, but went to sea, before the mast, sailing around the world. On his return, he entered the Dean law school, Harvard university, from which he was graduated in 1860.

Mr. Cogswell was first married in Haverhill, June 20, 1855, to Emma Thorndike, by whom he had three children. Mrs. Cogswell died April 1, 1877. Mr. Cogswell was married again in Salem, Dec. 12, 1881, to Eva Maria, daughter of Horatio Gates and Lydia (Carter) Davis.

His military record from April, 1861, to July 25, 1865, is one unbroken series of earned promotion.

He rose from captain to brevet brigadier general, United States volunteers. He had two years of service in the Army of the Potomac and two more in the western army under Generals Thomas and Sherman.

He was mayor of Salem 1867, '68 and '69 and 1873, '74; member of the house of representatives, 1870, '71, '81, '82 and '83, and of the state senate, 1885, '86; was department commander of Massachusetts Grand Army 1870.

General Cogswell was elected in 1886 to the Fiftieth congress and re-elected to the Fifty-first congress in 1888 and to the Fifty-second congress in 1890, where he has performed conspicuous service to his state.

Overthrow Inevitable.

LONDON, May 22.—The Times says: The government may cling to office for a few weeks, and delay, for a short time, the appeal to the country which has been overdue ever since the collapse of Mr. Gladstone's Irish policy, but the longer the inevitable ending is postponed, the more disastrous and discreditable will be the overthrow of the party which has striven to retain place after it had ceased to be in harmony with the national thought and feeling.

Patent Leather Will Go Up.

NEW YORK, May 22.—At a meeting in Newark, 15 of the leading firms of the country decided to advance the prices on all patent leather from 50 to 100 per cent, on account of the scarcity of green salted hides. The advance will affect shoemakers, furniture dealers, carriage manufacturers and others in whose lines patent leather forms an important feature, though it is said the carriage men will feel it most.

A Free-For-All Grab.

ARMOUR, S. D., May 22.—The opening of the Yankton reservation occurred yesterday. The fact that the sooners were not prevented from going upon the land prior to the hour when the lawful settler could, rendered the settlement of this reservation a sort of free-for-all. The newly opened land is dotted with shanties of homesteaders. The opening was without conflicts of a serious nature.

Big Tax on Sealskins.

MOSCOW, May 22.—A Russian company has obtained a government concession for a seal station on the island of Saghalien, St. Jonas island and other parts of the sea of Okhotsk. A tax of five gold roubles on each skin is to be paid into the treasury.

Gentry's Trial Postponed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—The case of James B. Gentry, who shot and killed Madge Yorke on Feb. 17, was called for trial yesterday, but, on application of Gentry's counsel, the trial was postponed until the June term.

Too Much Exertion.

SARATOGA, May 22.—Captain William Mitchell, U. S. A., retired, fell dead from apoplexy in the Saratoga casino, where he was endeavoring to learn to ride a bicycle. He was about 60 years of age, and quite corpulent.

Newspaper Correspondents, Beware!

HAVANA, May 22.—An official warning has been issued to newspaper correspondents, stating that, if they cross into the rebel lines, and return, they will do so under penalty of being shot.

For Amalgamation.

GALESBURG, Ills., May 22.—The convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen yesterday listened to speeches urging a confederation of railroad laborers' organizations.

Wool Market Dormant.

BOSTON, May 22.—The wool market is practically dormant. No changes in prices are recorded for the past week. Markets in the west are reported to be strong. The following are the selling prices of leading descriptions: Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, XX and above, 18@16½c.; X and above, 15@15½c.; No. 1 combing, 20c.; X Michigan, 14@14½c.; No. 1 Michigan, 17½@18c.; X New York, New Hampshire and Vermont, 16c.; No. 1 New York, New Hampshire and Vermont, 17@17½c.; Kentucky and Maine, ¼-blood combing, 16½@17c.; Indiana and Missouri, ¼-blood combing, 16@17c.; Texas medium, spring, 11@12c.; scoured, 27@28c.; Montana fine, medium and fine, 9@11c.; scoured, 30@32c.; Wyoming and Utah fine, medium and fine, 9@11c.; scoured, 30@34c.; Australian combing, superfine, 41@42c.; Australian combing, good, 38@40c.; Australian cross-breds, ½-blood, 26@28c. No Illinois wool on the market.

MONTEREY AT CALLAO.

A Guarantee That Recent Disturbances Will Not Be Repeated.

LIMA, via Galveston, May 22.—The arrival of the United States coast defense ship Monterey, at Callao, was welcomed here with great enthusiasm. This feeling is manifested in Lima at every evidence of friendship which the government at Washington extends to Peru.

The Monterey is to stay at Callao until after the presidential election in Peru.

The citizens of Lima express the feeling that if the Monterey had been in Peru during the recent revolution, when the revolutionists took possession of the city and fought in the streets, plundered many dwellings and leaving dead unburied in the streets for days, her presence would have prevented the appalling slaughter which paralyzed the government and palsied American interests.

Already, since the time of the election has been fixed and indications are offered of a return to a stable and permanent government, American interests show signs of reviving.

Killed Fourteen and Injured Many.

PINOLE, Cal., May 22.—The nitro-glycerine house of the California Powder works at Pinole blew up yesterday, killing five white men and nine Chinamen, badly wounding two white men and three Chinamen, and less seriously injuring many others. How the explosion occurred is a mystery. It is believed, however, that a Chinaman dropped a can of nitro-glycerine, and that the concussion from the explosion of this caused the general blow-up. Huge trees were thrown half a mile into the bay. Nitro-glycerine tanks weighing a ton apiece are 500 yards distant from the scene. Toes, hands and other parts of bodies were picked up a mile away.

Lord Douglas Got a "Bunger."

LONDON, May 22.—The fashionable promenade in Piccadilly was well filled with aristocratic spectators yesterday when the Marquis of Queensberry met his son, Lord Douglas of Hawyk. A few words were passed between them and there was a brief but determined conflict. The police arrested the combatants. Lord Alfred received a black eye. Neither the father nor the son preferred a charge against the other, so they were charged with disorderly conduct.

"Sooners" on Hand.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 22.—The Kickapoo country, which will be opened to white settlement tomorrow noon, is full of "sooners," and more are going there every day. The proclamation has not penetrated much beyond the towns on the railroads. In inland towns and on farms there are many people who have been waiting for years for the opening of the Kickapoo lands, and they hardly received the news in time to get ready for Thursday.

Bail of $5000 Forfeited.

CHICAGO, May 22. — Mrs. Warren Springer, the wife of a Chicago millionaire, was indicted some time ago for an alleged attempt to bribe a juror in a property condemnation suit in which her husband was interested. When the case was called for trial yesterday the defendant was not in court. A capias was issued and a bond of $5000 signed by her husband was declared forfeited.

The Chili-Bolivian Alliance.

BUENOS AYRES, May 22.—The treaty of peace and friendship concluded between Chili and Bolivia, by which Chili cedes to Bolivia a small strip of territory and a port on the Pacific, has been signed. Chili receives commercial advantages, and Bolivia becomes once more a country having an outlet for her commerce from the interior to the Pacific.

Favorably Received at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Paul Bray, son-in-law of Mr. Waller, who has had so much trouble with the French at Madagascar, called at the state department yesterday to resume the conference with Acting Secretary Uhl. It was plain that he had made a most favorable impression upon the officials of the state department.

Four Miners Suffocated.

WHEELING, May 22.—A Pole carelessly ignited a can of powder in mine No. 4 of the Monongahela Coal company, and a terrific explosion followed. Smoke was driven through the different parts of the mine, suffocating four miners. Quite a number of others were seriously, but not fatally, affected by the smoke.

Won't Visit the Wildes.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Mrs. Frank Leslie repudiates the story that she is about to leave for Europe to visit Lady Wilde to condole with her in her family troubles. Mrs. Leslie says she severed her connections with the Wilde family more than two years ago.

Fifty Victims of Fire.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 22.—In the town of Kobueden 200 houses have been destroyed by fire, and in the village of Rushany 250 houses have been burned. During these conflagrations a total of 50 persons were killed, and many more were injured.

Once More.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The validity of the Maxwell land grant, covering a large tract of land in Colorado and New Mexico, has been again confirmed by the United States supreme court.

MONEY NO OBJECT.

When It Allowed Telling Henry Clay the Sort of Partner He Was.

"One of my boyhood recollections," said General Wade Hampton, "refers to Henry Clay. He was a frequent visitor at my father's house in South Carolina. Both Clay and my father were ardent whist players, and nothing was more to their minds than the collection of a brace of gentlemen equally addicted to whist, and then the quartet would play for hours. While the name of whist might serve to imply a game where silence reigned, my father and Clay didn't play whist that way. They exulted audibly over a success, and did not hesitate when they were playing as partners to violently point out mistakes the other had made and attributed defeat to the other's ignorance and utter lack of natural intelligence. Indeed, on occasions particularly trying, they were even known to apply hard names to one another. This they did in no slanderous spirit, but to brighten up and sharpen the wits of the other to the improvements of his play. As they were sitting down to a game as partners one evening Clay remarked:

"'It's a great outrage the way we talk to each other, and my idea now, at the outset, is for each of us to put up $20, to belong to the one who is first called hard names by the other. If you assail me, the money is mine; if I forget myself, you take it.'

"My father readily agreed. He felt in a mild, agreeable mood. He was confident he would never again be a prey to the slightest impulse to speak harshly to his dear friend Clay. And, besides, it was his recollection that Clay was the man who raged and did the loud talking. So my father cheerfully placed the $20 on top of Clay's. He thought it would be a good lesson to the blue grass orator to lose it. As they proceeded with the game Clay made some excessively thick headed and ill advised plays. He led the wrong cards; he trumped the wrong tricks; he did everything idiotic in whist that he well could. My father's blood began to boil. As he and Clay lost game after game his wrath ran higher and higher. Still he bit his lip and suffered in silence. It went on for hours, until Clay made some play of crowning imbecility which lost him and my father the eleventh game. Flesh and blood could stand no more. My father sternly pushed the $40 over to Clay.

"'Why,' said Clay, opening his gray eyes with a look of innocence and amazement, 'why do you do that? You haven't said a word.'

"'No,' retorted my father, 'but I'm going to tell you, sir, that you are the most abject idiot, the most boundless imbecile that ever dealt a hand at whist. Yes, sir; I repeat it, you are the —— fool I ever met in my life.'"—Chicago Times-Herald.

A NEW AILMENT.

Women Who Imagine They See Objects That No One Else Sees.

Says a writer in The Popular Science Monthly: "Among the curiosities of thought which the physician meets with, unexpected perceptions suddenly appearing before the mind with the same vividness as ordinary perceptions, but without any accompanying external excitant, are not uncommon. A person may look at an empty chair and yet see a familiar form seated in that chair, and may even hear remarks made by this imaginary figure, and not doubt for a moment that the figure is an actual entity. I have seen persons talking with such imaginary individuals, and have had them assure me that they were as sure of their presence and of their voices as they were of my own. I have seen persons manifest the greatest alarm at the presence of animals about them, and refuse to believe from assurance that those animals were not there.

"A young woman having once been frightened by the sudden presentation to her of a white mouse has been troubled for years by seeing this mouse running about her, upon her clothing, upon anything she is handling, and even upon her food; and, as a result, she is in a state of constant agitation and perplexity, though at times convinced that this is the product of her mind. She washes her hands and her clothing frequently because she is convinced that this animal has made them dirty; and she cannot divest herself of the belief that it is real. I have been sometimes able to convince persons that such fancied figures were not real by asking them to push one eyeball up a little with the finger. This makes all objects about them seem double, as any one can prove to himself, but it does not double the false image—the product of the mind. The young woman just mentioned was much comforted by this device."

Abridged History of a Courtship.

Met him—met him again—in love with him. Met him again—no longer in love with him, but he is in love with me because I am so beautiful. Met him again—he is still in love with me, not only because I am so beautiful, but because I am also good. Sorry for him. Again I met him—he is colder than he was. Think he has forgotten my beauty and my goodness. I, however, am inclined to think that I am in love with him after all. How lucky he is, and how angry mamma will be. Mamma proved to be strangely pleased. Makes me angry, for I know she is not a good judge of a young girl's heart. Flirted with him outrageously to make mamma angry—didn't succeed. Engaged to him—glad. Married to him—sorry.—Philadelphia Times.

No Danger.

"The peculiar thing about this boa constrictor, ladies and gents," said the keeper, "is that it requires a young chicken about once a week. It is not dangerous except when hungry. It is very particular about what it eats, ladies and gents, and that young man that's smoking a cigarette can approach the cage with perfect impunity. It won't touch him."—Chicago Tribune.

A COWARDLY ASSAULT

Upon a Young Woman by a Man Supposed to Be a Thief.

Made a Brave Attempt to Defend Herself.

Assailant Finally Overcome Her and Knocked Her Senseless.

BOSTON, May 23.—Agnes Bancroft, a pretty housemaid, employed at the New Winthrop Hotel, at Winthrop Beach, had an experience with a rough-looking man, supposed to be a peddler, which she will remember the longest day that she lives. She was knocked senseless on the kitchen floor, and remained in that condition for four hours.

The hotel is not yet opened for guests, but a number of girls were there yesterday cleaning up the house. At about 10 o'clock in the morning a middle-aged, thick-set man, with a Hebraic cast of countenance, suddenly appeared in the kitchen door, and wanted to sell some trinkets. The startled girls did not buy, and the man disappeared.

About 3 o'clock the Bancroft girl was alone in the kitchen, cooking dinner for the other girls. Glancing up, she saw the same man who had come in the morning again standing in the doorway. Without saying a word he Vanished as Before.

The girl was frightened, and shut and bolted the door. Ten minutes later she was terrified to see him glide into the kitchen from the door leading to the dining room, having evidently come through the front entrance. She gazed at him, speechless.

This time he spoke. "Is the proprietor in?" he asked. The girl shook her head.

"Show me his room," said the peddler.

"I won't do any such thing. Go away," gasped the girl.

He came nearer to her. "Show me the proprietor's room and I'll make it worth your while."

Here the girl could stand it no longer. Shrieking at the top of her lungs, she seized a rolling-pin and aimed a blow at the man's head. It missed. He twisted the rolling-pin from her grasp and with his clenched first Struck Her on the Forehead.

She fell like a stone, and, when the women upstairs, who had heard her screams, came running down, there she lay on the kitchen floor. No trace of her assailant could be found.

In five minutes a policeman and a doctor were brought, but it took four hours of unremitting work to bring the girl to her senses. She is an attractive looking girl of 17, and tells her story positively.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 23.—The legislature adjourned early as a mark of respect for the late Congressman Cogswell. On the suggestion of Governor Greenhalge a committee was appointed to proceed at once to Washington and escort the remains to Salem. The flags over the capitol were lowered to half-mast as a mark of further respect. The governor transmitted to the house a message containing his veto of the Woburn police commission bill. The veto was tabled. The constitutionality of the "full payment" clause of the tuberculosis bill having been raised, Governor Greenhalge has directed the attorney general to give his opinion on the law. The bill to recompense Worcester for the money expended in establishing its sewage plant was ordered to a third reading in the house. The bill authorizing North Brookfield to issue $20,000 bonds for the completion of its water works was engrossed. Bills to raise the age of consent to 18 years and to compel manufacturing firms to pay wages weekly were ordered to a third reading in the senate. The bill to authorize the town of Nantucket to take the island of Muskeget for public purposes was engrossed. The rejection of the bill increasing the salaries of the justice and clerk of the police court of Fitchburg was negatived. The bill authorizing Lowell to make an appropriation for Memorial day was engrossed. A senate caucus has voted, as the sense of the body, that the legislature should be prorogued on the evening of May 29.

In a Pitiable Plight.

LYNN, May 23.—The Lynn board of health will ask for a warrant for the arrest of Frank Blanchard and his wife on the charge of neglecting their children, of whom they have five, four girls, aged, respectively, 17, 15, 13 and 6 years, and a boy, 2 years of age. The inspectors claim that both the parents are employed during the day and that the condition of the house in which they live is dirty in the extreme, and that the children have not attended school for over two years on account of insufficient clothing.

Safe Works Burned.

CAMBRIDGE, May 23.—The plant of the Damon Safe works, this city, was reduced to ashes this morning. The works covered 1½ acres and consisted of wooden buildings. The railing and woodwork of the West Boston bridge caught fire and was considerably damaged, as were other buildings in the neighborhood. The loss is estimated at $125,000.

Got Their Guarantee.

PROVIDENCE, May 23.—The spoolers and twisters at the Mingo dye works informed the manager yesterday afternoon that they would strike if the firm did not agree to give up dyeing cloth for the Manton mills. The strikers received the assurance of the firm that no more work would be received from the Manton mills while the strike there lasted.

POPE'S EXHORTATION.

Greater Harmony and Union of Mind Desired by the Church.

Can Be Accomplished by Faith, Hope and Charity.

The Present Is the Time to Seek and Pray For the Unity of Christendom.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Following is a synopsis of a translation given out by the apostolic legation here of an encyclical letter from the pope, which is addressed to the heads of the Catholic church throughout the world, and is a plea for universal prayer looking to the unity of Christendom, to be offered before and on Pentecost:

"Most worthy is the prayer which the church never ceases to offer to God, that wherever Christian people exist there should be one faith of mind and holiness of action. In like manner we have never failed to nourish among Catholics that desire for union, and even now are we more strenuously urging it on those whom the church has been calling back to her fold.

"The source from whence we are especially to expect assistance and success for these designs and plans of ours is none other than the 'Father of Mercies,' whom we rightly invoke and to whom it pertains to illumine our minds and graciously to turn our wills to the way of salvation. Catholics surely cannot fail to see how grave and important is the work we have undertaken. On it depends the eternal salvation of many, together with the spread of divine honor and the glory of the Christian name.

"No season could be more fitting for this work of piety than that in which, long ago, the apostles, after our Lord's ascension into heaven, remained together 'Persevering in prayer with Mary, the Mother of Jesus,' awaiting the promised 'Power from on High' and

All the Gifts and Graces.

"'In the multitude of the faithful there was but one heart and but one soul.' For this reason we have thought it well, by our exhortation and call, to excite the piety of Catholics, that they may, following the example of the Virgin Mary and of the holy apostles during the nine days preceding the sacred feast of Pentecost, pray God with one mind and with special fervor, renewing and repeating the petition, 'Send forth Thy spirit, and they shall be created, and Thou shalt renew the face of the earth.'

"Since the Holy Spirit is, above all things, charity, it is greatly to be hoped that, the spirit of error and wickedness being put down, greater and stronger harmony and union of mind will prevail as they should among children of the church, who should do nothing in strife; should think the same things, and, united, should have the same charity. And so, perfecting our joy, may they form one strong and flourishing body, not in the name only, but in fact.

"From this example of Christian harmony among Catholics themselves, from this piety in praying the divine paraclete, is specially to be hoped the reconciliation of our separated brethren, for which we so earnestly labor; so that they may come to feel the same in themselves as in Jesus Chrish; and, being at last united with us in faith and hope, may be joined with us also in the Bonds of Perfect Charity.

"And now, besides the blessings which the faithful who respond cheerfully to our call will certainly and abundantly receive from God for such an activity of piety and fraternal love, it has pleased us to add and bestow the reward of sacred indulgences from the treasure of church. Therefore, to all who for nine consecutive days before Pentecost either publicly or privately recite some special prayer to the Holy Spirit, we grant on each of those days an indulgence of seven years and seven quarantines and a plenary indulgence on any one of those days, or on the feast of Pentecost itself, or on any day of the following octave; provided, having confessed their sins and received absolution and holy communion, they prayed God according to the intention which we have above expressed.

"We further grant to those who desire to repeat for eight days following Pentecost the same conditions that may gain both of the above mentioned indulgences. These indulgences may be applied to the souls in purgatory, and, by our authority, we decree and order that they shall be available each year for the future; those things being observed which are required by the law and custom.

"Given at St. Peter's, Rome, under the seal of the Fisherman, the 5th of May, 1895, in the eighteenth year of our pontificate."

A Gloomy Picture.

LONDON, May 23.—The Marquis of Salisbury, addressing a meeting of the privy council last night at Brandford, attributed the stagnation of capital to the distrust of the present government. He said that there are sullen ranks of half-starved laborers who, if the unemployed capital be invested, would enjoy an unrestricted industry and a happy home. But, between the overflowing coffers and the suffering laborers, there flows a black, impassable stream of distrust.

Won't Go Abroad.

SYRACUSE, May 23.—When Tom Eck was asked last night what he intended to do, now that the L. A. W. has declared Johnson a professional, said: "You can say positively that we will not go to France or abroad to ride. We will find a way to get along in this country." Johnson agreed with his manager.

Biters Bitten.

ATLANTA, May 23.—The order of railway conductors exonerated Grand Secretary Daniels of the serious charges made against him by the Camden (N. J.) division, and ordered the division disciplined for circulating the charges.

Uprising of Creeks.

EUFAULA, I. T., May 23.—The Creek nation is in a state of insurrection against the tribal heads of the government. The misappropriation of funds is the cause. Armed bands are moving on Okmulgee, the capital.

Seeds 2,000 years old have been known to sprout.

Brussels Carpets.

Our Spring stock is particularly strong in Brussels, of self-colored designs, or two or three tones of colorings, with border to match. The same may be said of our assortment of Wiltons, for that matter.

Our line of these goods is unquestionably larger than that of any other Boston or New England dealer — very likely on a par with any house in New York, even.

We have for years made a specialty of exclusive styles, which are owned by us, and cannot be obtained elsewhere.

The present tariff (which only went into full effect Jan. 1) has combined with other causes to greatly lower the prices of all carpets, whether foreign or domestic.

General Order No. 1.

QUINCY, May 14, 1895.

COMRADES:

Twenty-seven years have passed since Memorial Day was established by the Grand Army of the Republic. Companies, Battalions, Regiments, Brigades, and whole Corps have passed in review before the Grand Commander of us all. Let us lay aside the cares and business of the day, and remember that Time with busy fingers is gently crumbling Bastion and Redan, Scarp and Counter-Scarp meet in the ditch. A little ridge only marks the breastworks commanding the fields where contending armies fought, and over which hovered the Angel of Liberty, to give the countersign to the faithful to pass through the Golden Gates of Immortality.

That day by day the darkness of the grave covers one and another of our gallant Comrades who rode out the battle storm when the Angel of Death held high carnival; and soon "Mustered Out" will be written against the name of the last survivor of the War of the Rebellion, and the Grand Army of the Repulic will be known only in history. That our Comrades' graves are hallowed spots, worthy the flowers we this day bring as a loving tribute to their Loyalty and Patriotism. Let us gather around these sacred places and perform this beautiful and touching ceremony while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of departed Comrades.

ON SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 26,

The Post will assemble in full uniform at Headquarters at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of attending Memorial services at the Congregational Church and listening to the Memorial address by Rev. W. EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

QUINCY MAY have made a mistake in withdrawing from the Metropolitan water system, but it should not go into it blindly, and with the information at hand the City Council acted wisely in protecting its constituents, the taxpayers of Quincy. Who is the father of this movement? Not Boston, we understand, for they are reported to be opposed to it. Certainly none of the suburban cities individually, nor collectively. Quincy has not been asked to co-operate but at the eleventh hour was almost forced to enter, without even consulting its wishes.

If concerted action was desired all the towns in this so-called metropolitan district should have been notified at the start. The plan should have been explained at a public hearing in each, and all the light possible given. Failing to take any such course, it remained the duty of the executive to be alert to the city's interest; to have called the attention of the City Council to it at its inception; and thus have allowed Quincy to have taken a hand in shaping the bill, to have investigated all its provisions, and at the same time to have ascertained if it would not be more feasible to enlarge our present source of water supply.

Boston is certainly interested in the bill and it is reported today that Mayor Curtis will forego a contemplated outing of ten days at Rangeley lakes to fight certain amendments to the bill. He says, "It means millions of dollars to the city if these amendments are allowed to go through. We fought them when the bill was first introduced into the Legislature and they were taken out."

If it means millions of dollars to Boston it means millions of dollars to the outside district, for if Boston escapes for less, the outside district, to use a homely expression, will get "soaked" just so much. Quincy should not rest upon its oars because dropped from the bill, because the Legislature might take a notion to reinstate the city. Why should Quincy be assessed on a population of 28,000? Why should the works of Boston be purchased and not those of suburban cities? As all taxes are assessed on valuation rather than population, why should favors be shown to the rich towns of Brookline and Milton, which are better able to pay? Many other queries doubtless present themselves to our citizens.

SPEAKING OF "Home Rule in Granite Cutting," the Granite Cutters' Journal accuses the DAILY LEDGER of "assuming the same role as many congressmen did on the discussion of the Wilson bill during the last session in advocating free trade in every district but their own. The LEDGER did say that "Quincy might benefit some in Massachusetts if no stone for state buildings could be dressed in Westerly, in Niantic, in Barre, in Concord, or down east, because it would stand in to get more of this work, even though not cut in Quincy granite," but at the same time the LEDGER opposed the passage of any such bill. We not only have granite enough for the city and state, but would like to do work for other states and the Nation. Free trade among the states, but protection for the Nation.

ACCORDING TO the last annual report there was an unexpended balance of $13,007 22 of the original appropriation of $50,000 for playgrounds. The verdict of $4,162.34 for Mrs. Waterhouse will leave a balance of over $8,000, which should be expended for a playground in Ward One. The Centre ward has neither park or playground within its limits, and yet it needs a breathing spot more than any of the other wards. Now children of the centre are driven from one field to another. We do not advocate a playground simply for a ball field. The Faxon field on Canal street would make a "dandy" play-ground.

WOBURN SHOULD become a united happy family now, since Governor Greenhalge has complimented the city so highly. Small cities are fully able to take care of themselves. Rum and license are at present the great curse of Woburn, but her citizens will soon arise and overthrow both.

QUINCY YACHT CLUB.

Formal Opening of the Season With a Smoke Talk.

The Quincy Yacht Club attains its majority this year, it being twenty-one years this coming July since the club was organized by Mr. H. M. Federhen, Mr. James H. Slade and Mr. George T. Bigelow seated on a granite bowlder on Federhen's wharf.

The club house at Houghs Neck, though nominally opened on the 15th of this month, was formally opened with a smoke talk on Wednesday evening. Over one hundred members attended. There were also a large number of visiting yachtsmen, including Commodore Hartford Davenport, Secretary Frederick and Fleet Captain O. F. Davenport of the Dorchester yacht club; Secretary J. Everett Drew and Treasurer Frank E. Badger of the Squantum yacht club; Commodore Cavanagh of the Monatiquot yacht club, and a number of other well known yachtsmen.

Commodore Pettengill called the company to order and after a few remarks outlining the policy of the officers and standing committees for the ensuing season, presented Mr. Fred. B. Rice, the chairman of the house committee, as the presiding officer of the evening.

After two selections, one being in response to an enthusiastic encore, by the Quincy Mandolin and Guitar Trio,—Mr. Charles E. White and Mr. E. A. Chute, first and second mandolins, and Mr. V. W. Fuller, guitar,—Mr. Rice introduced Mr. Adrian Wilson, the famous sailmaker, and senior partner of Wilson & Silsby of Boston, who are at present getting out the sails for the Defender.

Mr. Wilson, in an exceedingly pleasing conversational style of delivery, held the closest attention of the yachtsmen for upwards of an hour, as he told in technical language of the method of weaving cotton duck, the experiments with the wonderful new ramie cloth, which were now being carried on under his direction, and the cutting and set of sails. Mr. Wilson alluded to the Defender's sails, which he is at work upon, and stated that the syndicate would have the best of materials used in the construction of the boat, regardless of cost.

After enjoying some of G. F. Wilson & Co.'s excellent cigars, which that firm presented to the club, the members were served with a lunch from T. D. Cook & Co.'s establishment.

Concert at Quincy Point.

An unusually pleasing concert was given Wednesday evening at the Washington Street Congregational church, which was greatly enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience.

The talent included the Baker Memorial quartette of Dorchester; Bert Poole, the well-known cartoonist; Mrs. N. S. Hunting, soprano; Mr. J. S. Kilby, baritone, and Mr. James F. Harlow, organist.

The programme opened with an organ voluntary by Mr. Harlow, and then came selections by the quartette, solos by Mrs. Hunting and Mr. Kilby, and interesting and amusing chalk talks by Bert Poole. Every number was thoroughly enjoyed and encores were frequent.

The concert was given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society, and was for the benefit of the church.

Probate Court.

About the only Quincy business at the Hyde Park session of probate court on Wednesday was the allowance of the account of M. H. Sturgess, administratrix of estate of W. A. Sturgess.

These wills were allowed: E. B. Elliott, Sharon, Ellen Elliott, executrix, bond $4,000; E. R. Shattuck, Brookline, H. H. Logan, executor, bond $50,000; Abner Barrows, Bangor, Maine, C. H. Miller, executor, bond $15,000.

Administrations granted: C. S. Young, Stoughton, M. L. Young, administratrix, bond $700; C. A. Andrews, Medfield, Martin Andrews, administrator, bond $3,000; J. V. Poor, Hyde Park, G. W. Bass, administrator, bond $3,000; M. C. Winch, Brookline, J. W. Winch, administrator, bond $35,000; J. P. Higgins, Hyde Park, Florida Higgins, administratrix, bond $45,000.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

Another case of diphtheria is reported in Wollaston this week.

Today is by far the pleasantest day we have had for a week.

Rumor has it that a new dry goods store is to be opened shortly in the centre.

Alzaman H. Maxwell of Atlantic was this week granted an increase in pension.

A. J. Richards & Co. are building another shed near their grain mill at the depot.

The old steamboat wharf at Lovell's grove is being replanked and put in thorough repair.

The Quincy gentlemen who participated in the pilgrimage to Philadelphia are expected home Friday morning.

The new bicycle track at Lovell's grove is about completed, and every night sees some of Quincy's fast riders in training there.

It was a juvenile day at the District court today some fifteen or twenty youngsters being arraigned for different crimes.

Will the other stores in the centre fall into line with L. M. Pratt & Co. and close their stores three evenings a week at 6 o'clock?

The steam yacht Pilgrim, which has been hauled up at Quincy Point all winter, is being painted and made ready for launching.

A hearing on the discontinuance of Miller's stile between Canal and Elm streets, will be given by the City Council on Monday, June 3.

Ex-Congressman Everett has written a tribute to the memory of Gen. Cogswell, by whose death he says the country has sustained a great loss.

The Adams Academy ball nine feel rather chagrined at their defeat by the High School boys Wednesday. It was another case of over-confidence.

Miss Daisy J. Adams, one of the teachers of the Lincoln school, was serenaded by her pupils Wednesday evening. She invited them in and a few hours were passed pleasantly.

Judge Flint of the Quincy court is the new grand chancellor of the Grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, being elected to the position on Wednesday.

The residents of Washington street, Quincy Point, take pride in keeping their lawns looking nicely and no prettier places can be found in the city than there.

The Clover Whist club wound up its season Wednesday evening in a very enjoyable manner. Dinner was served at the United States Hotel, after which the party visited the theatre.

Today is the feast of the Ascension and services were held in all Catholic churches this morning. The first mass at St. John's church was celebrated at 5.15 o'clock, and the second at 8 o'clock.

At the drive whist contest last evening by the members of the Granite City club and their ladies, the lady's prize was captured by Mrs. E. W. H. Bass, and the gentleman's prize by Mr. Joseph C. Morse.

A remark overheard the other day: "Oh, yes! Houghs Neck is a pretty place, but it does not cost much to get there, does it?" Come, President Graham, be as liberal to Houghs Neck as you are to Weymouth and other parts of Quincy.

At the meeting of F. L. Souther Camp, S. of V., on Tuesday evening, final arrangements were made for the observance of Memorial Sunday, May 26. The camp will attend church with Post 88, G. A. R., morning and evening, and on Memorial day will assist the post morning and afternoon. Tuesday evening, May 21, a surprise party at West Quincy, at 7.30. Two applications for membership were elected. Visitors were present from Waltham.

Coddington vs. Adams.

Since the nines from the Coddington and Adams schools met at Quincy Adams last week, the supremacy has been in dispute, because the scorers did not agree as to which club won. The Coddington boys are satisfied now and hope the Adams boys are. The nines met Wednesday on Kemp's field and the Coddingtons won by a score of 29 to 20, as follows:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Coddington,	13	0	1	4	3	3	3	2	0	0—29
Adams,	4	7	2	0	0	4	3	0	0	0—20

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles.

NOT A WASTE OF TIME.

The High School Club Endorses the Newspapers of Today.

The president, Miss Rothwell, took the chair Wednesday, at the meeting of the Quincy High School Debating Society. Miss Rose Coyle, secretary, offered her report. The entertainment was as follows:

Recitation, "Killed at the Ford" Longfellow, Miss Mary A. Cashman, '95.

Songs from "Hamlet," Miss Sullivan, '95. Of special interest to the literature class.

Essay, "A Visit to a Peculiar Man," Miss Bates, '95. An essay of unusual interest, about a singular hermit.

Recitation, Miss Greany, '95.

Essay, "Dreams of the Past," Miss Daisy M. Lowe, '95. A pleasing series of reminiscences.

Recitation, "Something Left Undone," Longfellow, Miss Jones, '95.

Essay, "The story of a Slipper," Miss Vogler, '95. This composition gave an excellent account of the life and adventures of a slipper.

Recitation, Miss Bemis, '95. All about a modern old-fashioned clock.

Miss Hay "make up" her debate of last week.

Miss Emery was elected president and took the chair.

The debate was on this subject:

Resolved,—"That it is a Waste of Time to Read Newspapers."

The affirmative was taken by: Miss Peterson, Miss Rothwell, Miss Ramsey, Miss Sweeney, Miss Willett, Miss Mary Pitts.

In the negative were: Mr. Marnock, Mr. McIntyre, Mr. Pirovano, Mr. Warshaw, Mr. Wilder, Mr. Winlock.

Mr. Winlock, Miss Pitts, Miss Rose Coyle, Miss Jones, Miss Rothwell, Mr. Marnock, Mr. Chapman took part in the general discussion.

The critic, Miss Butler, then presented her report.

The board of decision decided in favor of the negative. The debate was spirited and interesting. Newspapers have evidently come to stay. The boys were highly gratified with the result.

WON BY THE HIGH.

A Surprise Party for the Adams Academy Boys.

The scorer of the Adams Academy nine has not recovered from the fatal eighth innings of Wednesday to forward the full score of the game with the Quincy High school nine.

The High won by a score of 12 to 7, making seven runs in the seventh innings. Such a result was unlooked for, as the Academy nine has been playing good ball for several weeks, and the High nine has just organized.

Chapman and Walsh proved a strong battery for the High, and some good work was done by Pirovano and Marnock. For Adams, Holden, Manning, Sargent and Rippey distinguished themselves.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
High,	1	0	0	1	1	2	0	7	0	—12
Adams,	2	3	0	2	1	0	0	2	0	—10

Cucumbers on Squash Vines.

Rogers, the grocer, has a little farm near his residence on Hancock street of which he is very proud. Here he has planted squash, cucumbers, etc., in great variety, not for market but for private consumption. His squashes and cucumbers are now about two inches above ground and he says that in looking at them Wednesday night he was surprised to find two good-sized cucumbers attached to his squash vines, and he is at loss to know whether to call it a freak of nature or a freak of neighbors.

MR. ADAMS' WISHES.

He Still Has a Personal and Hereditary Interest in Quincy.

The communication of Charles Francis Adams, conveying additional park land to the city will be of interest, and the LEDGER gives it in full:

MY DEAR SIR—I herewith send you a deed of conveyance from myself and Mrs. Adams to the inhabitants of Quincy of certain parcels of land lying in the immediate vicinity of the Merry Mount park, to be held in perpetuity as a portion thereof.

Some years ago, when the Park was originally laid out, it seemed to me highly desirable that a water drive should be arranged for, skirting the borders of the Quincy, the Fenno and the Mount Wollaston farms, and passing from one to the other through the Park. With a view to providing for this I then purchased the land now conveyed to the city.

As you are aware, circumstances have since led to a change of residence on my part, and I am no longer a citizen of Quincy. Nevertheless, I cannot but retain a deep personal, as well as a hereditary interest in the welfare of the community of which I and my family had so long been a part. It, therefore, gives me great pleasure now to convey this property to it in trust, to be held, like the Park, as a reservation and to be kept open as a resort for pleasure and recreation forever.

I will further add that it is my hope, and still is, that circumstances will so shape themselves that I may feel free hereafter to develop and perfect the Merry Mount park system.

While I can, therefore, in this regard now promise nothing, I may add that it will be a great disappointment to me should I not at some time during my life find myself in a position to carry out designs which I have long cherished, and to a very considerable extent matured.

I have the honor to be, etc.,
CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.
Hon. William A. Hodges, Mayor of Quincy, Mass.

—The large city is like the lion's den of the fable: tracks are numerous leading to it, but very few point the other way. It is easy to give up a good home and sure prospects for the lottery of city life, but when once settled in the dusty brick prisons of the city, to return again is not so easy as it seemed at first. Most city men talk and plan about returning to the farm, but very few manage to do so.—Ploughman.

—Public Printer Benedict did exactly right when he discharged a man employed in the government printing office for having in a newspaper letter over his own signature referred to Mr. Cleveland as a "grand old rascal," and accused him of being as "full of perfidy as a snowball is of water." Legitimate criticism is one thing, blackguardism quite another.—Pawtucket Chronicle.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

Gave Cincinnati a Lead Which Boston Could Not Overcome.

CINCINNATI, May 22.—Errors by Long, Bannon and McCarthy, together with poor hits, gave the Reds their lead in the first inning. In the seventh they made nine hits and 10 runs, though Long's fumble on what should have been the third out made possible six. Five hits and a base on balls made the total 21 in the last inning.

Sent Where They Belong.

FLORENCE, May 23.—The trial of seven anarchists, charged with the murder of Editor Bandi of The Gazzetta Livoreness of Leghorn, was concluded here yesterday. The crime was committed by a man named Lucchesi, who was sentenced to imprisonment for 30 years; a man named Romiti, the instigator of the crime, was sentenced to imprisonment for life at hard labor. One Franchi, an accomplice of the criminals, received the same sentence as Lucchesi, of 30 years' imprisonment. The others were acquitted.

But Little Hopes of Recovery.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Ex-Judge Advocate General David S. Swaim, U. S. A., retired, is lying critically ill here. General Swaim's financial transaction in connection with a firm of stock brokers some years ago led to a court-martial, from the absolute sentence of which he was relieved by President Cleveland. There is little hope advanced that General Swaim will survive his illness.

Widespread Grief.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Telegrams of condolence have been received by Mrs. Cogswell from Governor Greenhalge of Massachusetts, Mayor Turner of Salem, Joseph W. Thayer of Massachusetts, department commander Grand Army; W. H. Hall, president of the Second Massachusetts infantry, General Cogswell's own regiment, and many other friends of her husband.

Bandits Balked.

GUTHRIE, O. T., May 23.—At Ingram three masked men rode up to the residence of John Webb and ordered him to bring out his money under penalty of death. He agreed, and, stepping inside, grabbed a gun and fired through the window, knocking one of the bandits off his horse. They riddled the house with bullets, picked up the wounded man and left without any booty.

Lacked a Quorum.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 23.—The legislature adjourned yesterday for want of a quorum. Much indignation is expressed by the public at this action. It is believed to be a scheme of the government to delay business until Colonial Secretary Bond's borrowing mission is ended.

Receiver Clark's Denial.

OMAHA, May 23.—Managing Receiver Clark of the Union Pacific says the story that the Union Pacific would make important extensions on the coast is entirely untrue.

Money For "Land Seamen."

PROVIDENCE, May 23.—The legislature yesterday appropriated the necessary money to maintain the naval reserves, an organization recently formed.

A Woman's Health

depends upon the proper fulfillment of laws which nature prescribes. The removal of waste matter is a natural function which should be marked by a regularity of recurrences, and the absence of Headache, Backache and abdominal pains. When these symptoms are present they indicate a serious derangement of the vital organs, and that nature needs aid. Buker's Kidney Pills repair the breaks, tone the weakened parts and aid nature to properly perform the necessary work. Druggists sell the pills for 50 cents. The Closing Century.

As one who, aroused from sleep, hears far away
The closing strokes of some cathedral bell
Tolling the hour, strives all in vain to tell
If denser grows the night or pales the day,
So we, roused to life's brief existence, say
(We on whose waking falls a century's knell),
Is this the deepening dusk of years, the fell
And solemn midnight or the morning gray?
We stir, then sleep again—a little sleep!
(Howbeit undisturbed by another's ring!)
For, though measured with time, a century
Is but a vanished hour tolled on the deep,
Yet what is time itself? 'Tis but a swing
Of the vast pendulum of eternity.

British "Red Coats."

We never think of her majesty's soldiery as being attired in other than red coats and brass buttons, but there was a time when the regulation uniform of British soldiers was entirely different from what it is today. In the time of Henry VIII the colors worn by the army were green and white; later on, white, with a red cross on the breast. The first mention of the "red coats," which were so detested by the American patriots of Revolutionary times, is found in a circular letter by Edward, earl of Derby. It bears date of 1547, and is to the effect that "hereafter all foot and light horse soldiers will appear in a red coat made in cassock fashion."—St. Louis Republic.

Words In Use.

An expert in philology has computed that, with 1,000 words, an ordinary man can say everything that is really essential, and of these he commonly uses only 400 or 500, reserving the remainder for extraordinary occasions, when some idea out of his usual line of thinking occurs to him.

A MINISTER'S MISTAKE

Has Placed Venezuela In a Most Embarrassing Predicament.

The Simple Omission of the Word "Confidential"

Led to Giving out of Passports and Severing of Diplomatic Relations.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Serious trouble arose between France and Venezuela about four months ago.

A number of European ministers residing at Caracas united in a confidential note to their respective governments, in which they told of the lax condition of the government and the tendency of Venezuelan officials to avoid the settlement of just claims.

The note was signed by the ministers of France, Germany, Spain and Belgium. The Italian minister did not sign it, but sent it to his government "for information." By mischance, the "confidential" was omitted from the note, and it was published, with the signatures of the ministers, in the Italian green book.

Venezuela thus was pilloried. She at once gave their passports to the French, Spanish and Belgium ministers, but the German minister had left before this indignity could be offered to him. By this step Venezuela was almost cut off with relations with leading nations. Great Britain withdrew her ministers some time ago, because of the boundary trouble.

Uncle Sam's Aid Invoked.

It is with a view of overcoming this isolation that Venezuela now asks the kindly offices of the United States toward assuming relations with the rest of the world.

The request for the mediation of the United States is made by the Venezuelan government through its minister at Washington, Senor Andrade. He was instructed by the Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs a short while ago to request that the United States ambassador at Paris, Mr. Eustis, be asked to act as intermediary in restoring friendly relations between the two countries.

The United States legation at Caracas was also notified of the desire of the Venezuelan government, and sent a recommendation to the state department that the office of intermediary be accepted.

Department officials will not discuss the subject, and it cannot be learned whether instructions have yet been sent to Ambassador Eustis.

Fatal Premature Explosion.

ELKTON, Md., May 23.—W. C. Pyle and others were removing stumps in a newmade field, using dynamite cartridges for the purpose. Havlow was frightfully lacerated and partly dismembered, and expired shortly. Two others will die from the effects of their injuries.

NEW HAVEN, May 23.—Early this morning two burglars blew open the safe of the National bank in Clinton. The explosion was heard by the watchman of the town, who rushed to the bank. His arrival frightened the burglars, who fled. The watchman fired and the burglars returned the fire, but no one was injured. The burglars escaped without securing anything of value.

BEHRING SEA AGAIN.

Threatening Clouds Dispelled by England's Timely Explanation.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Ambassador Pauncefote yesterday communicated to the state department important advices just received as to the Behring sea, which will permit the American authorities to act intelligently.

Sir Julian also took occasion to clear up some misapprehensions as to the British naval vessels which will patrol Behring sea. The admiralty office at London had issued positive instructions for the detail of part of the Pacific squadron for a patrol fleet in the sealing waters. In accordance with these instructions, word was sent to the Canadian officials to furnish the list of ships to the ambassador at Washington. The officials mistook this to mean a list of all the sealing vessels, instead of naval ships, and accordingly the long list of private craft about to start for the sealing grounds, or already on their way, was prepared.

As soon as Sir Julian received the dispatch yesterday, he telegraphed to Ottawa that the list of ships previously called for referred to the naval ships, and these were desired at the earliest moment.

In view of the admiralty office's instructions, there is no further doubt that the patrol will be maintained, and all uneasiness of the department on this score has been removed. The conference with Sir Julian was very satisfactory and put a more favorable aspect on the Behring sea question.

Riot at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—A riot occurred last night among the strikers of the West Indianapolis Car works and several shots were fired between the striking union workmen and the non-union men at work. Frank Madsen, assistant foreman of the works, was returning home when he was surounded by a mob of strikers. With him was L. N. Hinkley, foreman of the works. The strikers attacked them, seriously injuring Madsen. Nine deputy sheriffs, who have been guarding the works, came to the assistance of the men, and several shots were exchanged. It is reported that one of the mob was shot and carried off by his companions. More trouble is expected.

A Flurry In Grain.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Intense excitement prevailed in grain circles yesterday, the transactions in wheat alone footing up to 34,000,000 bushels, making over 103,000,000 bushels for three days. At noon transactions showed an advance of over 3 cents, with business upon an enormous scale, as the result of reports of damage which poured in from all sections, attended with heavy orders to buy. As the market neared the close, July wheat touched 80 cents at New York. The market closed at top prices.

Claims Will Be Bitterly Contested For.

GUTHRIE, O. T., May 23.—The crowd of prospective settlers on the line of the Kickapoo reservation has more than doubled. The opening will be a scramble, and every claim will be bitterly contested for. Gamblers and town site schemers are robbing the people on every side. Deputy United States marshals brought out a score of "sooners" and placed them under arrest. It is reported that hundreds are in the thick woods.

A MORMON LESSON.

AN INDUSTRIAL SYSTEM THAT WAS FOUNDED BY A GENIUS.

Brigham Young Chose For the Cornerstone of State the Sound Principle of Industrialism—What He Did With the Problem of Irrigation.

On July 14, 1847, President Young and his fellow pioneers passed through the picturesque outlet of Emigration canyon into the valley of the Great Salt lake. Utah was then Mexican soil, and the leader believed he could found whatever character of institution should suit him and his people. In the bitter anti-Mormon crusades of the past it has been alleged that "Brigham Young had chains on men's souls." There is no doubt that religious superstition, rendered effective by the marvelous machinery of the church, was partly the source of the leader's irresistible power with his own people, but back of the religious superstition and the church organization stood the brain of a great and masterful man. He knew that his power, to be enduring, must rest upon something material and tangible, and this something he discerned to be the prosperity of the people themselves.

Brigham Young was an organizer of prosperity. This was the real source of his strength. He did not aim at mere temporary prosperity. On the contrary, he fought everything that tended to that end, going to the length of actually forbidding the opening of the rich mines in the mountains near at hand, because he abhorred the spirit of speculation. He chose for the cornerstone of his state the principle of industrialism, and that principle lies there yet, at the base of a noble edifice of economic fact, reared by human toil and held firmly in place by the average prosperity of all who had part in its building. If the great architect and the superintendents and foreman who surrounded him enjoyed a larger share of the profits than the workmen, it is also true that the humblest hewer of stone and carrier of mortar was paid in proportion to the importance of his labors. And what fair mind can object to an industrial system that yields these results?

So far as can be learned, Brigham Young had no previous knowledge of irrigation when he entered Salt Lake valley. He quickly realized that he had come to an arid country, which would be hopeless for agriculture unless artificially watered. With marvelous perception, he saw that irrigation was not a drawback, but an advantage of the most important sort. He realized that it meant freedom alike from the dangers of the drought and of the flood. He discovered that, having a rich soil and ample sunshine, and adding moisture by the construction of ditches, it was actually an improvement upon nature to be able to turn the "rain" either on or off with equal facility. And therefore he rightly concluded that he had found in these conditions the basis of the most certain worldly prosperity and the most scientific agriculture.

It remained for a later genius to remark: "Irrigation is not a substitute for rain. Rain is a substitute for irrigation, and a mighty poor one." But if the Mormon leader did not say so he evidently felt it. He perceived, furthermore, that irrigation was much more than an insurance policy upon the crops. It brought all the processes of agriculture within the realm of known facts, and that is science.

It even rendered possible the control of the size of vegetables, and this became important many years afterward, when the Mormon people added a great sugar factory to their industrial system, for it is important to grow sugar beets of about a standard size to get the best results. Moisture is required to give the beet a vigorous growth at the beginning, but when it is well started weeks of uninterrupted sunshine are desirable in order to develop the saccharine qualities. Much sunshine at the wrong time dries up the crop, while much moisture at the wrong time produces a beet pleasing to look upon, but unprofitable at the factory.

Brigham Young also realized, almost at the first, that the necessity of careful irrigation largely increased the labor upon an acre of land, but he found that this labor was generously rewarded by the increased yield both in quantity and quality. And from this fact he drew the most important principle of his commonwealth, which was the division of land into small holdings. Closely related to this is the other twin factor in Mormon prosperity—the diversification of farm products to the last degree.

Natural conditions, even where there is the most abundant and well distributed rainfall, are often favorable to the production of only a few crops. But the Mormons realized that the skillful application of water just where and when needed, and in just the right quantity, and by the very best method, rendered possible the widest variety of fruits, vegetables and cereals suited to the temperate zone. Thus Brigham Young taught the people that no man should own more land than he could cultivate to its highest point by his own and his family's labor, and that no man should go to a store for any article of food or clothing that could be profitably produced on his own small farm.—"The Conquest of Arid America," by William E. Smythe, in Century.

Toughened.

"Say," said the deputy, "I put No. 711 on the treadmill eight hours ago as a punishment, and I'll be dinged if he ain't goin on jist as chipper and happy as can be."

"Why, of course," said the prison warden in tones of disgust. "Didn't you know the feller was sent here for bicycle stealing? That sort of thing is right in his line."—Indianapolis Journal.

A substitute shines lightly as a king until a king be by, and then his state empties itself, as doth an inland brook into the main of waters.—Shakespeare.

BOONE AND THE INDIANS.

The Old Kentucky Hunter Was a Prisoner In Their Hands For Months.

Boone frequently took to the field on set expeditions against the savages. Once when he and a party of other men were making salt at a lick, they were surprised and carried off by the Indians. The old hunter was a prisoner with them for some months, but finally made his escape and came home through the trackless woods as straight as the wild pigeon flies. He was ever on the watch to ward off the Indian inroads and to follow the war parties and try to rescue the prisoners.

Once his own daughter and two other girls who were with her were carried off by a band of Indians. Boone collected some friends and followed them steadily for two days and a night. Then they came to where the Indians had killed a buffalo calf and were camped. Firing from a little distance, they shot two Indians, and rushing in rescued the girls.

On another occasion, when Boone had gone to visit a salt lick with his brother, the Indians ambushed them and shot the latter. Boone himself escaped, but the Indians followed him for three miles by the aid of a tracking dog, until Boone turned, shot the dog and then eluded his pursuers. In company with Simon Kenton and many of the noted hunters and wilderness warriors he once and again took part in perilous expeditions into the Indian country. Twice bands of Indians, accompanied by French, Tory and British partisans from Detroit, bearing the flag of Great Britain, attacked Boonesboro. In each case Boone and his fellow settlers beat them off with loss.

At the fatal battle of the Blue Licks, in which 200 of the best riflemen of Kentucky were beaten with terrible slaughter by a great force of Indians from the lakes, Boone commanded the left wing. Leading his men, rifle in hand, he pushed back and overthrew the force against him. But meanwhile the Indians destroyed the right wing and center and got in the rear, so that there was nothing for Boone's men except to flee with all speed.—Theodore Roosevelt in St. Nicholas.

WELLINGTON WAS WARNED.

A Design Which Might Have Materially Affected the Destiny of Europe.

The story goes that Wellington used to ride over daily, with one or two of his staff, from his headquarters at St. Jean de Luz, and take his stand on the top of a wooded sand hillock, called Blanc Pignon, on the left bank of the Adour, which commands a view of both banks and the town itself two miles up stream. This had been noticed by the French, who had still command of the river and the opposite shore, and the zealous sailor aforesaid, Bourgeois by name, conceived the plan of entrapping the great English captain by lying in ambush for him, with a few men, among the undergrowth on the sand dune, which happened to be on neutral ground just outside the line of French pickets.

General Thouvenot very honorably declined to sanction this tricky proceeding, but, seeing through his glasses from the clock tower of the cathedral in Bayonne that it was actually being carried out, notwithstanding his disapproval, he sent a mounted orderly, as fast as he could gallop, down the road on the left bank of the river (the present site of the Allees Marines) past the French pickets, to warn Wellington of his danger. The message was just in time. When within a short distance of the ambush, awaiting him on the narrow little track winding up the sand dune, he turned his horse and moved quietly off in another direction.

So says the story, which, entirely believed by the French, is placed on record by Morel, declared in a footnote to be correct, and then (1846) within the memory of living witnesses. We can entirely agree with the author in his succeeding remark, "Thus, by one of those strange chances beyond all human explanation, there fell through a design which might have materially changed the course of events."—Macmillan's Magazine.

Credulity of Russian Peasantry.

A writer in a French review tells a curious story serving to show the misery and credulity of the peasantry in some districts of Russia, as well as the audacity of the unscrupulous swindlers by whom they are sometimes fleeced. An adventurer was recently tried at Saratof for having induced a number of peasants to abandon to his keeping all their worldly possessions, with the view of emigrating under his guidance to—Jupiter. There they were to find land in abundance, easy to work and marvelously fertile. When the local authorities intervened, it was found that quite a band of emigrants were preparing to start for the blessed planetary colony. We are not told what defense was made by the prisoner, but it was quite apparent that his dupes were aware that it was to no terrestrial land of promise that he was to lead them. He was therefore indicted and condemned for "spreading false reports about Jupiter."—Westminster Gazette.

Altitude and Suffrage.

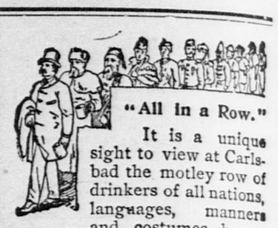

The United States voting precinct with the highest altitude is that of North Star, located near the celebrated North Star mine on King Solomon mountain, in San Juan county, Colo. The stone at the office door of the usual polling place is exactly 13,101 feet above the level of the sea. North Star, although almost inaccessible for from six to nine months each year on account of snows, generally polls 75 to 80 votes.—St. Louis Republic.

A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK.

Owner of Geneva Mills Gives Encouragement to Strikers.

Consents to Employ None But Union Help.

The Great Point For Which The Geneva Operatives Are Fighting.

OLNEYVILLE, R. I., May 24.—At yesterday's meeting of the executive committee of the Textile union a delegate who represented the Geneva weavers made the welcome statement that Maurice Ulmann, the proprietor of the Geneva mills, had made a request for a committee of conference, and that, in accordance with his wishes, such a committee would be selected, meet Mr. Ulmann and later report to the Textile union.

This is not only important to the Geneva mill weavers, but to all the textile workers of New England. The Geneva weavers struck, not for higher wages, but for principles. They insisted that Mr. Ulmann should make his a union mill, and because of his refusal they walked out, after he had discharged five union men, and, in doing so, retained in his employ as many, if not more, non-union men.

Mr. Ulmann offered a quasi-compromise early in the strike. He told the committee who waited upon him that he was and that he would assent to a plan to drop any five men they might elect, union or non-union.

Obliged to Reduce His Force,

The textile men declined to assent to this plan, for it involved the placing of names in a hat, and a chance drawing, which was liable to work against the union men.

Now Mr. Ulmann has, it claimed, consented to make it a thoroughly union mill. This is a great gain for the strikers, but better wages are now demanded.

At present, no discrimination is made in the Geneva mills on account of slow and fast looms, the slow loom schedule being observed, which permits the weavers on the fast looms run at these mills to make 1 cent a yard more than is given in the Olneyville mills, so that, should no further concessions be made, the Geneva weavers, by unionizing their mills, would be able to report a substantial victory.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 24.—Governor Greenhalge sent to the senate his veto of the bill to pay the farmers the full sound value of their slaughtered cattle, whether they have tuberculosis or not, and to restrict the cattle commissioners in the use of tuberculine. The governor also vetoed the bills raising the salary of the clerk of the Brockton police court and of the clerk of the district court of the southeastern district. The bill giving veterans preference in filling vacancies in the public service was passed to be engrossed by the house. The house rejected the bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to women, to be drunk on the premises. The senate engrossed the weekly payment bill, an amendment to make it apply to firms employing 50 or more hands, instead of 25 or more, having been voted down. Adjournment was taken until Monday. The house passed the strandway bill to be engrossed, which calls for $100,000, more or less, as may be needed in constructing a strandway in Boston, along the shore of Dorchester bay.

Salem Mourns.

SALEM, May 24.—The body of General Cogswell reached this city this morning. The body was escorted to city hall, where it was viewed by the citizens between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. The funeral services at the Tabernacle church were conducted by Rev. J. P. Franks of the Grace Episcopal church and Rev. J. L. Hills of the Tabernacle church. The stores and other business places closed at 1 o'clock, out of respect to the departed general. The postoffice and custom house were closed during the funeral. The saloons shut up voluntarily, and will continue so during the day, the proprietors having joined in a notice to the city marshal to that effect, unsolicited.

Still a Tie.

LOWELL, May, 24.—The common council, which is a tie, politically, met last night and Clerk Simonds read the writ of ouster on John E. Sullivan, who claimed the presidency. The council is unorganized, and 24 ballots failed to secure an election of a president. The body then adjourned until next Wednesday. City officials, schoolteachers, police officers, etc., have not received their wages for periods ranging from 6 to 10 weeks, owing to the deadlock. No appropriations have been made.

Patrolmen Charged With Perjury.

PROVIDENCE, May 24.—Patrolmen Coakley and O'Brien were in court yesterday as witnesses against Thaddeus Prior, charged with carrying concealed weapons. When the testimony of the officers was contradicted by the record books of the police committee, Judge Wilbur dismissed the case and ordered the indictment of the officers on charges of perjury. They are also charged with having dropped a spring billy into the prisoner's pocket in order to fasten guilt upon him.

Compromise Talk.

PROVIDENCE, May 24.—Two of the Olneyville operatives who were frightened by the strikers into leaving work returned yesterday, and were not molested. One manufacturer has asked the strikers' general committee to call and see him, with a view of arranging a compromise. The committee refused to give the name of the manufacturer. It is understood that the Saxon mills were the ones referred to.

Turning the Tables.

BIDDEFORD, May 24.—Harry W. Jacobs was arrested yesterday on a capias writ, praying for $5000 damages for false arrest, brought at the instigation of E. H. Fifield of Portland, who was arrested recently on a charge of embezzlement preferred by Jacobs. The case was non-suited and Fifield was discharged. Jacobs will also be charged with breaking and entering.

A. P. A. Dragged In.

BOSTON, May 24.—Last night's session of the Boston common council was the liveliest in the history of the present board. A heated debate was aroused by Councilman Crockett objecting to an order appropriating money for the Bunker Hill celebration, on the ground that a large share of the money would go to a social and sectarian organization. Mr. Crockett said that he had seen men intoxicated and acting disorderly in parades on Bunker Hill day. Mr. Callahan retorted that if Mr. Crockett said he had seen drunken men in the procession, he deliberately lied. He charged Crockett with being a member of the A. P. A. Mr. Crockett admitted he was a member of the order. At the close of the debate, Mr. Crockett's objection was overruled.

PLENTY OF CLAIMANTS

Opening of the Kickapoo Reservation Attended With Exciting Scenes.

Many Honest Runners Handicapped by Sooners.

Olney and Aurora Consolidate Interests and Become City of McLoud.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 24.—The Kickapoo opening was much in the nature of a huge farce. At 12:10 yesterday nearly all claims had from 10 to 20 claimants on them, and those farthest from the line were reached from the border in 35 minutes. On one section 200 claimants, who had run in from both borders and those who were sooners, were congregated. The honest runners combined to drive the sooners off. Several fights occurred, and a number of shots were fired. A colored man named Blackford, from Oklahoma county, is reported badly wounded.

At Shawnee, as the noon hour approached, the crowd become restless. At 3 minutes to 12 by some watches, it was precisely noon by others, there was a break here and there in line, a wavering, and then all broke into a run. The race across the level plateau was a very pretty sight.

The Rush at Sweeney's Ridge.

Sweeney's ridge, on the north ford of the Canadian river, in Township 12, was one of the principal points of entrance to the new land. There were 300 men gathering, and just before noon there was much suppressed excitement, as the minute hand ticked near the hour. Watches were held in one hand and the lines tightly grasped in the other.

The scene that followed the shout "Go!" was intensely exciting. The first man to dash across the bridge was in a little buggy drawn by a pair of bays. The driver brought his whip down, shouting at them, and the horses bounded across the bridge and off up the road with a good start, running away. Following him came eight horsemen, jostling one another on the narrow bridge, trying to pass each other. They whipped their horses and struck at them and at each other, and at last got across and scattered, racing like mad.

The recklessness of the drivers in whipping their horses down the bank and across has seldom been equaled. Horses would fall, only to be dragged to their feet again. Men were hatless, and their faces and foreheads were wrinkled and strained. In five minutes the last wagon had passed over.

Interests Consolidated.

Wednesday night it was made evident to many of the boomers that all could not get claims. So it was resolved to organize towns. About midnight a big crowd left Sweeney's, and as the procession went along, large additions were made to their ranks. Two towns had already been projected, Olney and Aurora.

A council was held between the projectors of both towns, and it resulted in a consolidation of interests, the new town to be called McLoud, in honor of the general solicitor of the Choctaw road. The procession, 5000 strong, then took up the march to Douglass Mills ford, at the section of which McLoud was to be situated. Dr. J. W. Gillen of Perry was chosen mayor. Green B. Raum, Jr., of Washington is a leading member of the town organization. The site is a bank covered with cactus and underbrush.

At noon the crowd passed over the ford in a very quiet way and drew lots for positions on the town plot. A corps of surveyors was on hand and at once laid out the town. Wagons with liquors, groceries and cots came in, tents were erected, and soon stores, restaurants and hotels were opened and a new town had been born.

The Killing of Marti.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The World's copyrighted special from Havana says that Jose Marti was shot by a Cuban guide named Antonio Oliva, who was with the government troops. Marti at the moment was addressing his followers, revolver in hand. He was hit by two bullets, the first wounding him in the chest and the second in the neck.

Strikers Have Lost.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—The miners' officials practically gave up the strike last night and advised the men to go to work for the 60-cent rate if they could get it. As a result, all the mines within a radius of 10 miles of Carnegie will resume at once at the 60-cent rate. About 8000 men are employed in that district.

GREEN BAY, Wis., May 24. — Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard was elected commander of the Wisconsin Grand Army. The parade of veterans had 2000 in line. It was the last parade of the Wisconsin members, as the encampment voted to abolish the parade hereafter, owing to the age of the members of the order.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

ONE OF the proposed amendments of Representative Jones to the Metropolitan water bill fixes the terms on which cities and towns may come in later into the system, a matter which the bill now provides shall be left to the mayors and selectmen within the district. These amendments were ordered printed but have not yet been issued, and are of vital interest to Quincy. It is these amendments that have riled Mayor Curtis of Boston, who is also reported to be dissatisfied with the apportionment of the cost. He fears too much will fall on Boston, and is also alarmed at the threatened damages which promise to be several million dollars. What alarms Boston should also cause Quincy to think, for we may not yet be out of the woods.

A private conference was held at the office of Mayor Curtis Thursday when the Mayor and Corporation Counsel Bailey met a committee representing the town of West Boylsten and other towns affected by the bill. Just why West Boylston should appear before the Mayor of Boston, rather than the Legislature or its committee, is not apparent, unless this water bill is purely a matter of providing Boston with water, and the cities of the district are simply to play the fiddle. These cities should play softly that they may hear all that is going on, and be prepared to have only justice done to all cities. Representatives should be prepared for amendments which Boston will propose to the bill.

THE GRIEVANCE of bank depositors seems to be a just one, but if Saturday afternoon is not already a holiday it promises to be one speedily, for yesterday the Massachusetts House passed to be engrossed the Senate bill, making it such. If a bank holiday, naturally no business can be done. As a correspondent says today, however, the business of Quincy and the business of Boston are entirely different on Saturday, and to accommodate Quincy merchants the local banks should close later rather than earlier on Saturdays.

Kicked by Horse.

A seven-year old son of S. Martell, Jr., met with a serious if not fatal accident Tuesday afternoon. He and another boy were playing in his father's stable on Filbert street, when one of the horses kicked the boy, breaking his leg in three places and also bruising him about the head. It is thought the boy will not recover.

SATURDAY BANK HOURS.

Business Men and Depositors Against the Noon Closing.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The National banks of the city seem to have ruled in direct opposition to the business interests of their customers in closing their banking rooms at noon on Saturdays during four months of the year. The argument is used that the Boston banks close at that hour, but this argument does not hold water in a place like Quincy, where the conditions of business are entirely different.

Saturday, instead of being a short day for storekeepers, is the longest day in the week and one on which the most money is in circulation, and the support of the banks is more necessary than on any other day.

Many depositors will be obliged to carry large sums of money over from Saturday to Monday, which they do not like to do, and a great many will be unable to go to the banks at all on that day, as they are obliged to attend to business in Boston in the forenoon.

It would seem to us that they were trying to accommodate their cashiers and sacrificing the interests of their customers from whom they derive their support.

If it is necessary that the cashiers need a half holiday, it is the earnest desire of many of their depositors that they take it on any other day in the week but Saturday.

President Howland of the Mount Wollaston bank is understood to be against the early closing movement, and we trust he will use his efforts to change a ruling which bids fair to be a serious detriment to the business interests of their customers.

LOST IN THE NINTH.

Another High School Defeats Adams Academy in Close Game.

An unusually interesting and well played game took place on the Somerville Y. M. C. A. grounds, Thursday, between the Adams academy and Somerville high school nines. The Adams boys did some very good batting during the first half of the game and succeeded in rolling up nine runs; but from this time on Teague's pitching proved unfathomable and no more runs were scored; while Somerville took her turn, scoring 4 runs in the fifth; tied the score in the sixth and by a timely hit in the ninth, with two men out scored, amid great excitement, the winning run.

Unfortunately the result of the game turned upon decisions which were unduly severe against the visiting nine.

For Adams, the catching and throwing to bases of Manning were excellent, and his home run over the left field fence sending in three runs ahead of him was one of the features of the game. Rippey's fine fielding at short also deserves mention.

For Somerville, the pitching and batting of Teague; the fielding of Burton and the batting of Moody and Burton were the feature.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Lyons of Weymouth was arraigned for assault on Mary Lyons. Case continued until June 8.

—Dr. William A. Alcott says: "I have been led to the conclusion by more than forty years of close observation that a disturbance of the action of the heart and sudden death therefrom is the one supreme evil resulting from the use of coffee."

—Markers are to be placed on all of the graves of the revolutionary heroes buried in the cemeteries at Holbroke. Mr. Samuel A. Bates, of Braintree rendered the committee valuable information regarding the soldiers of the revolution.

—A triumph for sensible and practical municipal reform was won on Tuesday, when the amended Boston charter bill was passed to be engrossed by the emphatic vote of 140 to 46 in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. The people of Boston wish their Mayor, be he Republican or Democrat, to be free to perform all his proper executive duties without resorting to "trades" and "deals," so that they may hold him to a strict and undivided accountability for his official conduct. The new charter will be sure to make both parties much more careful as to the character and ability of the men whom they may nominate for this high office.

George K. Carter, formerly assistant to Agent Coffin at the Quincy depot has been appointed station agent at the West Quincy depot.

The rails for the extension of the street railway to Braintree are being placed along the line and active work will commence Monday morning.

It is rumored that a foot race took place in the Square last night between a well-known business man and an unknown, the distance being 100 yards. The unknown beat by about ten yards.

A new timetable will go into effect Monday on the street railway, and the time will be announced in Saturday's LEDGER. On all the routes there will be practically half hourly trips. It will also include a late car to Neponset at 10 40 P. M.

The Lincoln school nine, defeated the Coddington nine, by a score of 20 to 9 Thursday evening. The Lincolns have played three games this year, and won them all and claim the championship. Dick Powers is their captain.

One would think Councilman Johnson was a long established real estate dealer, to read the column announcement in today's LEDGER. He has real estate by the acre for sale and numerous houses to let, and will also negotiate mortgages, act as insurance agent, and has taken out a license as an auctioneer.

The illustrated lecture to be given at the West Quincy Methodist church next Monday evening by Elizabeth Merriam should be well patronized. Miss Merriam is spoken very highly of and all should bear her. The lecture is illustrated by nearly one hundred views, copied from photographs, taken by Miss Merriam herself.

Near the LEDGER office is the business location. How business is booming! The progressive firm of D. E. Wadsworth & Co. are improving their store by adding another large show window and Sanborn & Damon are coming over to join the busy throng. Mr. Stetson is having the store under the LEDGER office fitted up for them.

De Forest Jones, a passenger on one of the electrics, met with quite an accident Thursday night. As near as can be learned he stood on the running board fooling, when the car striking a curve he lost his balance and was struck by one of the telephone poles along the track. He was bruised somewhat but not seriously injured.

Leonard J. Pastor, formerly manager of Brewer's drug store, has purchased the stand known as the Willard pharmacy on School street and has taken possession of the same. Mr. Pastor is a graduate in pharmacy and will give his personal attention to the business. His card will soon appear in the LEDGER. The store will hereafter be known as the Phœnix Pharmacy.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles.

VOICE FROM THE SOUTH.

Influential Newspaper Deplores Rumors Concerning General Schofield.

RICHMOND, May 24.—The Richmond State today says: The intelligence that there is a move on foot at the Houston Confederate reunion to boom General Schofield for the Democratic nomination for the presidency on the free silver ticket may or may not be true.

GENERAL SCHOFIELD.

For the credit of General Schofield, it is to be hoped that the rumor is not true. It will be resented at once as impertinent, dishonoring and impious trafficking with a sacred cause if this first movement to gather Confederates in a great national, non-political organization is debased into a sordid scheme to boom any man for a political office.

If Speaker Crisp and his Georgia free silver combine have used this gathering of ex-Confederates for any such purpose, they will hear a roar of indignation that will suggest that rebel yell which told of determination to resist to the uttermost. They will learn that Confederates of the south are not ready to give to their organization the low plane of a body of political candidates boomers.

The south does, and rightly, esteem General Schofield. He was a chivalrous and honorable foe. But if he allows himself to be used this way, he will fall from the high place he now occupies in southern estimation.

Due to Incompetent Leaders.

TIEN-TSIN, May 24.—An imperial proclamation has been issued announcing the ratification of the treaty of peace between China and Japan. It is declared that the government deeply pondered the advice which had been offered to it to continue the war rather than surrender, but the crisis demanded a decision, as no victory had been obtained on sea or land, owing to the incompetence of the leaders, who had only been able to recruit the rabble. The enemy, the proclamation says, were menacing Pekin. The country was in a terrible condition now. The proclmaation then goes on to say: "How could we permit alarms to disturb the dwelling of her sacred majesty? Heaven had not withheld its augury. The sea overflowed the coast and the camps were submerged."

Hannigan Kept His Word.

NEW YORK, May 24.—When Loretta Hannigan, a pretty girl of 19 years, died last March under distressing circumstances, D. F. Hannigan, the brother of the dead girl, vowed that he would avenge his sister's honor by killing her alleged seducer, Solomon H. Mann. Hannigan was as good as his word, for last night he met Mann on Forty-second street and fired two shots at him from a 38-caliber revolver. One of the bullets pierced Mann's skull over the right eye and penetrated the brain. Hannigan was arrested.

Halma's Easy Victory.

CINCINNATI, May 24.—The Latonia derby was a mile and a half race, worth $6720 to the winner. There were five contestants. Halma very quietly went to the front and as quietly held it to the end. In the finish the struggle for place was magnificent. Free Advice passed from third to second and led the pace from Basso by a head, leaving Satsuma four lengths behind and Blasco far in the rear.

Game Forfeited.

LOUISVILLE, May 23.—With the score 3 to 1 in Brooklyn's favor in the third inning, the Louisville club's supply of new balls gave out and Umpire Betts waited eight minutes, and none being produced the game was forfeited to Brooklyn—9 to 0. An exhibition game of six innings was played and resulted in a tie, each team making two runs.

Declaration of Warfare.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—The action of the Presbyterian general assembly in continuing directors of the Union seminary as members of church boards was undoubtedly dictated by fear of the results which might follow the policy of exclusion. The policy adopted is the beginning of an active warfare against the New York seminary.

Johnson and Eck.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24. — Gideon's Weekly Bulletin says: Under clause C, class B rules, John S. Johnson of Minneapolis is hereby declared a professional. Under rule 35, racing rules, Thomas Eck, trainer, has been suspended from all track privileges for one year from May 17, 1895.

Used the Mails Illegally.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The postmaster general has prohibited the use of the mails by the following New York corporations: F. D. Kauffman & Co., commission merchants; T. H. Warner and H. Warner, medical doctors; Alex R. Stower, Samuel Meinhold and Samuel Vogle.

Hamlin's Fiat.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Assistant Secretary Hamlin holds that red cedar boards when imported should be classified as "an article manufactured in part" under section 3 of the new tariff act, and should therefore pay an ad valorum duty of 20 per cent.

The Wilde Trial.

LONDON, May 24.—The judge in the Wilde case yesterday ordered the withdrawal of the count against the defendant concerning Wilde's connection with the witness Shelley, as the latter's statements were uncorroborated.

Washington's Sick.

WASHINGTON, May 24. — Secretary of State Gresham and Representative Hitt are reported by their physician to be doing nicely. The condition of Gail Hamilton is the same, though death is expected hourly.

Treaties Ratified.

SANTIAGO, May 24.—The treaties of peace and commerce between Chili and Bolivia have been signed. The Chilian senate has approved the raising of a loan of $10,000,000.

The tubular construction that has been followed out in the general construction of the frame and forks, is distinctly noticeable in the crank hanger bracket.

Throughout it is entirely tubular. All connections with frame tubes are of thimble construction, and the sleeve containing the crank bearings is of seamless tube. Over the crank axle is a tubular oil duct, conveying oil directly to the bearings themselves, and entirely removing the necessity of oiling from the outside, and insuring the introduction of oil to the bearings themselves, and as a combination, we have a crank bracket and bearings unexcelled for strength, lightness and simplicity.

General Order No. 1.

QUINCY, May 14, 1895.

COMRADES:

Twenty-seven years have passed since Memorial Day was established by the Grand Army of the Republic. Companies, Battalions, Regiments, Brigades, and whole Corps have passed in review before the Grand Commander of us all. Let us lay aside the cares and business of the day, and remember that Time with busy fingers is gently crumbling Bastion and Redan, Scarp and Counter-Scarp meet in the ditch. A little ridge only marks the breastworks commanding the fields where contending armies fought, and over which hovered the Angel of Liberty, to give the countersign to the faithful to pass through the Golden Gates of Immortality.

That day by day the darkness of the grave covers one and another of our gallant Comrades who rode out the battle storm when the Angel of Death held high carnival; and soon "Mustered Out" will be written against the name of the last survivor of the War of the Rebellion, and the Grand Army of the Republic will be known only in history. That our Comrades' graves are hallowed spots, worthy the flowers we this day bring as a loving tribute to their Loyalty and Patriotism. Let us gather around these sacred places and perform this beautiful and touching ceremony while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of departed Comrades.

ON SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 26,

The Post will assemble in full uniform at Headquarters at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of attending Memorial services at the Congregational Church and listening to the Memorial address by Rev. W. Sherman Thompson of East Boston. Francis L. Souther Camp, No. 27, Sons of Veterans, Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, and all soldiers and sailors and the public in general are invited to be present.

The Post will again assemble at Headquarters at 6 P. M., and proceed by car to the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wollaston, by invitation of Comrade C. W. Wilder, pastor.

Contributions of food and flowers from our many friends will be gratefully received and can be left at the following residences:

Mrs. H. O. Souther,	Ward 2.
Mrs. Edward Richardson,	Ward 3.
Mrs. John Gourd,	Ward 4.
Mrs. G. A. Stokes,	Ward 5.

The principals and teachers of the schools are invited to request their pupils to bring flowers to the schoolhouses on the morning of May 29, when they will be collected for the purpose of decorating our Comrades' graves Memorial Day. Bring flowers, that no soldier's or sailor's grave may be unremembered by this beautiful tribute.

Frangiosh, after which members of Camp No. 27, Sons of Veterans, will decorate the graves of our heroic dead. The committee are not in position, financially, to make any different arrangement for transportation, and this was in substance what Mr. Drollett learned. TOO MUCH EXACTNESS.

Its Disastrous Results Related by a One Armed Corporal.

The veteran had just finished a lecture to the old soldier club on military exactness, says the Detroit Free Press, and had been rather severe on some who were disposed to be lax in their methods, particularly a tall corporal with one arm off. When he had finished, the corporal stepped out in front of the soapbox on which he had been sitting.

"May it please your honor," he said mockingly, "I have a story to tell which may in some measure excuse my fault. You see this arm," and he held out the stump. "Well, that is the result of too much exactness." The veteran showed his surprise and asked how it happened. "Well," went on the corporal, "it was this way: Along in 1864, when I was in the Army of the Potomac, I was, as you know, a cavalryman, and one day 100 of our regiment were ordered out to act as a reserve for a small sortie that was to be made to stir up the enemy. Every officer we had had been so raked over by our crusty old colonel for not having everything just right that life on duty was a burden. A captain was in command of our force, and he had us ranged up in exact line as if we were on parade, and that, too, after the enemy had begun to sling shells over our way, and a man wanted to dodge in spite of himself. The captain wouldn't have it, though, and there we sat, every head on a line, everybody's hand as straight with every other bridle hand down that line as if fixed by a spirit level. It was hard, I tell you, but it didn't last long, for all at once a gun, over on our right, that had evidently just got into position, blazed away with a solid 20 pound shot, and as I stand here holding up this evidence"—and the stump went up again—"so help me gracious that shot swooped right down our line and snipped off 50 hands as smooth as if it had been done by a knife. Since that I haven't been so confounded particular about being so confounded exact," and the corporal sat down amid great applause and the overwhelming confusion of the veteran.

THE SHARPSHOOTERS' DUEL.

One Was From Mississippi and the Other From Tennessee.

"The best rifle shot I ever saw was an east Tennesseean, who acted as scout for the Army of the Cumberland," said Major R. B. Baer at the Southern. "His name was Brownlow, but whether he was a relative of the fighting parson of that name I do not know. Brownlow was a tall, lanky specimen of humanity and looked like a typical frontiersman. He wore a coonskin cap and carried a rifle a foot longer than himself, with which he could put half an ounce of lead squarely between a man's eyes at a distance of nearly half a mile. He fought for sheer love of it, was always hunting for victims and used to boast that he averaged a dozen dead Confederates a week. He hung on the enemy's picket lines night and day, and when Old Tom, as he called his lingering eternity of a gun, cracked there was certain to be a death.

"One day during a sharp skirmish Brownlow ensconced himself in a big cottonwood tree and was dropping Confederates as fast as he could feed bullets to Old Tom, when a Mississippi sharpshooter made a sneak for another tall cottonwood about 600 yards distant. The Tennesseean spied him. There were two puffs of smoke from among the green leaves, and the two killers came down head first, with their long deer rifles rattling after them."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

After Bull Run.

The rout of the Federals at the first battle of Bull Run—or, as southern writers call it, the first battle of Manassas—was by all accounts overwhelming. A correspondent of The Southern Bivouac was soon afterward hunting in the neighborhood of Centerville, through which a great part of the Union army had fled. There he came suddenly upon an old woman who was doing her week's washing at a spring.

I drank at the spring, he says, and then sat down on a log.

"Did any of the Yankees run back this way?" I asked.

"Plenty of 'em," said she, stopping her work and holding a dripping garment in one hand.

"Did they give any reason for running away?"

"Oh, yes; I hyearn 'em say that masked batteries riz up out of the groun, and that thar was a hull division chargin on black hosses."

"They were pretty well scared, I suppose."

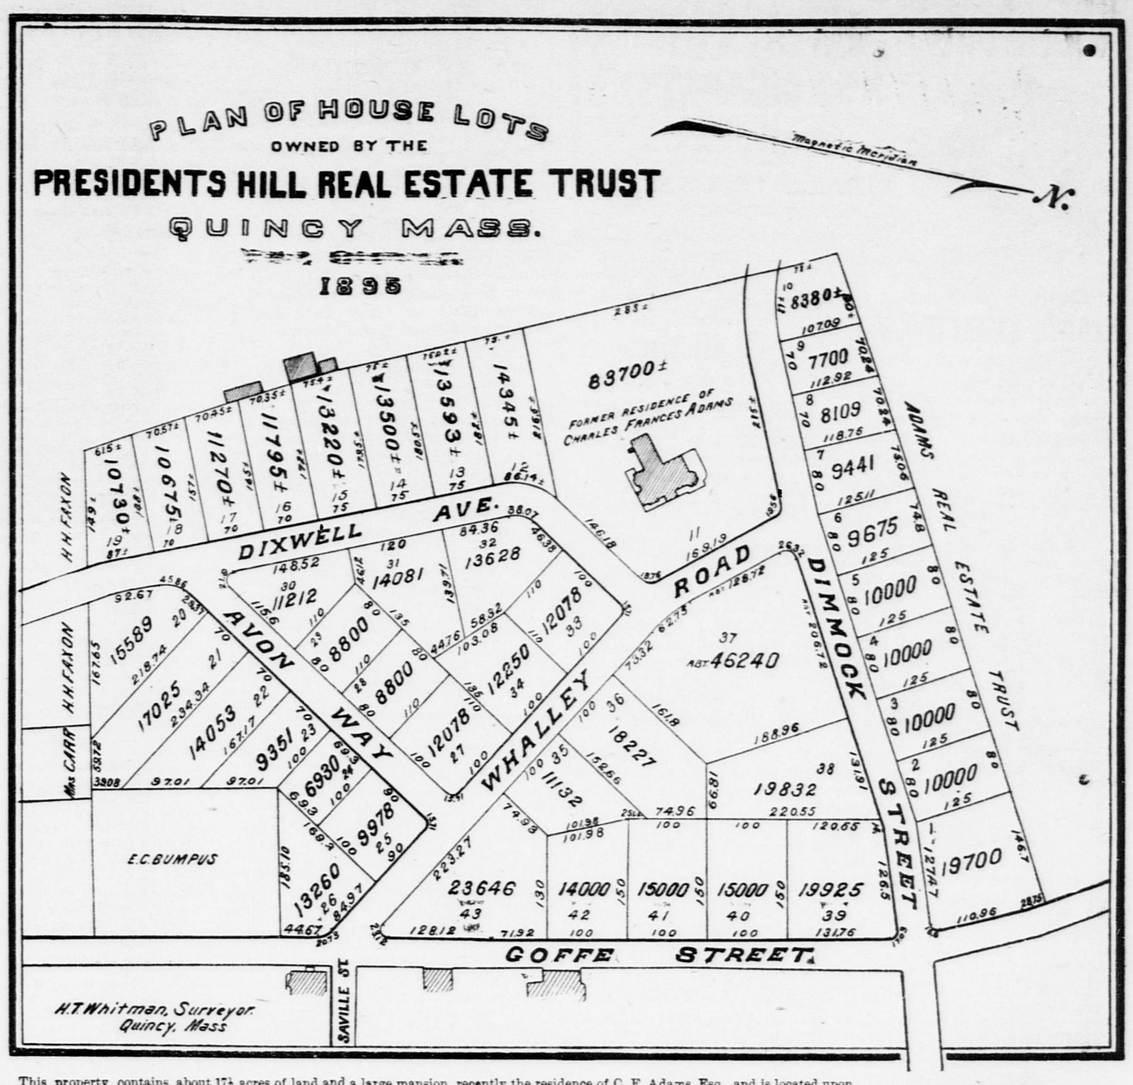

"Well, I should say so," replied the old woman as she laid the wet rag down. "Two of 'em come through my yard and didn't seem to notice me. They didn't have no arms, and mighty little clothes on. One of 'em was bareheaded and barefooted. Says he, turnin aroun and aroun, 'Bill,' says he, 'take a good look. Do you see any holes in me?' Bill said he couldn't. 'Well,' says he, 'thank heaven I'm alive.'"

The Quartermaster Dusted.

An amusing incident of the shelling of Chattanooga may be related here. The Federals repeated their shelling quite frequently, much to the annoyance of the quartermaster, who was very comfortably lodged in the town and disliked to betake himself to the inconvenience of a tent. He was gratified at first that the shells were thrown in a different part of the town from that where he was located. It was not long, however, before they began falling in his neighborhood. Still he remained, loath to be disturbed and hoping that the firing would cease. He was seated one day writing at a table when a shell penetrated the roof and wall of the building and exploded as it struck the inkstand which he was using, spattering the ink over him, but otherwise doing him no harm. This was too much for him, and without waiting for any further suggestion he stood not upon the order of his going, but went at once. In the words of a "No'th Carliny" sergeant, who witnessed the occurrence, "That ar' quartermaster he did just git up and dust."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Brave Americans, All.

No Union soldier has a bitter word for his ancient foes. For their misfortunes he has only sympathy and for their bravery only admiration. Webster, speaking of Sumter and Marion in yonder senate, gloried in them as "Americans all, whose fame is no more to be hemmed in by state lines than their courage and patriotism were capable of being circumscribed within the same narrow limits." And having regard only to their valor and their manliness we, too, glory in these later southrons as "Americans all," and, so far as in us lies, forgiving them their trespasses as we trust that ours may be forgiven, we stand with them side by side in these tender ministrations over the dead.—W. E. Simonds.

Scribner & Smith's Circus.

Every year for many past the press and public have been wildly enthusiastic over the extent and magnificence of the Scribner & Smith's New United Enormous Shows which will be seen here on Tuesday June 4, at the south part of the city. This year it will surpass all previous ones. Indeed the big show has been vastly improved and enlarged in all its departments to a most wonderful degree. In the circus department 30 big acts are given at each afternoon and evening performance by double the number of daring champion acrobats and equestrain artists in the big rings and upon the elevated stages. Then the menagerie has been greatly added to.

The management still retain last year's features, Bazal the giant elephant the largest of the brute creation, and the Blessbok known as the Sacred Cow idolized by the Egyptians as an omen of good luck. Every detail of the ring performance has been considered. Managers Scribner & Smith having at an enormous expense, secured Willie Lowander, the champion bareback rider; also Mr. Frank Cooper, conceded by press and public to be the greatest hurdle rider the world has ever produced, and last but not least, Dan O'Brion, the world's champion leaper, and a score of others equally as prominent. At the tap of the director's bell troups of acrobats and gymnasts execute a potpourri of marvelous feats and simultaneously the roof of the great canvas is alive with aerialists and specialists performing wonderful things in mid-air. On the whole it is the biggest and best 25 cents circus that has ever visited this section and is deserving of large patronage.

Hollis Street Theatre.

The last week of "1492," and of the season at the Hollis as well, will begin on Monday. "1492" has never been better done than at present, and Miss Vaughn, Mr. Jones, Mr. Harlow, and all the other favorites in the cast are proving themselves as popular and clever as ever. The burlesque on Trilby is most amusing, and the Kilanyi living pictures are superb masterpieces. An extra matinee will be given on Decoration in addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday afternoon performances.

It Did the Business.

Mr J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

What Does It Matter?

It matters little where I was born
Or if my parents were rich or poor,
Whether they shrank at the cold world's scorn
Or walked in the pride of wealth secure.
But whether I live an honest man
And hold my integrity firm in my clutch,
I tell you, brother, plain as I am,
It matters much!

It matters little how long I stay
In a world of sorrow, sin and care,
Whether in youth I am called away
Or live till my bones and pate are bare.
But whether I do the best I can
To soften the weight of adversity's touch
On the faded cheek of my fellow man,
It matters much!

It matters little where be my grave,
Or on the land or on the sea,
By purling brook or 'neath stormy wave,
It matters little or naught to me.
But whether the angel Death comes down
And marks my brow with his loving touch
As one that shall wear the victor's crown,
It matters much!

THE COUNTRY WARNED

Of Dangers Arising From Adoption of a Silver Standard.

Carlisle's Address to Sound Money Convention.

Pretexts In Advocacy of Silver Dollars Receive Heavy Blows.

MEMPHIS, May 24.—Under a ban er with the inscription "Sound Currency and Better Banking Facilities," representative men of the southern states assembled at the Auditorium to express their opposition to the doctrine of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and to declare in favor of the continuance of present monetary conditions.

The selection of Congressman Catchings for permanent chairman was made, and the congressman accepted the honor in a graceful speech. After the selection of G. O. Matthews as secretary, a committee on resolutions was appointed, and a delegate from each of the states represented was appointed without debate.

Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle was then introduced by Chairman Catchings, and as the Kentuckian stepped to the front of the stage the audience arose to its feet and cheered enthusiastically for several minutes. After quiet had been restored, the secretary spoke substantially as follows:

The proposition to revolutionize our monetary system and thus destroy the credit of the government and the people at large, at home and abroad, is one which challenges the intelligence, patriotism and commercial honor of every man to whom it is addressed. No matter what may be the real purpose and motives of those who make the proposition to legalize the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, these are in their scheme, and, in my opinion, they cannot be avoided if it should be adopted.

The Consequences Involved

After reviewing the ratios of coinage and the amounts of gold and silver in use as circulating medium, the secretary said:

I confess my inability to understand what is really meant by a double standard of money value; the idea is incomprehensible in my mind, because I cannot conceive how it is possible to have two different legal and authoritative measures of the same thing in use at the same time, as, for instance, a pound weighing 16 ounces or a pound weighing 8 ounces, or only half as much, and both declared by law to be legal.

Reviewing the fact that values will always be measured by the kind of money in actual circulation, Mr. Carlisle stated the proposition before the people as being that without co-operation of other nations we should declare that all silver should be made into coin at the ratio of 16 pounds of silver to equal the value of one pound of gold. Continuing, he said:

We, as people, shall be compelled to receive these coins in payment of debts to us dollar for dollar, but when we pay debts to other nations we must use gold. I think we are fully justified in concluding that if the United States alone should adopt the policy of unlimited silver coinage at 16 to 1, it would be an overvaluation of that metal 100 per cent.

Speaking of the act of July 14, 1890, and the repeal of the purchasing clause in November, 1893, the secretary said:

The establishment of a silver standard could not possibly affect the price of cotton or wheat abroad, whatever its effect might be upon the nominal price in this country. Farmers and producers do not sell their wheat or cotton abroad, but to somebody here who takes chances not only on the fall of the price of the produce abroad, but on the rise in the price of silver between the time of their purchase and the time when they receive the proceeds of their sale. It is impossible to estimate the amount of loss this would inflict upon American producers of exportable products, but it would be great, as the value of such exports is now $870,000,000 per annum.

A long and exhaustive review of the relative values of labor and the purchasing power of its wage, was taken up by the secretary, following which he said:

I attach very little importance to the per capita argument, because the amount of currency required in a country depends mainly upon the volume of business transacted. One of the most effective arguments made by the advocates of free coinage is that the people are in debt. This argument concedes that under the proposed system of free coinage at 16 to 1 all the various kinds of currency in use by the people, including the silver dollar itself, would be worth less than it is now; for, of course, money would be

No Cheaper Than It Is Now.

To assert that the people are in debt is to simply say that they have traded with each other on credit. If it is a crime to lend money to a man who wants to borrow it, let the perpetrators be properly punished, but let us not involve the whole country in disaster, and immolate the innocent and guilty alike in order to punish the real offenders. The laboring people as a rule owe very little at any one time, while their employers are always indebted to them, because of wages not paid in advance; and besides they have many of them deposits in savings banks, trust companies, building associations, life insurance companies and banks.

In all there are about 21,000,000 people, generally poor, who have given credit to these great corporations, and in my opinion it would be a grievous wrong to adopt any policy which would deprive them of the legal right to demand and receive just as good money as they parted with when they made the deposits in banks, or paid premiums on insurance policies.

A great government should do nothing to discredit its obligations or to diminish the value of the money in the hands of its citizens, interrupt the course of their business or destroy the foundations upon which their commercial systems have been constructed. We are all Americans, citizens of the same great republic. There can be no antagonistic interest, no prosperity in one section at the expense of another, but we must stand or fall together.

So believing, I have spoken to you without reservation or exaggeration in behalf of the policy which, in my judgment, will most certainly promote the welfare and preserve the credit and honor of our whole country.

At the conclusion of Secretary Carlisle's address there was another noisy demonstration, followed by cries for Congressman Josiah Patterson of Memphis. The congressman acknowledged the compliment, congratulating the audience on the opportunity it had enjoyed to hear the able address of the secretary of the treasury and thanking the distinguished guest for the favor he had conferred upon the gathering.

Declaration of Principles.

Judge U. M. Rose, chairman of the resolutions committee, made the following report, which was unanimously adopted without debate:

The people of the southern states who believe the maintenance of a sound currency to be essential to the prosperity of the whole country, and to the welfare of the people in all the vocations of life, do, through their representatives in convention assembled in Memphis, on May 23, 1895, make the following declaration of their matured convictions:

1. Believing a uniform and certain standard of value necessary to the commercial and industrial development and prosperity of our common country, we favor the maintenance of all our money, whether gold, silver or paper, on a parity, to the end that each dollar, whatever may be the composition, shall have equal purchasing and debt-paying power with every other dollar.

2. Profiting by the experience of Washington, Jefferson and Hamilton, and the teachings of the great students of monetary science from the time when John Locke wrote to the discussion of the present day, we accept the truth of the principle now universally recognized and applied in the commercial world, that the bimetallic standard cannot be maintained where the ratio fixed by law for the free coinage of gold and silver does not correspond with the market ratio of the two metals. We are therefore opposed to the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, when the market or commercial ratio is more than 30 to 1, and the difference between the bullion value of a gold and a silver dollar is about 50 cents, on the ground that such action, instead of restoring the bimetallic standard, would inevitably result in a silver monometallism.

3. At this time there is no country in the world which maintains the bimetallic standard, and neither is there any country where the free coinage of silver obtains which is not on a silver basis. Each country, on account of its inability to adopt independently any bimetallic standard, must elect for itself which it prefers, the gold or the silver standard. We, therefore, favor, in the absence of international co-operation, the retention and maintenance of the existing gold standard.

The platform then gives a large number of reasons why the Existing Gold Standard Is Preferred.

4. We would rejoice over the adoption of real bimetallism, but in view of the continued fluctuation in the price of silver in the open market, we realize that it is impossible for the United States independently to adopt a bimetallic standard, and we deem it unwise and hazardous to the best interests of its people for this country to attempt its establishment.

5. We favor the retention as part of our money the silver now coined, and in order to give a wider field for the use of silver, we favor the coinage of money other than silver certificates below the denomination of $10 into higher denominations, so as to make our entire circulation below the denomination of $10, either silver or silver certificates, and to this end the secretary of the treasury should be authorized by law to coin from time to time, as the people may require them, silver dollars, until the demand for money below the denomination of $10 is at all times satisfied.

6. We realize that our national banking system was adopted during a period of war and that it is not adapted to existing conditions. We, therefore, favor such legislation as will secure to the people a system of banking surrounded by such safeguards as will at all times furnish them a safe, elastic and sufficient currency for the transaction of their business.

7. We cannot too highly commend the unflagging courage and sturdy patriotism of President Cleveland in his efforts to protect the national honor and to maintain the public credit during a period of great financial distress, and under conditions which threatened danger to both, and we congratulate him and the entire country on the evidences of returning prosperity.

The reading of the resolutions were frequently interrupted by applause.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the work of the reform committee on sound currency of New York and urging the organization in the southern states of sound money clubs to carry on the campaign begun at this convention.

In response to numerous calls, Congressman Patterson made a speech on the work of the convention.

At the conclusion of Colonel Patterson's remarks a resolution was adopted authorizing the appointment of a committee of delegates from each state represented to superintend the distribution of proper literature coming under their control, the chairman of the committee to be a resident of Memphis.

The convention then adjourned sine die.

PITTSBURG, May 23.—The Boston's play all round was as fine as silk, and was much admired even by those whose fondest hope it was to see them defeated. It was in the fifth inning that Pittsburg bunched almost half their hits of the game. These, with a couple of errors in the infield, gave them four runs and victory.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 26. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Christ's cross. My cross.—Mark viii, 34-38.

It cannot but be interesting and instructive to study and compare Christ's cross and our crosses. It is only in the light of His cross that we can understand our own, and nothing inspires us to bear our crosses so much as the thought of His. In the light of His cross, then, we may learn what it is to have a cross, how it is to be borne and in what it is to result.

1. Christ's cross required self denial. So will mine. Christ denied Himself of many things that were rightfully His, in order that He might take up His cross. He denied Himself of heaven, of his Heavenly Father's association and fellowship. His life upon earth was a constant self denial, and at last He denied Himself of life itself. To us He says, "Whosoever will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross." To take up our crosses we must deny ourselves. We must deny ourselves of all that is sinful, of all that would bring injury to ourselves or to our fellow men, of all that is condemned of God. To give up all for Christ may sometimes seem a hardship, but by constant practice even self denial for Christ becomes a positive pleasure, and, as by comparison, we see how insignificant our cross of self denial is to His, how willingly we should deny ourselves for Him.

2. Christ took up His cross. So should I. To die on the cross Christ had to carry it to the place of execution, and He did it, and even when Simon was compelled to assist Him, still He bore the heavier end of it. He not only bore the real cross, but all the sorrows and burdens typified by the cross. As Christ bore His cross, so should I mine. "Let him deny himself and take up his cross" are the words of Christ Himself. We must take up our crosses. We must carry the burdens and tribulations that come to us as Christians, comforted and sustained by the fact that He will assist us. As He carried the heavier end of the cross for Simon, so Christ bears the heavier end of the crosses of all His disciples.

3. Christ's cross led to His crown. So will mine. "He humbled Himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross, wherefor God hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name which is above every name." Christ lost His life that He might save it; He died that He might live; He bore the cross that He might wear the crown. The same law governs our lives. If we would save our lives for eternity, we must lose them in time; if we would reign with Christ, we must suffer with Him; if we would be exalted, we must humble ourselves; if we would live, we must die; if we would wear a crown, we must carry the cross; to enter heaven we must come up through great tribulation.

Bible Readings.—Math. x, 38; xvi, 24; xxvii, 32; Luke ix, 23; xiv, 27; John xix, 17-19; Acts xiv, 21, 22; Rom. vi, 5-9; viii, 16-18; Gal. ii, 20; vi, 14; Eph. ii, 14-16; Phil. ii, 5-11; Col. i, 19, 20; ii, 13-15; Heb. xii, 1, 2; II Tim. ii, 11, 12; Tit. ii, 11-14; I Pet. ii, 21-25; Rev. vii, 13-17.

French Endeavorers.

The Christian Endeavor society of the American church in Paris is very energetic nowadays. Since its annual meeting in the latter part of October it has accomplished a great deal.

The society holds its third prayer meeting every month in connection with the church missionary service, and a special mission field is discussed.

The attendance upon the society meetings averages about 100. Our young people render efficient service in connection with the pastor's receptions. Altogether the work here is prospering with an enthusiasm worthy of the country of its birth.

Work of the Tract Society.

Ninety-five years ago the Religious Tract society was founded. Since then it has printed the gospels in 201 languages. It has issued the "Pilgrim's Progress" in 87 languages. Its New Testament commentary has appeared in Chinese, Arabic, Syriac, Mahrati, Bengali, Tamil, Urdo, Hindoo, Canarese, Cingalese and Karen. Last year it sent out 67,000,000 publications.

Keep Up the Interest In Missions.

A New York Endeavorer suggests that members of the missionary committee take turns in bringing to each prayer meeting of the society some brief thought or fact about missions. There can scarcely be a prayer meeting topic with which missions cannot accord.

Christian Endeavor Clippings.

The statistics of English societies for February show the gratifying number of 2,174.

"I cannot conceive of any good reason why the principles of Christian Endeavor should not take firm hold on our beloved Protestant Episcopal church," writes an earnest Episcopalian Endeavorer.

Some Endeavorers were praying earnestly for months that one of their society might be led to enlist in foreign missionary work. Before long two Endeavorers from that society declared their intention to go to the foreign field when the way opened.

The Waco (Tex.) Christian Endeavorer suggests that the Boston convention and the state convention should be continually kept before societies by the information committees, who could report from week to week the progress that is being made by the convention committees.

At a recent meeting in the Moody church, Chicago, the juniors outnumbered the young people three to one. The 12-year-old secretary of the junior society led the meeting in a manner that would have done credit to many an older person. The meeting was remarkably successful.

A BOSTON GIRL'S LIFE

Saved from Ruin and Despair by the Timely Aid of a Noted Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

IS there anything more truly pathetic than the cry for help that springs from the anguished heart of a young girl—a beautiful girl who sees ahead only suffering and uncertainty?

But oh, what joy and gladness her young heart pours forth when she realizes that her dreaded enemy, the blasting influence, is gone,—banished forever.

This sunshine and joy is now the happy portion of Miss Florence ——— of Beacon Street, Boston.

She often tells of her suffering from the suppression of the menses. The pain was excruciating. The doctors, instead of removing the cause of her ailment, plied her each month with morphine to prevent convulsions; but the trouble was permitted to exist.

When she could endure no more,—prostration was imminent and future hopeless,—her family procured a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which, surprising to all, rapidly and permanently cured her.

In writing to Mrs. Pinkham, pouring forth her gratitud and happiness, she says: "Oh! that I uld make every suffering woman try your valuable medicine! How they uld bless you!"

SALEM IN MOURNING.

Thousands Paid Last Respects to the Late General Cogswell.

Signs of Grief Shown All Over the City.

Friends in Other Places Also Pay Tribute to His Memory.

SALEM, May 25.—All that was mortal of Salem's illustrious son, soldier and statesman, General William Cogswell, representative of the Sixth district in congress, was committed to mother earth in Harmony cemetery just before nightfall yesterday. It was the most notable funeral and the greatest gathering of distinguished public men ever seen in Salem, if not in all Essex county.

There were representatives of the national senate and house of representatives and of the state of Massachusetts, judges of the state courts, distinguished military men, and many others, all paying tribute to the sterling worth of General Cogswell.

The lips of all spoke the same name, the interest of all was reverently centered on the same event, and this feeling showed itself in the crowded streets, in the display of the dead general's portrait, draped with somber colors, in the store windows, in the drooping flags which showed themselves, wherever there was a staff, all over the city, and in the mournful draperies

Over All the Public Buildings.

It was at the city hall, however, that the display was most impressive. It was in the council chamber of the building that the body of General Cogswell lay in state, and to the crowds of people that passed into the building the sight was an impressive one. The coffin, draped with the nation's flag and surmounted by sword and belt, occupied the center of the room. At the head and the foot was a guard, either a red-coated member of the Salem Cadets or one of the more somberly clad veterans of the Grand Army post. Behind the coffin at the head of the chamber was a bank of beautiful flowers.

From the center of the ceiling of the hall black streamers extended to the sides, and all the vacant desks were covered with black. The body of the general lay in state from 10 o'clock until the time of the funeral in the afternoon, and almost steadily during that time did the throng of people file by his coffin for a last look at his familiar face. During the first half-hour after the public was allowed to enter, 50 persons a minute passed through.

Impressive Church Services.

Early in the afternoon the body of General Cogswell was removed from the council chamber in city hall to the Tabernacle church, and there the funeral service was conducted. The building was crowded to the utmost, and so many organizations and official bodies desired to attend that it was necessary to have them represented by small delegations.

The service at the church was very simple, but none the less impressive. The opening hymn was sung by the choir. Then Rev. J. J. Hill, D.D., read from the scriptures. After that Rev. J. P. Franks conducted the ritualistic service prescribed by the regular Episcopal form, and also read a few lines written on the death of the Duke of Wellington.

There was no eulogy. The music, by the regular choir, was as follows: Funeral march; chant, "Lord, Let Me Know My End;" hymn, "Rock of Ages;" hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee;" dead march by Lane. The body bearers were 12 men from troop A, Loyal Legion, in charge of a sergeant. At the conclusion of the services the "Lost Chord" was given by bugle and organ, and as the body was borne down the aisle the bugle sounded again in accordance with the Loyal Legion service.

The March to the Grave.

At the conclusion of the service the line of march was formed by the various military organizations and clubs.

The route of the procession was through Federal, Boston, Goodhue and Grove streets to the cemetery. There the body was placed in a receiving tomb. During the passage of the procession the bells of the city were tolled, and the final ceremony at the tomb was the ritualistic service of the Grand Army.

As a mark of respect to the dead general the Massachusetts house of representatives adjourned at noon. From various less prominent organizations, also, tributes have been coming in. The State Republican club passed resolutions expressing appreciation of General Cogswell's public services and regret at his death. Similar resolutions were adopted by the Beverly Republican club, and the flags there, as well as in others places throughout the sixth congressional district, were displayed at half-staff, while many buildings were appropriately draped in mourning. Marblehead selectmen also adopted resolutions expressing their appreciation of the common bereavement on the death of General Cogswell, and calling for various public marks of respect for his memory.

At the cemetery a sad accident occurred when a volley was fired in honor of the dead. By some mistake in the last volley, a ball cartridge was used in one of the pieces, and John J. Donohue was shot in the arm, inflicting a flesh wound. The ball was extracted at the hospital.

Firemen's Day.

GARDINER, Me., May 25.—The fifth day of the carnival was firemen's day and it drew large crowds from surrounding towns. The first big event was the parade by the Gardiner fire department with companies from surrounding towns. In the afternoon there were horse races and trials of engines. In a race, the conditions of which were 400 feet run from hydrant to carriage and return, lay 100 feet of hose and draw water, the Independent of Augusta won in 58s. In the trial of hand fubs the Hecla of Randolph won, the winning distance being 192ft. 4in. In the evening the firemen dedicated the Coliseum, and there was a big ball.

Yellow Jack as a Fighter.

BOSTON, May 25.—Steamer San Domingo arrived yesterday from Cuba. Captain Goodley expresses the opinion that there is little chance for the Spanish troops to subdue the insurgents, and that one object of the insurgents is to avoid the Spanish troops, trusting to the yellow fever to create more havoc among the soldiers than weapons could do.

Worried Over Business Troubles.

BOSTON, May 25.—William F. Collins, up to a few months ago one of the most prominent business men in the dry goods trade, committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat. Mr. Collins had been in business a number of years with W. J. Lally, under the firm name of Lally & Collins. The firm enjoyed prosperity for a number of years, but, after their removal to a large retail store, the business depression seriously affected their business, and a few months ago they retired. Since then Mr. Collins has been in poor health, due to business anxiety. He was 45 years old.

Preparing to Start Up.

PROVIDENCE, May 25.—At least two of the manufacturers are preparing to start up on Monday. This announcement comes from the machinists of the Atlantic and the Riverside mills, who state that the machinery of the plants is being tested, that the belts are being oiled and general preparations made to resume operations. Many think the manufacturers now consider the help to be sufficiently subdued to return to work if permitted to do so.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 25.—The senate was not in session and the house sat only two hours, adjourning at 12 o'clock in order that members might have an opportunity to attend the funeral of the late William Cogswell. The senate bill making exemptions to the plumbing law of 1894 was passed to be engrossed, with amendments. There was some discussion on the bill concerning taxation of vessel property, but no action was taken.

The Brewer Accident.

AUGUSTA, May 25.—The state board of railroad commissioners yesterday gave a report on the accident at Brewer, at which time Fireman Arthur was killed. The commissioners find that the switch was properly placed and locked by railroad employes, and that it was afterward changed by some evil-minded party or parties. No evidence was produced that would tend to fasten the crime upon anyone.

A Lost Cause.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 25.—The strike at Crafts & Green's shoe factory in West Manchester has been declared off, and all those who wish to go back to work are permitted to do so. About 250 operatives are at work, not including any of the strikers. The firm will take back as many of the old hands as it can accommodate, but the present force is as good as that which went on strike.

Ex-Bank Clerk Contenced.

BOSTON, May 25.—After much delay, a disposition has been made of the case of Albert E. Stone, who, while a clerk in the Provident Institution for Savings, embezzled money delivered to him by some women who had deposits there. Judge Fessenden yesterday imposed a sentence of three years' imprisonment in the house of correction.

Noble Benefactions.

NORTH ADAMS, May 25.—F. S. Wilkinson, executor of the estate of the late C. T. Sampson, paid out $300,000 yesterday, according to bequests, to charity, all of which is given to churches for foreign and home missions, support of indigent ministers and for the relief of widows and children of deceased Baptist ministers.

Hair Caught in Shafting.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 25.—Mary Luckhart, aged 15, while putting a belt on a pulley under her bench at the Middlesex Rubber company's factory, was caught by a braid of her hair around the shafting which runs the sewing machines and her scalp was nearly torn off.

Rodman Mills to Close.

PROVIDENCE, May 25.—The Rodman Manufacturing company at Lafayette yesterday notified employes that the plant would shut down from June 2 to Aug. 5 on account of the dullness of the market. They manufacture doeskin jeans and employ 500 operatives.

Captured at Last.

BOSTON, May 25.—Inspector Wise arrived from Newark, N. J., last night, having in charge David Alexander, a jeweller, who was convicted over a year ago of arson in setting fire to his place of business in this city. Alexander twice left the city in default of bail.

Blames None but Herself.

FITCHBURG, May 25.—Mrs. E. W. Hayward, wife of the organist of Christ church, attempted suicide yesterday by taking poison. Fatal termination is not expected. She blames herself, saying her husband was better able to take care of one less in the family.

Dr. Plaisted's Case.

ALFRED, Me., May 25.—The grand jury has finished its investigation of the Sanford malpractice case, and it is rumored that no indictment was found against Dr. J. N. Plaisted, who was charged with causing the death of Mrs. Sarah Tibbetts.

Newport's New Mayor.

NEWPORT, May 25.—The election for mayor, to fill the place left vacant by the death of John Waters, resulted in the election of P. J. Boyle (Dem.) by a plurality of 346, his total vote being 1715. Mr. Boyle is a native of Newport.

Defaulter Griffin Sentenced.

CHICAGO, May 25.—Fred Griffin, who, as cashier of the Northwestern National bank, defaulted for about $50,000, was yesterday sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

A BOOM OF PROSPERITY

Is Now Being Experienced In All Channels of Trade.

Great Broadening of the Demand For Staples.

Another Week of Advances In Price on Many Lines of Goods.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Bradstreet's today says: The moderate reaction in the stock market last week and this week, caused primarily by repeated frosts and reports of severe damage to cereal crops and other farm products, was followed only in part by a corresponding check to the movement in general trade.

Our special telegraphic advices furnish the most striking evidences of a broadening of demand for staples yet produced. No one of the larger grain states confirms the reports of severe damage to wheat and corn with which the exchanges have abounded.

The Main Loss From Frosts

seems to have been to fruit and vegetables, prices of which are up again. The most bullish feature of the wheat situation lies in the announced restriction of Argentine and Russian exports, reduced export ability of nearly all leading producers and shorter supplies of importing countries. Few believe wheat has touched its highest point on this wave, although 25 cents a bushel above the lowest since the panic.

The free silver coinage craze appears to have encountered many ugly facts, notably the increase in the world's production of gold, the falling off in the output of silver, and the all but universal advance in prices of staple products, extending now over more than two months.

This Week's Records of Advances are as conspicuous as ever, and include hides, shoes, leather, bessemer pig iron, steel billets, nails, bar iron, copper, zinc, wheat, Indian corn, oats, pork, lard, wheat flour, coffee, cotton, naval stores, potatoes, poultry and butter, 21 in all. Against this record one finds practically firm markets for prints, for lumber, sugar, and live stock, with a decrease almost alone for petroleum.

The tone of the iron and steel market is the strongest since the depression of 1893-4, and inquiry has been stimulated in nearly all departments, with voluntary advances of wages in many lines, and quotations for future delivery sharply upward.

Woolen manufacturers are working on old orders and some refuse to stock up with raw material, as prices at the interior are above a parity with those at the seaboard.

Failures this week have been 207 in the United States, against 183 last year.

Young Griffo Locked Up.

BROOKLYN, May 25.—"Young Griffo," the pugilist, was brought from Philadelphia, where he was arrested, to Brooklyn last evening and locked up. The maximum penalty for his offense is 20 years' imprisonment. The prisoner made a rambling statement last night, most of which would not bear publication, but which was mainly to the effect that he was innocent of the crime charged.

Gordon Goes Free.

LOUISVILLE, May 25.—The grand jury yesterday dismissed both cases against Fulton Gordon for the killing of his wife and A. D. Brown, son of Governor Brown, in this city. The prosecution will take no further action in the matter, and Gordon is now a free man. The action of the grand jury was favorably received by nearly everybody.

Hugh McCulloch Dead.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Hon. Hugh McCulloch, ex-secretary of the treasury, died yesterday. General breaking down of the system, due to his extreme age, nearly 87 years, and lung trouble, were the cause of death. Mr. McCulloch was unconscious for some time before death came. Mr. McCulloch was born in Kennebunk, Me., Dec. 1, 1808.

Portends Disaster.

NAPLES, May 25.—The activity of Vesuvius, which coincided in 1894 with the earthquakes in Japan, Turkey and Calabria, is again noticeable. Thick columns of smoke, fire and lava are issuing from the mouth of the crater, making a splendid spectacle by night. A new cone is forming on the summit, which is already 70 feet high.

Another Trial For Hyams.

TORONTO, May 25.—The jury in the Hyams murder trial came into court at 9 o'clock last night without having arrived at a decision. Judge Street then discharged the jury. The result is that the Hyams will be tried at the fall assizes in September.

Banker Shoemaker Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Joseph M. Shoemaker, a prominent banker, died at his home in Germantown, aged 48 years. He was senior partner of the banking firm of J. M. Shoemaker & Co., and a member of both the New York and Philadelphia Stock Exchanges.

The Newest Republic.

SHANGHAI, May 25.—Formosa has declared itself a republic, the flag being a yellow dragon on a blue background. The governor, Chang Ting Sung, is made president, and has notified the foreign representatives.

Small Profits.

NEW YORK, May 25.—It is stated that leading stockholders of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company have agreed that only a 4 per cent dividend should be paid for the year.

Against Silver.

LONDON, May 25.—Leading financiers of London have signed a memorial to Mr Harcourt against any attempt being made to adopt the silver standard, either alone or concurrently with gold.

—The bloomer summer girl has come, and if it continues along the lines now developing, bathing suits will not be in it.

—Marshall P. Wilder, the American humorist, will sail for Europe on May 29.

BANK HOURS.

Interviews with Cashiers and Business Men on Closing.

The LEDGER has interviewed the bank cashiers and several of the business men today as to the proposed Saturday half holiday of the local banks.

Cashier Claflin had received no complaint from any of the depositors at the Granite Bank. It was understood that the granite firms who were among the largest depositors, were to close at noon on Saturdays, and he did not think that it would effect the storekeepers as the amount of money taken in between the hours of 12 o'clock and 4 o'clock was comparatively small, as the most of their trade would be in the evening.

George L. Gill, cashier of the Savings bank had heard of no complaint from depositors or customers about closing Saturday afternoon during the summer months, which was more of a matter of experiment. His bank did not decide to close until after the National banks had made the move. The movement was started last year when City Hall closed, as did also the stone sheds. If the National banks closed and the Savings bank kept open many people who had checks on the other banks would come there to have them cashed which he could not do as the trustees would not allow it.

John F. Merrill did not care anything about the banks closing. He thought it might inconvenience a man who happened to have a note come due on that day and could not get the money to meet it before noon.

George W. Jones said he was always willing that employes should have all the time possible and the only difference would be that he would have to deposit earlier, and he could not deposit quite as close as when the banks closed at 4 o'clock.

E. H. Doble said he would not be able to deposit Saturdays as his teams would not get in with their collections until noon and he would therefore have to carry over his cash until Monday. He would like to see a movement to close all the stores every night at 6 o'clock except on Saturdays.

Roger Bros. considered the closing of the banks at noon on Saturday a poor move. It was not always convenient to deposit in the morning and then it often times happened that small bills and change were wanted in the afternoon and banks should accommodate their customers.

Walter B. Holden was decidedly opposed to the closing movement. It was a serious detriment to all retail business in Quincy. It affected him personally, as he was often obliged to get change at the banks Saturday afternoons, and to have them close would be a nuisance and make people run all over town for change. The banks should really keep open later Saturdays. It is different in Boston as many of the stores close at 2 o'clock but here stores keep open in the evening. Let the banks close any other day but Saturday.

D. E. Wadsworth did not think it right to close Saturday noons. The banks are here to accommodate the business men who wish to make deposits as well as many who desire to draw out money to pay their help Saturday night.

TODAY'S COURT.

Dennis Shea of Randolph was arraigned for the illegal keeping of intoxicating liquor. Case continued until June 8.

John Tucker was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Peter Cavanagh of Quincy was fined $10 for assault on Daniel McKenzie, Jr.

It Did the Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

Prize Calico Party.

About seventy-five couples were preeent Friday evening at St. Mary's hall to participate in the calico party given under the auspices of St. Mary's Auxiliary, and they enjoyed dancing until midnight.

The platform was very prettily trimmed with flowers and bunting and these coupled with the light airy costumes of the ladies made a very pretty effect, especially in the grand march which was led by Mr. William Barry and Miss Mary A. Falvey.

A prize was offered for the prettiest costume worn and this was awarded to Miss Mary Reiley, the judges being Mr. William Teasdale, Mr. Fred Greenough and Mr. James O'Dowd.

Refreshments were served at intermission.

Rev. Mr. Steele's Case.

The Boston Presbytery at its meeting in Springfield on June 4, will consider "the action of the Rev. William Steele in relation to the decision of this presbytery as to the dissolution of the pastoral relations between him and the church at Quincy, and also to his bringing suit against said church for salary while he had ceased to be pastor thereof, and all other matters pertaining thereto."

Rev. Mr. Steele has written the LEDGER a column letter explaining the situation, but the LEDGER prefers not to become further mixed up in church quarrels.

—In the barn of Mr. Joseph Broad, in Avon near the Randolph line, hang two old signboards, the name on one of which is familiar to the whole country, and the sight of it, tied up with pieces of rope in this out of the way place, impresses the beholder rather strangely. It is the old office sign of Wendell Phillips, the "silver tongued orator," and its companion, of the same size, lettered "John Phillips' office," in old script, is that of Wendell Phillips' father, who was also an attorney and the first mayor of the city of Boston.—Independent.

GRANT AT VICKSBURG

HOW HE APPEARED TO A SOLDIER IN THE RANKS.

Very Little Style About the Great Commander—Southerners Surprised at His Plainness—Examining the Breastworks. Two Divisions Sacrificed.

There is nobody who is not familiar with the portrait of General Grant or the picture of his life that hangs with it on the walls of thousands of homes and hearts, but there are few of the American people who knew him as did those officers and private soldiers with whom he came in close contact during the greater part of that stormy period in the history of this country never to be forgotten. To many he was a great silent being, who inspired confidence and caused a supremely comfortable feeling to pervade the minds of the people during his war administrations.

This is all good, but it is better to sit down on the side of an old soldier's residence and hear about the great general from lips that often greeted him under circumstances extraordinary—those who saw him from a soldier's point of view, when he commanded the largest and grandest army ever mustered under the sun. The following reminiscences of General Grant are quoted from a captain of an Indiana regiment who was at Vicksburg:

"We had taken about 2,500 rebel prisoners and were guarding them. General Grant and three or four of his staff rode near us. One of the curious southerners beckoned me to him and asked, 'Who is that general over there?' I told him it was General Grant. He looked at me suspiciously. Presently he called another guard up and asked him the same question. This did not seem to satisfy him, for shortly after he called to another and repeated the question. 'Well,' said he, 'I wouldn't have believed it. There isn't a subordinate officer in our whole army who doesn't put on more style than your General Grant.'

"We had built a line of breastworks, over which a man's head was in range of the Confederate riflemen. General Grant came down to examine the defenses. He walked calmly up to the works and stood scanning their entire length at his leisure. One of the officers of my regiment walked down to the general, begged his pardon and informed him that the position he occupied was extremely dangerous; that the sharpshooters had picked off several men along the line. The general smiled serenely, thanked the officer cordially and remarked coolly that he thought he was all right. After a few minutes' observation he walked slowly away.

"There were about 20,000 Confederates occupying a position ahead of us. All day long there had been a disposition on the part of both sides to let each other alone, and the occasional shot of a sharpshooter had alone disturbed the quietude of the afternoon.

"In the rear of them was a road which, if we could take, would prevent their retreat to Vicksburg. No effort had as yet been made by them to retreat toward it. We were down in a depression, while the Confederates were up the hill. General Grant rode to our division and said to General McGinnis, 'Will your men go up that hill?'

"'They will go through h—l if necessary,' was the prompt reply.

"'All right. They will have a chance to do it after awhile.'

"This was all said as coolly as though it all were of the most trifling import, and in a short time the order came for us to advance. Well, we went on. Four-fifths of our men were killed and wounded. The Confederates were cutting us down like grass. Our shattered lines represented the base and perpendicular of a triangle. The Confederate forces had almost surrounded us when, lo, before we knew what was the matter, the plans of General Grant dawned upon us. As the rear Confederates ran like sheep through our lines in retreat, firing was heard to the right and left of us. Our two divisions had been sacrificed to draw the enemy into a trap, which, although we suffered for it, after all saved thousands of lives. The most of the Confederates got back into Vicksburg, but this move destroyed their lines and virtually captured that city. After the battle I found Generals Hovey and McGinnis and Colonel Spicely all seated together crying like children over the heavy losses sustained by their men."—Indianapolis Journal.

Passes to Richmond.

The Southern Bivouac reprints from an old southern newspaper a story of President Lincoln. Times have changed since it was first told; but, true or not, it remains a pretty good story.

In the spring of 1862 a northern gentleman entered President Lincoln's private office and requested a pass to Richmond.

"A pass to Richmond!" exclaimed the president. "Why, my dear sir, if I should give you one, it would do you no good. You may think it strange, but there's a lot of fellows between here and Richmond who either can't read or are prejudiced against every man that carries a pass from me. I have given McClellan and more than 200,000 others passes to Richmond, and not a blessed one of 'em has yet got there."

Dead on the Field of Honor.

"Dead on the field of honor!"
The story has oft been told
Of a noble foreign soldier,
So gallant, true and bold,
That after death, from the roll call
Still was read his honored name,
And "Dead on the field of honor"
Was the proud response that came—

Came from the lips of comrades
Who thus through the changeful years
Kept his name before the nation,
Embalmed with its grateful tears,
And on this day of remembrance,
As ever and aye it should be,
Come thoughts of the old time story,
This legend from over the sea.

"Dead on the field of honor!"
How the stirring words, yet sad,
Thrill over our burning heartstrings
While we think of the bright faced lad,
Or of one in the prime of manhood,
With emotions strong and deep,
For they died on the field of honor
And in graves of honor sleep.

'Tis long since the notes of conflict
Resounded in our ears,
Long since the struggle ended
In triumph yet in tears.
Triumph that right had conquered,
Tears for the hearts that bled,
Who only saw in their sorrow
The piteous mounds of the dead.

But time soothes keenest anguish,
And twined with our wreath of yew
The palm leaf and the laurel
Shine clearly forth to view.
We know they died for country
And are proud, while yet we weep,
That they died on the field of honor
And in graves of honor sleep.

THE CURRENCY FIGHT.

Bryan Argues For Silver at a Memphis Meeting.

Democratic Press of New York Hears Opinions of Cleveland and Hill.

MEMPHIS, May 25.—Close on the heels of Thursday's sound money convention here, came a rousing meeting last night of an equally numerous class of citizens, whose slogan is "Honest Money." Their guest of honor was W. J. Bryan of Nebraska. Shortly after the sound money convention was called, the silver people got to work upon a counter demonstration, with the result that Mr. Bryan consented to reply to the speech of Secretary Carlisle.

Mr. Bryan received an enthusiastic reception. A considerable part of his speech was taken up with comparisons of Secretary Carlisle's speech with utterances said to have been made by him in 1878. The telling points in Mr. Bryan's speech were loudly applauded, and when he had concluded the audience rose to its feet and cheered for several seconds.

Mr. Bryan said in part: "What need is there for bimetallism if the gold standard will furnish a sufficient amount of money? The confession that bimetallism is desirable destroys all arguments advanced in behalf of gold monometallism, and when one has admitted the desirability of bimetallism he must either favor the restoration of it by the United States alone or submit the destinies of these people to foreign nations. It has been well said that it is more dangerous to put an English banker at the head of our financial system than to put an English admiral at the head of our navy, or an English general at the head of our army."

Mr. Bryan discussed various phases of the money question, quoting frequently from Secretary Carlisle. He closed by saying that Secretary Carlisle had deserted the "struggling masses" for whom he formerly spoke, but that even without his leadership they would be able to cast their ballots for the restoration of the gold and silver coinage of the constitution, and that the present effort of Mr. Carlisle, instead of retarding the movement, would make his former speech familiar to the American people and show them the danger of entrusting our financial policy to the "idle holders of idle capital," or to their representatives.

CLEVELAND AND HILL

Give Democratic Editors of New York Their Opinions on Currency.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The two days' stay of the Democratic editors came to an end last night, when a banquet was tendered them at Delmonico's. The banquet hall was taxed to its full capacity, covers being laid for 250. Colonel W. L. Brown acted as toastmaster.

Scarcely had the diners taken their first puffs at their perfectos when Colonel Brown rapped for order and introduced John A. Mason, who thanked the Democrats of Gotham for their hospitality to the visitors. Mr. Mason then read a letter from President Cleveland which evoked tumultuous applause. After expressing regret, the president in his letter said:

"When a campaign is actively on foot to force the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver by the government, at a ratio which will add to our circulation unrestrained millions of so-called dollars, intrinsically worth but half the amount they purport to represent, with no provision or resource to make good their deficiency in value, and when it is claimed that such a proposition has any relation to the principles of Democracy, it is time for all who may in the least degree influence Democratic thought to realize their responsibility.

"Our party is the party of the people, not because it is wafted hither and thither by every sudden wave of popular excitement and misconception, but because, while it tests every proposition by the doctrines which underlie its organization, it insists that all interests should be defended in the administration of the government, without especial favor or discrimination.

"Above all, our party is the party of the people, and it recognizes the fact that sound and absolutely safe money is the life-blood of our country's strength and prosperity, and it teaches that none of our fellow-citizens, rich or poor, great or humble, can escape the consequences of a degeneration of our currency.

"Democratic care and conservatism recognize that there exists inconvenience and hardship, resulting from the congestion or imperfect distribution of our circulating medium, a remedy should be applied which will avoid the disaster that must follow in the train of silver monometallism."

Toastmaster Brown then introduced Senator Hill as "the Democrat who stands for all that there is pure and good in Democratic politics." The senator was accorded a perfect ovation as he rose to speak to the toast, "Democracy."

Senator Hill begun with a tribute to the press and a lengthy explanation of Democracy. Continuing, he spoke of the most important recent event in our national affairs, the decision of the supreme court on the income tax, saying that for that event we should congratulate ourselves and render hearty thanks.

Referring to the silver question, the senator said: "The question that is now creating the most burning issue in our national politics is the silver question. If the resolutions adopted by the delegates to the national conventions held by each of the two great parties in 1892 and the resolutions adopted by those same parties as presented in several state conventions of 1894 are an indication, it is plain that the voters of the country generally prefer the bimetallic system of coinage that prevailed in the United States before 1873.

"In 1892 there was not much difference in that regard between the resolutions of the two greater parties. The Republicans used the word 'bimetallism,' and hence the Republican state platforms of 1894 use that word more frequently than do the Democratic, but both refer to free bimetallic coinage. Nearly all that refer to a ratio mention 16. Nearly every one, Democratic and Republican, demands parity in purchasing and debt-paying power of the coined dollars."

Comptroller of the Currency Eckels, ex-Secretary of the Treasury Fairchild, ex-Governor Flower, Comptroller Fitch, Senator Cantor, District Attorney Fellows and others responded to toasts.

FIELD TO REMAIN.

Will Not Leave Supreme Bench Until Absolutely Compelled to Do So.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Justice Field of the supreme court, speaking to friends of the probability of another effort being made by the advocates of the income tax to have that law declared constitutional, remarked that from the present outlook Justice Jackson would be the first to be retired from the bench, and that because of his age it looked as if he (Field) would be the next to go. "But I will not leave the bench," he said, with earnestness, "if the Lord gives me life and strength, so long as the present administration is in power.

JUSTICE FIELD.

"The appointment of a successor to Justice Jackson cannot change the standing of the court upon the income question, so that there is no danger of the law being declared constitutional by such means. A judge appointed to succeed me might be so selected to make sure that he viewed the income tax as a constitutional measure, but, as I have said, if I am given life and strength, I will remain on the bench throughout this administration to prevent such a result."

An elaborate display of fireworks concluded the celebration last night.

TRAMPS' RENDEZVOUS

Sheltered Body of a Man Who May Have Been Murdered.

Had Probably Been Dead Over a Week.

Mystery Which Is Puzzling Residents of a Woonsocket Suburb.

WOONSOCKET, May 27.—In a deserted barn on the cross roads in North Smithfield, two miles from this city, was found, yesterday afternoon, the decomposed body of a man.

The barn is quite a distance from any dwelling. The body was discovered by Walter A. Whipple, who has charge of the farm, and Willis Ballou, a neighbor.

The body was dressed in new dark pants, light colored outing shirt and black necktie and nearly new shoes and stockings. Nearby lay a pipe and a cloth cap. On a beam overhead was a straw hat. An old overcoat was folded carefully over the upper part of the body.

The man was about 5ft. 6in. tall. He had gray hair and mustache. He must have weighed 150 pounds, and was Between Fifty and Fifty-Five Years Old.

The coroner was summoned and gave his opinion that the man had been dead a week or 10 days.

The barn is a great rendezvous for tramps. Willis Ballou, who found the body, said that people had been in and out of the barn all the week, but no one reported anything unusual there.

Last Thursday night two boys went in, struck a match, and saw what they supposed to be a man lying asleep. The man they saw lay in a different position than the body found yesterday.

Saturday night a neighbor heard a great outcery in the barn.

It is the general opinion that the man did not die in the barn, but that the body was brought there by some one. The man was not dressed like a tramp. There will be no further developments until the medical examiner comes to the place.

Taps Sounded.

BOSTON, May 27.—General M. T. Donohoe, superintendent of the reformatory at Rainsford island, died yesterday from an attack of paralysis received a week ago. General Donohoe was born in Lowell in 1838, and was a graduate of Holy Cross college, Worcester. At the breaking out of the war he enlisted in company C, Third New Hampshire regiment, and was elected captain. He was severely wounded at Fort Harrison in 1864, and was especially mentioned for gallant conduct on the field. During the last year of the war he was breveted brigadier general for gallant conduct.

Failed of Its Purpose.

AUGUSTA, May 27.—The act of the legislature of 1893, authorizing the state assessors to deduct a certain per cent of the taxation of savings banks on investments made in the state of Maine for the purpose of offering an inducement to such banks to invest their capital in this state instead of the west, has not proved the success hoped for. It is found that there is very little diminution in western speculation in 1894 over the investments of 1893.

Mrs. Helf's Change of Mind.

WESTFIELD, Mass., May 27.—News has been received by the relatives of Mrs. Helf, whose hasty marriage to Arthur Helf of New York, 30 years her junior, recently, aroused the opposition of her relatives and resulted in her incarceration in an asylum that she has been released from that institution, and is desirous of having the marriage annulled.

A Burglar-Infested District.

AUGUSTA, May 27.—In the past two months 39 burglaries and attempted burglaries have been committed within a radius of 40 miles of this city. Those who have the matter of hunting criminals in hand think that Maine will suffer from burglars more than ever this year in the smaller towns.

To Cost $10,000.

Further Increase Anticipated.

FALL RIVER, May 27.—The quarterly report of mill dividends shows that during the past three months dividends amounting to $375,375 were paid on a total capital stock of $22,008,000. The average per cent is slightly over 1.75, and the amount paid is an increase of the amount paid during the three months ending in February. Prospects are good for a continued increase in business, and the average of dividends during the coming quarter is expected to be materially increased.

Those who send $2 to Captain Charles F. Muller, office of the National park, Chattanooga, at an early date, will receive, in return, a ticket which will entitle the holder to a comfortable barrack bunk for the entire time of his stay at Chattanooga.

To Fight Revolutionists.

HAVANA, May 27.—Two regiments of infantry were landed yesterday near Gibara to re-enforce the forces of General de Campos. The business men and the farmers of Sancti Spiritus have made a request that the government allow them to form a regiment of cavalry. Four hundred persons make an offer of horses and saddlery, and they require from the government an equipment of arms and ammunition as the condition of going into service. Marcos Garcia, chief of the last revolution, with others, offer their services as officers of the regiment.

Breakers Ahead.

LONDON, May 27.—The Berlin correspondent of The Times gives a review of the work of the reichstag during the session and says: Scarcely a voice dares lift itself in praise of anything the reichstag has done. Nobody is contented but the Socialists and the Radicals. The intrigues to which Chancellor von Caprivi fell a victim are now directed against Baron von Bieberstein. Germany must be prepared for a ministerial crisis during the summer.

Italian Elections.

ROME, May 27.—Elections for members of the new chamber of deputies were held throughout Italy yesterday. Premier Crispi's party, in a majority of cases, secured the election of their followers as electoral officials at the polling stations. All the members of the cabinet have been re-elected. Sig. NEW YORK, May 27.—The Advertiser says Chief Thomas Byrnes of the police department decided to resign. FIRST PRACTICAL STEP Toward the Projected Formation of a Central American Republic.

Nicaragua-Honduras Treaty Already In Effect.

Guatemala, Salvador and Costa Rica Will Next Fall In Line.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The state department is in receipt of advices that new treaties of far-reaching importance between Nicaragua and Honduras were put into effect by proclamation on April 15.

These treaties take a step toward the forming of a Central America nation out of the several small republics—Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala, Salvador and Costa Rica. The first treaty forms a defensive alliance in case of foreign war and an offensive alliance against common enemies. It obliterates commercial frontiers, so that foreign goods once admitted to one country are free to enter the other. An express provision is made against the possibility of war between the countries by an article requiring differences to be adjusted by arbitration by some government on the American continent.

Alliance Assured.

There has been more or less conjecture as to the formation of a Central American nation, but this treaty appears to be the first practical step toward its accomplishment. Its proclamation at Tegucigalpa on April 15 was followed by a meeting at Managua of the ministers of Salvador, Honduras and the other republics, with a view to carrying out article 53 for the acceptance of the treaty by all of the countries.

The text of another Nicaragua-Honduras treaty has also been received. It provides for the arbitration of their secondary question by a commission, to be chosen by the two countries, and if an agreement on the commission is not made then Spain is constituted final arbitrator.

Substantial Sympathy.

NEW YORK, May 27.—One hundred and fifty men, representing the 13 Cuban revolutionary clubs of this city, rose as one man in Military hall last night, when Senor Juan Fraga, the presiding officer, asked them if they were willing to contribute 1-10th of their weekly wages to help make Cuba free. And for a few minutes thereafter, six men, who are prominent in the central council of Cuban clubs, were busy taking in the bank notes. A letter, recently received from Key West, denounced the statements of Marti's having been killed on the battlefield as pure fabrications, emanating from Spanish sources.

A Sunday Prize Scrap.

KANSAS CITY, May 27.—Oscar Gardner, the Omaha Kid, and Tommy Dixon of Rochester fought 36 rounds to a finish yesterday for $500 a side and a large percentage of the gate receipts, which were $2500. The ring was pitched in an open field. Both contestants went in at 130 pounds. Gardner was clearly worsted and his backers threw up the sponge.

Pernicious Silver Laws.

HANOVER, May 27.—At a conference of the German banks a resolution was passed to the effect that no change ought to be made in the present currency laws. All efforts to modify the existing laws in favor of silver are regarded by the bankers as most pernicious, because of the disquieting effect such efforts would have upon the monetary situation.

Is Marti Dead?

TAMPA, Fla., May 27. — The Cuban steamer brings news discrediting Marti's death. Passengers assert that his death is not believed in Havana by either Cubans or Spaniards. Cubans here, in addition to the regular 10 per cent contribution to the revolutionary funds, have since the report of Marti's death made 25 per cent contributions.

The Porte Not Trustworthy.

PARIS, May 27.—A conference of delegates of the Armenian associations throughout Europe was held yesterday. It was resolved that the scheme of reforms in Armenia suggested by the powers lacked necessary guarantees, and that no further promises by the porte should be accepted.

A Change For the Worse.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A decidedly unfavorable change in Secretary Gresham's condition occurred Saturday night, and for some time he was in a very serious condition. This was the result of a recurrence of the stomach troubles from which he had previously suffered so acutely.

A. P. A. Man Was Hasty.

ROCHESTER, May 27.—Egbert H. Chatfield, in a saloon argument last night, made the announcement that he was a member of the A. P. A. Dominick Kearns said: "I am glad there is one man willing to acknowledge it." Upon this Chatfield shot Kearns dead.

Sooners' Boomerang.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 27.—The penalty for "soonerism" is being indicated already. Of the 237 applications offered at the land office for filing only 27 were accepted. This will affect the great majority of men who made the race for land.

No Lives Lost.

BUENOS AYRES, May 27.—The passengers of the Spanish mail steamer Ciudad de Santander, which went ashore Saturday near Flores island, were safely landed yesterday. Efforts are being made to save the cargo.

Had No Fire Department.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 27.—A large portion of the business center of Daltna was destroyed by fire yesterday. There is no fire company in the place. The estimated loss is $50,000.

—California is trying the experiment of shipping cut flowers to the east and the railroads have cut transportation rates 40 per cent. to help the enterprise. A shipment last week contained thirty-five thousand calla lillies, English ivy and other varieties.—Beverly Times.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

THE NEW court house bill in the Legislature is the subject of a lengthy editorial in today's Herald, and by request it is republished in full in another column. The Herald is misleading and terms it a bad precedent. First as to the title of the bill. If it reads, an act to provide for the construction of a court house for the city of Quincy, it is a misnomer. It is not for the city but for the district of East Norfolk, which includes the towns of Milton, Braintree, Randolph, Holbrook, Weymouth and Cohasset as well as Quincy. It is for all these towns. The court is long established and Quincy has always been the seat, since 1871 we believe. The district has nearly one-half the population of the county, and about one-third of the valuation. It already has a court room but the judges, lawyers and officers say they have outgrown it, and that it is ill adapted to the needs of the busy court. It is also proposed to provide quarters for the probate court which also meets in this city. As suitable quarters cannot be obtained in any of the present building, why should not the county build rather rent, and by so doing obtain just what is wanted?

IT IS reported that an effort will be made in the City Council this evening to reinstate Quincy in the Metropolitan water bill. Unless the terms by which Quincy may enter later are unusually severe, no such action should be taken. Even then it is of doubtful expediency as Quincy has about enough water to flood her. The city is now paying annually maturing water bonds amounting to $25,000, and also interest on water debt amounting to over $28,000.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

A Blaze Early Sunday Morning on Granite Street.

The fire department was called out at 3.05 o'clock Sunday morning by an alarm from box 41, for a brisk fire in the old house situated on Granite street opposite the Swedish Lutheran church.

The whole building was a mass of flames when the alarm was sounded, and being on high ground the country was brilliantly illuminated and the flames could be seen for miles.

The building was owned by Mrs. John Woods, and was occupied in part by Mr. Michael Sullivan and his son and daughter. The other part was unoccupied and had been used in the past as a rendezvous for a gang of loafers and it was in the upper part of this end of the building that the fire started, and was from appearances the work of an incendiary.

The building was completely gutted and is not worth repairing. The loss on the building will not be over $500, and Mr. Sullivan's loss which was mostly by water will not exceed $25.

Young Workers for Hospital.

A very successful lawn party for the benefit of the City Hospital was held Saturday afternoon under the auspices of Miss Mary Dinegan and Miss Mary Elcock on the grounds of John H. Dinegan on the corner of School and Gay streets. A tent had been erected in the yard, and here refreshments were sold. About the yard there were several tables and a booth gaily bedecked with flags; and the large number of children had a glorious time. Something like $50 was netted.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY.

A Stirring Address by Rev. W Sherman Thompson.

MEMORIAL DAY FOR THE YOUNG

Said Rev. C. W. Wilder in His Evening Sermon at Wollaston.

Rev. Albert Bryant occupied the pulpit at the Centre Congregational Sunday morning, but the Grand Army and auxiliary bodies had been invited to the services and in place of the sermon there was an address by Rev. W. Sherman Thompson, formerly pastor at the Quincy Point church. He was greeted by a very large congregation; one which would be considered large on a pleasant Sunday. It included over one hundred members of the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief Corps in a body, and many people from Quincy Point, former parishioners of Rev. Mr. Thompson.

The speaker said that the large voluntary convention showed how impressive is the commemoration of Memorial day. It is bound to increase each year. We must see it in the light of the principles for which the war was fought. First, we are impressed with the rapidity with which the hostility has subsided. We are impressed because it was fought by citizen soldiers. It was an exhibition of sterling quality and courage. We are impressed with the extent of the spirit of justice of the North. Its long forbearance of slavery in the South, an injustice which had no claim to exist. We are impressed with the spirit of love of liberty which Washington exemplified.

The speaker expressed sympathy with the order of the Woman's Relief Corps, and paid the ladies of war times a grand tribute. He addressed the Sons of Veterans, expressing a kindred spirit for the order. It inculcates patriotism and the success of the country depends on its loyal subjects. Patriotism is a silent force. We should be patriotic because of love, reverence and respect for the old soldier. Purify the country they have saved.

To the G. A. R. this is an occasion of mingled joy and sorrow. The speaker expressed appreciation of service. We honor the soldier for courage. We honor him for willing obedience, for sublime sacrifice, for voluntary service and for devotion to the flag.

This brief synopsis does not give an idea of the stirring address. It was a very able production and was received with marked approval. Patriotic hymns added to the services.

At Wollaston.

There was a large attendance of members of the Paul Revere post, Sons of Veterans and Women's Relief corps, and others, at the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening to hear the Rev. C. W. Wilder's Memorial sermon.

Rev. Mr. Wilder took for his text: Exodus 13:26, "What mean ye by this service?" He said in part: The text takes us back to a great epoch in the history of the Hebrew nation; that of their deliverance from bondage in Egypt. This deliverance was to be celebrated, and the remembrance of it preserved by an annual memorial service. When asked by their children in subsequent years, "What mean ye by this service?" they were to explain to them its significance, and enjoin them to continue it forever.

It was a service instituted by Divine authority. Our Lord Jesus Christ instituted for his followers a similar service, as a memorial of Himself and of His death, and commanded His disciples to continue it till His coming again.

The service referred to in our text was a national memorial. It has been the custom of nations in all ages to preserve and perpetuate the memory of important events in their history.

Thus we celebrate the Declaration of Independence on the 4th of July. We celebrate Washington's birthday, Bunker Hill day, and other important anniversaries connected with our history.

It is a part of God's plan for men that nations should exist. Though He never chose but one nation as His special people, He nevertheless has a providential care for all. Providence in our history is more marked than in the history of almost any other people.

It is fitting that we should remember in an appropriate way these great national events. The remembrance of the deeds, sacrifices and heroism of those who planted, and those who preserved our nation, cannot be otherwise than beneficial.

Monuments are often erected to celebrate important events; but rites to be performed and ceremonies to be enacted, are far more instructive and impressive than monuments. If these only were erected, the deeds and sacrifices of the past would not teach their most impressive lessons. It is for this reason that the services of Memorial Day have been established. They honor the dead, it is true, but they have not been instituted so much for them as for the living. The flowers and flags placed on the graves of departed heroes are nothing to them. They have their lessons of patriotism and sacrifice for all beneath our starry flag. Neither are they instituted for the survivors of the conflict. There is little danger that they will forget the sacrifices of the past, as that their love for their country and flag will grow cold. Their scars and broken health, and premature old age would be for them sufficient reminders of the past. They as really consecrated their lives to their country as those who fell in the conflict.

It is fitting that while they survive they should be the medium through which these memories are preserved. The Memorial Day ceremonies are designed to impress on the minds of all, especially of the young, the cost and consequent value of our institutions.

A memorial vesper service was held at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday evening. There was besides the address by Rev. Edward A. Robinson, special music by the regular double quartette, assisted by Mr. Chas. B. Dickey and Mr. C. F. Wilde.

At the West Quincy Methodist church the pastor in the morning spoke of the woman healed by touching the hem of Christ's garment. His subject was the nature of the healing touch characterized by a sense of want inability to help herself and a felt assurance that Christ would help and heal her. In the evening the subject was "Voices of the dead," and the discourse was made a local memorial discourse. He referred to the twenty funerals he had attended during the year in which every relation in life, and every age had been represented from the infant to the ones past three score and ten. The church official, Franklin Rand, the young married man, the business man, the father and the mother had all passed, but they left a voice behind to be true and good and noble. A pretty poem "Beyond the Stars," was read as appropriate to the subject, he discussed the question "Shall we know each other there?" and closed with reference to the services of the G. A. R. veterans in the war, and the stirring lesson of patriotism, all should learn on Memorial day.

In the First Presbyterian church the Rev. Robert Westly Peach chose as the text for the morning sermon, John 6:68—"Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life." To whom shall we go is a question that comes to everyone in the course of a lifetime. Amid the purplexities of life one has the option to elect between divine wisdom and human folly. Ancient philosophers had many sage words to say but they were not words of eternal life. When philosophers and skeptics get confounded "Come unto me" as expressed in Christ are so simple that even children are guided to felicity.

"It is expedient that I go away," was the subject of Rev. Walter Russell Breed's sermon on Sunday morning. The congregation somehow associated it with the marriage in Pennsylvania next week.

The Epworth League of the West Quincy M. E. church hope to have their new banner soon, and the Sunday School the new singing books next Sunday.

Rev. William Steele preached Sunday evening in the G. A. R. hall, Hancock street to a good congregation of a very desirable character. Solo singing by Mrs. Steele and congregational singing was hearty and inspiring. Text was Psalm 91: 2. Another service will be held next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Next Sunday will be children's day at the First church, and the following Sunday at the Centre Congregational church.

The annual choir festivals of Episcopal choirs will be held in Boston on the evenings of May 29, June 5 and 12. That of this week is at the Church of the Advent. The choir of the Quincy church takes part in that of June 5 at St. Paul's church.

Mr. Ames D. Albee preached Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church on: "The Young Men's Christian Association."

At the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. C. A. Parker, pastor, preached from Phil. 1:29.

The pulpit at the First church looked very pretty Sunday, decorated as it was with flowery shrubs and flowers. Such pretty effects must give an inspiration to the clergyman, as no doubt they do.

An all-day session of the Christian Alliance of Quincy and neighboring towns is being held in the First church today. The morning session was addressed by Rev. Elery C. Butler, and this afternoon there are two lady speakers.

Rev. David F. Magill the new pastor of the East Milton Baptist church will be given a reception this evening.

The Rev. Harry C. Vrooman returned from his Southern lecturing tour as bright, aggressive and uncompromising to gambling in every form as ever. He resumed his pastoral duties at East Milton Sunday morning. In the evening he preached from Rev. II: 16, 17. He explained and emphasized true patriotism as fulfilling Christ's mission. He condemned the military spirit growing in this nation, ridiculed the idea of foreign danger and said that if war came it will be between the privileged and the unprivileged classes. He exposed the greed of capitalism and deprecated the fact that thousands of honest workmen had no chance to earn their bread and butter unless someone made profit out of them. He wished for the time when the kingdom of the earth shall be Christ's kingdom.

Another Defeat.

The Adams Academy base ball nine received a defeat Saturday from the team from the Roxbury High school, by score of 15 to 11. In the first inning affairs looked very discouraging for Adams; several errors gave the visiting team six runs, but they were held down in the second, and the only runs made by them until the last innings were one each in the third and fourth innings. The most of Adams' runs were made in the fifth and last innings. Linfield's pitching in the ninth was unusually weak, and was responsible for most of Roxbury's runs. Manning's catching was up to his usual style. Roxbury's outfielding was very clean.

The South Quincys Win.

The South Quincys went to South Braintree Saturday afternoon, and defeated the home team by a score of 19 to 1. The features of the game was the pitching of Birnie, allowing the South Braintrees only two scattered hits, and the second base playing of Duffy and the out field work of the South Quincys, the batting of McIntosh, Deady, Purdy and Pirovano. The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
So. Quincys,	3	0	4	0	2	3	4	3	0	—19
So. Braintrees,	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	— 1

A SENSATION.

Man Discovered by Daughters Living With Another Woman.

Thirteen years ago the town of Sunapee, N. H., awoke from its peaceful slumber to find that in the night one of its citizens had disappeared, leaving his wife and two daughters.

It was also rumored at that time that there was a woman in the case.

The man's name was Thomas Roach and although efforts were made to locate him they were without avail, and he had never been heard from during all these years until last week.

Then it was that his two daughters Ella M. and Hattie D., who had now grown into womanhood, received news that their long-lost father was in that part of Quincy known as Wollaston.

In consequence of this information the daughters accompanied by Arthur P. Watson visited Wollaston Saturday and learned that Thomas Roach received his mail there but the directory gave his residence as 32 Franklin street, Quincy, whither they hastened.

A knock at the door of No. 32 brought a woman who in response to inquiries said she was Mrs. Roach and that her husband would return at 7 o'clock. Nothing more was said and the party returned to the centre for supper.

This over they again journeyed forth and almost the first person met was Mr. Roach to whom Hattie said "Why Father." At this the guilty man turned, and in a husky voice exclaimed, "Great God, is that you, Hattie."

What followed this is not known, but the girls made a trip to Franklin street again where the alleged Mrs. Roach, who proved to be Ella Roberts, acknowledged that she had never been married to Roach, although she had lived with him as such for thirteen years, eight of which had been in Quincy. She also said she had one child by him which lived only a few days, and also knew that he had a wife in New Hampshire.

Meanwhile Roach had not been idle but had lost no time in disappearing, which he did almost as suddenly as thirteen years ago.

Sunday, Justice Pratt was visited and a warrant was issued against Ella Roberts for unlawful cohabitation upon which complaint she was arraigned in the District court this morning.

Then it was that the facts above related were brought out.

The Roberts woman had nothing to say and seemed to care little about the disposition of the case. She was held in $500 for the grand jury, and as she was unable to secure bail she was taken to Dedham.

Thus all the parties connected with the affair are no longer in Quincy.

Thomas Roach is well known in Quincy, his business being that of a carpenter, and of late he has been employed by Chief Engineer Williams in that capacity.

It is thought that the daughters gave Roach an inkling of what they proposed to do, that he might make good his escape.

Lasters vs. Bottomers.

At Quincy Point Saturday afternoon the Lasters of Whicher's factory were defeated by the Bottomers of the same factory, Donahue of the old Randolphs, pitched a good game up to the fourth inning, having two assists and six strike outs; after this he went to pieces and gave nine bases on balls. Scott surprised himself by catching a liner with one hand.

The battery for the Bottomers was Cunniff and Murphy; for the Lasters, Donahue and Walsh.

Devary was knocked out of the box in the beginning.

The umpires were Connor and Welsh; scorer, Wilkins.

Capt. Kane would like another game as he thinks that if Donahue's arm held out he would have won.

THE COURT HOUSE.

The Herald Says It is Setting a Bad Precedent.

An editorial in the Herald is of local interest, and by request is republished in full:

"A bill which should be defeated, now before the House of Representatives, is entitled 'An Act to Provide for the Construction of a Court House for the City of Quincy.' On the face of it there does not appear to be anything objectionable in this measure, until Quincy recollects that Quincy is not the county seat of Norfolk county, and that there has been of late years a very large sum of money spent in providing ample and even luxurious court accommodations in Dedham, which is the shire town. The demand put forth in this bill is for the erection, at an expense not exceeding $70,000, of what is termed a court house in which to hold the district court—that is, the court that convenes in all of the considerable towns and cities of this state for the trying by a police justice of minor offenses.

"Under the law it is customary for the local authorities to petition the county commissioners for accommodations in which to hold their district courts, and there is every reason for believing that a petition of this kind would receive, in the case of Quincy, the attention that it has received all over the commonwealth. But what the people of Quincy wish for is not a room in some other building, as is the custom in practically all parts of the state outside of the very large cities, but a distinct building erected for district court purposes. Instead of going to the county commissioners, they have jumped over the heads of these officials, and have had a bill introduced into the Legislature making it mandatory upon the county commissioners to build such a building, at the expense, be it understood, not of the city of Quincy, but of the county of Norfolk, so that Quincy comes in for only a small share of the cost of what is distinctly a local improvement.

"But if Quincy can have a court building put up, why not Weymouth, Brookline, Hyde Park, Braintree, Milton and the various other large towns of the county? Or, as to that matter, why may not any town or city in the commonwealth come to the Legislature, and in this way compel the county commissioners, who are assumed to be independant judges, to construct edifices of this character? If we are not misinformed, this is a case which is without precedent in the annals of the commonwealth. The people of Quincy wish for a public improvement in the way of a local court house to adorn their highway, and rather than build this they find it expedient to call upon the commonwealth to force the other cities and towns of the county to contribute to a sum in which Quincy pays only about ten cents on a dollar."

MUSIC OF THE WAR

Soul Stirring Songs That Inspired the Soldiers.

PRODUCT OF FERVID PATRIOTISM.

Sentimental, Humorous and Purely Patriotic—Authors of "The Battle Cry of Freedom," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "My Maryland" and "The Bonnie Blue Flag."

The songs of a nation are among the most enduring of its memories, and in time of war are the most potent of its moral influences. Frenchmen are moved by "The Marseillaise," Germans are aroused to fighting enthusiasm by "The Watch on the Rhine," Englishmen have marched to battle singing "Rule Britannia" and "God Save the Queen," and we have all read how "Annie Laurie," begun by a sentinel on his post, swept in grand chorus through the British camp in front of Sevastopol. The favorite of the Italian is known as "The Garibaldian Hymn," while we Americans recognize the loftiest and purest patriotism in the stirring measures of our own "Star Spangled Banner."

Nevertheless it is noteworthy that no great war song ever has been written by a great poet. Its melody and verse have been rather the inspired product of fervid patriotism than of the studied effort of genius. During the first three years of the late war thousands of verses were composed by earnest men and women in both the north and south, but how few among these winged messengers of the brain survive! There were lyrics that timed the march to battle, war slogans that rang out like the inspiring rat-a-tat of a drum and elegies that recited the virtues of the hero dead, yet the memory of most of them passed away with the generation that saw their birth. Of those that have lingered longest and bid fair to become a permanent heritage of the struggle brief mention may be here made.

GEORGE F. ROOT.

Opinions will vary as to the degree of their popularity or order of merit, but several will always retain their old ring and make the pulse beat faster wherever veterans of the war are assembled. No one, for instance, will deny a place of honor to "The Battle Cry of Freedom."

It was one of several songs written by George F. Root, a composer and publisher of many other beautiful songs and ballads prior to 1861, and was first sung by the celebrated Hutchinson family at a mass meeting in the city of New York. Mr. Root was born in Sheffield, Mass., Aug. 30, 1820, and as an evidence of his virility the incident may be related that as recently as January of the present year, at a military entertainment in Chicago, the venerable maker of the verse and music, gray haired, yet alert, was called to the stage and in a strong voice sang his own patriotic rallying song. At the end of each verse he was cheered to the echo, and not content with that the audience took the words out of the mouths of the army of singers and joined enthusiastically in the chorus.

The story has been printed that during the desperate fight in the Wilderness, May 6, 1864, a Federal command was driven back in disorder with heavy loss. Reforming, it prepared once more to confront the enemy. At this moment some of the men of the Forty-fifth Pennsylvania began to sing:

We'll rally round the flag, boys, rally once again.

The refrain was taken up by other regiments in line of battle, and, with recovered spirits, the previously disheartened boys dashed back into the thick of the fight. The original words are as follows:

Yes, we'll rally round the flag, boys,
We'll rally once again,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.
We will rally from the hillside,
We will rally from the plain,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.

CHORUS.

The Union forever! Hurrah, boys, hurrah!
Down with the traitors, up with the stars,
While we rally round the flag, boys,
Rally once again,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.

We are springing to the call
Of our brothers gone before,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom,
And we'll fill the vacant ranks
With a million freemen more,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.

We are marching to the field, boys,
Going to the fight,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom,
And we'll bear the glorious stars
Of the Union and the right,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.

If we fall amid the fray, boys,
We will face them to the last,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom,
And our comrades brave shall hear us
As we are rushing past,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom.

Another of the numerous war songs written by Mr. Root and which acquired a popularity that has not yet passed away is known wherever the English language is spoken as

TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP, THE BOYS ARE MARCHING.

In the prison cell I sit,
Thinking, mother, dear, of you,
And our bright and happy home so far away,
And the tears they fill my eyes,
Spite of all that I can do,
Though I try to cheer my comrades and be gay.

CHORUS.

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching;
Cheer up, comrades, they will come,
And beneath the starry flag
We shall breathe the air again
Of the free land in our own beloved home.

In the battle front we stood
When their fiercest charge they made,
And they swept us off, a hundred men or more,
But before we reached their lines
They were beaten back, dismayed,
And we heard the cry of victory o'er and o'er.

So within the prison cell
We are waiting for the day
That shall come to open wide the iron door,
And the hollow eye grows bright,
And the poor heart almost gay,
As we think of seeing home and friends once more.

WHEN YOU FEEL LANGUID, dull and heavy, it's your liver that's at fault. A sluggish, torpid liver deranges your stomach and kidneys and bowels. It poisons your blood. You feel it "all over."

The best-known remedy in the world is Carlsbad. People go there, not only for a disordered liver, but for all the diseases that follow it, and for jaundice and chronic liver complaint, and every ailment of the kind.

There's no need for you to go. You get precisely the same treatment in the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt (the water solidified at the Spring) or in the imported waters. In catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia, habitual constipation, diabetes, or any gouty or rheumatic affection, they have been a specific for hundreds of years.

Take only the genuine imported article, with the signature of "EISNER & MENDELSON CO., Sole Agents, New York," and the seal of the city of Carlsbad on every bottle. Beware of the many worthless imitations sold here as "improved" or "artificial" Carlsbad Salt, which consist only of a mixture of common Glauber Salt and Seidlitz Powder, and in no way have the same action as the genuine natural remedy of Carlsbad. Insist upon the genuine.

To the Ghost of Sherlock Holmes.

When Sherlock Holmes, ingenious man, pursued his strange career,
We studied his adventures with a sympathy sincere,
Although in time his victories monotonous became,
Because his base opponents never won a single game.

He caught his latest criminal, and then at last—he died.
"We mourn him, we lament him, but it's time he went," we cried.
Ah, foolish words! Soon after we regretted him, dismayed
To find he'd left a family to carry on the trade.

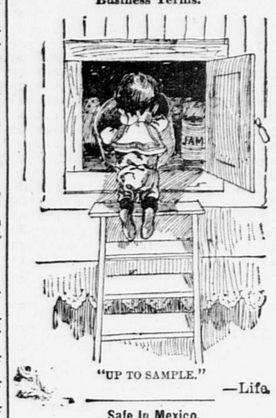

They swarm in every magazine; each journal with them teems,
Detecting obvious criminals by very obvious schemes,
Adapting to their purposes devices long ago
Invented by the master hand of great Gaboriau.

Yes, Sherlock Holmes is dead and gone, but still in other shapes
We meet the old detective whom no criminal escapes.
The hateful "strange occurrence" or "mysterious affair"
Still, still infests the magazines and drives us to despair.

Oh, ghost of Mr. Sherlock Holmes, please mercifully kill
These shameless imitators of your transcendent skill,
Or haunt the homes of editors and pointedly suggest
That fictionary criminals might be allowed a rest!

PARIS, May 27.—The governor of French Guiana cables to the French government that as a consequence of Brazilian freebooters capturing a French soldier named Trajane, and robbing other Frenchmen on the frontier territory between French Guiana and Brazil, the governor sent a dispatch boat, with marines, to restore order. M. Lunier, captain of the marines, with only two men, took a flag of truce to demand the surrender of Trajane. Cabral, the leader of the freebooters, treacherously fired upon M. Lunier. A fierce conflict ensued, the marines coming to the assistance of the Frenchmen. AN ARMENIAN UPRISING

Likely to Be Delayed by Scarcity of Food In Disturbed Districts.

Further Examples of Awful Outrages by Kurds.

Armenian Baby Roasted and Parents Compelled to Eat Its Flesh.

LONDON, May 27.—A special correspondent at Kars, Russia, confirms the story of an impending uprising of Armenians. He says:

During the past three weeks I have had unusual opportunity for obtaining additional confirmation of the facts contained in my announcement of the impending uprising of the Armenians in Turkey next month.

The exact date for the uprising has not yet been fixed, owing for the most part to the fact that the extreme eastern section of the revolutionary party is not ready for active operations. Whether or not the central section will wait for the eastern wing longer than the month of May, I do not know, nor has the matter actually been decided. I am led to believe that the eastern wing cannot be ready for hostilities in May, and possibly not before July 1.

The eastern wing has been and is having a hard time of it, owing to two circumstances over which the leaders have no control. In the first place, the mountain passes leading to Van have been blocked with snow for months, so that only special messengers, following the regular routes of travel, could get through, and, therefore, it was impossible to forward guns and ammunition from Russia and Persia to the districts about Lake Van. In the second place, the Armenians in the eastern end of Turkey are in a condition bordering on starvation. It is obvious that people in this condition cannot fight. On this point a leading executive officer of the revolutionary party said to me three days ago:

Can't Fight on Empty Stomachs.

"If men have nothing in their stomachs, what can they do? We must first feed them before we can expect them to fight. When we can get food enough on hand to last two months then we shall show the world how Armenians can fight."

It is this question of food that the revolutionary leaders will find most difficult of solution; for the problem of smuggling guns into Armenia will be solved with the coming of spring, which is now just beginning to be felt in the lower valleys. It is plain that if no food is to be had, people cannot be fed, no matter how much money they may have, and it is a fact that in the eastern part of Armenia food is so scarce that the well-to-do and rich people have no more than they actually need.

As for the poorer Armenians, their condition is distressing in the extreme, and, added to the robberies, outrages and massacres which Turks and Kurds have brought upon them, they are now harassed by a famine so terrible that many of them are actually dying of starvation. Few crops were grown last summer, owing to the fact that many of the farmers and cultivators were thrown into prison by the Turks under charges of revolutionary conspiracy.

There will be no crops planted in eastern Armenia this spring, for the country everywhere is suffering from a reign of terror. The presence of the commission of inquiry at Moosh and the indignation of the Christian powers of Europe have had absolutely no effect on the conduct of either the Turks or Kurds in eastern Turkey.

Further Massacres Probable.

When the new grass of spring enables the Kurdish horsemen to move about the country, the work of exterminating the Armenians, which was interrupted by the fall of snow after the Sassoun and Moosh massacres last autumn, will be begun anew. With no crops and no cattle of their own, the Armenians will either die of starvation or flee to Persia and Russia. The famine will seriously affect both Kurds and Turks, as they live mainly upon the industry of the Armenians—the former by open robbery and the last named by extorting and outrageous taxation.

Some of the Turks and a few of the Kurds realize that they are killing the goose that lays the golden egg, but they can do nothing, as persecution of the Armenians is ordered by the Sultan of Turkey.

It is a fact, which the British government can verify by consulting the report of Mr. Paton, an official of the British consulate at Tebriz, Persia, that in several cases the Turkish officials in the devastated district of Armenia tried hard to save the Armenians from death and their property from destruction, but when they protested against the murderous raids of the troops the officers read to them the orders of the sultan, and so

Nothing Could Be Done.

He was accompanied on this tour of investigation by Dr. Wright, an American missionary, stationed at Salmas. These gentlemen took testimony from several witnesses to the effect that when the Turkish soldiers and Kurds appeared at a certain village they killed some of the villagers who dared to protest against their outrages, and that one of the dead men was cut up and boiled in a kettle like so much beef. The boiled pieces were then given to the villagers as food. The wretched creatures were compelled to eat their dead friend to the last mouthful.

In another village, a party of Kurds found a child asleep in a cradle. They overturned the cradle and smothered the child. Then they dissected the body and roasted pieces of it before the fire. As a climax they compelled the members of the family, including the child's mother, to eat the roasted pieces.

But these are only casual incidents picked out at random from the mass of testimony taken by Mr. Paton and Dr. Wright. The details will be found in Mr. Paton's report, if it is ever made public.

All Suspicious.

The revolutionary leaders hardly know whom to rely on, for their most trusted agents may be in the pay of the Turkish government.

The headquarters of the revolutionary party are in London, and it is from there that the head leader issues his orders to his executive leaders in Russia, Persia and Turkey. With regard to the financial methods of the revolutionary party, I look upon it as my duty to give a word of warning to kind-hearted persons in America who are subscribing to funds for the relief of the Sassoun refugees. I am convinced that any relief money entrusted to any Armenian will sooner or later be used to help the revolutionary cause.

DEATH OF PHIL KEARNY.

Shot While Leading a Column at the Battle of Chantilly.

Colonel W. L. Goldsmith of Mississippi gives the following account of the death of General Kearny, who was killed by soldiers of the Forty-ninth Georgia regiment in September, 1862:

The battle of Chantilly was fought late in the afternoon amid a severe storm of wind and rain. It was a gloomy, dark, depressing afternoon, and night was fast approaching. Our brigade had not fired a gun, but was on the extreme left of our forces and behind a worm rail fence grown up thick with saplings and bushes—an excellent place for ambushing. The fighting was all to our right. I had charge of the skirmish line, some 200 yards in advance of our line of battle, and in a cornfield which gently sloped up toward the direction of the Federals. Presently I saw a line of blue majestically moving toward us several hundred yards away, and I remember distinctly the powerful impression it made on my mind at the time. As it came forward, slowly and grandly, amid the thickening gloom of that dreary September evening, it reminded me of an inrolling blue wave of the great ocean coming toward us. They had no skirmish line, and I withdrew our forces back to the main line, and as far as I could I tried to get the men to hold their fire until the enemy came close up. Some of our men commenced firing before the enemy came close enough, which spoiled the whole game. The Federals were checked and driven back so easily that we knew something was the matter and attributed their timidity to the demoralizing influence of defeat at second Manassas only a few days before, but on re-establishment of our skirmish line we discovered that the gallant General Phil Kearny had been killed, and this was the cause of the Federals' weak attempt.

The grief of our entire army was marked and sincere over this sad news, and General Lee sent his body through the lines next day, to the great satisfaction and approval of us all. General Kearny was killed by the Forty-ninth Georgia regiment, beloved and mourned by both blue and gray. —Blue and Gray.

MOTLEY UNIFORMS OF 1861.

Gay and Gorgeous Apparel of the Troops at the Beginning of the War.

The call to arms of 1861 found in the United States a number of militia regiments and innumerable volunteer organizations whose uniforms were as fanciful and varied as could well be conceived, being fashioned after the pattern of almost every known military type in Europe, from the highland costume of the famous British infantry to the hybrid, circuslike, useless dress of the French zouave and the banditlike clothing of the Sardinian bersaglieri. France had two years before beaten Austria, and there was a sort of French military craze on us just then, and our soldier boys affected their style. England had just decided that gray was the best and most serviceable color that could be adopted for the uniform of her volunteers, and many state troops and local companies were clad in that color.

But each corps dressed according to its own fancy, and the frock coat, the swallow tailed coat, the jacket, the blouse, appeared in all varieties of shape and color, headdresses in equal variety, black belts, white belts, all sorts of accouterments could be seen—everything, in fact, save the one thing most needful then and now—uniformity. This, thanks to hard, practical experience, was developed later on in the war, but the first months found the boys in a very motley if gay and gorgeous apparel. This antebellum state of affairs applied equally to the military organizations of the southern states, and though perhaps the highlander did not obtain there to any great extent the zouave certainly did.—Selected.

National Cemeteries.

The thunderstorm of fierce, wild war
Has softly died away.
Upon the hills and valley fair
Peace rules the livelong day.

All of the national cemeteries, it is a pleasure to know, are beautifully laid out and maintained in superb condition. They have many features in common.

Most of them are situated on hillsides or upon uneven ground, where the best landscape effects are produced. In almost all of them the graves are ranged in mathematical rows, circular and rectangular.

The mounds are smoothly sodded and kept trim and neat, with a simple but handsome tablet, marble or granite, placed at the head of each. The grassy lawns between are carefully cut, the walks and paths are rolled and graveled, and shade trees, with here and there a rustic seat beneath them, besides flowers and a profusion of ornamental shrubbery, are planted throughout the surrounding grounds. The inclosures, as a rule, are well walled in with granite or other enduring masonry. All the cemeteries are provided with attractive administration buildings, and many contain imposing monuments erected both to individuals and to the dead soldiers collectively.—Exchange.

A Land Without Serf or Slave.

Here in this peaceful land of ours—here where the sun shines, where flowers grow, where children play—millions of armed men battled for the right and breasted on a thousand fields the iron storms of war. These brave, these incomparable men founded the first republic. They fulfilled the prophecies; they brought to pass the dreams; they realized the hope that all the great and good and wise and just have made and had since man was man. But what of those who fell? There is no language to express the debt we owe, the love we bear, to all the dead that died for us. Words are but barren sounds. We can but stand beside their graves and in the hush and silence feel what speech has never told. They fought, they died, and for the first time since man has kept a record of events the heavens bent above and domed a land without a serf, a servant or a slave.—Colonel R. G. Ingersoll.

Memorial Day.

Memorial day holds a peculiar place among those set apart for special purposes by the people of this country. Though consecrated to the memory of those who fell on the field of battle, it yet is not the "Miserere" which is sung. The note of thanksgiving sounds beneath that of sorrow, and the springtime awakening is significant of the new life and glory of the nation.

Under the Laurel and Willow.

Sectional feeling is vanishing from the celebration of Decoration day—or Memorial day—and the fraternal spirit is gaining ground. Men and women feel now that the dead are brothers, even though they sleep

Under the laurel the blue,
Under the willow the gray.

NO SECRET
IN THIS WOMAN'S CASE.

Mrs. Campbell Wishes Her Letter Published so that the Truth May Be Known.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Of the thousands of letters received from women all over the world by Mrs. Pinkham, not one is given to the public unless by the wish of the writer. Thus absolute confidence is established between Mrs. Pinkham and her army of patients; and she freely solicits a letter from any woman rich or poor, who is in ill health or ailing.

In the case of Mary E. Campbell, of Albion, Noble Co., Ind., her suffering was so severe, her relief so suddenly realized, and her gratitude so great, that she wishes the circumstances published, in the hope that others may be benefited thereby. She says:—

"My physician told me I had dropsy and falling of the womb. My stomach and bowels were so bloated I could not get a full breath. My face and hands were bloated badly. I had that dreadful bearing-down pain, backache, palpitation of the heart, and nervousness.

"One of my physicians told me I had something growing in my stomach; and the medicine that I took gave me relief only for a short time. I thought I must die. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it worked like a charm. After taking the first bottle I could walk across the street, now I am well. I advise all my friends to take it." —MARY E. CAMPBELL, Albion, Noble Co.

RELIEVED BY DEATH.

Premier Gresham's Sufferings Ended In Loved Ones' Presence.

A Long Life Devoted to the Nation's Welfare.

His Career on the Battlefield, on the Bench, and at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 28. — Secretary of State Gresham died at 1:15 o'clock this morning.

For two hours preceding dissolution there had been no indication either of a pulse or a heart beat. He lay during that time with his head resting on the arms of his daughter, Mrs. Andrews, while his devoted wife sat by his side, his hands clasped in hers; his face so turned that his last conscious gaze should rest upon her.

And so the minutes dragged slowly on until the end came. He was conscious to the last. He suffered greatly during the preceding 48 hours, after the pneumonic symptoms were complicated with his disease, and was only temporarily relieved by frequent hypodermic injections. But as the end approached, his suffering disappeared, and he passed away as quietly as a child sinking to slumber.

Mrs. Gresham's long pent-up grief could not be longer restrained when she realized the secretary was dead. She leaned over his body, calling him affectionately by name, and was with difficulty removed from his side.

Secretary Gresham's sickness began May 1, when he was attacked with acute pleurisy. The effusion filled the pleural cavity, but his condition yielded to treatment until Saturday, when he suffered a relapse, accompanied by acute pneumonia. His condition since that time has been extremely critical. His heart action became enfeebled, requiring the constant administration of the most powerful heart stimulants.

WALTER Q. GRESHAM.

About 5:30 last evening he sank so rapidly that death was momentarily expected. Restoratives were applied, and hypodermic injections of nitro-glycerine (the most powerful of all heart stimulants) and strychnine were made. His blood vessels were in a state of collapse, and his condition was so critical that the physicians decided that transfusion was immediately necessary to stimulate the heart. Dr. Van Ransenlaer opened a vein in the left arm and infused a pint and a half of normal saline solution. The operation was successful, and about 9 o'clock the stricken statesman had revived somewhat.

The secretary lay in one of a suite of rooms on the ground floor of the Johnson annex of the Arlington hotel. At his bedside were Mrs. Gresham, his daughter, Mrs. F. E. Andrews of Chicago, and his son-in-law, Mr. Andrews, the nurses and the three physicians.

The anxious watchers at the bedside about 9:30 saw the giant frame of the secretary convulsed by a severe chill. He sank rapidly, but the chill passed away and he recovered slightly, and then dozed for a few minutes. The physicians continued to give hypodermic injections of nitro-glycerine. At 10:20 he suffered another rigor.

At 11:30 o'clock, the physicians, despairing of all further effort, had retired from the chamber and sat in the next room ready to render such service as they might in smoothing the way to the end when summoned.

By midnight the signs of dissolution were crowding thick and fast. He had been conscious and even conversed calmly with those about him, but as the midnight hour drew near, the waning forces of life were no longer equal to the effort, and he sank into silence. Although almost pulseless, and without sign of life, his eyes still showed the gleam of intelligence and appreciation of what was going on about him.

Mrs. Gresham sat at the bedside smoothing his fevered brow and occasionally reading to him from the Bible passages which he loved. As the end approached, his pulse became hardly perceptible. Gradually his eyes glazed and closed. But Mrs. Gresham, with noble and heroic fortitude, continued to read the words of Gospel to her departing husband. Her daughter and son-in-law stood with bowed heads at the side of the couch.

At 1:15 o'clock his breathing ceased, a peaceful shadow passed over his pale countenance, his pulse flickered, and the sorrowing family were in the presence of death.

An Honorable Career.

Walter Quinton Gresham was a soldier, a judge and a statesman, eminent and distinguished in the great fights of human endeavor. He rose to the rank of major gefferal of volunteers during the rebellion. He was for 14 years United States district judge for Indiana, and for eight years United States circuit judge for Illinois, and held three cabinet portfolios—postmaster general and secretary of the treasury, under Arthur, and secretary of state under Cleveland. Such an epitome of public service few men can boast.

He was born March 17, 1832, near Lanesville, Ind. He obtained a common school education and entered the state university, but was only able to remain there one year. He was admitted to the bar in 1853 at Corydon, Ind., and became a successful lawyer; was elected to the legislature in 1860, and in August, 1861, became lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-eighth Indiana infantry. The following December he was made colonel of the Fifty-third Indiana and served for two years in that rank, making an exceptionally brilliant record, especially in the campaigns of 1863 in Mississippi.

Aug. 11, 1863, he was commissioned brigadier general, and while commanding the fourth division of General Blair's corps before Atlanta he received a wound which disabled him for a year, ending his service. March 13, 1865, he was brevetted major general for gallantry in the Atlanta campaign. He resumed law practice, this time at New Albany, Ind., and became a Republican leader, but the Democratic majority in that region was too much for him, and he was defeated in the race for congress. Again, in 1881, he was an unsuccessful candidate for United States senator. Meanwhile President Grant had appointed him federal judge for the district of Indiana.

His Services at Washington.

When Postmaster General Howe died, in April, 1883, Gresham, then holding court at Evansville, was tendered the cabinet position by telegraph, and accepted. Near the close of Arthur's term, on the death of Secretary Folger, he was appointed secretary of the treasury, a position he held until October, 1884, when he withdrew from the cabinet altogether. During his cabinet service he was one of Arthur's most trusted advisers. In December, 1884, Judge Drummond having retired from the office of United States circuit judge, President Arthur, who had taken him from the bench, had the satisfaction of restoring him to the bench at the end of his service.

In 1888 Judge Gresham was made a prominent candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency at the Chicago convention. Harrison ultimately captured the Indiana delegation and was nominated.

Previous to that, Gresham had displayed a strong inclination to dissent from the extreme high tariff doctrine of the Republican party. His views on the tariff created against him the antagonism of the extreme protectionists at Chicago. When the Republicans assumed power and revised the tariff by the passage of the McKinley law, Judge Gresham, with other Republicans, openly dissented, and in 1892, after the nomination of Cleveland by the Democrats, he, with other Republicans, renounced their allegiance to the Republican party and advocated Cleveland's election. After Cleveland was elected in February, 1893, he tendered Gresham the position of premier of the cabinet he was forming. Gresham accepted, and assumed the duties of secretary of state on March 7, 1893.

During his short term as postmaster general, Gresham accomplished much. From the day he set foot in the office he evinced those qualities of application and masterfulness which have always characterized his public labors.

Called by Cleveland.

As secretary of state in the present administration, Mr. Gresham has had to deal with problems more vexatious, intricate and delicate, diplomatically, than has fallen to the share of most secretaries of state. His treatment of these measures was marked by the strong individuality which was part of the man. To him it made little difference how any line of action promised to affect his own country, he could and did disabuse his mind of any personal feeling in dealing with an international question, and the first consideration with him was always absolute fairness; if his own country occupied a false position in the matter, he thought it was his duty to set it right, even at a sacrifice of material interests, as it might appear at the time.

Secretary Gresham found much to dissatisfy him with the state of our foreign relations when he assumed office this last time, and in his characteristic fashion he set to work to shape these to meet his own ideas without delay. Such a course was certain to subject him to bitter criticism, and he fully realized this in advance, but was in no respect deterred from doing what he thought was right.

This brought him face to face with the great question of the hour at that time—the annexation of Hawaii. He had decided views upon this matter even before he came into the cabinet, and the secretary made his celebrated recommendation that the queen be restored, inasmuch as she had been deposed through the action of the officers of the United States. When congress finally made known its wishes the secretary accepted them for his government, but it cannot be discovered from any subsequent utterance of his that he ever changed his views as originally announced to the justice of the action he had proposed.

While he was deep in the Hawaiian negotiations, Gresham was obliged suddenly to give immediate attention to the subject of the Behring sea fisheries. The arbitration arranged by his predecessor was in full swing. Here was another matter with which

He Was Not In Harmony.

The British were unwilling to do the first of many things, and it was only by an exhibition of strength through his character and purpose that he succeeded in hurrying through the British parliament an act to give effect to the arbitration and then securing the adoption of regulations to keep off the poachers.

By a clause in the Wilson tariff act, congress has swept away in a line all of the carefully constructed reciprocity treaties negotiated by the preceding administration. This caused great anger among the nations with which the United States had such treaties, and the storm fell upon Secretary Gresham's head. It was Mr. Gresham's task to placate the European powers, and how skillfully he did so, the printed correspondence tells.

Another legacy from his predecessor which Mr Gresham found very little to

SHOT IN THE HEAD.

Mystery Attends the Shooting of Mrs. Walker of Hopkinton.

Says She Does Not Know How It Happened.

Police Suspect Her Son and Have Placed Him Under Arrest.

HOPKINTON, Mass., May 28.—Mrs. Mary Walker, a resident of Hayden row, was shot in the head early yesterday morning, the bullet, which was fired from a revolver, entering just in front of her right ear and making a serious wound. The affair is shrouded in mystery.

C. H. Walker, the wounded woman's son, who resides with her, went to Dr Walker's house to secure medical attention for his mother, and his story of how his mother was wounded was so utterly unsatisfactory that Dr. Walker got Officer McCall to accompany him to the house.

When Dr. Walker had dressed Mrs. Walker's wound, which is serious, he tried to ascertain the facts in relation to the shooting, but Mrs. Walker asserted that she Did Not Know How It Was Done.

So far as can be ascertained only Mrs. Walker and her son and a woman visitor were in the house at the time the shooting occurred, and as all are very reticent about the affair, no details in relation to it have so far been learned.

A rigid examination of the premises was made by Officers McCall and Elliot, Justice Hemenway and State Detective Bean, with the result that Walker was arrested. He was brought before Judge Hemenway, pleaded not guilty and was bound over in $3000 for a hearing June 1. Failing to secure bail, he was sent to Cambridge to await trial.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, May 28.—The finance committee, to whom was referred the bill passed by the house for the adoption of the Keeley cure for inebriates at the Foxboro asylum, reported that it ought not to pass. A substitute was moved for the bill relative to the wages to be paid by contractors employing laborers on public works. The substitute provides that every contract entered into by any city or town in this commonwealth with the contractor or contractors, involving the employment of laborers on the work contracted for, shall contain a provision that the contractors shall pay wages not less than those paid to laborers for the same class of work who are directly employed by said city or town. The committee on finance reported in favor of the bills establishing the hospital for epileptics at Monson and a hospital for consumptive patients, the location to be decided upon later. The bill to tax only the net income of sailing vessels engaged in the coastwise or foreign trade was passed to be engrossed; fishermen are excepted from the provisions of the bill.

A Providence Tragedy.

PROVIDENCE, May 28.—At 265 South Main street last night Michael Kane, aged 37 years, in charge of a coal barge, shot Sadie Howard, aged 26 years. Kane, it is said, had been quite intimate with the Howard woman until four days ago. You may have what thousands visit Europe for yearly, that is the natural Sprudel Salt of Carlsbad. It is obtained by evaporation at the Springs, and is identical with the waters in its action and results, which are the same to-day as when Emperor Charles IV. was cured four hundred years ago, and later George III., Peter the Great, and Maria Theresa benefited by their use. They aid digestion, cure constipation, and purify the blood.

Ho! for Nantasket.

To the many who enjoyed the delightful trips on the steamer City of Quincy last summer, the announcement of the initial trips for 1895 will be hailed with pleasure. These outings were a new source of enjoyment in 1894 which promise always to be popular. During the winter the steamer has been thoroughly overhauled and tomorrow will steam from Boston to Quincy Point, and is advertised to make three round trips on Memorial day, weather permitting, and daily trips thereafter. Capt. J. W. Hopkins will continue in command, and J. H. Webb remains as purser, to whom applications for special excursions should be made.

The Quincy & Boston street railway has added several cars to its rolling stock, to better accommodate excursionists this summer. With the extensions into Milton, Braintree and Weymouth, people of these towns and Holbrook, Randolph and Brockton will swell the numbers, and it promises to be an unprecedented year for the street railway and the steamboat companies.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

New Schoolhouses Considered But No Appropriation.

ELECTION ON THE SEWER ACT.

Expert's Estimate of Dam for Blue Hill River to be Obtained.

All the members of the City Council were present Monday evening at the meeting of the City Council, and water, sewers and school buildings were the important matters receiving attention.

City Auditor Hall reported a deficiency in the appropriation for city officers, because the pay of the Tax Collector is regulated by collection of polls. To Committee on Finance.

The application of John Harmon for State aid and several petitions for licenses were received.

Councilman Johnson presented the petition of Frank S. Patch and others for reversal of action on application of Everett C. Gilpatrick for a license as a common victualler. Referred.

The application of Thaddeus H. Newcomb for license as an auctioneer was granted.

The Committee on Public Grounds reported an order appropriating $500 for a retaining wall in the rear of the Wollaston school, which was given one reading.

Special Election.

Councilman Pinkham offered an order for a special election July 9 on the acceptance of the Sewer act, Chapter 279 of the Acts of 1895. Referred to joint committee on Sewers and Legislative Matters.

Councilman Bigelow offered an order for an incandescent light at corner of Franklin and High streets. To Committee on Lights.

The order granting the Telephone Company locations on Canal, Granite, Penn, Liberty and Water streets was advanced a stage.

New Schoolhouses.

On motion of Councilman Shackley the report of the Committee on Public Buildings relative to plans for new schoolhouses was taken from the table.

A recess of thirty minutes was taken to examine the plans submitted by various architects both in stone, brick and wood.

After recess Councilman Sprague moved the matter be recommitted.

Councilman Nickerson thought the matter might be settled now.

Councilman Sprague did not think plans were in shape.

The motion prevailed.

A Water Order.

Councilman Adams offered the following order, which was passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules:

That the sum of $299 be appropriated, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be expended by the chairman of the water board, in securing the opinion of a competent engineer or engineers as to the cost of making a dam and preparing a reservoir sufficient to store the waters of the Blue Hill river, together with the cost of necessary piping and connections.

Adjourned at 8.45.

Memorial Day, 1895.

BY A. J. PRESTON.

Breathe soft, oh bugle! Be muffled ye drum!
For our brave soldier, whose work was well done.
Tenderly, lovingly, let flowers be brought,
In grateful memorial, of deeds he hath wrought
Twine the pure lilies and blossoms of May,
With fadeless leaves of the laurel and bay;
Proudly, exultingly, think of the dead,
Who for his country, his hearts blood hath shed,
Patriot! and hero! his life freely gave,
Lay the wreath gently, upon his green grave
Bring out "Old Glory," shot-riddled and torn,
By hands now mouldering, how bravely 'twas borne
Eyes that looked on it are sightless today,
Voices that cheered it have long passed away,
Dear flag he has followed through peril and strife
Followed to victory! bought with his life.
Ring out, oh, bugle! drum beat "reveille"!
For the brave hero we honor today
Ring ye no requiem! Sound ye no knell!
Who dies for his country—dies nobly and well!

—In an estimate of the riches of Americans, made recently, it was shown that 25,000 persons held one-half of the wealth of the country. The names of seventy men and estates were given, the average holding of each being estimated at over $37,500,000. An attempt was made to show that in thirty years fifty thousand persons would own practically all the wealth of the United States.

It Did the Business.

Mr J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

MT. WOLLASTON BEAUTIFUL.

New Superintendent Makes Great Improvements—New Monuments.

Mt. Wollaston cemetery never looked more beautiful than at present and the selection of Mr. Nicol as superintendent was certainly a good move, as he is not only thoroughly familiar with the granite business but is also a florist of no mean ability. The result of his experience in these two lines is plainly manifested.

Several ornamental corners have been built and the dump along Valley street has been filled up and a driveway built there. In some cases the small paths between lots have been filled up and grassed over making a continuous lawn, which is certainly a great improvement. The boundary lines of the lots thus closed up are determined by stone posts sunk in the ground on a level with the grass.

Besides all this, every lot in the cemetery has been mowed this year and men are at work putting on the finishing touches before Memorial Day.

Quite a number of monuments have been erected this year and several more will be put in before Thursday.

The principal monuments noted were a marble slab to the memory of William H. Hammond.

A highly polished granite monument on the lot of Warren W. Adams, also a polished granite monument on the lot of Lewis N. Curtis, 2d.

Quite an attractive monument of pink Westerly granite has been erected to R. Elmer Morrison.

The Moses A. Swift monument on the Valley street side is also very attractive.

Other new monuments are those erected on the lot of William H. Owen, and to the memory of Charles G. T. Swanberg, Mary J. Newcomb and others. Besides these there have been placed a large number of markers.

Metropolitan Water.

The Metropolitan water bill has passed the House and is now in the Senate. Amendments almost without number were offered Monday and many of them adopted. Wakefield was allowed to drop out of the bill. Councilmen and city officials were interested listeners to the debate Monday afternoon.

No Court House.

The bill for a new court house at Quincy for the District court of East Norfolk did not cut much of a figure in the House Monday, being rejected by a vote of 42 to 68.

Victory for Coddington.

A picked nine which is going to play at Lovell's grove Thursday, was defeated by the Coddington school on Monday at Kemp's field by a score of 19 to 13, as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6
Coddington,	4	0	3	6	5	1	—19
Picked Nine,	3	0	10	0	0	0	—13

The feature of the game was the pitching of Morse of the Coddington team, in the last three innings.

General Order No. 1.

QUINCY, May 14, 1895.

COMRADES:

Twenty-seven years have passed since Memorial Day was established by the Grand Army of the Republic. Companies, Battalions, Regiments, Brigades, and whole Corps have passed in review before the Grand Commander of us all. Let us lay aside the cares and business of the day, and remember that Time with busy fingers is gently crumbling Bastion and Redan, Scarp and Counter-Scarp meet in the ditch. A little ridge only marks the breastworks commanding the fields where contending armies fought, and over which hovered the Angel of Liberty, to give the countersign to the faithful to pass through the Golden Gates of Immortality.

That day by day the darkness of the grave covers one and another of our gallant Comrades who rode out the battle storm when the Angel of Death held high carnival; and soon "Mustered Out" will be written against the name of the last survivor of the War of the Rebellion, and the Grand Army of the Repulic will be known only in history. That our Comrades' graves are hallowed spots, worthy the flowers we this day bring as a loving tribute to their Loyalty and Patriotism. Let us gather around these sacred places and perform this beautiful and touching ceremony while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of departed Comrades.

ON SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 26,

The Post will assemble in full uniform at Headquarters at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of attending Memorial services at the Congregational Church and listening to the Memorial address by Rev. W. Sherman Thompson of East Boston. Francis L. Souther Camp, No. 27, Sons of Veterans, Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, and all soldiers and sailors and the public in general are invited to be present.

The Post will again assemble at Headquarters at 6 P. M., and proceed by car to the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wollaston, by invitation of Comrade C. W. Wilder, pastor.

Contributions of food and flowers from our many friends will be gratefully received and can be left at the following residences:

Mrs. F. P. Loud,	Ward 1.
Mrs. H. O. Souther.	Ward 2.
Mrs. Edward Richardson,	Ward 3.
Mrs. John Gourd,	Ward 4.
Mrs. G. A. Stokes,	Ward 5.

The principals and teachers of the schools are invited to request their pupils to bring flowers to the schoolhouses on the morning of May 29, when they will be collected for the purpose of decorating our Comrades' graves Memorial Day. Bring flowers, that no soldier's or sailor's grave may be unremembered by this beautiful tribute.

May Thirtieth. Orders of the Day:

1. The Post will assemble at Headquarters in full uniform at 7 A. M.

2. Senior Vice Commander Wm. H. Warner will make a detail and accompanied by the Chaplain of the Day proceed to the National Sailors' Home and deposit a floral offering.

5. Comrade William Young will proceed to Mount Auburn and decorate the grave of Col. Paul J. Revere.

6. Comrade Franklin Jacobs will have charge of the invited guests.

7. Comrade Abel A. Cain will decorate the graves of our late Comrades, George W. Collier and George F. Cleverly, at North Weymouth Cemetery.

8. Comrade Aaron Leavitt will proceed to Woodlawn Cemetery and decorate the grave of Comrade John Cole.

9. Officer of the Day Warren B. Munroe is hereby detailed to have charge of the Band and Escort.

10. Comrade George W. Osborne is hereby detailed for duty at Hancock Hall.

11. Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, will have charge of the collation at Hancock Hall; also arrangement of flowers for Memorial Day.

12. At 9 30 A. M. the Post will form at Headquarters, and escorted by Francis L. Souther Camp, No. 27, Sons of Veterans and the City Band, will march to the junction of School and Franklin streets where barges will be taken for Hall Cemetery, West Quincy, where appropriate ceremonies will be held and the graves of our late Comrades decorated.

13. At 10 30 A. M. the command will proceed to the Catholic cemeteries where services will be held by Rev. Father Francis A. Friguglietti, after which members of Camp No. 27, Sons of Veterans, will decorate the graves of our heroic dead. Upon completion of the exercises the command will proceed to Headquarters and partake of a collation served by Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, at Hancock Hall.

14. At 2 P. M. the line will be formed as follows: Detail of Police, Chief, Comrade J. W. Hayden; Officer of the Day, W. B. Munroe; City Band; Francis L Souther Camp, No 27, Sons of Veterans, Capt. The line will then re-form and return via Coddington street, City Square, Hancock street to Hancock Hall, and partake of a lunch served by the ladies of the Corps. Per order of ANOTHER FIRE.

Tenement House on Trafford Street Damaged $1000.

The alarm from Box 38 at 2 o'clock this morning called the department to a lively blaze in the four tenement house at 24 Trafford street, owned by Mrs. Elsie Park and occupied by the families of Mrs. Park, James Park, Daniel Chersm and Mr. Caddy.

The fire started in the part occupied by James Park and worked upward, and when the occupants were aroused by the smell of smoke it was impossible for Mrs. Park to get her furniture out, although the other occupants were enable to move the larger part of theirs, but not before it had been well smoked.

The cause of the fire is unknown, as it apparently started near a chimney which had never been used.

The inside of the building was badly gutted and the loss will be near $1,000, which is covered by insurance.

The loss on contents to the several tenants will amount to nearly $700, upon which there was no insurance.

June Magazines.

No other fashion designer of the day has set forth such a practical and artistic array of models for outing gowns as those shown in Jenness Miller Monthly for June, which abounds, moreover, in superior domestic and literary matter. The artistic quality of the June number must attract widespread attention. The pictures of the outing gowns are novel and thoroughly well drawn, with delightful bits of summer background. Mrs. Miller herself opens the book with a charming article on bicycling, throwing a new and even poetic light on the best-known and most popular sport of the day. Articles on mountain-climbing, surf-bathing, boating, tennis and golf playing, etc., follow in succession.

The chief aim of Table Talk, the American authority upon culinary and household topics is carried out as admirably as usual in its June number. The special departments are full of the newest and most useful hints for the kitchen, dining-room, parlor and library, as well as for the inmates thereof.

MUSIC OF THE WAR

Soul Stirring Songs That Inspired the Soldiers.

PRODUCT OF FERVID PATRIOTISM.

Sentimental, Humorous and Purely Patriotic—Authors of "The Battle Cry of Freedom," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "My Maryland" and "The Bonnie Blue Flag."

In a different strain, but with a pathos that endeared the song to thousands of households as well as to the boys in camp, the same composer wrote:

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE, MOTHER.

Just before the battle, mother,
I am thinking most of you,
While upon the field we're watching
With the enemy in view,
Comrades brave around me lying,
Filled with thoughts of home and God,
For well they know that on the morrow
Some will sleep beneath the sod.

CHORUS.

Farewell, mother, you may never
Press me to your heart again.
Oh, you'll not forget me, mother,
If I'm numbered with the slain.

Oh, I long to see you, mother,
And the loving ones at home,
But I'll never leave our banner
Till in honor I can come.
Tell the traitors all around you
That their cruel words we know,
In every battle kill our soldiers
By the help they give the foe.

Hark, I hear the bugle sounding.
'Tis the signal for the fight.
Now, may God protect us, mother,
As he ever does the right.
Hear the "Battle Cry of Freedom,"
How it swells upon the air!
Oh, yes, we'll rally round the standard
Or perish nobly there.

"JOHN BROWN'S BODY."

After the execution of John Brown at Harper's Ferry, in December, 1859, a song was adopted that speedily became a part of the marching music of the armies of the north. Its catchy phrases were not only familiar around the firesides of the country, but in all public gatherings where music was wont to inspire the multitude. It relieved the tedium of camp life, and as it resounded through columns of men tramping patiently along the dusty highways it lightened the weariness of their footsteps.

It is said that the words, with the exception of the first stanza, were written by Mr. Charles S. Hall of Massachusetts, but long before the war the air, wedded to other words, was familiar on every plantation in the south. It was the favorite camp meeting melody of the negroes, and few spectacles were more inspiring than when, with grotesque gestures, they joined in singing (the women first):

Say, my brudders, will we meet yo'?
Say, my brudders, will we meet yo'?
Say, my brudders, will we meet yo'?
On Ca-ni-yun's happy sho'?

Then the men responding:

Ya-a-s, my sistern, we will meet yo',
Ya-a-s, my sistern, we will meet yo',
Ya-a-s, my sistern, we will meet yo',
Where partin is no mo'.

CHORUS.

Glory, glory, hallelujer! Glory, glory, hallelujer!
Glory, glory, hallelujer! On Ca-ni-yun's happy sho'.

The war song is as follows:

John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the grave,
John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the grave,
John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the grave,
His soul is marching on.

CHORUS.

Glory, halle-halleluiah! Glory, halle-halleluiah!
Glory, halle-halleluiah!
His soul is marching on!

He's gone to be a soldier in the army of the Lord (thrice),
His soul is marching on.

John Brown's knapsack is strapped upon his back (thrice),
His soul is marching on.

His pet lambs will meet him on the way (thrice),
As they go marching on.

We will hang Jeff Davis to a sour apple tree (thrice),
As they go marching on.

Now, three cheers for the Union (thrice),
As we are marching on.

Glory, halle-halleluiah! Glory, halle-halleluiah!
Glory, halle-halleluiah!
Hip, hip, hip, hurrah!

"THE BATTLE HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC."

For loftiness of sentiment "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" will easily take rank with the grandest of our martial songs. Having been sung many times during the war, and under a variety of circumstances, a description of the manner in which it was composed by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe will be of interest.

Being in Washington near the end of the year 1861, she witnessed a review of the Union troops on the Virginia side of the Potomac and was deeply impressed by her experience. In the return journey to the city a number of war songs were sung, among others "John Brown's Body," whereupon one of the party suggested that so grand a melody deserved more worthy words, and that she should write them.

JULIA WARD HOWE.

That night, while Mrs. Howe was resting, she thought out line after line and verse after verse of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and with the inspiration yet warm sprang from her bed and committed the patriotic stanzas to paper. They are as follows:

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord.
He is tramping out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword;
His truth is marching on.

I have seen him in the watchfires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded him an altar in the evening dews and damps;
I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps;
His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel:
"As ye deal with my contemners, so with ye my grace shall deal;
Let the hero born of woman crush the serpent with his heel,"
Since God is marching on.

He has sounded forth a trumpet that shall never call retreat;
He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment seat;
Oh, be swift, my soul, to answer him; be jubilant, my feet,
Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me;
As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free
While God is marching on.

"WE ARE COMING, FATHER ABRAHAM."

A stirring war song that was famous in its day and generation, and which served its purpose at the time, was known by the above title. It was in answer to the proclamation of President Lincoln in 1862, calling for 300,000 volunteers to swell the army, and it doubtless contributed to that result.

At first the stanzas appeared anonymously in the New York Evening Post of July 16, 1862, and the authorship was attributed to William Cullen Bryant and then to Julia Ward Howe. Subsequently it became known that the author was Mr. James Sloane Gibbons, a native of Wilmington, Del., but a resident of New York city. He was an ardent abolitionist, and for a time was one of the editors of The Antislavery Standard. The words are as follows:

We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more,
From Mississippi's winding stream
And from New England's shore.
We leave our plows and workshops,
Our wives and children dear,
With hearts too full for utterance,
With but a silent tear.
We dare not look behind us,
But steadfastly before—
We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more.

CHORUS.

We are coming, we are coming,
Our Union to restore;
We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more;
We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more.

If you look across the hilltops
That meet the northern sky,
Long, moving lines of rising dust
Your vision may descry,
And now the wind an instant
Tears the cloudy veil aside
And floats our spangled flag
In glory and in pride,
And bayonets in the sunlight gleam
And bands brave music pour.
We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more.

VISIT TO THE ESCURIAL.

The Great Structure Erected by Order of Philip II of Spain.

The Escurial, built by Philip II between 1563 and 1584, was called "the eighth wonder of the world," says a special correspondent of the Boston Herald. It was at once a temple, a palace, a treasury, a tomb and a museum. That is to say, all these were included in the huge building which Philip erected on the slope of a spur of the Guadarama range, 32 miles northwest of Madrid. The builder's object was to carry out the will of his father, Charles V, by constructing a royal burial place, and also to fulfill a vow he had made during the battle of St. Quentin, when he implored the aid of St. Lorenzo, on whose day (Aug. 10, 1557) the battle was fought.

The edifice stands about 3,000 feet above the sea, facing the mountains, with its back toward Madrid. It is a rectangular parallelogram, 740 feet from north to south, and 580 from east to west. On the east side is an advanced portico which breaks the facade. This gave rise to the vulgar impression that Philip's idea was to make the building in the shape of a gridiron, an allusion to the manner of St. Lorenzo's martyrdom, he having been broiled to death on a slow fire in the reign of the Roman Emperor Valentianus, A. D. 261. There seems to be no other ground for the fanciful invention.

The building covers 500,000 square feet of land, or nearly 12 acres. It has 16 courtyards, 86 staircases, 15 cloisters, 88 fountains and 3,000 feet of painted fresco. The church, which occupies less than a sixth of the whole space, is 320 feet long, 230 feet wide and 320 feet high to the top of the cupola. The redeeming qualities of the enormous structure are size, simplicity and situation. It seems to be a part of the mountain on the slope of which it rises. It still looks grand even among mountain buttresses. Otherwise, it disappoints. Its architecture has little in form or color to commend it. It lacks the prestige of antiquity, and it does not express any religious sentiment. It might be a vast manufactory. Its cold granite walls, blue slates, leaden roofs and small windows give it a commonplace appearance.

Of course it is now little more than a skeleton of what it was. The living monks who swarmed in its courts are here no longer. The revenues on which they lived have been taken away. The French soldiers stole and carried away many of its golden ornaments in 1808. Its best pictures have been removed to Madrid. The building has suffered from neglect, exposed to hurricanes and winter snows. Better care has been taken of it in later years. It is now used as a seminary, where about 200 youths receive a secular education.

Memorial Day Observances.

Memorial day seems to have lost many of its features of sorrow. Not funeral dirges only do the bands play, but lively marches, ringing martial tunes and patriotic airs as well. Many of the thousand flags which float in the soft May breeze wave proudly from the highest points of their staffs and not at half mast. A simple knot of crape on the unfurled banners is the only emblem of sorrow. There is more of triumph, and joyful hope, and holy peace than of sorrow in the speeches.

Time, which has effaced from the bloodiest battlefields of the awful fratricidal contest all traces of the dreadful wave of war, with its flotsam of sorrow and jetsam of corpses, has soothed the troubled souls of the bereaved. The sun of glory which shines above the dead dries the tears shed for them.—Chicago Mail.

My Kingdom.

My mind to me a kingdom is.
Such perfect joy therein I find
As far exceeds all earthly bliss
That God or nature hath assigned.
Though much I want that most would have,
Yet still my mind forbids to crave.

Content I live, this is my stay:
I seek no more than may suffice;
I press to bear no haughty sway;
Look! What I lack my mind supplies.
Lo, thus I triumph like a king,
Content with what my mind doth bring.

I see how plenty surfeits oft,
And hasty climbers soonest fall.
I see that such as sit aloft
Mishaps doth threaten most of all.
These get with toil and keep with fear.
Such cares my mind could never bear.

Some have too much, yet still they crave;
I little have, yet seek no more.
They are but poor, though much they have,
And I am rich with little store.
They poor, I rich; they beg, I give;
They lack, I lend; they pine, I live.

I laugh not at another's loss;
I grudge not at another's gain.
No worldly wave my mind can toss;
I brook that is another's bane.
I fear no foe nor fawn on friend.
I loathe not life, nor dread mine end.

I wish but what I have at will;
I wander not to seek for more;
I like the plain, I climb no hill;
In greatest storms I sit on shore
And laugh at them that toil in vain
To get what must be lost again.

My wealth is health and perfect ease,
My conscience clear my chief defense.
I never seek by bribes to please,
Nor by desert to give offenses.
Thus do I live, thus will I die.
Would all did so as well as I.

—William Byrd.

his liking, was the necessity for caring for the Samoan king, held imprisoned on the Sunday islands by the Germans. He wanted to repudiate the whole arrangement by which the United States assumed a part of the tripartite protectorate over Samoa, and he worked hard to this end, and finally succeeded.

Then, on the constructive side of diplomacy, Mr. Gresham had much to his credit. He did all that a foreign officer could do properly to prevent the late Chinese-Japanese war. It was done, too, in a manner that made it clear to the world that the United States was acting absolutely without self-interest and from motives of humanity. Secretary Gresham also used his good offices to prevent a war between Mexico and Guatemala, and in this he succeeded completely.

During his career on the bench, Judge Gresham heard and decided many noteworthy cases, many of his decisions illustrating, in a remarkable degree, his fearlessness, impartiality and judicial firmness.

In 1858 he married Miss Matilda McGrain, the daughter of Thomas McGrain, of Scotch-Irish descent. He was devoted to his wife and children. This side of his life the public know little of, but it furnishes the best key to his nature and character.

The fire was extinguished, and a few minutes later a similar fire was discovered in a room on the first floor. An attempt had also been made to set fire to a third room, but the towel had failed to burn. An examination showed that 29 gas-burners in the building had been turned on, and had the fire got well under way, the whole building would have been destroyed.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Heavy Rain, Sunshine and Higher Temperature Much Needed.

Feed Is Becoming Scant In Many Pastures.

Cranberries and Grapes Have Suffered Severely From Frosts.

BOSTON, May 28.—The following weather crop bulletin for the week ending May 27 is issued by the New England weather service, in co-operation with the Massachusetts state board of agriculture:

The weather for New England for the past week has been cold and windy, and very little rain has fallen, except in the extreme southwest sections. A warm, heavy rain, with sunshine and higher temperature, is needed for the rapid advancement of field and garden crops.

Vegetation Set Back.

The week has been cold, dry and windy throughout Maine until the last day or two, when warmer weather has prevailed. Farm work has been pushed, and a great part of the planting is done, but in central counties it has been so dry that seeds have failed to sprout. Vegetation has grown very slowly, also, but all crops that have started appear in a healthy condition, and as the season is still ahead of the average, there is plenty of time for improvement, with favorable weather. Early grain looks well. The early apples are nearly in full bloom, and late ones are coming on. Baldwins indicate a light blossom in Kennebec county, and all apples are giving small blossom in Lincoln county. Snow fell with the rain in Aroostook county on the 24th.

Feed Is Scant.

The dry weather is being felt in New Hampshire, and on dry land seed is starting slowly and grass is looking very thin. Feed in hill pastures is scant, and the correspondents report that unless considerable rain comes soon there must be a light hay crop. Most of the sowing is done, but planting is still in progress. There has been no real good corn weather, and much of that seed has not been put in yet. Pears are setting very well, and apples are not injured nearly so much in south central counties as was feared last week. In Hillsboro and Rockingham counties especially, some of the apples that did not promise well are now full of blossoms. One correspondent reports that strawberries and blueberries that were in full bloom at the time of the freeze are again blossoming.

Fruit Doing Well.

Apples are showing very well in Vermont, and in some counties a second crop of blossoms have made their appearance. Late trees are coming into bloom very well. It is hoped that the yield of fruit was not much interfered with by the frost of last week. A sharp frost was experienced in north central sections on the morning of the 22d; at Morrisville, in Lamoile county, the temperature fell below the freezing point. With the severe frost of last week, and the continued dry, windy weather, it is feared grass has been seriously affected. Some correspondents say that there is sure to be a short crop, especially on old meadows. The feed is getting short and scant in pastures.

Rhody Got Rain.

The frost of last week seriously injured grapes in Massachusetts, and on bogs that were not flowed the cranberries were pretty much all killed, but there was very little damage indicated to large fruits, and apples now promise a good crop, except in Plymouth county. A heavy rain fell in the southeast on the 21st and 22d, and moderate rains on the 26th and 27th, so that nothing is suffering for water in southeastern counties. Grass is growing very well; potatoes are coming up unusually even and strong, and other field and garden crops are coming on as well as possible with the continued cool weather. In central and western districts rain is badly needed, and the only thing that the weather is favorable for is farm work. One correspondent in Worcester county reports less feed in the pastures than two weeks ago. Tobacco plants are growing stocky, and are generally looking well. Garden truck around Boston is flourishing and looks promising. Many blackberry and raspberry canes were injured by the cold last winter, but no injury is indicated by the frosts of the 14th and 17th.

Grapes and Cranberries Hurt.

Abundant rains have fallen in Rhode Island, and the top of the ground has been left moist. With the warm weather that has prevailed for the last few days, crops are pushing along very well, though still backward in most sections. Grass and wheat are well advanced. In some places, where the frost of last week did most damage, the ground is being replanted. Apple trees have blossomed very full.

Garden Truck Doing Well.

Grass needs more rain to produce a full crop in central and western Connecticut, but in southeastern sections it is growing very heavy and fast. The correspondent from New London states that pastures could not be in better condition. The temperature has been below the normal, but the conditions have been better than the previous week, and crops are doing very well, except where want of rain is badly felt. Fruit seems to have been injured very little by the frosts of the 14th and 17th. The indications continue favorable for a large peach crop. There was a light frost on the 22d, but not so much damage was done in any of the New England counties as in east central New York. Reports from the Susquehanna valley in New York claim that much damage was done in the hop district on the 22d. Garden truck is growing well in Connecticut. The bulk of the crops have been planted in most sections, and some hoeing is being done. Tobacco setting has begun.

Tempest in a Teapot.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The reported killing of a number of French troops on the boundary between Brazil and French Guiana has not been communicated to the French or Brazilian ministers here. They do not regard the affair as one which can cause serious trouble between the two countries.

To Leave Corea.

SEOUL, May 28.—It is stated that Count Inouye, Japanese minister to Corea, is about to leave Corea. It is believed that this indicates a change in the Japanese policy toward the hermit kingdom.

In June or July.

LONDON, May 28.—The Times asserts that there is a growing belief in political circles that parliament will be dissolved in June or July

FORKS.

The lines of the "Spalding" front fork will commend it at once. It is light and airy in appearance, yet stability has not been sacrificed to attain this end. Constructed entirely of tubing, there is no possibility of flaw in the fork crown, a weakness so much to be feared at this point in a machine, and which is inseparable from the old forged fork crown. Screwed to the bottom of the steering tube, and resting upon the top of the fork sides, will be noticed a pair of coasters—a pair of coasters in one piece that will not rattle, slip down or get lost.

The Spalding Bicycle

BEARINGS.

Upon the quality of its bearings, depends the coasting qualities of a bicycle, for then the machine talks—not the rider.

We point with pride to the record of the "Spalding" bicycle in 1894—its first year. It proved itself a coaster, par excellence. Why? Because its bearings were right. No care or expense was spared, and the result was—success. The outlay for special machinery and the great care exercised in selecting stock, was not without good result.

FRONT HUB AXLE AND BEARINGS.

The "Spalding" bicycle out-coasted all others. As made by our own process, "Spalding" bearings are absolutely true; ball cases and cones are turned out of the best bar stock tool steel, tempered, then ground, and polished until absolutely true, and as a result—"Spaldings" coast.

AT MAYOR'S REQUEST.

Olneyville Manufacturers Will Open Their Mills on Monday.

The Last Opportunity For Operatives to Return.

The Latter Claim to Believe That It Is but a Subterfuge to Allure Them.

PROVIDENCE, May 29.—One of the mill owners of Olneyville last night stated that it was his opinion that every mill in Olneyville would be opened next Monday morning. This action, he said, had been taken by the Manufacturers' club at the request of Mayor Olney, for the purpose of giving the operatives an opportunity to return to work, and if they failed to avail themselves of it they would not be given another chance, but the mills would be closed until some time next spring. The operatives, however, do not credit any such statement.

As the leaders of the strike stated yesterday, they believe that the manufacturers, realizing that the notices they posted stating that unless all trouble was settled before May 13 the mills would shut down indefinitely, had an opposite effect from that anticipated, have, by a subterfuge in the shape of a committee of irresponsible men, taken the first steps to without in any way compromising themselves.

Feeling that the help are still obstinate, and being desirous of running their mills, instead of being pledged to a policy of serenest indifference, the mill owners are thus moving under cover of this committee to effect a settlement which will relieve them of the possibility of being obliged to make any concessions.

A meeting of the 7000 or more operatives still remaining in Olneyville is to be held on Merino Flats Saturday, and at that time the action of the strikers in relation to the proposal to open the mills on Monday will be finally decided.

All the manufacturers have been invited to send representatives to this meeting and to present the mill owners' side of the case to the operatives.

BOSTON, May 29.—The New England Women Suffrage association met here yesterday for its annual session. H. B. Blackwell presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. The annual reports of officers, assignment of committees and general routine matters were followed by reports from state associations, all of which told of feebler remonstrance to giving women the right of suffrage. Resolutions were adopted calling for a continued and more aggressive demand for woman's suffrage. Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was re-elected president. The list of vice presidents contained the names of many persons well known in public life.

A committee of five reported in favor of Mr. Ware's motion, with the exception that the date be left blank for the holding of primaries and a state convention on the financial question, the state committee to use its discretion as to 1895 or 1896.

HONORS TO THE DEAD.

Fitting Ceremonies Over Gresham's Remains at the White House.

High Officials Show Regard For Departed Statesman.

Body on the Way to Chicago, Where Interment Takes Place.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The government today did honor to the illustrious dead. The funeral services of the late Walter Q. Gresham were celebrated here by the entire civil and military establishment. The flag of the United States is at half-mast, wherever it floats, over public buildings, forts, arsenal or ship. The departments are to be closed in his honor. The entire military force of Washington served as a guard of honor.

The President of the United States and his cabinet, as honorary pallbearers, accompanied the remains to their resting place on the banks of the great western lake. All that is most distinguished in civil life performed the civic honors. The most eminent of the army paid tribute to the great civilian soldier.

Everywhere there are emblems of sadness. On all hands one sees the tokens of sincerest human sympathy. All partisanship seems buried in Walter Q. Gresham's grave. However great the differences to politics and policies, there is but one voice here today. All Washington is in mourning because of a great man gone.

The huge baskets overflowing with cards bear witness to the esteem in which the dead was held. No one who is known in Washington political, official, diplomatic or social life, failed to call and tender sympathy and respect.

Semi-Official Ceremonies.

The funeral ceremonies in Washington were of a semi-official character, as they were held in the east room of the White House, with the president and his cabinet, justices of the supreme court, ambassadors and ministers, representatives of the departments and the army and navy and others present, and all official business was suspended for the day.

At the conclusion of the funeral services at the executive mansion the funeral procession, under command of Major General Ruger, moved in the following order from the executive mansion on to the Baltimore and Ohio depot:

Military escort, consisting of all the regular troops and militia in the District of Columbia.

Clergy and physicians who attended the deceased.

Pall-bearers and hearse.

Relatives of the deceased.

Places were reserved for the president and heads of departments, members of the senate and house of representatives, justices of the supreme court and diplomatic corps.

The route of the procession was by way of Pennsylvania avenue to the depot. The following officers were the aides to Major General Ruger: General T. H. Vincent, Colonel H. C. Corbin, Major W. P. Alles, J. C. Muhlenburg, Captains Crosby Miller, C. W. Whipple, Rogers Byrney, G. J. Fiebeger, Lieutenant J. Y. Mason Blunt.

Major General Ruger commanded all of the military forces stationed about the Capitol, which acted as an escort for the funeral party from the White House to the depot, where a special train was in readiness to convey the party to Chicago.

Enroute to Chicago.

The train left Washington shortly after noon, and had on board President Cleveland and all Secretary Gresham's colleagues of the cabinet, who will follow the body to the grave. The seven cabinet officers officiated, together with Secretary Uhl, who is acting secretary of state, as active pall-bearers.

While the details of the ceremonies in Chicago are yet incomplete, it is settled that brief services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the cemetery, to which the body will be borne, accompanied by a military escort, in harmony with the day and Secretary Gresham's well-known loyalty to his old-time war associations. The body will be placed, temporarily, in a vault in Oakwood cemetery, pending the decision by the family regarding its final resting place.

Diplomats Grieved.

The meeting of the diplomatic corps at the British embassy last night was very fully attended, all of the foreign embassies and legations being represented. Sir Julian Pauncefote acted as chairman, and in explaining the purposes of the meeting expressed deep regret at the loss of Mr. Gresham, with whom all of those present were on terms of closest personal and official intimacy. The discussion was informal, and there was an avoidance of set speeches.

As the ambassadors and ministers had received from Acting Secretary Uhl an official notification of the death of the secretary, it was determined that each should send a reply expressive of his government's sympathy. In addition to this, Sir Julian was authorized to address a letter of condolence to the family of the deceased. This is a mark of the personal esteem in which the foreign representatives held the late secretary. The letter to the family will not be sent for several days, as it is first to be submitted to the members of the corps.

A Fast Two-Year-Old.

GRAVESEND, May 29.—J. J. McCafferty's Applegate won the great American stakes in defeating the crack 2-year-olds of the east. Applegate was fourth at the start, forged to first place in the opening furlong, led by a head at the three-furlong post and finally won by two open lengths in 1m. 2s. McCafferty's share of the stakes amounted to between $7000 and $8000.

But Few Saved.

VIGO, Spain, May 29.—French steamer Dom Pedro has been wrecked off Cape Corrobedo. The Dom Pedro struck the Bajes Corrobedo Monday evening, when her boilers exploded, sinking her in a few minutes. Part of her passengers and crew were saved, but about 80 persons were drowned.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Plans for the New Schoolhouses Approved.

GRADUATION ARRANGEMENTS.

High School Reception, New Term, Balances, Etc.

The School Committee held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, Messrs. Crane, Burns, Gurney, Hallowell, Harlow, Page and Sheahan being present.

Councilman Shackley and Nickerson were present with plans for new school buildings which the committee approved.

The class of '95 of the Quincy High school was granted the use of the High school hall for Friday evening, June 28, to hold its class reception under the supervision of the principal.

Voted that the new term commence Tuesday, September 3.

The Superintendent was instructed to confer with the City Auditor to see why the bill of W. Tisdale was not approved.

The Superintendent asked instructions as to paying teachers who were absent on account of regulations of the board of health, and the committee on Finance were instructed to formulate a rule governing this matter to go into effect in September.

The Superintendent gave notice that the exercises of the 225 grammar graduates would be held Thursday afternoon, June 27. There would be no individual exercises but every class would take part.

The following unexpended balances were reported:

Salaries,	$36,273.32
Fuel,	3,881 52
Janitors,	3,260.08
Transportation,	423.70
Books and Supplies,	4,522 08

The contract for supplying the school buildings with 800 tons of coal was awarded to Joel F. Sheppard & Sons at an average price of $4.42 1-2 per ton, and the contract for 20 cords of hard and soft wood was awarded to Thomas O'Brien & Son at $7 per cord.

COUNTY TAX HIGHER.

Quincy's Assessment Has Doubled In Four Years.

The Norfolk county tax for 1895 was apportioned this week and Quincy's assessment is $16,105.30. Because of the increase of $10,000 in the total tax, and the fact that it is this year based on the new valuation, the Quincy tax is nearly $2,000 larger than last year. It is only once in three years that a new valuation is taken, the last time being in 1892.

Because the total tax is one-fifteenth larger than last year it does not follow that the county tax of each town will be one-fifteenth larger. That of Quincy is about one-seventh larger, and that of Milton one-fifth larger, while in the case of Weymouth, Bellingham, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Dedham, Holbrook, Norfolk, Randolph and Wrentham the tax is less, although $10,000 more is raised.

Unless the tax of a town is one-fifteenth larger than last year, it has not kept up with the other towns in wealth, or else assessors in such towns as Quincy, Milton, and Brookline have increased the valuation more rapidly than circumstances warrant.

The taxes of 1894 and 1895 are given below and a study will show where the increases in valuation have occurred.

	1895.	1894.
Quincy,	$16,105.30	$14,280.26

HEADQUARTERS
Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R.
Department of Massachusetts.

General Order No. 1.

QUINCY, May 14, 1895.

COMRADES:

Twenty-seven years have passed since Memorial Day was established by the Grand Army of the Republic. Companies, Battalions, Regiments, Brigades, and whole Corps have passed in review before the Grand Commander of us all. Let us lay aside the cares and business of the day, and remember that Time with busy fingers is gently crumbling Bastion and Redan, Scarp and Counter-Scarp meet in the ditch. A little ridge only marks the breastworks commanding the fields where contending armies fought, and over which hovered the Angel of Liberty, to give the countersign to the faithful to pass through the Golden Gates of Immortality.

That day by day the darkness of the grave covers one and another of our gallant Comrades who rode out the battle storm when the Angel of Death held high carnival; and soon "Mustered Out" will be written against the name of the last survivor of the War of the Rebellion, and the Grand Army of the Republic will be known only in history. That our Comrades' graves are hallowed spots, worthy the flowers we this day bring as a loving tribute to their Loyalty and Patriotism. Let us gather around these sacred places and perform this beautiful and touching ceremony while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of departed Comrades.

ON SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 26,

The Post will assemble in full uniform at Headquarters at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of attending Memorial services at the Congregational Church and listening to the Memorial address by Rev. W. Sherman Thompson of East Boston. Francis L. Souther Camp, No. 27, Sons of Veterans, Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, and all soldiers and sailors and the public in general are invited to be present.

The Post will again assemble at Headquarters at 6 P. M., and proceed by car to the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wollaston, by invitation of Comrade C. W. Wilder, pastor.

Contributions of food and flowers from our many friends will be gratefully received and can be left at the following residences:

Mrs. F. P. Loud,	Ward 1.
Mrs. H. O. Souther,	Ward 2.
Mrs. Edward Richardson,	Ward 3.
Mrs. John Gourd,	Ward 4.
Mrs. G. A. Stokes,	Ward 5.

The principals and teachers of the schools are invited to request their pupils to bring flowers to the schoolhouses on the morning of May 29, when they will be collected for the purpose of decorating our Comrades' graves Memorial Day. Bring flowers, that no soldier's or sailor's grave may be unremembered by this beautiful tribute.

May Thirtieth. Orders of the Day:

1. The Post will assemble at Headquarters in full uniform at 7 A. M.

2. Senior Vice Commander Wm. H. Warner will make a detail and accompanied by the Chaplain of the Day proceed to the National Sailors' Home and deposit a floral offering.

3. Junior Vice Commander Samuel De Forrest in command of a detail of twenty-five men will proceed to Mount Wollaston Cemetery and decorate the graves of Comrades sleeping there.

BOSTONS' RETURN HOME

Signalized by a Poorly Played Game, in Which They Won.

BOSTON, May 28.—It was a very poor accompaniment to the dedication of the new grand stand that was given the Boston public. Of course, it was expected on an occasion of such importance that one of the veteran pitchers would be put in, but such proved not to be the case, and the result was a long, dreary and almost wholly uninteresting game, though it did have a dramatic finish, McCarthy making a home run with the score a tie in the last inning, the Bostons last at the bat and two men out.

Party Lines Eliminated.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—The opening gun of the campaign in the east against free silver was fired last evening at a meeting here in favor of "sound money." Party lines were obliterated, and Democrats and Republicans, who have been always arrayed against each other on all national questions, testified by their presence their opposition to free coinage. The non-partisan character of the meeting was further illustrated in the list of speakers. These were: Ex-United States Senator Edmunds of Vermont, William N. Trenholm of New York, who was comptroller of the currency during Mr. Cleveland's first administration; ex-Congressman Harter of Ohio and ex-Minister to Russia Smith. There were several other speakers.

Press Keeps Up the Agitation.

COLON, May 29.—The Colombian press has very generally taken up the question of Colombia's claim to the Mosquito territory, and are clamorous in their demand that the government should urge the claim. This claim is based upon a royal order of the King of Spain, dated 1803, under which the Mosquito coast was annexed to Santa Fe de Bogota. It is genally claimed that when Colombia gained her independence in 1810 she became the rightful possessor of the Mosquito territory, and exercised dominion over it until 1824.

Coaxing the Porte.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 29.—The British embassy, while intimating that it is useless to propose to modify the scheme of the powers for Armenian reforms, is trying to get the porte to fix the time when it will give an answer to the address of the powers on the subject.

In Memory of Grant.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—An order has been sent to the commandant of the New York navy yard to have the U. S. S. Cincinnati proceed to Riverside park on Memorial day and fire a national salute out of respect to the memory of the late President Grant.

TOLEDO, May 29.—Roth & Friedman's knitting factory was totally destroyed by fire last evening. Several firemen were severely scorched. A number of persons were also slightly hurt by flying bricks when the walls fell. The loss is estimated at $165,000.

Stone Accepts.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 29.—George W. Stone was yesterday elected treasurer of the American Unitarian association, with headquarters at Boston. He will accept, and has forwarded his resignation as a bank examiner to Washington.

GOING TO CARLSBAD

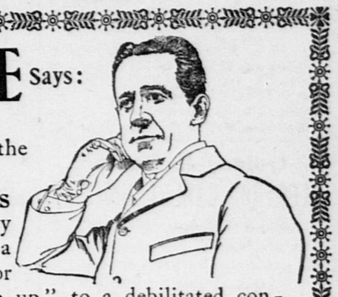

isn't necessary now. Carlsbad is coming to you. At least, the health-giving part of it is. You get every curative quality that has made the place famous for hundreds of years, in the Carlsbad Sprudel Water and Salt. That is, if you get the genuine.

Beware of the so-called "improved" or "artificial" salts offered in the market. The genuine has the signature of "EISNER & MENDELSON Co., Sole Agents, New York," on every package. Write for pamphlet.

"Hustle."

You may tell that story about the hare
And tortoise as oft as you will.
I know that the man who "hustles" gets there
Ahead of the one who sits still.

Of course he stumbles who goes too fast,
But I'd rather blunder and fail,
Yet reach my goal somehow at last,
Than never get there at all.

The slow, methodical, cautious man,
Who is always decrying haste,
Who never achieves, but is great to plan—
Well, he isn't the man to my taste.

In watching mankind I have noted the fact,
And I hold it a truth indeed,
To be rapid in thought and steady in act
Is the very best way to succeed.

WHERE NAMELESS HEROES SLEEP.

Armies of Unknown Dead at Vicksburg and Fredericksburg.

The biggest national cemetery in point of population is the Vicksburg, where 16,633 heroes sleep, gathered from the scattered graves about the Union lines at Vicksburg and from neighboring fields and hospitals. Of these the known number 3,913 and the unknown 12,720. The Nashville cemetery comes close to it in number of dead, having 16,546 sleepers, taken from the hospitals and outlying battlefields, with a much smaller proportion of unknown. But Fredericksburg cemetery, which ranks next to Nashville in number of dead, is greatest and most melancholy of all in the number of its unknown. Of the total 15,274 soldiers buried there, 12,786—an enormous proportion—are nameless. The cemetery occupies Marye's heights, the celebrated intrenched position held by Lee when Burnside's troops charged and recharged against it in vain with such dreadful mortality. Under those circumstances the Union dead remained where they fell, and identification and burial by their comrades were impossible. Hither also were borne many bodies from the Wilderness and Chancellorsville.

The Vicksburg cemetery stands second to Fredericksburg in the number of its unknown sleepers, and next is the mournful inclosure at Salisbury, N. C., the site of the old Confederate prison pen, where, out of a total of 12,137 interments, all but 102 are unknown. When the place fell into Union hands, the dead were found piled promiscuously in 18 trenches, each 240 feet long. These were opened and the bodies tenderly reinterred in an orderly manner.—Exchange.

MELBOURNE, May 29.—Premier Reid of New South Wales has cabled to London to the agent of the colony a strongly worded protest against the delay in appointing the new governor and instructing the agent to tell the Marquis of Ripon, secretary of the colonial office, that the colony can find a suitable appointee if he is unable to do so.

LONDON, May 29.—At a meeting of leading city bankers and merchants yesterday, it was decided to form a gold standard defense association, and Bertram Currie was elected president. ON THE SIXTH BALLOT

Bushnell Is Nominated For Governor by Buckeye State Republicans.

Senator Sherman Talks on Current Problems.

Resolutions Declare For Sound Money and Denounce the Democrats.

ZANESVILLE, O., May 29.—The Republican state convention inagurated its business here yesterday afternoon with cheers for McKinley and Foraker, and an ovation for John Sherman.

It was one of the largest conventions that has ever responded to the call of the party managers. Five thousand people—1000 too many for comfort and convenience—were packed into Memorial hall.

Colonel Bonner called the convention to order and introduced to the assemblage Senator John Sherman as the temporary chairman. Mr. Sherman's address was mainly devoted to praise of the protective tariff. He emphatically denounced free colnage of silver, saying that it meant repudiation of all debts, public and private. He declared that bimetallism was the only true policy on the silver question. Continuing, he said:

"What you will say here will have an important influence beyond the limits of your state, for the intelligent action of the Republicans of Ohio will, as in the past, indicate the opinion of Republicans in all parts of the United States. We have a common faith and creed. We act together on great matters on principle, on small matters for discipline. The primary and fundamental sentiment of the Republican party is love for our country, our whole country. We are for the Union, one and indivisible, now and forever. The Republicans of Ohio are not provincial, but national.

"This is our cornerstone, planted in the first Republican convention in Ohio in 1855. We stood by it in the storms of war when Lincoln was our standard bearer. Our soldiers fought for it under Grant, Sherman and Sheridan. The soldiers of Ohio carried our flag in every great battle of the war for the preservation of the Union. Other patriotic citizens and soldiers were equally deserving of honor and praise, but they could not carry their party with them. When Grant was in the Wilderness and Sherman was before Atlanta, a great party declared the war a failure. Ours made it a success. When the war was over we did not treat our enemies as conquered subjects, but as erring brethren. We invited them back into the Union with unabridged powers, prescribing only one condition, that there should be no slaves in our country. We now meet them and greet them as friends, and turning our backs on dead issues we congratulate them on their prosperity, which they did not and could not have in their condition prior to the war.

"Let us then, with a firm reliance upon the principles, policy and wisdom of the great party to which we belong, nominate our candidate and declare our platform, and then make our appeal to the intelligence of the people of Ohio. In all the great issues made in the last 40 years, the Republican party of Ohio has had the courage to propose and to do what is right. Let us now follow in the same pathway, and we will not only elect a Republican governor and state officers, but also another Republican senator, and I hope a President of the United States from Ohio."

Results of the Balloting.

With a corresponding number of speeches, the following names were presented to the convention for the nomination for governor: J. W. Barger, J. Warren Keifer, J. H. Hoyt, George K. Nash, Robert M. Nevin, A. L. Harris, A. S. Bushnell and F. W. Poe. There were 827 delegates to the convention, 414 being necessary to a choice.

Bushnell was the candidate put forth by General Foraker.

J. B. FORAKER.

The first ballot resulted as follows: Bushnell, 58; Barger, 86; Harris, 56; Hoyt, 176½; Keifer, 74; Nash, 168; Nevin, 60; Poe, 146½. Chairman Sherman announced there was no nomination.

The second ballot resulted: Bushnell, 83; Barger, 83; Harris, 44; Hoyt, 169½; Keifer, 63; Nash, 169½; Nevin, 81; Poe, 133.

Third ballot: Bushnell, 159; Barger, 86; Harris, 27; Hoyt, 165; Keifer, 40½; Nash, 199½; Nevin, 78; Poe, 84. At the end of the third ballot it was announced that the name of F. W. Poe was withdrawn. Necessary for a choice, 414.

Fourth ballot: Bushnell, 347; Berger, 32; Harris, 26; Hoyt, 148; Keifer, 16; Nash, 257.

Fifth ballot: Bushnell, 410; Harris, 5; Hoyt, 120; Keifer, 12; Nash, 279.

On the sixth ballot General Asa S. Bushnell was nominated, receiving 509 votes; Nash, 201; Hoyt, 111. Necessary for choice, 414.

President Woodman, Secretary Miller and other officers of the Republican League of Ohio, together with ex-Governor Foraker, who was sitting on the stage at the time, telegraphed their congratulations to General Bushnell at his home in Springfield.

The Clark county delegation from Bushnell's home, stood out for General Keifer till the last ballot, when it gave each half of its votes. The result of the nomination was received as a great victory for Foraker amid very loud demonstrations.

The Platform.

The Republicans of Ohio, in state convention assembled, declare as follows: 1. We reaffirm our adherence to the principles of the Republican party as defined by the national convention in 1892, chief among which are: A protective tariff, which, restoring American wages and American products, shall prove the highest interests of American laborers and American development, while providing adequate revenue for the uses of the government. Reciprocity which, while seeking and gaining the world's markets for our surplus products, shall not lower world's markets for our surplus products, shall not lower or destroy American wages, nor surrender our markets to foreign commodities which can be produced at home: fair elections based upon a free ballot and an honest count, the safeguard of American institutions, the true source of public authority. Honest money, consisting of gold, silver and paper, every dollar as good as any other dollar, and all backed by the national faith and honor. We favor bimetallism and demand the use of both gold and silver as standard money, either in accordance with a ratio fixed by an international agreement, if that can be obtained, or under such restrictions and such provisions, to be determined by legislation, as will secure the parity of values of the two metals, that the purchasing and debt-paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal.

2. We denounce the present Democratic administration, whose vicious and vacillating course has brought us distress at home and humiliation abroad. It has inaugurated a policy looking toward ultimate free trade, which has deranged business, crippled our industries, distressed our homes and dealt labor a serious blow. With deplorable incompetency it has failed to realize revenue enough to run the government and has had to borrow in less than two years $162,000,000 mainly to pay ordinary running expenses, selling in secret to favorite foreign syndicates the bonds of the government at prices far below their actual value. It has lowered the flag in Hawaii in an un-American attempt to overthrow a republic and restore a monarchy, and with unpatriotic indifference has suffered British troops to land in Nicaragua in contemptuous disregard of the Monroe doctrine. By these and similar acts, our country, second in power and dignity to none, has suffered a loss of respect throughout the world. We denounce the free wool provision of the present tariff act as an unjust discrimination against an important industry, and demand such protection for sheep husbandry as will secure fair prices for American wool. We denounce the present administration of the pension bureau for the betrayal of the interest of the Union soldiers, and we pledge anew to the veterans of the republic a watchful care and recognition of their just claims upon grateful people, and we endorse the able, honorable and businesslike administration of Governor William McKinley.

Ex-Secretary Charles Foster took the platform at midnight to read the resolutions, but the convention voted to give him leave to print, whereupon the convention adjourned.

WHY?
QUESTIONS WOMEN ASK
Here Answered with Good Sound Reason.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Why do people say that Lydia E. Pinkham's treatment, especially her Vegetable Compound, effects cures beyond the physician's skill?

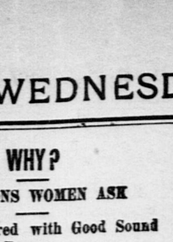

Because of the fact that a woman best understands a woman's ills. What man ever suffered a single pang like unto woman? Man works from theory only.

Why do tens of thousands of women write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., telling their most secret thoughts?

Because they know that their letters go straight to the hands of a woman, are opened, read, and answered by a woman, who as a woman has made woman's ills a life study, and because she never fails them, and cures cases which the doctor cannot.

The lady who asks that the following letter be published, gives concisely the uniform expression of gratitude contained in thousands of other letters in Mrs. Pinkham's possession.

"For eight years I suffered with neuralgia of the womb, backache, severe pains all through my body, and kidney trouble. None of the doctors did me any good. I took twelve bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and cannot thank you enough for the relief I found.

"I am now well cured of all those pains. I should advise every woman to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound who has any female trouble. I had a friend who was to go under an operation. I advised her first to try the Compound. She did, and is now so much better and stronger she has given up all thoughts of the operation."—MRS. M. WILDE, 2137 Park St., Tioga, Pa.

JOHN F. ANDREW DEAD

Apoplexy Carries Off the Distinguished Lawyer-Statesman.

Son of the Old Bay State's War Governor.

Though but a Young Man He Had Achieved Much Fame.

BOSTON, May 31.—Ex-Congressman John F. Andrew was found dead in bed at his home on Hereford street, this city, yesterday. About 8:30 a. m. his butler rapped at his door, and receiving no answer entered the room and found him dead in bed. Mr. Andrew retired at his usual hour Wednesday night, after spending the day looking over his summer residence at Hingham. He complained several times last week of severe headaches, but was apparently in his usual good health when he retired Wednesday night. Apoplexy is assigned as the cause of death.

Mr. Andrew was afflicted with attacks of headache when he was in congress, but had been free from them for a year or more. His general health was very good, and death was a great shock to his friends. The house and his clubs received messages all day. His Hingham friends, who had seen him in excellent spirits only a few hours before his death, could hardly believe the news.

JOHN FORRESTER ANDREW.

Hon. John Forrester Andrew was the son of the war governor, John A. Andrew, and was born in Hingham on Nov. 16, 1850. In 1872 he was graduated at the Harvard university, and in 1875 at the Harvard law school. He was a member of the house of representatives from Boston in 1880, 1881 and 1882. In 1884 he was a member of the senate. His opposition to James G. Blaine as Republican candidate for the presidency having changed his attitude toward the party to which, up to that time, he owed his repeated elections to public office, Mr. Andrew was elected to the senate in 1885 as an Independent, and during that term he showed in some measure an affiliation with independent and Democratic policy.

His ancestors came over from England about the middle of the 17th century, and settled in Massachusetts. One of these worthy ancestors was Francis Higginson, the first minister of Salem.

The son of the grand war governor received the first elements of his education at the Phillips school, Boston. After a year or more in Europe, after graduating from Harvard, he returned to the Hub with an ambition to shine in the profession in which his father had become eminent. This necessitated a course at the Harvard law school, after which he entered a law office, receiving admission to the bar in 1875. Although as time went on he took more and more of an interest in politics, he did not play an active part therein until he received his nomination to the legislature in 1880.

John F. Andrew was, during his career, in the political field in Massachusetts. He looked, perhaps, even younger than he was. Of average height and comparatively slender build, he was the picture of good health and good spirits. He was of the blonde type, and though he had not the curly hair of his famous father, he had a pair of clear, bright eyes, which might be the counterpart of the war governor's in his younger days.

One of the Youngest Men

Although Mr. Andrew was a wealthy man, his tastes were not elaborate, and his habits were simple. His dress, while always scrupulously nice, was never inclined to ornate effect. He would scarcely have been picked out as the owner of one of the largest and finest mansions on Commonwealth avenue. His manner was pleasant, but had the Ring of Unmistakable Decision.

Mr. Andrew was a diligent worker in legal fields. As a lawyer he was not a specialist, but he had an extensive "general practice." His office was in the midst of stalwart Republicanism, located in The Advertiser building, where his former associates in political life made their organic headquarters.

In this one still sees, in a place of honor, as a memento full of suggestion for the student of Massachusetts history, the original signboard which overlooked Washington street for many years, and which bears the name of "John A. Andrew." A portrait of the great war governor hangs above the fireplace, and it is but natural to think of it as having served his son as an inspiration in his legal and political career.

Both Sides Confident.

PROVIDENCE, May 31.—The executive council of the Olneyville strikers yesterday considered plans to meet the latest statement of the mill owners. One of the leaders stated that while many of the spinners and worsted workers might go back Monday morning, there would be practically no change in the present condition of affairs. "A manufacturer stated that he had reason to believe that enough of the help would go back to enable the mills to start.

Double Drowning Accident.

LYNN, May 31.—William Richards and Frank B. Clark of this city were drowned yesterday, near Marblehead, by the upsetting of their dory. Charles Abbott, their companion, was saved as he was going down the third time. The three men were passing a lobster trap when one of them leaned over the side and reached for a lobster. This upset the boat. Frank Downes saved Abbott.

Badly Beaten by Burglars.

STRATFORD, Conn., May 31. — Masked burglars entered the residence of Miss Elizabeth L. Linsley early yesterday morning, and when confronted by Miss Linsley, who is over 50 years of age and in poor health, beat her into insensibility with a club. A servant was thrown down stairs. The men then left hurriedly, securing no plunder. Miss Linsley is in a critical condition and may not survive the effects of the shock.

Prize Won.

BOSTON, May 31.—The great handicap steeplechase which took place at the Country club yesterday afternoon was an event worth going miles to see. More than 10,000 persons witnessed the race. There were eight starters, all blooded animals of great speed and endurance. Prize, the winner, one of J. M. Crosby's horses, did the two and one-half miles in 5m. 1s., thus making the fastest time ever made over the Country club course.

Boat Capsized.

WORCESTER, May 31.—Laura Bertrand, 18 years old, and Nellie White, 17 years old, of North Grafton, were drowned in Lake Quinsigamond last night. The girls were out boating in company with Thomas O'Donnell and Fred Dane. They were about to change positions in the boat when it capsized, and all four were thrown into the water. The two young men were rescued by Albert Ward.

Bade His Friends Goodby.

BOSTON, May 31.—Henry S. Kendall, 48 years old, an ex-captain of the protective department, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the head. He left several postal cards addressed to prominent members of the fire and police departments, bidding them goodby, but giving no explanation for his act.

Brown Quit In the Third.

LOWELL, May 31.—William M. Brown met Bert Battocks in a 20-round match here last night, but in the second Brown was pretty well done up. In the third round Battocks got in a good one on Brown's neck, and followed it with one on the chin, and Brown quit.

BOMBARDMENT BEGUN.

Formosa Seaport Under the Fire of Japanese Warships.

Dissension Among Leaders In New Republic.

Foreign Representatives Closely Watching the Course of Events.

LONDON, May 31. Private advices received here are to the effect that the Japanese are bombarding Kee Lung, a town in the extreme north of Formosa. It is believed here that the bombardment is being carried on by the fleet of the Japanese now supposed to be at sea in the vicinity of Tamsui.

Advices from Hong Kong regarding the trouble on the island of Formosa show that the action which resulted in the island declaring itself a republic was promoted by the Chang-Chin-Tong party, as opposed to the Li family. General Tcheng has been appointed foreign minister, and Kuh-Sing-Kuk, the originator of the movement, has been superseded by Tang.

Dissensions have already occurred, and the common people, it is stated, regard the declaration of a republic as an official dodge. H. B. Morse, the commissioner of customs at Tamsui, island of Formosa, has refused to recognize the republican flag and the German consul at Tamsui, addressing Tang as governor of the island, protested against closing the port of Tamsui with torpedoes in time of peace.

Warships Taking Soundings.

Five Japanese warships arrived at Tamsui on May 26, and took soundings in the harbor without being molested by the garrison of the Chinese fort. Only a portion of the soldiers support the republic.

Prior to the declaration of the republic, it is stated a French cruiser visited Tamsui and two of her officers had a secret interview with Tang. No importance, however, is attached to this fact.

A petition has been forwarded to Pekin from South China praying the emperor to introduce constitutional reform, to remove incapable officials, to abolish the queue (pig tail) and foot binding, and to allow freedom of speech and of the press. Briefly, the petition advocates reform on Western lines.

Morton Fainted.

NEW YORK, May 31.—While Governor Morton was reviewing the parade at the Worth monument he was overcome by the heat and dropped down on the platform unconscious. The governor was stretched out on a rough board and a surgeon applied restoratives, while ex-President Harrison and the governor's private secretary chafed the hands of the unconscious man and fanned his face. The governor soon regained consciousness. In the afternoon Governor Morton proceeded up to River side park, to be present at the Grant's tomb ceremonies. The governor looked a little haggard, but not seriously sick. He was loudly cheered by the people, who thronged the streets.

Where England Stands.

LONDON, May 31.—In the house of commons Mr. Harcourt replied to the attack upon the government foreign policy by Mr. Bartlett, who has been an active champion and defender of the Turkish government against charges of atrocities in Armenia. Harcourt admitted that the government was acting conjointly with France and Russia regarding Armenia, but denied that it had allied itself with these powers as against Germany or other leading nations. The government, he said, desired to act in amity with all the powers.

Worthy of a Monument.

ASHTABULA, O., May 31.—A monument to the unknown dead of the Ashtabula bridge disaster was dedicated here yesterday with imposing ceremonies. A Lake Shore west-bound passenger train on a bleak night in December went down with the bridge spanning Ashtabula river to the bed of the stream, 70 feet below, with its load of 156 human beings, 92 of whom were killed outright, drowned or burned to death. Only 64 escaped, all more or less maimed and injured.

A Texas Deluge.

ANGELO, Tex., May 31.—A disastrous cloudburst occurred yesterday along the Johnson and Devil rivers. Five bodies have been recovered from "draws," which were flooded by the cloudburst, and it is feared that a number of settlers in the valleys of the two rivers have perished. Searchers have been unable to reach several large ranches in that section. The waters of Devil river rushed down in a series of waves six feet high. One ranch with 1700 sheep lost 1300.

Californians Easily Won.

ALBANY, May 31.—Athletes of the University of California gathered at the oval of the Ridgefield Athletic club yesterday to contest with the crack men from Union college. Union was defeated in the games by a score of 59 to 39 points. The Union men were much outclassed, several of the heralded cracks in the university team refraining from entering, because of the inferiority of the men of the east.

Rusk Monument Dedicated.

VIROQUA, Wis., May 31.—The monument erected to the memory of the late Jeremiah M. Rusk, President Harrison's secretary of agriculture, was dedicated yesterday with imposing ceremonies conducted under the auspices of the Grand Army.

Defeated, 71 to 117.

OTTAWA, May 31.—After a discussion occupying 13 days, the house yesterday voted on Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment to the budget speech calling for a tariff for revenue only. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 71 yeas to 117 nays.

Royal Welcome Home.

TOKIO, May 31.—The emperor has returned here from Hiroshima, and was accorded a triumphant welcome. The streets through which he passed were profusely decorated, and the most intense enthusiasm was displayed by the populace.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Memorial day last year was also pleasant.

The street railway carried nearly 22,000 passengers Thursday.

A. E. Nash catered for Reynolds post of Weymouth Thursday.

Several Quincy bicycle riders are entered for the bicycle races at Milton, Saturday.

Band concerts were given at Lovell's grove in the afternoon and evening of Thursday.

The committee on the new Quincy Club will meet Saturday evening in Durgin and Merrill's block.

The John Stewart estate sold at auction Tuesday, was purchased by William Harkins for $1,595.

Mrs. E. E. Jameson of Wollaston, who has been quite ill with the diphtheria, is slowly convalescing.

The Quincy Cycle Co. has just completed a very handsome 36-pound tandem bicycle for Amesbury parties.

Commissioners Eaton kept the streets well watered, and the boys in blue were not troubled with much dust.

Mrs. John Bergfors and four children sail from New York Saturday for Sweden. They will be absent about two years.

Chief of Police Hayden appeared out in full regulation uniform, Memorial day, and his squad of policemen made a good appearance.

The High school graduation will be held Wednesday evening, June 26, at the High school, being the first class to be graduated from the new building.

Capt. Byard of the Sons of Veterans handled his men like a veteran and the manner in which they executed his commands called forth much favorable comment.

The Ladies' Association connected with the Universalist church will give a strawberry supper at their vestry next Wednesday evening. It will be a supper that will please the epicures.

The Urbane Pleasure club of Neponset held its annual picnic at Lovell's grove Thursday. There was an unusually large crowd present and a series of sports were held throughout the day.

The third alarm of fire this week was sounded from Box 26, at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and called the department to a blaze in the rear of Doctor Bamford's tailoring establishment and was caused by a keg of Naptha exploding. The loss was slight.

Miss Annie Spriggs a native of Fall River, Nova Scotia, died at the residence of Mr. W. F. Rawsom, a relative, Rawsom Road, Norfolk Downs, on Tuesday of acute phthisis. Miss Spriggs was a lovely girl of but eighteen years of age. The body was sent on Wednesday to her native place for interment.

A new and welcome departure was made at the Quincy home on Memorial day by Mr. Arnold, Overseer of the Poor. He had a flag half-mast unfurled from the building. Mr. Arnold and Superintendent Jacobs are making a sightly place of the rough surroundings by filling in and leveling the ground there.

The beautiful steamer City of Quincy commenced making her trips between Quincy and Nantasket Thursday, having steamed down from Boston Wednesday. Notwithstanding the many other attractions a large number enjoyed the sail which was very enjoyable.

Our friends got a little scared and did not leave their contributions of papers at the post office, thinking they were not taken to the City Hospital. The box is full again, however. We suggest that our Adams street friends, neighbors to the hospital, arrange in turn, to take the documents there; thus relieving the congestion and saving a special errand by those who have attended to it.

IN HONOR OF HEROES

The Observance of Memorial Day by Grand Army.

INTEREST ON THE INCREASE.

Patriotism the Greatest Lesson of the Day.

A more perfect day than Thursday could not be desired for the annual work of the Grand Army of the Republic. This day of all the year is the most sacred to them, for then it is they put aside the cares of business life and devote their time to the decorating of the graves of those with whom they marched shoulder to shoulder during the years '61,-'63, defending that flag which all loved so well and which is today honored and respected throughout the entire universe.

Those were stirring times but the actors in that great drama are passing silently but rapidly away and in a few years the last battle scared veteran will have been mustered out of the earthly army into that above.

Paul Revere Post 88, in common with other posts throughout the country, observed the day in a befitting manner.

Assembling at headquarters at 7 o'clock, details visited the grave of Col. Paul J. Revere at Mt. Auburn and the graves of those buried in cemeteries out of town.

Details also visited the Mt. Wollaston, Hancock and English cemeteries and deposited floral tributes.

Senior Vice Commander William H. Warner, with a detail of comrades visited the cemetery at the National Sailors' Home where appropriate exercises were held and the floral offering deposited.

At West Quincy.

At 9 30 the Post formed in front of headquarters on Hancock street, under command of Commander James H. Webb, and with Francis L. Souther camp, S. of V., as escort, marched to the music of the City band to the head of Franklin street where barges were taken for West Quincy.

At the junction of Crescent and Copeland streets the line was reformed and a short march taken to the Hall cemetery, where after decorating the graves the command assembled at the Willard monument where brief exercises were held and prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Youtz, chaplain of the day. Rev. E. W. Virgin spoke briefly on the lessons of Memorial Day, and its inculcation of patriotism.

At 10.30 the command entered the Catholic cemetery where Rev. F. A. Friguglietti officiated. Here the graves of departed heroes were decorated by Camp 27, Sons of Veterans.

The duty at West Quincy over the command returned to headquarters for midday rations.

The line of march was down Hancock street through City Square to Greenleaf street, to Valley, to Sea, to the Mount Wollaston cemetery. Crowds of people were congregated all along the line of march, particularly in City Square, but the largest crowd was gathered at the cemetery, an assemblage which seems to increase in numbers each year.

In the Afternoon.

As usual the principal observance of the day was in the afternoon, when exercises were held at the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery. A procession was formed on Hancock street in front of the G. A. R. headquarters in the following order:

Squad of Police,
Joseph Warren Hayden, chief.

Officer of the Day
Warren B. Munroe.

City Band of Quincy
25 pieces.

Francis L. Souther Camp, S. of V.,
C. E. Bayard, captain.

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R.,
J. H. Webb, commander.

City Officials in carriages
Mayor Hodges,
President Bass,
Commissioner Eaton,
Treasurer Burgin.

Auditor Hall,
Chief Engineer Williams,
Past Commander Jacobs,
Chaplain Youtz.

Assessor Federhen,
Tax Collector Brasee,
Overseer Arnold.

Disabled Veterans
in barges.

Paul Revere W. R. C. No. 103,
Mrs H. O. Souther, President.

Citizens in Carriages.

At the Monument.

The exercises at the Soldiers' monument opened with a selection by the band, entitled "Dennis."

Wreaths were then deposited by the officers of Paul Revere Post with appropriate remarks, as follows: Red wreath in the name of "Fraternity" by Adjutant Jacobs; white wreath in the name of "Charity" by Past Commander Martin; blue wreath in the name of "Loyalty" by Past Commander Souther; red, white and blue wreath by Commander Webb in the name of "Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty."

An innovation was the part by the Sons of Veterans. Lieut. Foss deposited a wreath in the name of "Faith"; Lieut. Holmes in the name of "Charity"; and Capt. Byard in the name of "Loyalty."

Chaplain Youtz offered prayer, and was followed by a song by Miss Richards' class of the Lincoln school, which was very well given.

City Auditor Hall was introduced and spoke of the appropriateness of decorating the soldiers' graves. Who can remember the days in the early 60s without vivid experiences. Memorial day will continue for all eternity, others taking up the work when the Grand Army have passed away. With what impetuosity they leaped to respond to the country's call. The cause is not lost. Patriotism is not dead. It is purer and more powerful than ever. The same principle prevails. Look at the young life in the militia of today, and in the Sons of Veterans. It was indeed a grand army that went to the front.

The selection, "Come, Ye Disconsolate," by the band, closed the exercises at the monument.

Sons of Veterans Service.

Francis L. Souther camp then marched to the grave of Francis L. Souther, the first soldier to fall in the war, and held exercises. It was one of the most beautiful graves in the cemetery, being banked with white flowers. The floral flag thereon would have been more beautiful and appropriate if made of red and white stripes instead of red, white and blue.

Remarks were offered by Capt. Bayard who was followed by Chaplain Virgin in prayer, and "Nearer, my God, to Thee," by a male quartette.

Rev. Mr. Virgin then spoke of the points of true heroism exemplified. How the soldiers gave life in unselfishness for a great cause. Also the alert readiness with which they responded.

A wreath was then deposited, and the chaplain pronounced the benediction.

W. R. C. Services.

At the "Unknown Lot" exercises were held by Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps. First, a selection by the band and prayer by Mrs. John A. Pratt, the chaplain. Miss Richards' class of the Lincoln school beautifully rendered two songs, and Mrs. H. O. Souther, the president, made appropriate remarks. The reading by Miss Mudgett, a young lady was given with spirit. After a selection by the band, the class from the Lincoln school saluted the flag, and Chaplain Youtz pronounced the benediction.

The procession returned to G. A. R. headquarters via Sea, Coddington, Washington and Hancock streets. Ice cream and cake were served and the veterans dismissed.

At Braintree.

The Grand Army of the Republic and the Woman's Relief corps united in observing Memorial day by appropriate exercises.

At half-past eight the veterans assembled at the G. A. R. hall and were detailed by Chaplain H. B. Whitman in the following order:—To decorate the graves of the departed heroes: nineteen to Plain Street cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Ross offered prayer; four to Lakeside, where Rev. Mr. Ellis was present; twenty-eight to the South cemetery on Pond street, where Rev. L. O. Williams made the prayer; at the North cemetery, Rev. Mr. Ellsworth officiated, and nine members were present.

Then the march was taken to the Town hall, where there was singing by the school children and Rev. Ambrie Field offered prayer.

The soldiers adjourned to the hall after the prayer, where the Woman's Relief Corps had prepared an excellent banquet. Commander Anderson was toastmaster, and short addresses were made by Mrs. E. A. Fisher, Professor Sewall, Mrs. Carrie F. Loring, Rev. L. O. Williams, John V. Scollard and Rev. S. E. Ellis. Rev. Ambrie Field pronounced the benediction.

The following is a list of the departed comrades in each of the five cemeteries:

IN THE SCHOOLS.

Patriotic Exercises in Quincy Schools Wednesday.

At the High Wednesday the entire school assembled in the hall to listen to the memorial exercises in honor of our patriotic dead. The following programme was given:

Music, "Those Evening Bells," by the school.

Recitation, "The Drum Call in 1861," Daisy M. Lowe, '95.

Recitation, "Bay Billy," Barbara E. Vogler, '95.

Recitation, "Sherman's March to the Sea," Fannie E. Beckwith, '98.

Music. "National Hymn," by the school.

Address, "The Battle of Five Forks," Col. Charles H. Porter.

Music, "America," by the school.

A shorthand report of Col. Charles H. Porter's address was taken by Mr. Nelson, '96, but space will not permit the LEDGER to reproduce it today.

Appropriate exercises were held in every grade of the Lincoln school on Wednesday afternoon. They were especially interesting in the master's room where Comrade Lennon gave a very interesting talk on the life and hardships of a soldier's life. Grades V, VII and VIII had gathered in this room and were very enthusiastic, following Mr. Lennon very carefully through the whole narration, which was especially bright. Music was given by the children who also sang in the cemetery on Memorial Day; the classes saluted the flag and "America" was sung with a will to close the exercises.

Memorial day at the Coddington school was one of the greatest successes for years, and the exercises which were held in the school yard were witnessed and enjoyed by a great many parents and friends. First, the children marched out and took positions assigned. The flag was then raised on the building by veterans of the G. A. R., the band playing "Star Spangled Banner," and was saluted by the school. Miss Lottie Brown read a composition on "Memorial Day," the band played another selection, and grades VIII, III and V gave concert recitations. A declamation, "On Heroes," by Robert E. Hall, was followed by concert recitations by grades VI, IV and VII. J. Chester Baker recited "Sherman's March to the Sea," and a song by thirteen boys, "The Little Recruit" was a feature of the programme. Addresses by Hon. C. H. Porter and Past Commander Souther of Paul Revere post, were interspersed with selections by the band, and "America," by all, was to close the programme. But the cheers should not be overlooked. They were called by Elmer Ricker and were given first to one, then another, until all were remembered.

Library Decorated.

The Crane Memorial hall was tastefully decorated on Memorial day with a large, loose bunch of very choice roses from Albert Crane, Esq., son of the late Mrs. Thomas Crane of Stamford, Conn. An exquisite wreath of ivy leaves from Albert B. Otis, Esq; a beautiful wreath of lilies and roses from the Trustees of the library, and a laurel wreath from Miss Mary E. Newcomb of Quincy. Thus the custom of Mrs. Crane to send flowers to the library on this day is perpetuated by relatives and friends, and the city board.

Lively Runaway.

For about five minutes on Wednesday forenoon there was a lively time on Brook and Taylor streets, Wollaston. A horse attached to a grocery wagon owned by C. H. Backus, which had been left standing in front of J. W. Lovett's residence on Brook street, became frightened at one of Eaton's ice carts and started off on a run towards Taylor street. Reaching Taylor street he wheeled around the corner and struck one of Boynton & Russell's grocery wagons, which was standing opposite Frank N. Bates'. Boynton & Russell's horse became frightened and dashed up Brook street towards the depot. When near the corner of Farrington street he broke the shafts short off. Thus impeded he made for the stable where he brought up so abruptly that one of the shafts was driven over a foot into his side. A veterinary was sent for and finally succeeded in saving the horse's life. Backus horse and team was stopped before any other damage was done.

It is perhaps not generally known that a bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes has passed its third reading in the Massachusetts legislature.

TODAY'S COURT.

Isaac Wudbury was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

John E. Ross was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Michael Quinn of Braintree was fined $5 for drunkenness.

John F. Green of Weymouth was fined $5 for drunkenness.

Daniel Shoughrow was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Patrick Hoar was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case contiued until June 7.

William Ryan was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John Sullivan of Weymouth was fined $10 for drunkenness.

James Gill of Randolph was arraigned for drunkenness. Case continued until June 8 to enable him to raise $7.

Ira Hathaway of Quincy was arraigned for the larceny of a bicycle valued at $50 from W. L. Ripley.

Some two weeks ago Hathaway hired the wheel for two hours but instead he sold it in Halifax for $5 and a watch. He then came home to Quincy and was arrested. It seems that Hathaway was sent to the Concord reformatory some time ago and his time had not expired and the court therefore ordered him returned there.

Sudden Death.

The family of Frederick Allison Tupper received quite a shock Wednesday evening. They were seated on the piazza waiting to be called to tea. The expected summons did not come and upon entering the house to ascertain the cause, they were surprised to find the domestic laying on the floor apparently dead. A physician was summoned but it was too late as life had ebbed.

The remains were then taken to Hall's undertaking rooms by order of a Medical Examiner Gilbert. The girls name was Alfrieda Johnson and she was about 20 years of age. The only relatives she has in this country are two brothers in Chicago, who have been notified.

Steamer City of Quincy.

This excellent pleasure boat commenced its excursion trips to Nantasket beach on Memorial day, and it was very gratifying to the managers to receive such good parties on each trip.

The excursion from Quincy Point to Nantasket is one of the finest there is any where on our coast; there is no danger of being sea-sick no matter how rough the weather may be. The beautiful views from the steamer and the invigorating sea breeze give one an appetite and pleasure nowhere else to be found, so easily and cheap.

The beautiful sail down and back is worth double the price asked, if one does not wish to roam over the beach. It is worth more than a visit of a doctor, yet it does not cost one-half.

Holiday Shoot.

There was a large attendance at the Wollaston Trap club's shoot on Thursday forenoon. Morse, after an absence of several weeks, was again on deck and was high man with 33 out of 50.

The score out of a possible 50:

H. T. Whitman, 23; J. C. Morse, 33; F. N. Bates, 27; D. B. Lincoln, 29; C. W. Tucker, 18; A. G. Olney, 15; McHenry Robinson, 24; Parker, 17.

Out of a possible 25:

J. C. Morse, 12; D. B. Lincoln, 18; Geo. Elcock, 16; P. Kelley, 14.

The next shoot will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

HOUGHS NECK.

Houghs Neck came in for its share of pleasure seekers on Memorial day. All of the hotels and booths were open and did a good business.

Many of the summer residents have already arrived and Thursday saw many occupying their cottages for the day.

The water pipes are being laid in the side streets and many services are being put in.

Many yachts were cruising about the beach Thursday and several made the landing at the club house.

The public telephone will be located in Costello's casino this year.

Capt. Boyd is at the post office as in years past, which is a sufficient guarantee of safe delivery of mail matter.

A new boat house has been built; a new dance hall, boat houses and several new boats have been purchased. Under a large tent on the grounds the Oakman Concert Company, under the direction of Mr. Ora C. Oakman, will give a continuous performance every afternoon and evening (except Sunday).

This place can be reached from Boston by water—a delightful sail—by electrics, or by the Old Colony railroad via Quincy and the electric cars from that place. Mr. Donaldson and his manager, Mr. Oscar G. Berry, assure us that everything will be first-class, that no disorderly persons will be allowed on the grounds. The table fare will be the best that the shore affords. Already more than fifty engagements have been made for the grove, and the season promises to be a prosperous one. Quincy people will find it a desirable place to spend a summer evening, and the new open electric cars just put on add to the pleasure of the trip.

The elegant steamer City of Quincy will make regular trips during season from Quincy Point to Nantasket Beach.

Remember that this place is under new management, that there are new attractions, and there is the satisfaction of knowing that a day spent here is bound to be enjoyed.

Strawberry Festival.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Wollaston Congregational church gave a strawberry festival on Wednesday evening, which was a success, both from a financial and social point of view. The entertainment was unusually good. Miss Mazie V. Hastings and Mr. Chas. B. Dickey sang with good expression, "Noon Day Heat is Long Past O'er;" Mr. Charles F. Wilde sang with spirit Tours' "Gate of Heaven," Mr. S. P. Moorhouse playing the violin obligato. Miss Marion Sherman read in excellent taste two selections.

The South Boston Race.

Several Quincy boats entered the race at South Boston, Thursday.

The Beatrice, which sailed in the first class was disabled, and the Adolph withdrew from the second class.

Henry M. Faxon entered his new yacht Swirl in the third class, and took second prize.

Quincy Point, 12; No. Weymouth, 9.

Many of the Point people went to North Weymouth yesterday to see the game between the Quincy Points and the North Weymouths. The North Weymouths considered themselves fortunate in securing Mr. Caldwell as pitcher. He did very well at pitching, but when Nifty got at the bat he got rattled and struck out three times. Whitten and Carter did great work. The score by innings:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Quincy Points,	1	2	0	4	1	1	2	0	1	—12
N. Weymouth,	1	0	0	0	0	0	6	2	0	— 9

Institutes, 22; City Points, 2.

The game on the Institute grounds in Weymouth on Thursday morning was decidedly one-sided, and resulted in a walk-over for the home team. The City Points of South Boston presented Casey as a twirler and he was at once knocked out of the box and Mooney substituted. Aside from the terrific batting of the home team the features of the game were the battery work of Winkler and Stack and the general play of Murphy, Pitts and Riley. Only six innings were played. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6
Institutes,	1	9	4	0	2	6	—22
City Points,	2	0	0	0	0	0	— 2

Hits—Institutes, 14; City Points, 3. Errors—Institutes, 4; City Points, 3. Batteries—Winkler and Stack; Casey, Mooney and Condroy.

Braintrees, 16; Monatiquots, 7.

The regular Braintree team defeated a picked nine from Braintree called the Monatiquots, on the common Memorial day, by a wide margin.

The Monatiquots were so far behind at the fifth inning that the game was called.

The score:

Innings,	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Braintrees,	1	1	8	0	6					—16
Monatiquots,	1	1	0	4	1					— 7

Earned runs—Braintree, 9; Monatiquot, 7. Two-base hits,—H. Thayer, Kelley and Porter. Three-base hits—H. Thayer, Sullivan. Home runs—Sullivan, Nightengale. Passed balls—Harnish, 2; Kelley 4. Wild pitches—Thayer, 3; Curley, 4. Hit by pitched ball—Arnold, 1. Time—1 hour 20 minutes. Umpires—Simmonds and Waite.

The electrics did an enormous business Thursday. The company had every car in service and every trip until late at night saw the cars loaded, and with all the people carried, no accident of any kind was reported. Superintendent Weeks, Assistant Superintendent Moran and President Graham was kept busy all day and cars were run on time.

The Swedish picnic was held Thursday at Merry Mount park, and a very successful affair it was, being attended by about 500. There was a series of games throughout the day.

At the Presbyterian prayer-meeting, Thursday evening, the Rev. Mr. Peach made some earnest remarks on Patriotism, with reference to Memorial day. The Rev. C. F. Clarke of Cambridge was present and addressed the meeting.

A kind of family bicycle party passed through Quincy Thursday. The father had his daughter on a seat in front of him and son on a seat in the rear, while his wife brought up on a wheel of her own.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith of Billerica, Mass, "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlains's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles.

Lovell's Grove.

One of the most delightful spots for a day's outing to be found within many miles of Boston, is the well known Lovell's grove, opposite Quincy Point. For years this charming resort has been a favorite one for those who love both country and sea-shore, but this year promises new attractions. Mr. James Donaldson of Boston has purchased the entire grounds and proposes to spare neither time nor expense in adding to the attractions of the place. Among the new attractions are a bicycle track made on the most improved plan, one-fifth of a mile in length. The old Adams house has been enlarged and two large dining rooms put in. The bowling alleys are regulation size and perfect. A new boat house has been built; a new dance hall, boat houses and several new boats have been purchased. Under a large tent on the grounds the Oakman Concert Company, under the direction of Mr. Ora C. Oakman, will give a continuous performance every afternoon and evening (except Sunday).

This place can be reached from Boston by water—a delightful sail—by electrics, or by the Old Colony railroad via Quincy and the electric cars from that place. Fortnightly Club.

The Fortnightly club held its closing meeting of the season with Miss Coe, 37 Billings street, Wednesday evening. A few invited friends were present, among whom were three of the faculty of Woodward Institute, Miss Small, Miss Burgess and Miss Rice.

The leading feature of the evening was an address by Miss Small on "Holland," a rare treat for all present.

The report of the board of managers read by Mrs. J. H. Yeoman, showed that the club had very creditably studied the history and a part of the literature of Massachusetts, besides devoting an evening each to a discussion of the Modern Woman, Sociology and Occult.

Piano solos were given by Miss Bertha Scharnagel, and songs by Misses Coe and and Moxon.

It Did the Business.

Mr J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been publishing the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the wr ter was suffering from a bowel trouble and r sorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

From the Groton, Conn., Review.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 2. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—A living Christ; Christlike living.—Gal. ii, 19, 20; v, 22-25.

1. A living Christ (Gal. ii, 19, 20). Christ may be said to be a living Christ in two senses. He lives in Himself. Though having died, yet He still lives at the right hand of God, having risen from the grave and ascended into heaven, where He liveth evermore. But Christ also lives in those who are His followers. Paul states this fact in the first topical reference: "I am crucified with Christ. Nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me," or, as the American revisers more correctly put it, "and it is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me." Christ living in us! This is true Christianity. We die that we may live. We are crucified to self, but rise to Christ. We give ourselves up entirely to Christ, so that the ruling power in us is no longer self, but Christ. We crucify the old self, and yet we do not die. New energies spring up from the grave of the old life. This new life is Christ's life. It derives its power and its support from Him, and it is fashioned and patterned after the model of His own life.

This life Paul says is lived by faith. "The life that I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God." It was Paul's faith in the Son of God that made him able to destroy his old self and to become the ruling principle in his life. If we want Christ to live in us, we must have faith in Him. It is by faith alone that we can be crucified with Him, can die to self and live no longer, but Christ live in us.

2. Christlike living (Gal. v, 22-25). In these verses Paul sets forth some of the characteristics of true Christlike living, as it may be called. 1. Christlike living should bear fruit. "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." If the Spirit of Christ dwells in us, it will produce results. Every branch that abideth in Him bringeth forth fruit. This may be made a test of Christ's living in us—"By their fruits ye shall know them." Do our lives prove that Christ, by His Spirit, dwells in us? This is an important question for us to consider. A living Christ in us will produce a Christlike life. It could not be otherwise. 2. A Christlike life is devoid of self. We have crucified the flesh with its affections and lusts if Christ lives in us. This is another test of Christ's living in us. 3. A Christlike life requires obedience. "If we live in the Spirit, let us walk in the Spirit." Christ in us will not only transform our dispositions, crucify our sinful desires, but lead us to obey the laws of God. We die to sinful ways and live to God's ways. "If ye love Me, keep My commandments."

Bible Readings.—Math. v, 43-48; xi, 28, 29; Luke vi, 35; John i, 1-4; xi, 25; xiii, 12-15; xiv, 18, 19; Rom. viii, 12, 13; xiv, 7-9; I Cor. xi, 1; xv, 19-22; Eph. iv, 32; Phil. i, 20, 21; ii, 5-11; Col. i, 27, 28; I Thess. i, 6; I Pet. ii, 21-25; I John ii, 6; Rev. i, 18; iv, 8, 9.

On Leading a Meeting.

Do not carry the service yourself. Lead it.

If the meeting has not been on your heart, your heart will not be in the meeting.

One word fitly spoken is better than an erudite address.

Do not "make a speech." The prayer meeting is the place for the communion of saints, and not your eloquence, but your heart experience, is wanted.

Have a definite plan, but let it be so flexible that it can be altered at any moment if the spirit of the meeting makes a change desirable.

Watch for the guiding of the Holy Ghost. Let Him lead the meeting.

Never speak or sing or pray merely to fill up the time. That is sacrilege.

Have several of the most spiritual members promise to continue in silent prayer throughout the service for the presence of the Holy Spirit.

Lead the meeting, but be willing to let the meeting lead you.

Be ready with a verse of Scripture to direct the service should thoughts wander.

Secure an organist who is a good musician, but a better Christian.

Do not exhaust the subject with your opening remarks. Better that a dozen members should discuss the subject poorly than that the leader should preach about it ably.

Try something new. See what God can do with a consecrated ingenuity.

Be humble. If you seek to make a reputation for yourself, you will make no reputation for Christ.

Go in the spirit of prayer if you would stand in the spirit of Christ.

Be yourself. Let your true nature speak. Only arrows from the heart's quiver ever reach the mark.—Golden Rule.

Christian Endeavor Briefs.

Halifax union now comprises 21 societies, a gain of seven societies or 388 members over the preceding year. Best of all was the report that 165 associate members had united with the church during the year, and that $570 had been given to missions. All honor to our brethren of New Brunswick.

One of the lessons that every C. E. society should teach is that of promptness and punctuality. Let the public services commence at the appointed hour.

There is no reason why the C. E. society should not have a revival on its own account. It is not necessary to wait for the church. And when a revival commences with the Endeavorers it will not be long in reaching the entire congregation.

One of the hard lessons that the young Christian has to learn is that there is something for him to suffer for Christ as well as something to do for Him.

The secretary reports 116 societies in Rhode Island, with a membership of 5,365, of which 4,062 are active and 1,303 associate.

TAPS SOUNDED.

Gresham Funeral Services at Chicago Were Simple but Impressive.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Chicago yesterday buried the nation's dead with civic and military honors. The body of Walter Q. Gresham was entombed in a vault at Oakwood cemetery, there to remain until a final burial place is chosen.

At Fordham, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, the special funeral train was switched to the tracks of the Illinois Central, arriving at Sixty-third street at 2 o'clock yesterday. The procession was formed by the escort of honor, consisting of the troop of all arms from Fort Sheridan. These were followed by the honorary pall-bearers, and next came the funeral car with the active bearers walking on either side.

Next rode the members of the late secretary's family and the presidential party, and the rear of the cortege was brought up by the members of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army veterans, judges of the courts, state and municipal officers, civic societies and citizens. The entire line of march was crowded with people, who respectfully bared their heads as the cortege passed.

Arriving at the cemetery chapel, the casket was removed from the funeral car and borne within by eight sergeants of marines. The services, conducted by Rev. J. McPherson of the Second Presbyterian church, were impressive, but simple, consisting merely of Scriptural readings, a hymn by the choir and prayer. At their conclusion the remains were temporarily deposited in the receiving vault of the cemetery. No salute was fired, the ceremonies concluding with "taps."

The train had been held at Sixty-third street and the president and party returned to it and at once started on the return trip to Washington.

BLUE AND THE GRAY

Unite as Friends at the Chicago Confederate Monument Dedication.

CHICAGO, May 31.—With the dedication of a handsome monument to the memory of men who wore the gray and fought for the "lost cause" under the stars and bars, a Confederate "high-water mark" was established far north of that set at Gettysburg by force of arms; this, too, with the ungrudging consent of the staunch Unionists among whom it is placed, and with the assistance of veterans in blue, foes in arms, but friends in peace, doing honor to an acknowledged valor which is now the common heritage of our common country. The dedication was accompanied by perhaps the most impressive and imposing ceremonies among the exercises set down for Decoration day in any part of the union.

At Cottage Grove avenue and Fifty-eighth street then, in the outskirts, but now in the heart of the city, a stockade was built during the civil war and named Camp Douglas and there many thousands of Confederate prisoners were confined between the years 1862 and 1865. The men held there under the restraints which befell captives of war had spent their lives in that balmy climate of the sunny south, and the rigors of a northern winter told upon them severely.

As a consequence, 6000 of them were liberated by death and were buried in Oakwood cemetery, at Cottage Grove avenue and Sixty-seventh street. It was to the memory of these 6000 who died in a solitary prison in an enemy's country that the monument was dedicated by their comrades and opponents in arms on the spot where they were buried. It is the first monument to Confederate dead erected in the north.

Niagara Didn't Finish.

LOWESTOFT, May 31.—Howard Gould's new 20-rater Herreshoff-built Niagara started yesterday in the race for 10 to 20 raters in the regatta here. Invoni crossed the winning line first. The Niagara was unable to make headway against the tide, and finally retired without crossing the line. The result indicates that Niagara will not excel in light weather with her present sailspread, which is not enough to drive her big hull through the water. In Invoni Niagara met with the best English light weather craft.

Lavigne Got the Decision.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The card presented at the Seaside Athletic club last night drew a fairly good crowd. The bout of the evening was that between "Kid" Lavigne of Saginaw, Mich., and Jack Everhardt of New Orleans, who were on the card to fight 20 rounds at 134 pounds. The fight was one of the best ever held in the Seaside Athletic club. Many hard blows were exchanged. Lavigne got in more of knocking him through them. The referee awarded Lavigne the decision.

Can Meet Her Debts.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 31.—Colonial Secretary Bond has been successful in floating a loan, so Premier Whiteway declared in the assembly chamber yesterday, which will have the effect of assisting our finances in a satisfactory manner, and which will enable the colony to meet its liabilities coming due at the end of June. Premier Whiteway's language is open to several constructions. Further information is expected on Monday, when the house meets again.

Fireman's Fatal Error.

RALEIGH, May 31.—The boiler at Deal's sawmill near Downsville exploded yesterday, resulting in the death of F. A. Deal, Pender Oxford, Gordon Oxford and Reuben Bones. Two other young men were badly bruised and scalded, but will recover. The fireman had recklessly weighted down the safety valve.

Able to Travel.

SEVILLE, May 31.—The Duke of Orleans has so far recovered from the injuries which he received while out hunting as to be able to leave here yesterday on his way to London, where it is expected the marriage of his sister, the Princess Helene of Orleans, to the Duke of Aosta, will take place.

Wholesale Drowning Denied.

SUDBURY, Ont., May 31.—There is no truth in the reported drowning of 33 men on the Spanish river, who were said to have been asleep on a crib which got loose from its moorings and was swept over the rapids.

Tandem Record Beaten.

LONDON, May 31.—In a tandem bicycle race against time to beat the road record, Holbein and Stocks did 100 miles in 4h. 43m. 48s., and covered 220½ miles from Hutchin to Peterboro in 12h.

Dirnberger Again.

LOUISVILLE, May 31.—At Fountain Ferry track, M. F. Dirnberger captured another world's record—the two-mile flying start, paced. Time—3m. 51 3-5s.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

Resulted In Awful Scenes on Board the Ill-Fated Colima.

Sunk Within Ten Minutes After Striking a Reef.

But One Boat Load Succeeded in Safely Reaching Land.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—The Pacific Mail Steamship company last evening received the following dispatch from Manzanillo, Mex.:

Colima sank in 130 fathoms. Steamer we sent last night found nobody alive. Three cabin passengers and two sailors got ashore at Coahuayana alive. Until now 26 persons saved.

The company has wired to ascertain, if possible, the names of the three passengers and two sailors noted above.

Seventy-five miles below San Blas, a hurricane was encountered and it was debated as to whether or not the ship should attempt to gain partial shelter in the shallow and treacherous Banderas bay, which has rocks near its entrance, or whether it were better to push out to sea.

One local Mexican passenger, Don Matias Moreno, says the report, was about on the deck, and testifies that while cautiously steering for what, to all appearances, was the usual entrance, a slight tremble was felt to go through the ship. It was so faint that it was hardly apparent to the trained senses of the pilots and captain. The captain ordered a slight change in the course and gave other directions, which were obeyed by the officers and crew. In a few seconds after, the keel ground on a rock lightly, and there was at once great excitement among the officers and crew and fear on the part of the few passengers on deck. Following the danger signal, in less than 10 seconds the great ship crunched on an unknown reef, and a shudder ran through the hull from stem to stern.

A Scene of Terror.

The passengers sprang from their berths in terror and ran out on the decks screaming and praying in a paroxysm of fear, for the awful truth seemed to burst upon them. The wind howled and a dense pall of fog hung over the ship as she was tossed by the surges and began to pound herself to pieces on the rocks. She rose and fell three times and then a crash was heard. This was followed by silence for the space of a quarter of a minute, during which time only loud sobbing was heard and muffled prayers.

"Man the boats!" trumpeted the captain, after a short interval, in which another crash was heard from beneath the water. The boats had previously been made ready, with all the lifesavers placed at convenient places, although covered from the view of nervous passengers. Within three minutes of the first crash in the hull the ship began to reel from its upright balance, to settle and to sink in its free hinderpart. The scenes about the lifeboats were indescribable. According to all the testimony obtainable, the panic stricken passengers and the ship's crew struggled for first place, although, to the credit of the crew, few of the sailors or ship's people lost their presence of mind, but gave their main attention to saving the passengers.

Frenzied Mother's Act.

There were a number of children on the passenger list and one of these was pitched overboard into the frothing sea by a frenzied mother who aimed for one of the lifeboats still upon the davits. A woman of evident wealth and refinement among the passengers, whose name is thought to be Broslin or Crosslyn, displayed remarkable presence of mind, and in the most trying moments passed among the frenzied throng exhorting the people to keep quiet and take particular care of the women and children.

Some of the passengers, not willing to await a chance for a place in the boats, seized the lifebelts and boldly cast themselves into the sea, to their almost universal fate, as they were tossed lifelessly upon the waves or dashed against the rocks, which were easily observed from the fast sinking ship.

The first boat to be lowered with its heavy burden of humanity succeeded in clearing the ship's sides, but was swept away by the mighty force and swallowed by the night of fog. Of this load only one of the sailors is known to have escaped the engulfing flood which swept over the boat within five minutes after it was launched. A similar fate befell all the other boats, with one exception.

Union Pacific Litigation.

ST. PAUL, May 31.—Attorneys for the bondholders' committee of the Kansas City and Omaha have made application for leave to file a bill against the receivers of the Union Pacific Railway company for the foreclosure of the first mortgage of the Kansas City and Omaha, one of the branches of the Union Pacific, and the order has been granted. It prays for separate receivers, as well as the foreclosure of the bonds, which amount to $2,713,000.

Murderous Bedouins.

JEDDAH, May 31.—The British consul and vice consul, the Russian acting consul and the French consul and secretary were attacked and shot yesterday outside the town. The shooting is supposed to have been done by Bedouins. The British vice consul was killed, the British consul was slightly wounded, and the others were seriously wounded.

Emperor's Finest on Parade.

BERLIN, May 31.—The annual review of the garrison of Berlin took place yesterday. The emperor led the Second regiment of the guards, and, after delivering his usual criticism of the army, rode at the head of the color company to the castle.

Awaiting Orders.

LONDON, May 31.—W. E. Curtis, assistant secretary of the United States treasury department, reached London yesterday to arrange for the completion of the bond contract. He is now awaiting further instructions from the treasury department.

Scooping In Prizes.

LONDON, May 31.—In the Epsom Downs race for the great Surrey breeders' foal plate yesterday, Lord Rosebery, whose Sir Visto won the Derby Wednesday, won another turf triumph, as his Avillon came in first.

Russia as a Protector.

VIENNA, May 31.—It is reported that the Corean premier has negotiated a treaty with the Russian ambassador whereby Russia agrees to protect Corea in certain emergencies.

"HELP!"

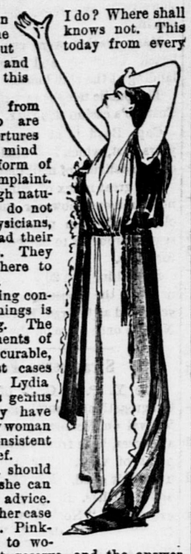

A WOMAN'S DESPAIRING CRY.

It is Heard. A Prominent Actress Escapes Great Danger.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

How startling is a woman's cry for help!

"What can I do? Where shall I go?" She cry goes out city, town, and hamlet in this country.

It comes from women who are suffering tortures of body and mind from some form of female complaint. Many, through natural modesty, do not consult physicians, for many dread their examinations. They know not where to seek for help.

This alarming condition of things is simply wrong. The peculiar ailments of women are curable, and in most cases very speedily. Lydia E. Pinkham's genius and liberality have given to every woman a sure and consistent means of relief.

No woman should suffer when she can obtain free advice. She can state her case fully to Mrs. Pinkham, woman to woman, without reserve, and the answer will come from one of her own sex. Be one of the vast army of women who write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and preserve your health. "Only a woman can understand a woman's ills."

A prominent actress, in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:—

" . . . You cannot imagine the fearful condition I was in when I first wrote to you. I was simply of no use to myself or any one else. I had worked hard, and my nervous system was shattered from womb trouble and travelling constantly. I ran the gauntlet of doctors' theories, till my health and money were rapidly vanishing. . . . I'm all right now, and am gaining flesh daily. I follow your advice faithfully in everything. Thank you ten thousand times for what your knowledge and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me."

BANNON'S FINE WORK

Did Much Toward Boston's Securing Two Games From St. Louis.

BOSTON, May 30.—A large share of the credit of the victories falls to the lot of Jimmie Bannon. He won the forenoon game by his home run drive over the left field fence, with Bobby Lowe on first, in the ninth inning, when the score was 5 to 4 in favor of the visitors. He also cut a wide swath in the afternoon contest. In five times at the bat he made as many hits, including a homer and a two-bagger, three of the hits being at critical moments.

Latest From Cuba.

HAVANA, May 31.—A detachment of 15 Spanish soldiers near Sagua de Tanamo, province of Santiago de Cuba, was attacked by a band of 300 insurgents. The soldiers were compelled to seek refuge within a wooden building, where they made a gallant defense. One sergeant and five private soldiers were wounded. The insurgents lost one killed and 16 wounded. A number of insurgents, commanded by Campanione, recently attacked a fort at Campechuela, near Manzanillo, province of Santiago de Cuba. The insurgents fired upon the fort for two hours without any result. The troops returned the fire, but the loss of the insurgents is not known. Important documents were found upon the persons of two prisoners who were captured on board the Mascotte. Their contents are understood to compromise several persons hitherto unsuspected of having been in communication with the insurgents.

SEOUL, May 31.—At the conclusion of the trial of the Corean prince, Li Chung, the favorite grandson of Tai Won Kun, on charges of treason and murder, he was condemned to death, whereupon Tai Won Kun burst into the palace of his son, the king, who was to have been the principal victim of the plot, and besought mercy for the convicted assassin. The feeble-minded monarch gave way, and sentence was commuted to banishment for life. Tai Won Kun at length extorted a promise that the term of expulsion should be reduced to 10 years.

—The smallest mite of human form ever seen by the doctors at the Bellevue hospital, New York, was brought there last Monday morning. It was a baby, and it was dead, but so perfectly shaped were its limbs, and so small that the beholders could hardly believe their senses. Its mother, Mrs. Mamie Cook of 861 Third avenue, said it was born last Saturday. On examining her box the doctors discovered the mite. It measured but three-quarters of an inch and weighed but half an ounce.

—Six suicides in three weeks at Niagara Falls. The Milford Journal thinks we had better put a watershed over this superb natural show.

—During a recent tempest the house of Deacon George Cushman in Kingston was struck. The lightning entered every room in the house and did damage to the extent of nearly $1,000.
